DOWN THE HATCH, CHUCKLES

Chuckles, a 4-day-old fawn, is fed by Matthew Kilgore, 5, of San Anselmo. Chuckles was brought to the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum by a fish and game warden from the Mount Tamalpais area who reported the youngster was discovered alone by a camper. Chuckles gets her bottle about every two hours and will be kept at the museum until she is old enough to fend for her own food.

Vocal Discord To Marin's Long-Range Water Bidding

Aqueduct's Financing Brings Many Questions

By M. STREET BROOKS

Directors of Marin Municipal Water District found themselves on the receiving end of a barrage of comment last night, much of it opposed to the district's multimillion-dollar water project.

The occasion was a public hearing called by the directors for discussion of a proposed change in the method of financing the district's $21 million share of the $47.7 million Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct.

About 50 county residents showed up at the district board room. It was a partisan group and strongly vocal against the aqueduct.

Some — representing ecology, conservation and recreation groups — put forth suggestions as complex as high combustion systems for the burning of sewage and for the treatment of effluent to make it potable.

Some charged the project's effect will be to stimulate population growth and benefit real estate interests. They said the project would lead to "degradation of our communities." Others questioned the need for water now, or for the amount projected by the district staff for 1993.

Between the criticism and comment of the project, its purpose and need were outlined by the directors and district Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger.

Directors described legislation they seek in order to acquire financing for the project without going to the voters for approval of bond issues.

(Voters last November narrowly passed an $11.5 million bond issue, with approximately $4 million earmarked for the aqueduct project. Voters were told before the election that additional stages of the project would be financed by a series of bond issues submitted for their approval.)

Legislation sought would permit the district to borrow $18 million from the Sonoma Water Agency, a partner in the project and repay it out of district revenue.

Seeger outlined water studies made since November 1962 and a chart was distributed showing requirements rising from 36,700 acre feet of water this year to 87,000 acre feet in 1993. The district claimed that water needs will increase more than the increase in population because anticipated rises in incomes will encourage more water use.

A 4 per cent annual increase in population for this period was forecasted.

Jerry Kresy, Tamalpais Valley resident and a director of the Marin Ecology Center, said the project would be used to bring another 200,000 people into Marin County.

"We know you can do this," Kresy told the board, "but we don't want you to. Don't plan on this growth in order to create it."

Director Ray W. Foreaker, Jr. countered that he would not "vote to restrict utilities to control population."

Tar Taul of Greenbrae, chairman of the Marin Chapter of the Sierra Club, also said the project would be used to stimulate population and added that "the prospect of water for West Marin is a realtor's delight."

"How can you be for water and against conservation?" he asked. "We don't want another Wonderland a la San Diego."

While the water district's share of the project costs has been listed as $21 million in past accounts, Foreaker said last night that this was the initial capital cost. Interest would probably double this amount by the time the aqueduct is finally paid for, he said.

"At the present time," Taul told the directors, "you are coming on as merchants of water. "You obviously don't want

Angela's Judge Will Not Bow Out

By C. P. McCARTHY

Judge Alan A. Lindsay refused yesterday to disqualify himself in the Angela Y. Davis case and unequivocally denied allegations by her attorneys that he is a white racist.

Lindsay, an Alameda County Superior Court judge, in an answer filed in Marin Superior Court, rejected complaint by Miss Davis that he could not give her a fair trial.

"I am now and always have been inalterably opposed to racial prejudice and segregation of any kind whatsoever," Lindsay said in his 22-page reply.

He termed most of Miss Davis's allegations "irrelevant, argumentative and conclusionary" and said they "should be ignored and/or stricken from the record."

Lindsay is the second out-of-county judge appointed to handle the case of Miss Davis and her codefendant, San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee, who are charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice.

All five Marin Superior Court judges have disqualified themselves.

The first out-of-county judge, John P. McMurray of Inyo County voluntarily withdraw after he was accused by Magee of being prejudiced.

The judge was slated to hear arguments on various motions, including ones that the case against her be dismissed and that she be released on bail, but he suspended proceedings after being challenged.

Whether or not Lindsay should be disqualified from the case will now be decided by another judge to be selected by agreement of Lindsay and Miss Davis's attorneys, or appointed by the state Judicial Council if they fail to agree.

In the reply filed yesterday, Lindsay said the judge who will decide the matter is not required to hold a hearing but may make his decision based solely on the challenge and his reply.

Lindsay said he elt Miss Davis's challenge was "insufficient in view of the lack of particular facts showing any bias or prejudice on my part and could properly be stricken and ignored by me.

"However, in view of the public interest in this case, and the nature of the challenge, I shall nonetheless answer the statement," he said, "in order that defendants receive the benefit of any procedural issue and my qualifications may be independently evaluated by a reviewing judge."

In their motion challenging Lindsay, Miss Davis's attorneys cited his career as an assistant district attorney, a former president of the Oakland school board, lobbyist for the California Peace Officers Association, his work with the justice department's criminal division and the fact that he was originally appointed to the bench by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"The racism inherent in the American judicial political system is clearly manifested in Judge Lindsay's career, a classic of our time," they said.

Lindsay granted the facts of his career yesterday, but said "I unequivocally deny and repudiate any implications and assertions" of prejudice.

"As a judge of the Superior Court of the State of California . . . I have taken a solemn oath to uphold the laws of this state, and the constitution of both the State of California and of the United States.

"That responsibility, I believe I can perform without bias or prejudice toward any party herein," he said.

'Urgent Need For Unified Police'

Marin County and city officials were called upon yesterday to conduct prompt investigation into the possibility of establishing a countywide police department.

The law enforcement committee of the Marin County Grand Jury, in its term-ending report, said there was "too much crime and excessive mobility of criminals" for the present police setup to handle.

"It has become evident to the committee," the report said, "that a single, centralized countywide police system should be considered as a replacement for the present mixture of county sheriff-various city police departments."

Such a system, the committee said, would provide "broader basis for identification of criminals than is now possible for small municipal police departments; " could pave the way for creation of a countywide crime laboratory and might justify establishment of a police academy.

In the interim, a countywide burglary detail should be created, the group recommended.

(The county board of supervisors has endorsed the concept of hiring a criminal justice coordinator, among whose duties would be the study of police consolidation in Marin. County officials have assured wary police chiefs, meanwhile, that consolidation is years away.)

The committee, whose chairman was George J. Benoit, a research chemist from San Anselmo, adopted a stance taken by the 1969 law enforcement panel in hitting at court leniency toward repeat drug offenders.

"All of the courts should give the maximum sentence to any person convicted for a second (or more) time of selling narcotics," the 1970 committee said. "We believe that this practice will be in the direction of a strong deterrent effect against the mushrooming sale of drugs, as well as providing richly due punishment for those so convicted."

The group called for high bail for persons accused of narcotics offenses.

Last year's committee also was highly critical of operations at Marin County Juvenile Hall, but the 1970 group said it had not found time to investigate the facility in depth.

It did, however, praise Erick F. Yarchin, selected as the new juvenile hall superintendent after last year's critical report, and recommended support of his programs.

Besides Benoit, members of the law enforcement committee were Donald Barksdale, Thomas C. Cheethan, Marilyn Steinau and Don A. Younger, foreman of the grand jury.

In another matter, the full grand jury recommended that the Legislature modify state law to enable jurors to serve all or part of a second term to maintain continuity in investigations. Jurors now are banned from serving consecutive terms.

Soviets Reelect Ruling Troika; Brezhnev Proteges In Politburo

MOSCOW (UPI) —Amid hurrahs of "glory," Soviet communism today re-elected the Kremlin troika and expanded the ruling Politburo with four proteges of party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The 24th Soviet Communist Party Congress ended with a five-year mandate for the troika of Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny to seek general disarmament, mend fences with Washington and Peking and improve the consumers' lot.

The troika and the other eight incumbents on the ruling Politburo were re-elected to a Politburo expanded to 15 members. All four newcomers have a common patron—Brezhnev.

Cheers of "glory, glory" and wild applause greeted the announcement by an obviously pleased Brezhnev that the supreme leadership woven in 1964 remained intact.

Applause for Kosygin almost matched that for Brezhnev, the troika's "leader among equals" who stands to benefit more than any other Politburo member from that body's new, young blood.

The four new politburo members are:

—Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky, premier of the Ukraine.

Brezhnev announced the new Politburo and his re-election as general secretary.

All five incumbent alternate members of the politburo were re-elected. They sit in on Politburo discussions but have no vote.

The 5,000 congress delegates gave Brezhnev, 64, a thundering ovation when he told the final session of the 10-day gathering he had been re-elected general secretary by the politburo.

The Politburo, the day-to-day ruling body of the Soviet Union, was elected by the new central committee chosen by congress delegates Thursday.

Also re-elected were all nine other incumbent party secretaries.

Viet Death Toll Passes Korean War

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Pentagon said today casualties in Vietnam now exceed the death toll of the Korean War.

Announcement of 88 deaths during the week ending Saturday—including 33 killed in the attack on Firebase Mary Anne —pushed the Vietnam toll to 54,284. The count started Jan. 1, 1961.

Korea claimed 54,246 American lives between Jan. 20, 1950, and July 27, 1953, according to Pentagon records.

The two totals include both those killed in battle and those who died for other reasons, such as illness or accident. Comparison of battle deaths is not possible because different bookkeeping methods were used in the two wars.

In Korea, 33,629 battlefield deaths were recorded. But these included only men killed in combat, and not those who later died of wounds.

In Vietnam 44,876 have died from "hostile causes" including both battlefield deaths and those who were wounded and died later.

U.S. Copters Drop Slingloads Of Napalm Around Fire Base 6

SAIGON (UPI)—Giant American Army helicopters are dropping slingloads of napalm on North Vietnamese troops besieging Fire Base 6 in the Central Highlands, front reports said today. B52s bombed within half a mile of the base.

Lt. Col. Frank O. Miller, 43, of Maitland, Fla., told UPI correspondent Robert Sullivan that CH47 Chinook helicopters were dropping sling loads of 55 gallon drums of napalm on the jungled hillsides between Fire Base 6 and companion Fire Base 5, four miles to the southeast.

Military sources said that when the drums are dropped from high altitude they burst open, spraying napalm over the jungle canopy. The napalm then is ignited with fire rockets from helicopter gunships to expose and burn out Communist troop concentrations.

Fire Base 6, about 270 miles northeast of Saigon, is near the point where the borders of Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam converge. South Vietnamese spokesmen said they were determined to hold it for the honor of the South Vietnamese army. Americans said the Communists were trying to capture it to prove the invasion of Laos was a failure.

Maj. Ge, Ngo Dzy, commander of South Vietnam's II Corps containing the Fire Base 6 area, estimated that 4,500 to 6,000 Red troops were in the original assault force and that they have been reinforced. His officers have reported killing 2,200 Communists there at a loss of 85 dead and 190 wounded. American officers at the scene said the Communist casualties were exaggerated and that the South Vietnamese had lost several hundred dead.

No major ground fighting was reported there today.

The South Vietnamese Command today officially announced the end of the Laotian invasion, 15 days after the last regular troops withdrew, but military sources said small unannounced strikes into Laos probably would continue.

The official summation said 13,841 Communists were killed and that the ARVN lost 1,445 killed, 41,106 wounded and 204 missing in the Laotian campaign. The Saigon troops said they destroyed 1,678 North Vietnamese weapons, 120 tanks, 297 trucks, more than 4 million gallons of fuel, 176,000 tons of ammunition and 2,283 tons of rice and other food.

The U.S. Command revised its helicopter losses in support of the Laos incursion, code named Lam Son 719, to a total of 107 but said a further revision could be expected. The crashes killed 53 Americans, wounded 89 and left 27 missing.

In Cambodia, troops trying to reopen Route 4 between the capital of Phnom Penh and the seaport of Kompong Som ran into heavy Communist resistance today and fell back to their original starting point about 55 miles southwest of Phnom Penh at nightfall. It was in this area that Kate Webb, UPI bureau manager in Phnom Penh, disappeared Wednesday during a Communist attack.

In Laos, Laotian government troops evacuated the Ban-Na airstrip on the southeast edge of the Plain of Jars Thursday night following a heavy mortar and rocket barrage. Ban-Na was a key defense position of the top-secret Long Cheng base of the American-backed Meo tribal guerrillas 90 miles northeast of Vientiane.

The Saigon troops said they destroyed 1,678 North Vietnamese weapons, 120 tanks, 297 trucks, more than 4 million gallons of fuel, 176,000 tons of ammunition and 2,283 tons of rice and other food.

The U.S. Command revised its helicopter losses in support of the Laos incursion, code named Lam Son 719, to a total of 107 but said a further revision could be expected. The crashes killed 53 Americans, wounded 89 and left 27 missing.

In Cambodia, troops trying to reopen Route 4 between the capital of Phnom Penh and the seaport of Kompong Som ran into heavy Communist resistance today and fell back to their original starting point about 55 miles southwest of Phnom Penh at nightfall. It was in this area that Kate Webb, UPI bureau manager in Phnom Penh, disappeared Wednesday during a Communist attack.

In Laos, Laotian government troops evacuated the Ban-Na airstrip on the southeast edge of the Plain of Jars Thursday night following a heavy mortar and rocket barrage. Ban-Na was a key defense position of the top-secret Long Cheng base of the American-backed Meo tribal guerrillas 90 miles northeast of Vientiane.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Oil Spill

LONDON (UPI)—Oil slicks drifting in the English Channel and the Irish Sea threatened British coasts today. One of them came from a collision of a British oil tanker and a Danish vessel.

While two naval vessels assisted by a spotter helicopter sprayed detergent on oil leaked from the collision in the channel, the Coast Guard reported another mile-long oil slick in the Irish Sea between the Scottish and Northern Ireland coasts.

Winds were blowing it toward northwest Scotland. A wind shift would threaten Northern Ireland beaches in county Antrim and country Down with pollution, a coast guard spokesman said.

Calley's Memoirs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whatever the ultimate disposition of the case of Lt. William L. CalleyJr. may be, the financial success of his memoirs "Lt. Calley: An American Tragedy," is assured.

Publisher Thomas H. Guinzburg of Viking Press announced Thursday Lt. Calley and his literary collaborator, John Sack, had received an advance of $100,000 for the book, portions of which have already been published in Esquire magazine.

The book is scheduled for publication Sept. 15 and Guinzburg said the demand from bookstores was "fantastic." He said the first edition run would be "enormous—something like 50,000 to 100,000."

Secessionist Claim

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Bengali secessionist forces have claimed almost complete control of the western part of East Pakistan, reports in the Indian press said today. Heavy fighting continued in some western cities and across the Brahmaputra River in the eastern sector.

The government Radio Pakistan said Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan, martial law administrator of East Pakistan, was sworn in today as governor of the province. The rebels claim their forces killed Tikka Khan in a skirmish in Dacca, the capital city, on March 26, the day after civil war broke out.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency said the liberation army of Bangla Desh (Bengal Land) claimed Thursday it had established command over most of the area between Saidpur in the north and Chalna port in the south, a distance of about 225 miles.

Bomb Discovered

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—The biggest bomb found in strife-ridden Northern Ireland this year was discovered and dismantled at a cement factory today.

It spurred major hunts for weapons and explosives by British troops trying to head off Easter weekend violence.

F14 Overrun

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Grumman Aerospace Corp. has told the Navy its order for 710 new F14 jet fighters probably will cost about $1 million more per plane than originally estimated.

In a letter dated March 31 and released by the Navy Thursday, Grumman President William M. Zarkowsky asked to renegotiate the original $8.2 billion agreement because "the contract is commercially impracticable under the existing terms and conditions."

Each F14 carried an original pricetag of about $11.5 million under the original contract. Zarkowsky blamed higher labor and material costs and the overall slump in the aerospace industry for inflating the original estimate.

Boggs' Backers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Italian-American Civil Rights League, involved in its own dispute with the FBI, volunteered Thursday to provide House Majority Leader Hale Boggs with evidence to support his charges against the FBI.

"If it is evidence of the Gestapo-type tactics used by the FBI that you are seeking, we can certainly help you," Nat Marcone, president of the league, said in a telegram to Boggs.

"Many of our members have been subjected to the SS-type tactics by members of the organized crime task force and would be more than willing to testify to this effect," Marcone said.

Boggs charged Monday the FBI has tapped his telephone and those of other congressmen and called for the resignation of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Meir Pessimistic

By U.P. International

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said today recent statements by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat "nearly destroys every hope" for peace in the Middle East.

Mrs. Meir, in an interview published in the Tel Aviv newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth, said that despite Sadat's pronouncements "I am ready to meet him at any place, any time."

She said "we want a peace that will constitute the beginning of the road to human coexistence in the Middle East. President Sadat, however, does not cease talking of resumption of the fighting, and he dictates such terms to us that will enable him to get rid of us in the future."

"We thought Sadat would settle down and begin to tackle the problems of the Egyptian nation," she said, but "it seems to me that one can now doubt if this assessment was correct. Everything Sadat has said .... nearly destroys every hope."

Obscenity Case Conviction Is Overturned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The "Love Book" obscenity conviction of a book seller has been overturned because of a faulty instruction to the jury during the original trial four years ago.

Federal Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli Thursday vacated the conviction of Allen Cohen, 25, who was found guilty May 26, 1967 of selling obscene matter.

When found guilty, Cohen was fined $50.

Zirpoli said he will stay his order 20 days to allow the district attorney's office time to file an appeal.

DISCUSSES FIRE — Chancellor Dean McHenry of the University of California at Santa Cruz discusses yesterday's fire which did at least $500,000 damage to the campus administration building. While possible arson was being probed, McHenry said he was dismayed and felt awful but that the "show must go on." (UPI Telephoto)

A 'Hands And Knees' Fire Investigation

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—Fire marshals started a "hands and knees" investigation today to determine if arsonists started a fire in the chancellor's office of the University of California at Santa Cruz.

The blaze gutted Chancellor Dean McHenry's office early Thursday and destroyed irreplaceable student and faculty records in the campus' second floor "nerve center." Damage was estimated at $250,000 to $500,000.

Santa Cruz firemen, who spent two hours bringing the predawn fire under control, said it could have been deliberately set.

"We'll just have to go through this stuff on our hands and knees to find out if it's arson," said Chief Ted McEwan. Investigators from the state fire marshal's office in Sacramento were called in to help.

McHenry said the blaze might slow fall admission announcements by six weeks, but added: "The show must go on."

The chancellor said his office was the "logical place" for a "demented" person to start a fire, "but it's a quite open question whether this was arson or that it occurred because of an electrical or gas line failure."

He noted the five-year-old experimental campus set in a redwood forest overlooking the Pacific Ocean was going through its "most peaceful year."

The campus, located 60 miles south of San Francisco, consists of five separate colleges "clustered" among the redwoods.

Enrollment is 3,700 students.

Pope In Bitter Attack On The Rebel Priests

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI has used one of the ugliest words in Christendom to describe priests who abandon their vocations to marry or for other reasons: Judas.

The Pope's accusation Thursday was one of his bitterest outbursts since a famous 1969 speech in which he accused rebellious priests of "crucifying" the Roman Catholic Church.

"How can one fail to offer a prayer on Holy Thursday evening for these runaway brothers and the communities they have abandoned and scandalized?" he said during a 2 1-2 hour service at the Rome Basilica of St. John in Lateran.

He said reading the story of Judas Iscariot, the betrayer of Jesus, reminded him of such men, and added:

"How can one fail on this occasion to weep for the deliberate defection of some priests and the moral mediocrity by which they pretend it is natural and logical to break a long premeditated promise solemnly taken before Christ und the Church."

The Pope made a new defense of the Church's celibacy law and said he was praying for priests who abide by it.

Earlier Thursday, 54 of the nearly 5,000 priests resident in Rome went to St. John in Lateran to publicly renew their vows in a ceremony begun last year by the Vatican.

The International Synod of Bishops next October will discuss problems of the priesthood, including a proposal to allow mature married men to be ordained in areas where clergy are particularly scarce.

The Maundy Thursday service commenorating the Last Supper and the betrayal and arrest of Jesus opened the passion ceremonies which will end with the Resurrection service in St. Peter's Basilica Sunday morning and the Pope's blessing to the world.

A moving feature of Thursday's service was the Pope's washing and kissing the feet of 12 men from a Rome old people's home—a gesture of humility recalling the same action performed by Jesus for his disciples on the first Holy Thursday.

The United States uses more than 1.443 trillion kilowatt hours of electricity annually.

CBS Balks At Subpoena On 'Selling'

NEW YORK (UPI)—CBS has refused to turn over to a congressional subcommittee certain material used by the network while making its television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

CBS President Frank Stanton said the subpoena issued by the investigations subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee "raises an unprecedented issue in the history of the relationship between the federal government and the press in this nation."

The network president said, "No newspaper, magazine or other part of the press could be required constitutionally to comply with such a subpoena with respect to material gathered by reporters in the course of a journalistic investigation but not published.

"Unlike other instances in which a committee of the Congress has subpoenaed broadcasters' materials, this subpoena appears to involve no question of alleged violation of criminal law on the part of the broadcaster and no question of any governmental interest in whether the broadcaster had evidence pertinent to the criminal prosecution of third persons. Rather, the sole purpose of this subpoena, so far as we can ascertain it, is to obtain materials which will aid the committee in subjecting to legislative surveillance the news judgements of CBS in preparing "The Selling of the Pentagon."

"The fact that television and radio stations are licensed by the government does not deprive the broadcast press of First Amendment protection, and the courts have so held," said Stanton. "That protection does not depend upon whether the government believes we are right or wrong in our news judgements."

The subpoena asked for "all film, workprints, outtakes, sound tape recordings, written scripts and-or transcripts prepared, obtained, or utilized in whole or part".

GM Board Opposes S. African Pullout

DETROIT (UPI)—The board of directors of General Motors Corp. has urged stockholders to vote against a number of proposed corporate changes, including one that would force the company to stop making cars in South Africa.

GM and Ford Motor Co., in proxy statements mailed Thursday, also indicated the take home pay of their top executives was less in 1970 than in 1969.

The GM board, in its statement, unanimously urged "no" votes on the changes submitted by the Project on Corporate Responsibility, similar to ones rejected by stockholders at last year's shareholder's meeting. This year's meeting will be held May 21 at Detroit's Cobo Hall.

The board also recommended rejection of a proposal that would force the company to "not conduct manufacturing operations in the Republic of South Africa."

Submitted by the Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, which holds 12,574 shares of GM stock, the resolution would require the company to "wind up its present manufacturing operations there as expeditiously as possible."

The church said GM should cease operations in South Africa because that country's apartheid policy "creates an extreme risk of eventual turmoil and instability in South Africa, which makes investment there excessively risky."

In rejecting the proposals submitted by the Project on Corporate Responsibility, the board said they "are without precedent in corporate law or practice" and may, in at least one case, be illegal.

The project asked stockholders to accept three resolutions this year. One calls for three new members of the board to sit as representatives of GM employes, GM leaders and consumers.

Another would require GM to publish in its annual report "detailed descriptions of specific new techniques in automotive air pollution control and motor vehicle safety," a breakdown showing the portions of "blacks, Orientals, American Indians, Spanish-surnamed Americans and women" employed by GM and in what kind of jobs, and details of why models were recalled.

The third project recommendation would allow nominations to the Board of Directors by petitions signed by 100 shareholders.

Bonuses were eliminated entirely for GM executives, lowering the compensation paid Chairman James M. Roche from $715,000 in 1969 to $225,000 last year.

Ford said its executives' salaries were increased but bonuses were lower than the year ago.

Mills Leaves Door Open For A Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who has taken on a new role as a Democratic Party fund raiser, is leaving the door open — slightly —to a presidential draft.

The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who insists he is not a presidential candidate, admits he would have to accept the role if any genuine draft developed.

Although there has been recurring talk about a draft movement among some congressmen, and in Arkansas, no major organized effort has developed.

During the last two days Mills has been trying to raise funds among wealthy Texans for the Democratic National Committee to help wipe out the $9.3 million debt the party ran up during the 1968 presidential campaign.

Thursday night Mills, 61, made his most positive statement on the situation so far. In an interview with station WTEV-TV, New Bedford, Mass., he said he "doubted in all seriousness" that a meaningful draft would materialize; but if the nomination were offered him, he added, "I would have to accept it."

Mountain Of Trash

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Each year residents of Oregon produce enough trash, garbage and junk equivalent to 10,673,991 cubic yards —or about the size of Mt. Hood, the state's highest peak.

Mills Leaves Door Open For A Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who has taken on a new role as a Democratic Party fund raiser, is leaving the door open — slightly —to a presidential draft.

The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who insists he is not a presidential candidate, admits he would have to accept the role if any genuine draft developed.

Although there has been recurring talk about a draft movement among some congressmen, and in Arkansas, no major organized effort has developed.

During the last two days Mills has been trying to raise funds among wealthy Texans for the Democratic National Committee to help wipe out the $9.3 million debt the party ran up during the 1968 presidential campaign.

Thursday night Mills, 61, made his most positive statement on the situation so far. In an interview with station WTEV-TV, New Bedford, Mass., he said he "doubted in all seriousness" that a meaningful draft would materialize; but if the nomination were offered him, he added, "I would have to accept it."

Brewer Will Fight Juvenile Hall Cuts

Probation Officer John W. Brewer declared yesterday he will fight to save Marin Juvenile Hall's pre-placement center, which is marked for extinction in July.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella acknowledged that the administrator's office will recommend no funds for the pre-placement center in the 1971-72 budget. The 11 employees now working at the center would be reassigned to other jobs in the probation department.

The pre-placement unit, operating for the past three years, provides group counseling and therapy to youngsters before they are returned to their homes or placed in foster homes. Families of the youngsters and their foster parents are also given counseling at the center.

"We feel this is one of the most effective programs we have for youngsters who are trying to return to their own homes or to foster homes," said Brewer.

Campanella said he believes the emphasis should be on a program of preventing the placement of children in institutions or foster homes rather than on preparing them for placement. He said the pre-placement program could be phased out and the building used as a halfway house or treatment facility for alcoholics or drug users.

Brewer said that another major disagreement with the county administrator is over the classification of group counselors at Juvenile Hall.

Brewer said he wants to keep about 25 experienced counselors (classified as Group Counselor II), to be supplemented by four trainees, classified as Group Counselor I.

The county administrator wants to reverse that ratio so that 25 will be trainees and four would be experienced.

"This is simply reverting to a custodial situation with a poorly prepared staff," complained Brewer. "To talk about doing this and at the same time eliminate the pre-placement program is doubly negative."

Brewer said he will appear before the board of supervisors during the budget sessions to fight for the pre-placement center and for experienced group counselors.

Demonstrators Get Suspended 60-Day Terms

FRESNO (UPI)—Three persons convicted of blocking traffic during a demonstration at Fresno State College last May 22 have been given 60-day suspended sentences.

One year probation was also ordered for Gregory Walsh, 19; Robin Bertsch, 23, both of Fresno, and Patricia Manro, 27, of Auberry.

Sentencing in Municipal Court for two others convicted of the same offense, Jeffrey Johnson 21, and Mary Nelson 24, both of Fresno, was continued until Monday.

In other related court action Wednesday, Douglas Gustafson, 32, Joel Eis, 24, Calvin Norris, 22, and David Ward, 24, all of Fresno, changed their pleas to no contest to charges of unlawful assembly in connection with the same incident.

Sentencing for the four was set for April 27.

Candidate Says Sign Ripped Up

Nobody seems to like a campaign poster.

On public property they get torn down and discarded legally and on private lawns and fences they're ripped up illegally in the middle of the night by culprits wearing gloves and left shredded in little piles to mock candidates.

Thomas R. O'Toole, of 66 Junipero Serra, San Rafael planning commissioner and candidate for the city council, reported that about 75 of his posters have been taken from stakes pounded into the ground and nailed to fences. He said they were all on private property.

Most of the signs were destroyed along San Pedro Road from the Thrifty Drug Store to Peacock Gap, O'Toole said. He sprayed pieces of the torn signs with chemicals to preserve fingerprints, but police, according to O'Toole, said whoever ripped them was wearing gloves. Signs have been put up eight times in some places and at 78 cents each, that can get to be pretty expensive, he complained.

O'Toole stopped one man he saw taking down signs on AS-treet and found that another candidate's signs were the target. O'Toole said he asked the man not to take any more signs down.

Report On Working Students At Sonoma

Nearly half the students at Sonoma State College are working their way through college, according to a recent survey.

Three out of five male students and one of three female students hold down jobs while attending classes, according to Dr. Stanley Goertzen, chairman of the psychology department.

Nearly 1,400 of the college's full-time students are working an average of 16 hours per week. Married students tend to work more hours the survey showed.

Most students are employed off campus with only 12 per cent working on campus as student assistants or in work-study programs.

The survey showed that 75 per cent of the students work in the evenings and on Saturdays. The unemployment rate was listed at 20 per cent. "This suggests that there are about 300 students at the college who have been unable to find work," Goertzen said.

He also found that 75 per cent of the men and 33 per cent of the women held jobs last summer. Most of the students hold year-round jobs and simply increase their work load during summer months.

"This student body is, by and large, a self-supporting student body," Goertzen said. "Almost all of the married students, three-quarters of the single men and a third of the single women are dependent upon their own efforts for most of the costs of their education."

Amputee Center Threatened By Budget Cuts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The University of California's bio- mechanical laboratories, where many Vietnam amputees are fitted for artificial limbs, may be forced out of business by a lack of funds.

The program, which is financed almost entirely by the Veterans Administration, was at one time receiving an annual budget of $500,000 and employed 76 persons at three centers.

Today, according to Dr. Verne T. Inman, a surgeon at the UC Medical Center, the gross budget is down to $160,000 and the staff has dropped to 10.

Inman says the cutback comes at a time when there are 52,000 amputee Vietnam veterans in service hospitals across the country.

He blames the fund shortage on the "new directions" of medical and social research. "They're interested in drug addiction and retarded children ... everything but assisting the disabled veteran."

Budget Of $49,000 To Be Studied

A $49,000 budget for the Bel Aire Flood Control Zone for 1971-72 will be considered by the zone's advisory board at 8 p.m. Monday in the portable building at Bel Aire School, Karen Way, Tiburon.

The budget, recommended by county flood control engineer Charles E. Murphy, would be financed partly by $25,300 expected to be carried over from the current fiscal year and partly by a special flood control property tax.

The advisory board must study the budget and make a recommendation to the county board of supervisors, which will set the final budget.

Various tax rates are possible, Murphy said, with higher rates allowing the zone to accumulate funds to carry out a $560,000 flood control master plan.

A tax rate equal to this year's 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation would yield $4,300 in reserves, while a $1 tax rate, the maximum allowable, would result in a $32,300 reserve.

Financing of the $560,000 plan could be accomplished either by a pay-as-you-go method, using reserves accumulated through taxes, or by a bond issue. Murphy has recommended that the board levy the maximum $1 tax rate this year.

Phosphates In Detergents Hit

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)— A bill outlawing phosphates in detergents passed the Nevada Assembly Thursday.

The measure, sent to the Senate, would make it immediately illegal to sell detergents with more than 8.7 per cent phosphates and ban the chemical brightening agents in 1972.

U.S. Tennis Team Plays In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI)—An American table tennis team arrived here today on its way to Communist China for a series of "friendly matches" with China's world championship team.

The 15 members of the team said they were delighted by the surprise invitation to visit China and they would do all they could to promote friendship with the Chinese.

Officials and players insisted that the invitation, the first ever extended to an American sports group, and the team's visit were not politically motivated.

However, the sports aspect of the visit is strictly secondary to the possible political implications.

Graham Steenhoven, Detroit, Mich., president of the U.S. Table Tennis Association, spoke at a news conference shortly after the team's arrival from Japan, where it participated in the 31st World Table Tennis Tournament.

"We rejected the thought," Steenhoven said when asked if he thought the invitation was politically oriented.

"The reason we are going there has nothing to do with politics. It will be a meeting of table tennis teams."

Steenhoven also said, "We may invite the Chinese players to visit the United States."

Pressed for a more definite statement about such an invitation he replied, "We will think about this."

George Harrison, Wilmington-Del., chairman of the technical committee of the International Table Tennis Federation, said he and all members of the team were "delighted" by the chance to visit China.

"We look forward to a good time there," he said. "We will try to be as friendly as we can."

Erroll Resek, New York, N.Y., one of the players said the invitation "was like going to the moon. I never thought it would happen."

Resek, a native of the Dominican Republic who recently became an American citizen, said, "I would like to ask the Chinese to give me training in China. They are the best in the whole world."

Judy Bocheski, Eugene, Ore., a 15-year-old player, said she had called her parents to get permission to make the trip.

"They said okay," she said, "and I'm so delighted and excited."

The players were met by representatives of the China Travel Service (CTS), a semiofficial agency which handles all travel to China.

Steenhoven said he was told by the Chinese that the team will be leaving for China on Saturday.

CTS officials said the team will leave by midmorning train from the Kowloon terminal of the Kowloon-Canton Railway. A 10-member Colombian team, which arrived from Tokyo on the same plane, was to travel along with the Americans.

After the news conference, the American and Colombian delegations boarded a CTS bus for a Kowloon hotel operated by CTS. There the members had tea while CTS officials checked their passports and took down names and other information for travel and immigration papers.

Library To Remount Front Sign

The Mill Valley Public Library, plagued by pilfering of large bronze letters from its sign on the front of the building, will remount the letters so as to discourage theft.

Librarian Alberta L. Hankenson said the library board has decided to affix the letters flush with the library wall rather than on risers. This will make them more difficult to steal, she said.

Two missing letters, costing more than $20 each, have arrived and are going to be attached, along with other letters removed by the library staff when the thefts began. Installation will be delayed until the library board finds a contractor to do work at a reasonable price, Miss Hankenson said, adding that installation of single letters can run as high as $20.

The board decided to charge a small fee for groups other than official city organizations which use the library's meeting rooms.

Fees of $3 for groups serving coffee and $5 for groups serving food will be charged, she said, to help pay for cleaning of the rooms after meetings.

Two Groups Seek Hike On July 1

Marin County firemen and communications workers are asking for a 12.5 per cent raise on July 1, and firemen are also seeking a drop in working house from 96 to 65 hours per week.

The demands are included in new contracts proposed by the Marin County Employees Association for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Francis J. O'Connell, general manager of the employees association, submitted three different contracts, one each for the emergency workers (firemen), and communications workers), midmanagement employees, and general employees.

For the midmanagement and general employees, the association asks for at least a $50 per month cost-of-living increase on July 1. This would be in addition to salary adjustments requested by the association. O'Connell said the "salary adjustment," which is not yet specified, would be to bring Marin County salaries on a par with comparable positions in the rest of the Bay Area.

Other new demands in the 1971-72 proposal are time and a-half for overtime and double time for holidays; 25 working days of vacation after 20 years of service (the maximum allowed now is 20 working days after 10 years of service), added holidays on the second Monday in October (Columbus Day), the birthday of each employee, and all primary and general election days.

Queen Contest Entries Open

Applicants must be single, between 16 and 21, and residents of Marin or students at Tomales High School, according to Scottie Mendoza, contest chairman.

First to sign up for the contest was Elaine Satterquist, a Tomales High School senior of Point Reyes Station.

Soil District Approves Budget

The Marin County Soil Conservation District approved yesterday its fiscal 1971-72 budget totaling $2,020 — a $275 increase over this year's.

According to Matt H. Klemmer, recording secretary for the district, the increase is due largely to increases in membership fees for state and national organizations.

The budget will now be forwarded to the county supervisors for consideration during budget session in June.

Bel Marin Hires Swimming Pool Help

Bel Marin Keys Community Services District directors last night hired Mariette Tuinzing as swimming pool attendant for the summer, at $2 per hour, and ordered $600 worth of playground equipment for Montego Park.

The rest of the April board meeting was devoted mainly to discussion of progress on additions to the community center, according to Betty Zoeller, secretary.

to go to the people for money and are trying to avoid it."

He was among those who believed the pledge made last year in a brochure guaranteeing bond elections to finance each stage of the project was being broken.

Directors said assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael is receptive to their proposed legislation for circumventing the ballot.

The directors said an Independent-Journal interview with the assemblyman used "rigged" questions and that Bagley was not prepared for them. In the story, published March 31, Bagley said his strong inclination was "not to carry their water," referring to the director's legislative proposals.

Paul Jacob of Mill Valley said effluent could be purified and used to provide enough water for the county without building an aqueduct from the Russian River.

Foreaker read from a report that said that politics and people's preferences would probably keep effluent from coming through water pipes regardless of the advances of technology.

Jacob also suggested that a constant water rate of all levels of consumption would cut down on usage by industry. The rates are scheduled so they are lower with each additional unit of consumption at the higher use levels.

One residents recommended an educational campaign to prevent water waste by consumers and Winifred Frederick of Irate Taxpayers of Marin suggested the simple method of bending the rod to the flush valve in toilets so they only fill half way. Foreaker said he uses this method.

Pat Newton of Kentfield proposed legislation to eliminate the flush toilet and said that instead of using her garbage disposal for some food products, she now uses them to fertilize her garden.

"It is obvious that you have not considered these alternatives seriously or you would not be surprised by them," Taul told directors.

Foreaker said he would look into the practicality of some of the proposed alternatives but there were some present who accused board president R. G. Anderson of not listening when he rapped his gavel for everyone to go home at midnight. Anderson declined comment.

Debbie Pond, 17, of 1219 Ridgeview Heights, his passenger, also is reported in satisfactory condition although she remains in the intensive care unit. She suffered a brain concussion, fractured jaw and internal kidney injuries.

Both youths had been on the hospital's critical list since the accident.

Novato police who are investigating the accident have not talked to either Oatis or Miss Pond about the details because of their serious condition.

Car Hits Ambulance: Two Hurt

Two persons were injured last night when an auto collided with an ambulance on an emergency mission in Greenbrae, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol quoted Elizabeth S. Finsland, 49, of 170 Corte Ramon, Greenbrae, driver of the auto, as saying she didn't see the United Ambulance's flashing red lights or hear its siren just before the vehicles collided on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Eliseo Drive.

Mrs. Finsland, who suffered multiple rib fractures in the 6:50 p.m. mishap, was reported in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital. Edmond Avis, 23, of 1314 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, an attendant in the ambulance, was treated at the hospital for multiple scrapes.

A United spokesman said the ambulance was enroute to Children's Hospital in San Francisco with a young patient from Marin General. The child, unjured in the crash, went to Children's in another ambulance.

The first ambulance, eastbound on Sir Francis Drake at the time of the accident, was driven by William H. O'Brien, 23, of 266 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael. The highway patrol said Mrs. Finsland's car was turning onto Drake when the crash occurred.

Foreaker read from a report that said that politics and people's preferences would probably keep effluent from coming through water pipes regardless of the advances of technology.

Jacob also suggested that a constant water rate of all levels of consumption would cut down on usage by industry. The rates are scheduled so they are lower with each additional unit of consumption at the higher use levels.

One residents recommended an educational campaign to prevent water waste by consumers and Winifred Frederick of Irate Taxpayers of Marin suggested the simple method of bending the rod to the flush valve in toilets so they only fill half way. Foreaker said he uses this method.

Pat Newton of Kentfield proposed legislation to eliminate the flush toilet and said that instead of using her garbage disposal for some food products, she now uses them to fertilize her garden.

"It is obvious that you have not considered these alternatives seriously or you would not be surprised by them," Taul told directors.

Foreaker said he would look into the practicality of some of the proposed alternatives but there were some present who accused board president R. G. Anderson of not listening when he rapped his gavel for everyone to go home at midnight. Anderson declined comment.

Car Hits Ambulance: Two Hurt

Two persons were injured last night when an auto collided with an ambulance on an emergency mission in Greenbrae, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol quoted Elizabeth S. Finsland, 49, of 170 Corte Ramon, Greenbrae, driver of the auto, as saying she didn't see the United Ambulance's flashing red lights or hear its siren just before the vehicles collided on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Eliseo Drive.

Mrs. Finsland, who suffered multiple rib fractures in the 6:50 p.m. mishap, was reported in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital. Edmond Avis, 23, of 1314 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, an attendant in the ambulance, was treated at the hospital for multiple scrapes.

A United spokesman said the ambulance was enroute to Children's Hospital in San Francisco with a young patient from Marin General. The child, unjured in the crash, went to Children's in another ambulance.

The first ambulance, eastbound on Sir Francis Drake at the time of the accident, was driven by William H. O'Brien, 23, of 266 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael. The highway patrol said Mrs. Finsland's car was turning onto Drake when the crash occurred.

Hitch: Doctorate Output Needs Cut

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — University of California President Charles J. Hitch said Thursday night institutions of higher learning must adopt alternatives to reduce the number of doctorates.

In a talk before the San Francisco and Peninsula Planning Executives Institute, he quoted projections from the U.S. Office of Education showing 60,000 Ph.D.'s will be awarded in 1980 compared with 25,000 in 1970 and 10,000 in 1960.

At the same time, he said, a recent study showed that universities in the United States are producing 30 per cent more Ph.D.'s than the country can use, and the long-range trend will apparently be worse.

"I should emphasize that we are not about to see droves of new Ph.D.'s out walking the street," Hitch said.

"They will, of course, get jobs. But they will be taking jobs below those for which their training has prepared them. And, perhaps more importantly, they will be bumping lesser degree holders from jobs they potentially would have had."

One alternative, said the educator, would be to cut enrollments in doctoral programs such as Harvard, Yale and other schools have done. Another alternative would be to adopt the Carnegie Commission's recommendation of a specialized doctor of arts degree for teachers at the state college or community college level.

Hitch added that either of the two alternatives would be met by "powerful resistance" from universities which refuse to acknowledge change.

"I'm not saying this resistance would be all wrong," added Hitch. "Indeed, from several points of view, it would appear to be an attempt to protect the very best aspects of American higher education."

Alioto To Draft Memo Aimed At Teacher Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto says he will begin writing a memorandum of settlement today in the teachers' strike which is now in its third week.

The mayor appeared very optimistic when he left the negotiating room Thursday and told newsmen "I'm very happy to report that the parties have made substantial progress on the major issues."

The main issues in the walkout are preparation periods, para-professionals and smaller class sizes.

Surrounded by teacher representatives and members of the school district, Alioto said "Total agreement has not been reached. However, the probability of a successful termination of these negotiations has now been considerably enhanced."

He said that he will "supervise the writing of a memorandum of settlement while the parties hammer out the remaining issues" today.

The mayor declined to give detailed information on the issues discussed, but noted that the question of salary had been resolved.

"It was not a part of the original negotiations, but it was brought in and they tentatively resolved it so it won't crop up later," he said.

Earlier, 14 angry citizens confronted the mayor and demanded the strike be concluded by Sunday.

Dynamite Found In Watkins Valley

West Marin's resident deputy sheriff, out hunting for lost cattle, stumbled on 140 sticks of old dynamite in an abandoned quicksilver mine in Watkins Valley yesterday.

Sheriff's Capt. Harvey Teague said the dynamite, which had crystallized, was burned by officers. He said the sticks apparently had been left behind by miners when the shaft was abandoned.

'Skeptical' View Of Berkeley's Police

BERKELEY (UPI)—Mayor-elect Warren Widener hasn't been happy with Berkeley police since he was ordered out of department headquarters while trying to help a man file a brutality complaint last summer.

He suggested Thursday that Police Chief Bruce Baker, as well as City Manager William Hanley, should begin looking for new jobs because they had resisted suggestions for reform of police grievance procedures.

Widener, 33, a liberal attorney and city councilman, was elected mayor by a 56-vote margin in Tuesday's election.

"The police problem is so pressing we must deal with it immediately," the mayor-elect said. He said he was working to set up a special election this fall on his plan to create a citywide police commission.

He said the commission, possibly comprised of representatives of various districts of the city, would have power to hire and fire the police chief and to discipline individual officers when necessary.

Widener recalled that he was ordered out of the department offices last summer by a policeman who was unaware he was a councilman.

"Since then I have become quite skeptical of the police operation," he added.

Widener said he also was unhappy about Hanley's performance —but doubted that a city council split between radical-liberal and moderate-conservative factions would fire the manager or police chief. However, he said he might have enough votes to cut their pay.

"I would hope they would begin looking for jobs in other cities that have the types of government structures they are committed to," he said.

Pitch For Bike Path Delivered

Future expansion of Tamalpais Drive — being contemplated by the Town of Corte Madera — should include a bicycle path, the Marina Village Homeowners Association agreed last night.

According to Ronald Rice, president of the group, he will forward a letter to the town this week with the homeowners' request.

The widening of the town's main street has been discussed by the town council for more than a year.

Rice, who said street widening will be discussed Monday by the town's planning commission, said the association's position is that it is easier to provide for a path now than in the future when the project is complete.

If town planning proceeds on schedule, the project could be bid by late May or June.

Last night's meeting, attended by Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels, also focused on the status of the proposed Central Marin ferry terminal, the possibility of creating a park area near the overflow pond at the end of Echo Avenue and the planting of trees along San Clemente Drive.

Hitch: Doctorate Output Needs Cut

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — University of California President Charles J. Hitch said Thursday night institutions of higher learning must adopt alternatives to reduce the number of doctorates.

In a talk before the San Francisco and Peninsula Planning Executives Institute, he quoted projections from the U.S. Office of Education showing 60,000 Ph.D.'s will be awarded in 1980 compared with 25,000 in 1970 and 10,000 in 1960.

At the same time, he said, a recent study showed that universities in the United States are producing 30 per cent more Ph.D.'s than the country can use, and the long-range trend will apparently be worse.

"I should emphasize that we are not about to see droves of new Ph.D.'s out walking the street," Hitch said.

"They will, of course, get jobs. But they will be taking jobs below those for which their training has prepared them. And, perhaps more importantly, they will be bumping lesser degree holders from jobs they potentially would have had."

One alternative, said the educator, would be to cut enrollments in doctoral programs such as Harvard, Yale and other schools have done. Another alternative would be to adopt the Carnegie Commission's recommendation of a specialized doctor of arts degree for teachers at the state college or community college level.

Hitch added that either of the two alternatives would be met by "powerful resistance" from universities which refuse to acknowledge change.

"I'm not saying this resistance would be all wrong," added Hitch. "Indeed, from several points of view, it would appear to be an attempt to protect the very best aspects of American higher education."

Alioto To Draft Memo Aimed At Teacher Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto says he will begin writing a memorandum of settlement today in the teachers' strike which is now in its third week.

The mayor appeared very optimistic when he left the negotiating room Thursday and told newsmen "I'm very happy to report that the parties have made substantial progress on the major issues."

The main issues in the walkout are preparation periods, para-professionals and smaller class sizes.

Surrounded by teacher representatives and members of the school district, Alioto said "Total agreement has not been reached. However, the probability of a successful termination of these negotiations has now been considerably enhanced."

He said that he will "supervise the writing of a memorandum of settlement while the parties hammer out the remaining issues" today.

The mayor declined to give detailed information on the issues discussed, but noted that the question of salary had been resolved.

"It was not a part of the original negotiations, but it was brought in and they tentatively resolved it so it won't crop up later," he said.

Earlier, 14 angry citizens confronted the mayor and demanded the strike be concluded by Sunday.

Dynamite Found In Watkins Valley

West Marin's resident deputy sheriff, out hunting for lost cattle, stumbled on 140 sticks of old dynamite in an abandoned quicksilver mine in Watkins Valley yesterday.

Sheriff's Capt. Harvey Teague said the dynamite, which had crystallized, was burned by officers. He said the sticks apparently had been left behind by miners when the shaft was abandoned.

'Skeptical' View Of Berkeley's Police

BERKELEY (UPI)—Mayor-elect Warren Widener hasn't been happy with Berkeley police since he was ordered out of department headquarters while trying to help a man file a brutality complaint last summer.

He suggested Thursday that Police Chief Bruce Baker, as well as City Manager William Hanley, should begin looking for new jobs because they had resisted suggestions for reform of police grievance procedures.

Widener, 33, a liberal attorney and city councilman, was elected mayor by a 56-vote margin in Tuesday's election.

"The police problem is so pressing we must deal with it immediately," the mayor-elect said. He said he was working to set up a special election this fall on his plan to create a citywide police commission.

He said the commission, possibly comprised of representatives of various districts of the city, would have power to hire and fire the police chief and to discipline individual officers when necessary.

Widener recalled that he was ordered out of the department offices last summer by a policeman who was unaware he was a councilman.

"Since then I have become quite skeptical of the police operation," he added.

Widener said he also was unhappy about Hanley's performance —but doubted that a city council split between radical-liberal and moderate-conservative factions would fire the manager or police chief. However, he said he might have enough votes to cut their pay.

"I would hope they would begin looking for jobs in other cities that have the types of government structures they are committed to," he said.

Pitch For Bike Path Delivered

Future expansion of Tamalpais Drive — being contemplated by the Town of Corte Madera — should include a bicycle path, the Marina Village Homeowners Association agreed last night.

According to Ronald Rice, president of the group, he will forward a letter to the town this week with the homeowners' request.

The widening of the town's main street has been discussed by the town council for more than a year.

Rice, who said street widening will be discussed Monday by the town's planning commission, said the association's position is that it is easier to provide for a path now than in the future when the project is complete.

If town planning proceeds on schedule, the project could be bid by late May or June.

Last night's meeting, attended by Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels, also focused on the status of the proposed Central Marin ferry terminal, the possibility of creating a park area near the overflow pond at the end of Echo Avenue and the planting of trees along San Clemente Drive.

City Fire Losses Drop In 1970

Fire losses in San Rafael totaled $244,525 during 1970, about $69,000 less than 1969, according to the annual report issued this week by Fire Chief Van Trivett.

The reduction was attributed to a decrease in the number of large fires during 1970. In the previous year, a July blaze at the Brodie and Schwerin San Rafael Tire and Brake Co caused $150,000 damage.

The most damaging blaze of 1970 occurred Oct. 28 when the $40,000 Fairhills home of building contractor Spero P. Spiliotis was destroyed along with $25,000 in contents.

Fire damage to commercial structures and apartments totaled $125,685 last year, as compared to $218,280 in 1969, and damage to dwellings totaled $118,840, as compared to $95,320 in 1969.

During the year, the chief said the department responded to 1,266 calls, 53 more than in 1969, with 535 fire calls and 731 nonfire calls.

Of the fire calls, 151 were structure fires, 187 brush and grass fires, and 131 vehicle fires.

Of the nonfire calls, 166 were false alarms, 125 emergency calls, 77 lockouts and 75 needless calls.

Sonoma Officialdom Debates ABAG, But Resolves Nothing

By BONNIE BARD

The value of membership in the Association of Bay Area Governments was debated but not resolved last night by the Sonoma County Mayors and Councilmen's Association.

In a special meeting in Petaluma, the association heard Supervisor Robert Theiller urge withdrawal from ABAG and the formation of a new coalition with North Bay and North Coast counties. Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella, ABAG president, said a psychology of fear was behind the withdrawal move and that an alternative association had not been fully explored.

Both men said they would abide by the decision of the voters on April 20 in the special county election on ABAG withdrawal.

William R. Lucius of Healdsburg, association chairman, reported that the Petaluma and Santa Rosa city councils had voted to remain in ABAG while Rohnert Park and Cloverdale city councils had voted to support the withdrawal of Sonoma County. He said the other cities of Cotati, Sonoma, Sebastopol and Healdsburg would be polled after their next council meeting and the final tally on the ABAG question would be announced prior to the April 20 vote.

Theiller said he feared that ABAG would evolve into a regional form of government under the one-man, one-vote rule that would leave Sonoma County nearly powerless in the face of large counties such as San Francisco, Alameda and Santa Clara.

He said he believed that Sonoma should withdraw while membership is still voluntary and work out an arrangement with northern counties that would be more beneficial.

Most of the mayors and councilmen speaking questioned Theiller on the makeup of the new association and said they felt a withdrawal vote may be premature because full details on the new coalition and its costs could not be known at this time.

Petaluma Mayor Helen Putnam said it was very important for her city to remain part of ABAG because it has close connections with the Bay Area and shares many problems with it.

"Petaluma is really oriented to Marin County," she said, pointing out that 70 per cent of east side residents commute daily to the south. Mrs. Putnam also noted that Petaluma is part of the Marin Mosquito Abatement District, in the same Assembly district with Marin, part of the Southern Sonoma-North Marin subregional sewerage study, part of the Sonoma-Marin aqueduct plans and connected to the bay through the tidal waters of the Petaluma River.

"I feel we just can't help but look at Petaluma and see we do have a relationship with the Bay Area that we can't ignore," she said. "We shouldn't drop out of a known quantity until we know what we're getting into."

Santa Rosa Mayor Gerald Poznanovich said he felt that planning would be slowed down for Sonoma County if it were in an alliance with less populated counties to the north.

Cloverdale Mayor Russell Kinsey cited the current bill authored by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, as proof that a regional form of government with taxing powers is on the way and poses a threat to local control.

Vella said that ABAG has already opposed the Knox bill stand and said he believed it would not pass.

Jones Hits Home Variances

Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones complained last night that his colleagues could be creating an "extremely artificial society" in the community because of their recent actions on home-expansion variances.

Jones, the lone dissenter in recent council meetings on several variance applications, objected that residents obtaining permission to enlarge their homes had failed to prove hardship, as required by town ordinance.

The trend endangered the quiet, isolated character of Ross, he said, and the town threatened to become a "Terra Linda-type community — all children and dogs."

"We can't keep taking small houses and making them larger," Jones said. The solution for growing families in need of more space, he said, is to look for larger homes.

He called upon the council either to modify the ordinance or to adopt a firmer posture toward variances "before the town changes to a point where we can't redeem it."

The council, however, did not act on his appeal, and at least two of Jones's colleagues opposed his stance.

Jones raised his objections moments after dissenting on a vote to grant a variance to Donald E. Wolter of Lagunitas Road for repair work that will increase the size of his home.

"There are five different opinions of hardship up there," Wolter told Jones, glancing at each council member.

Councilman John H. Chase, noting that each application posed a "very gray area," said variances should be judged by weighing neighborhood impact and individual need.

Councilman Jewell Osterloh believed that many applications were the result of housewife ambition and pride. "It's instinct for women to modify; to put their stamp on a home," Mrs. Osterloh said.

"I really think that as a woman, often times it's very important to her psychologically," the councilwoman added.

The Ross Town Council also:

BUDGET — Referred to the finance committee for study a tentative police department budget for 1971-72 of $13,500 and a preliminary fire department spending program of about $50,000. The fire department budget, which currently is $47,271, included current salary levels as a guide, but the police department budget did not. The police budget is up about $4,000 from the current fiscal year and purchase of a new squad car and updated radio equipment are included.

EXPLOSIVES — Adopted an ordinance requiring both the police and fire chiefs to give permission for the use of explosives in town.

FISH — Heard Robert Bridges of San Anselmo complain that access to Natalie Coffin Greene Park was forbidden during good fishing hours, but Jones explained the closure was to prevent disturbance to residents along Lagunitas Road leading to the park.

DISASTER — Adopted an ordinance updating the town code to include disaster control for earthquakes.

GARBAGE — Formally adopted new garbage rates that will go into effect May 1 and heard Jones and Mayor Frederick S. Allen complain of indiscriminate use of town debris boxes. Jones said he saw one resident drive up to the box near the Post Office in a truck and begin "pitching hay into" the container.

BICYCLE — Invited Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director, to its next meeting May 13 to discuss hopes for a bike path through Ross. Mayor Allen said he felt there was no safe route for bicycles through town.

Werber Is Indicted On Drugs

Restaurateur Frank N. Werber was indicted yesterday by the Marin County Grand Jury on charges of possessing a wide variety of drugs at his DeSilva Island home.

In one of the outgoing jury's last official acts, Werber was accused of having undisclosed quantities of heroin, LSD, marijuana, cocaine, peyote, codeine and mescaline when county drug abuse agents entered his home March 26.

The agents, carrying a search warrant, also arrested a 17-year-old girl. She was booked into Juvenile Hall, pending investigation of narcotics possession.

At the time of the raid, Werber was free in $5,000 bail pending an appeal of a six-month jail sentence and $2,000 fine imposed last year after he was convicted of marijuana possession and cultivation.

Werber, 41, former manager of the Kingston Trio, appeared in Marin Municipal Court March 29, but no complaint was filed by the district attorney's office as a result of the new arrest.

He is to be arraigned on the indictment Monday in superior court. Bail was set at $9,375.

Housing Costs Up

OTTAWA (UPI) — Housing prices in Canada rose 10 per cent between February, 1970, and February, 1971, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

Vietnam Timetable Brings Big Denial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three senators who met with President Nixon before his Wednesday night speech came away with the impression Nixon plans to withdraw all American troops from Vietnam by the end of 1972.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott quoted Nixon as saying: "I have a date in mind. I have a plan and a timetable for ending the war." He said any withdrawal would have to involve a release of American prisoners of war, however.

Scott said Nixon's plan calls for complete withdrawal of all troops, military advisers and air support before his present term expires.

Assistant Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd said Nixon "did not state a definite date, but I have the very definite impression from what he said that the President has a date in mind. I think there's justification for thinking we'll be out by Dec. 31, 1972."

Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert P. Griffin said Nixon "in a practical sense" set a date for ending the war: "election day, 1972."

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied, however, the President had set a definite date for withdrawal in his briefing with congressional leaders.

"It would be incorrect to say the President has at this time a specific date on which he feels his plan would be completed," Ziegler said.

Nixon specifically said in his speech he would not set a withdrawal deadline. He said only that he would remove an additional 100,000 troops by Dec. 1, lowering the American troop commitment to 184,000.

Scott said, however, the President knew he would discuss the briefing with newsmen, and that Nixon was unmistakably clear about his intentions.

"I am satisfied he has a fixed date for ending the war, except for the caveat of the prisoners of war," Scott said. He said the date might "float" a few days or weeks either way, but there was no doubt of the firmness of the withdrawal deadline.

Scott said Nixon meant a complete and total withdrawal —with no residual forces, no troops, no air support either from within or outside South Vietnam.

A spokesman for peace groups planning mass antiwar rallies in Washington and San Francisco April 24 said the demonstrations would go on as planned.

Several senators expressed disappointment that Nixon did not make a public declaration of a withdrawal deadline, including Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Fall Injures Woman, Hospitalized For Cut

A 26-year-old Corte Madera woman was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital where she was admitted yesterday with a cut on her forehead.

The hospital said Barbara Blair of 239 Corte Madera Avenue, apparently fell at her home at about 7:15 p.m. and struck her head.

Employees Association Defended

Marin County Employees Association is doing an effective job of protecting the rights of its 750 members, the association's general manager declared yesterday.

Francis J. O'Connell spoke at a noon meeting called by the rival American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, which is trying to woo the Marin County employees away from the association.

About 40 county employees heard the debate between O'Connell and Victor Thuesen, representative of AFSCME, which organized the Mill Valley city employees three weeks ago.

Thuesen declared his union, with a nationwide membership of 600,000 has the staff and expertise to bargain effectively for individual needs of various county departments.

"We believe in the right to strike," said Thuesen. "But we are not strike-happy."

In answer to questions from the floor, Thuesen said a strike by the Mill Valley imployees would not bind the county employees, even if both were members of the union.

Thusen announced he is confident he will get the necessary 240 signatures among the 750 members of the Marin County Employees Association to force an election, giving association members a choice of staying with the association or joining the AFL-CIO union.

O'Connell declared that if the employees are not satisfied with the work of MCEA, they should change their board of directors and kick him out as general manager.

Arguments Are Next In Poindexter-Angela Link

NEW YORK (UPI)—The jury in the case of David R. Poindexter will have the long Easter holiday weekend to meditate on the pros and cons of the case of the wealthy Chicagoan charged with harboring fugitive Angela Davis.

U.S. Distrct Judge John M. Cannella dismissed the panel until Monday after the prosecution and defense rested their cases.

Cannella handed the prosecution a serious setback Thursday by strking from the record the testimony of eight government witnesses, most of them members of the news media.

Cannella said the witnesses in question had added "nothing that would be of interest to you in your deliberations."

Poindexter faced charges of "knowingly" harboring Miss Davis, an avowed Communist, after she fled California last August and a federal warrant was issued for her arrest.

The black militant was wanted for trial on kidnap-murder and conspiracy charges in connection with a San Rafael, Calif. courthouse shootout during which four persons died.

A number of witnesses testified that Poindexter had access to newspapers and television sets at the time the search for Miss Davis was publicized. But Cannella said there was no evidence Poindexter used them.

The judge also said assistant U.S. Attorney John H. Hoyle III, failed to prove Poindexter was anywhere near where FBI-flyers indicating Miss Davis was on the "most wanted" list.

Poindexter, 37, who was arrested in New York last October with Miss Davis, faces five years in prison and a $5,000 fine if convicted.

Laws Too Complicated Become Self-Defeating

Laws and regulations that are too difficult to understand are self-defeating.

As a law's intricacies become more and more beyond the grasp of the average citizen, his respect for that law grows less and less. Its enforcement becomes more and more difficult.

Even the most law-abiding is aware that he sometimes trespasses on some of the obscure provisions and court interpretations of the myriad statutes of government. And he may be dimly aware that he likely violates many more regulations that have the force of law through having been adopted by some bureaucratic agency to enforce the intricate laws it administers.

RIGHT NOW, just about everyone over the age of 21 (and some who are younger) is painfully aware of a couple of laws that verge on the limits of understanding: the state and federal income tax laws.

The Internal Revenue Service estimates that about half of the nation's taxpayers this year took their returns to an outsider, generally an income tax preparation service, for help. The rules on what can and cannot be deducted, what must be counted as income and what does not count, were just too much for them.

Having called in an outsider to prepare the return, however, the average citizen still cannot be sure he got the refund to which he was entitled, or paid the tax for which he was legally obligated.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL did an interesting experiment. It sent a reporter with an Atlanta taxpayer to five different income tax preparation offices. He presented each of them the same data. One figured he was due a federal refund of $652.04. Another said he owed the federal government $141. The rest were in between.

Georgia has the withholding system for state income taxes. The refunds the consultants said this taxpayer should have from the state ranged from $181.04 down to $55.

The IRS itself then figured the man's federal tax and found he had a $400.94 refund coming. The Georgia Revenue Department set his state tax refund at $117.80.

The Wall Street Journal story contained this:

"S. Bonsal White Jr., a partner at Alex Brown and Sons, a Baltimore brokerage firm, says a major reason for the (tax preparation service) industry's growth is the growing complexity of tax laws and tax decisions."

THE COMPLEXITY, of course, creates loopholes. That is why, according to Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., 56 persons in the United States legally paid no tax at all on incomes of more than $1 million each in 1969. And a revision of the law last year failed to close all the loopholes, according to Reuss.

Since the California form is modeled after the federal, it contains the same complexities.

Many of the law's intricacies were included in an attempt at equity. But laws and regulations that are too difficult to understand are self-defeating.

Theoretically, a tax on incomes is the most equitable form of taxation. But that is not true with the existing statutes. They are too complicated.

While legislators are debating about "tax reform," it might pay them to look into tax simplification.

Fat, Young Ladybugs

When ladybugs complete the metamorphisis from larvae to adult insect, the newborn ladies are usually quite fat and not very hungry. Thus, they do not go about their work of eating aphids and other small bugs and assorted insect eggs with the zeal and enthusiasm of older, leaner ladybugs.

The ladybugs in our gardens now are reaching the end of their life cycle and all their energies are directed toward eating, so that they will be prolific reproducers.

This is when ladybugs do their best work.

Government Creates Monopoly In More Fields Than One

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Any student pursuing the American way of life cannot be expected to come up with any other conclusion than that the American people are nuts, as he follows inconsistent paths in the laws they make and expect the populace to live by.

For instance, the federal government has laws preventing monopolies, while city governments pass laws granting monopolies.

Anyhow, such must be the conclusion of Sen Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, who recently introduced legislation to prevent cities of more than half a million population from granting monopoly franchises to a single taxicab company.

IN CALIFORNIA'S largest city, says Senator Song, cab service is a "disaster".

"There a single company is the only one permitted to do business. It has just not been able to do the job and as a result, those without cars, including thousands of sick and elderly people, are practically helpless as far as transportation is concerned," he said.

"The inadequacies are the result of having a monopoly. The way to get good service in our free enterprise system is through competition."

The same reasoning might well apply to any of a dozen other businesses which have depended on government protection to maintain monopoly in their fields and cut out competition, to the detriment of the peoples' interests.

THE CALIFORNIA Public Utilities Commission is probably the closest government-financed organization engaging in supervision of monopolies, with its stringent requirements on the transportation business, the moving business, furnishing gas, power and water.

The commission builds its authorities through "public convenience and necessity." But just why five men and a staff of so-called experts should be allowed to determine what is public convenience and necessity would be a mystery to any student of government who did not happen to be aware of the fact that the power companies, the railroads and others of the real sizable concerns governed by the utilities commission are banded together (unofficially, of course) to prevent competition.

AGAIN, THE STUDENT would find we live in a world of anachronisms. For instance, government contributes to the liquor monopoly by allowing the liquor industry to post its own prices, and provides for enforcement of penalties against those who do not observe them.

The liquor industry is probably the worst example of monopolistic price fixing to the detriment of the public, all done of course, for "protection" to the retailer.

Sometime the buyer may come to the conclusion it's time to stop protecting the seller and give the public a break by allowing competition.

But that's a long way off.

Teachers' Roles On Boards Doubted

It is noted that residents of Marin County involved in the teaching profession are running for election to local school boards. It is beyond my comprehension that a teacher who is usually a member of an association or union, can function as an unbaised member of a school board, which sets wages and policies for teachers. I certainly could not see General Motors putting a member of the Auto Workers Union on their management negotiating team.

My Lai Slaughter And Atomic Bomb

I am wondering if those who are now so vehemently condemning Lieutenant Calley as a murderer, and ostentatiously tearing their hair and beating their breasts in anguish over what he allegedly did, have so soon forgotten how many thousands — not just 20 or 30 persons, but tens of thousands — of innocent Japanese women and children we murdered with our atomic bombs, or the 250,000 defenseless Dresden men, women and children who were murdered in a single night by British and American bombs.

So far as I know, no one was ever punished — or even suggested to be tried — for these ghastly slaughters; nor do I recall any media or other campaign directed to that end. Why, then, all this palaver about Lieutenant Calley and the others involved in the My Lai affair? Sherman said, "War is hell;" and Lord Kitchener snorted: "All war is an atrocity!" and it seems to me that by now only an idiot can fail to recognize this. Talk about "civilized" warfare is just so much tommyrot.

I am writing this letter no more to morally excuse what purportedly happened at My Lai than I am to justify what happened in Japan and in Dresden. I am writing simply to urge that we try to be at least a little bit consistent, and not "strain at a gnat to swallow a camel."

Vision Testing Calls For Experts

The ambitious project of the Marin Speech and Hearing Center (March 29, I.J.) to screen pre-school children for speech, hearing and vision problems is to be commended. However, it seems strange to me that specialists will be used to screen for speech and hearing problems, and only trained volunteers (non-professionals) will be used to screen for vision problems.

I wonder what trained volunteers can determine, and how many vision problems will go undetected. How many unsuspecting parents possibly will be given self assurance that their child has no vision or sight problem, when in fact a sight or vision problem may exist?

Many eye specialist and educators are well aware that the human with sight relies on that sight and vision to make 80 per cent of his decisions. Every moment of our waking hours utilize the visual system. For example, try to close your eyes and eat your next meal, read or write a letter, walk around your house.

Yet the Marin Speech and Hearing Center and the Marin County superintendent of schools will give vision and sight testing its least emphasis when they screen for speech, hearing and vision problems.

What vision problems will the "volunteers" be able to uncover or not uncover? Will they determine the multitude of vision and sight problems that do exist? What of the more publicized eye problem, amblyopia (lazy eye)? . . .

Volunteers are to be commended, but can they really solve a major problem of such important magnitude as vision and sight? A professional is needed just as much to screen for vision problems as for hearing and speech problems . . .

Two-Year-Old Report On Traffic

Two years ago when I ran for San Rafael City Council, I talked about the need for more one-way streets, synchronized traffic signals, free parking in the downtown area and creating a shopping mall by closing several blocks of Fourth Street.

I didn't know at that time that the city council had authorized Jackson Faustman, a consulting traffic engineer from Sacramento, to survey the central business district in San Rafael and report on a traffic improvement plan. This survey was authorized in January of 1969. The report was completed and returned to the city council in June of the same year. At this time I would like you to read the introduction of that report.

"Traffic flow in the San Rafael central business district is not satisfactory. Not only is through-traffic between U.S. Highway 101 and the west severly impeded, but local shoppers are discouraged from patronizing the establishments in the central area, traffic moves erratically, congestion and delays are common, turning movements into cross-streets and into parking facilities are difficult and made only under hazardous conditions . . .

"It is apparent from the foregoing that traffic improvements in San Rafael, desirable today, will be essential tomorrow if total traffic stagnation is to be avoided; stagnation which is followed almost invariably by decay and deterioration."

The Faustman report plans for Fifth Avenue to be one-way west, Fourth one-way east. A and C would be one way north, and B and D one-way south . . .

The Faustman report stresses the urgency of doing something now. In two months two years will have passed since this report has been done. If we wait much longer we will have to have another survey before anything is done to solve the problems that exist in San Rafael. We can't afford to continue waiting until tomorrow to solve yesterday's problems.

Protest Over Calley Verdict Reflects Attitude Against War

WASHINGTON — Who would have thought that the jury verdict against Lt. William Calley for the My Lai civilian killings would have united the nation — dove and hawk, pro-Vietnam and anti-Vietnam, pro-Nixon and anti-Nixon in one massive, angry protest? On the surface it must appear that there is some terrifying gap between the conscience of the military jury, which was unanimous against Calley, and the conscience of the American people, who are nearly unanimous in behalf of Calley.

I do not see it that way. I feel the conscience of the jury and the conscience of the nation have much in common.

The military jury, made up not of armchair-generals but of young combat veterans, was appraising the events of My Lai and Calley's part in them, and found he violated the rules of war which he had been taught.

It was an honest and honorable verdict.

The public jury is expressing an equally honest and honorable determination that Lieutenant Calley not be made a lone scapegoat for actions for which he is not alone responsible.

SOME FEEL THAT the decision against Calley will be used to cover up the guilt of others higher in command. Others believe the Calley killings should be totally extenuated by the inevitable brutality of war. A minority contends that My Lai reflects the deliberate policy of Presidents Johnson, Nixon and other high American officials.

The public revulsion against the jury verdict is so instant, so pervasive and so deep it cannot and should not be ignored. It stems from very humanitarian instincts and, in most instances, a determination that everything be brought out before Calley is finally judged.

The fact that 79 per cent of the people dislike the Calley verdict, as reported by Gallup, does not mean that these people like what Calley did. I think this off-the-cuff comment by a 65-year-old retired government employee reflects a very general reaction:

"I don't think that Calley should have done it. But they should go far up in the command to find out where the responsibility lies. That was my first feeling. Then, as you read about it, you sort of feel sorry for the fellow."

WHATEVER THE extenuating circumstances, there can be no condoning of Calley's act. I believe that the public has rallied to Calley's side because the American people are revolted by the brutality of war which television has been putting into the homes of most Americans nearly every night.

I'm not saying that television and its war coverage should be censored in any way. But many Americans, with the TV cameras focused on the battlefield, seem ready to conclude that anything is better than resistance to aggression.

THE PEOPLE of North Vietnam are not horrified apparently by the brutality of war because their government media do not report it. The people of North Vietnam are shown pictures of the 22 civilians slain by Calley at My Lai but they are not allowed to see pictures of the 3,000 South Vietnamese civilians shot in the back in Hue by the North Vietnamese army.

We should realize that no war is without brutality. But there are worse things than the brutal consequences of war. They are the brutal consequences of an independent nation having its independence destroyed by an aggressor.

This does not mean that the United States can shield every harassed country, but it will be a bad day if the American people always shrink from protecting the peace because war is too brutal. War is brutal but leaving the field to an aggressor can be more brutal. We musn't let television disarm us.

It is time to end the American role in Vietnam but let us not do it for the wrong reasons.

Skip The Legal Issues, Count The Calley Mail

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Some people watching from Washington were only kidding a little when they suggested that his visit to Fort Benning to chat with Lt. William Calley was also to inspect the young officer as possible vice presidential candidate material.

The thing that tempted Wallace across the border into Georgia, of course, was the uprising of sentiment against the Calley conviction and life sentence. Anybody who draws that much supporting mail obviously is an attractive person for any politician to have his picture taken with, no matter that he was just found guilty of assassinating at least 22 helpless civilians.

IT'S ALSO THE SORT of thing you would expect from Lester Maddox.

He became governor of Georgia by riding public sentiment, whether or not that had anything to do with morality or decent government.

That part is a little subtle for Wallace and Maddox. Their aptitude is not so much for interpreting mail and sentiment as for merely adding it up. And it adds up to a great outcry against the Establishment, which to hawks of the right means mealy-mouthed political advocates of a "no-win" policy, and to doves of the left means the presidents and generals who allowed us to enter Vietnam in the first place.

Add together all those hawk post cards and dove telegrams and you have a lot of anti-Establishment voters, and that is why Wallace and Maddox climbed upon the stump at that American Legion rally in Columbus and told the folks to keep up their protests. If the pressure is maintained, they said, Mr. Nixon will surely "do the right thing."

BUT IS THAT WHAT we should expect from the President of the United States?

That is what Maddox and Wallace expected; and less than 24 hours after they made their prediction, he proved they understood him well. He announced that he would step in with a final personal review of the military courts' findings, thus making it clear he, like the two Deep South politicians, divined "the right thing" by counting his mail.

Consider what the President's decision means. He is the commander in chief of all the reviewing officers, the power who appoints the judges of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals and the secretary of the Army. At every level of appeal and review he is going to be looking over their shoulders, his prejudice in favor of the defendant already strongly implied. Consider what effect that will have on the appeal and review process.

LESS THAN A WEEK ago, after the court's initial decision and verdict were reached, I was able to write that it had been a cold and objective proceeding — and that only so long as such proceedings are possible can we continue to live under a government of laws, rather than of men. Now that laboriously sustained atmosphere of judicial propriety is shattered.

The most astounding thing about the President's threatened intervention, after the mere fact of it, is the blatancy with which it was stated. John D. Ehrlichman, his domestic policy chief, did the talking. It was one qualified lawyer speaking for another.

Yet Ehrlichman said, flat on the record, that the President was stepping in because the case had "captured the interest of the American people to the degree that it has." As he put it, Mr. Nixon wants to be certain that the Calley verdict will get "another ingredient of review" which weighs more than merely "stark legal issues."

THIS FROM TWO lawyers, mind you, two of the principals in the great law and order crusade of the autumn of 1970. And racing around the country immediately after the announcement, Herbert Klein did his best to weasel their words by denying that Mr. Nixon would make his final decision by consulting public opinion polls. No polls are necessary when the mail shows that the case "has captured the interest of the American people to the degree that it has."

No, it's not what you should expect from the President of the United States. From two tinhorn southern politicians at a Legion rally, perhaps. Or maybe from a Roman emperor. The emperors made life-and-death decisions by gauging the roar of the crowd — thumbs up or thumbs down. But at least they didn't call that a fair trial. They called it a circus.

Laws Too Complicated Become Self-Defeating

Laws and regulations that are too difficult to understand are self-defeating.

As a law's intricacies become more and more beyond the grasp of the average citizen, his respect for that law grows less and less. Its enforcement becomes more and more difficult.

Even the most law-abiding is aware that he sometimes trespasses on some of the obscure provisions and court interpretations of the myriad statutes of government. And he may be dimly aware that he likely violates many more regulations that have the force of law through having been adopted by some bureaucratic agency to enforce the intricate laws it administers.

RIGHT NOW, just about everyone over the age of 21 (and some who are younger) is painfully aware of a couple of laws that verge on the limits of understanding: the state and federal income tax laws.

The Internal Revenue Service estimates that about half of the nation's taxpayers this year took their returns to an outsider, generally an income tax preparation service, for help. The rules on what can and cannot be deducted, what must be counted as income and what does not count, were just too much for them.

Having called in an outsider to prepare the return, however, the average citizen still cannot be sure he got the refund to which he was entitled, or paid the tax for which he was legally obligated.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL did an interesting experiment. It sent a reporter with an Atlanta taxpayer to five different income tax preparation offices. He presented each of them the same data. One figured he was due a federal refund of $652.04. Another said he owed the federal government $141. The rest were in between.

Georgia has the withholding system for state income taxes. The refunds the consultants said this taxpayer should have from the state ranged from $181.04 down to $55.

The IRS itself then figured the man's federal tax and found he had a $400.94 refund coming. The Georgia Revenue Department set his state tax refund at $117.80.

The Wall Street Journal story contained this:

"S. Bonsal White Jr., a partner at Alex Brown and Sons, a Baltimore brokerage firm, says a major reason for the (tax preparation service) industry's growth is the growing complexity of tax laws and tax decisions."

THE COMPLEXITY, of course, creates loopholes. That is why, according to Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., 56 persons in the United States legally paid no tax at all on incomes of more than $1 million each in 1969. And a revision of the law last year failed to close all the loopholes, according to Reuss.

Since the California form is modeled after the federal, it contains the same complexities.

Many of the law's intricacies were included in an attempt at equity. But laws and regulations that are too difficult to understand are self-defeating.

Theoretically, a tax on incomes is the most equitable form of taxation. But that is not true with the existing statutes. They are too complicated.

While legislators are debating about "tax reform," it might pay them to look into tax simplification.

Fat, Young Ladybugs

When ladybugs complete the metamorphisis from larvae to adult insect, the newborn ladies are usually quite fat and not very hungry. Thus, they do not go about their work of eating aphids and other small bugs and assorted insect eggs with the zeal and enthusiasm of older, leaner ladybugs.

The ladybugs in our gardens now are reaching the end of their life cycle and all their energies are directed toward eating, so that they will be prolific reproducers.

This is when ladybugs do their best work.

Government Creates Monopoly In More Fields Than One

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Any student pursuing the American way of life cannot be expected to come up with any other conclusion than that the American people are nuts, as he follows inconsistent paths in the laws they make and expect the populace to live by.

For instance, the federal government has laws preventing monopolies, while city governments pass laws granting monopolies.

Anyhow, such must be the conclusion of Sen Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, who recently introduced legislation to prevent cities of more than half a million population from granting monopoly franchises to a single taxicab company.

IN CALIFORNIA'S largest city, says Senator Song, cab service is a "disaster".

"There a single company is the only one permitted to do business. It has just not been able to do the job and as a result, those without cars, including thousands of sick and elderly people, are practically helpless as far as transportation is concerned," he said.

"The inadequacies are the result of having a monopoly. The way to get good service in our free enterprise system is through competition."

The same reasoning might well apply to any of a dozen other businesses which have depended on government protection to maintain monopoly in their fields and cut out competition, to the detriment of the peoples' interests.

THE CALIFORNIA Public Utilities Commission is probably the closest government-financed organization engaging in supervision of monopolies, with its stringent requirements on the transportation business, the moving business, furnishing gas, power and water.

The commission builds its authorities through "public convenience and necessity." But just why five men and a staff of so-called experts should be allowed to determine what is public convenience and necessity would be a mystery to any student of government who did not happen to be aware of the fact that the power companies, the railroads and others of the real sizable concerns governed by the utilities commission are banded together (unofficially, of course) to prevent competition.

AGAIN, THE STUDENT would find we live in a world of anachronisms. For instance, government contributes to the liquor monopoly by allowing the liquor industry to post its own prices, and provides for enforcement of penalties against those who do not observe them.

The liquor industry is probably the worst example of monopolistic price fixing to the detriment of the public, all done of course, for "protection" to the retailer.

Sometime the buyer may come to the conclusion it's time to stop protecting the seller and give the public a break by allowing competition.

But that's a long way off.

Parade Of Broken Promises Brings Anger To Marin City

Persons who attend meetings in Marin City for the first time are often surprised at the anger exhibited by some residents, particularly if the discussion turns to community development.

Even a cursory look at the brief history of the southern Marin community will show ample reasons for that anger.

For 15 years the residents have been inundated with plans and proposals for transforming Marin City into a complete suburban community. For 15 years these same residents have been disappointed when the grand schemes failed to materialize.

And residents have found, through frustration and bitter experience, that a community without the tax base that development brings is a community without power, dependent on the crumbs that happen to fall from rich, developed areas.

THE LIST OF BROKEN promises is appalling and is reason for the chagrin one sees at meetings. In 1958, for example, Marin County Redevelopment Agency borrowed $1,500,000 from the federal government to pay for construction of streets, sewers, etc.

To get the loan, the redevelopment agency had to promise $778,000 in local funds or contributions. The promises of assistance were relative easy to obtain. Getting the local contributors to make good on their promises is another matter.

As part of the local share, Sausalito School District promised to build an elementary school in Marin City. Ten years later no school is even contemplated for the area and the school district is giving serious thought to closing the community's only school, Manzanita.

As part of the same agreement, Tamalpais High School District vowed to build a high school in Marin City. To date, nothing has come of the agreement.

ABOUT THE SAME time the County of Marin pledged to build a police and fire station to replace the shack and trailer which served 6 (inadequately even then). Recently, county supervisors approved plans for the long-awaited complex, ironically at a time when the fire station may no longer be necessary.

Marin City is included in a study on consolidating all fire protection in southern Marin into one department. The study will show, among other things, the most efficient locations for substations; Marin City may not be among them.

FOR SEVEN YEARS California Development Co. had sole rights to development in Marin City. It made glowing promises of what it would accomplish. Despite the fact the company failed to perform, the Marin County Redevelopment Agency granted it six extensions. After all that time Cal Development left Marin City last year.

Now the Marin Urban Development Association is seeking exclusive development rights to lands in Marin City, and Wallace K. Shepherd, new head of the redevelopment agency, is dealing with several private developers who have expressed interest in purchasing some or all of the choicer lands.

Conflict has developed because the urban development association resents the fact other developers are being brought in.

The question of who will develop Marin City remains unanswered, but one thing is certain: Any developer coming into the community had best not make promises that can't be kept.

Marin City residents are tired — understandably so — of promises. They want results and are determined to get them.

Marin Landlords Found Distrustful Of Young People

By SPENCER SIAS

It occurred to me that this is the fourth house that I have lived in in less than a year. I haven't been back in this county for a year yet.

The main reason that this thought moved in on me is that the extent of my stay in this present dwelling is looking a bit short. Am I being treated unjustly by landlords, neighbors, or, just plain Karma? The way I look at it, no. At least that's the way the prevailing laws blow and everybody knows that you don't fight the laws, you sail with them.

This isn't to say that I haven't encountered some pretty bleak facts concerning being young and trying to rent a house from a Marin landowner.

THERE IS A VARIETY of landlords in Marin, but if I had to generalize about them, things would be generally bad.

Most of them regard me with immediate distrust at my inquiries regarding their houses and fidget while trying to "politely" get rid of me. It seems that while they want me to have respect for them and their property and whatever else they value, they infer perhaps by my lackadaisical way of dressing and my youth a lack of responsibility and trust. It was at the end of a six-month looking stage when I reached such a sense of unsettled security as to make a decision which showed me another kind of landlord.

Two of us agreed to pay $145 a month for a one room kitchen-bathroom bottom of a house through which winter rain flowed freely from the hill behind. The rent, we could pay, but the river was too much. We built a wall diverting the stream to the outside of the house. It was free of charge to the landlord and a remarkable improvement to his property. When he noted it, he told us not to expect anything for it because he had not told us we could do it.

But then, he didn't really care about the property or the condition of living it offered the people within. It was sliding down the hill and he was trying to sell it before it got to the bottom. As far as I know he is still trying to sell it, and it is still sliding down the hill.

When it came time to move out for a much more economical price and my own room, I felt that I had left his place in better shape than when I came. He agreed, but when it came time for him to pay back the cleaning deposit he nicked off $2 for the ad it took to fill the place. He made us pay the price of his filling his place again.

PUTTING THINGS aside for a moment, there are a few landlords running for the board of trustees of this college (Marin Junior College District - editor) and I would like to know how some of these candidates feel about adequate student housing in this county.

One observation that I have made regarding the general county feeling towards young people's housing, is the town anti-commune laws. The high rents force students to pool their small amounts of money for one house.

This has a way of keeping newcomers out of the county. It also seems to indicate an aversion on the part of certain segments of this population to students or the younger citizens of a different nature than their own.

When people say that money is powerful they are right. Money is the chief value around here. It takes priority over the ideal of learning. That must mean that we learn to make money.

IT SEEMS THAT there is a dark cloud of distortion obscuring the bright promise of the American educational system. What ever happened to learning as an end in itself?

Letters Show Public Concern Over Happenings At Brasilia

There's a slow burn going on in the minds of the folks who are paying the bill for the performance on the third floor, north, of the administration building out at Brasilia. Make no mistake about it. Better look behind you, you eight performers.

Witness: In my mail (among other messages of concern about the action) this: One reader of the column sent me a clipping from the I-J of March 26, quoting the county administrator as saying that "he had received a half a dozen letters addressed to the county supervisors, accusing them of passing an ordinance (about communes.)."

The reader had heard about Alan Bruce editing all mail addressed to the board from department heads, often sending letters back to be rewritten to his liking, before he would present them. The reader asked why he was permitted to open letters from the public which were addressed to the supervisors — why such letters didn't go directly to the board members or to the secretaries? Good question! It shouldn't be too much of an effort for them to open and read their mail first.

THE FOLLOWING came to me in the same mail. it was from a gentleman who lives in southern Marin — a professional man, highly respected in San Francisco where he has his firm:

"I have lived in Marin a good many years. . . Consequently, I read your 'County Comment' with especial interest. I now write you concerning your column of 26 March, in which you detail some of the shenanigans of the county administrator. I don't know this man, but have watched his operations for some time; and have been appalled — and alarmed — by his continual grasping for more and more power, and the fact that there seems to be no real disposition or effort to restrain him.I remember Lord Acton's dictum that 'all power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely.' I also remember that Patrick Henry bitterly opposed Virginia's ratification of the Constitution because, said he (I quote from memory): 'It puts a check upon the Congress and the President, but none whatsoever upon the Supreme Court.' And he thundered, 'Who or what, I ask you, is to restrain the Supreme Court!' "

"Perhaps the county administrator is, like the Supreme Court, beyond restraint; if so, he is a dangerous man.

"HOW WAS HIS office created? Was it solely by act of the supervisors, or did the people vote on it? If it was by act of the supervisors, one would assume that the power to restrain the occupant resides in them. but if that be the case, why do they permit him to play the role of tyrant?"

He asked me to comment in the column. This I will do. It fits into the planned review that I promised. Sixty per cent of those voting on a charter proposal, which would have made the administrator supreme, voted NO.

Parade Of Broken Promises Brings Anger To Marin City

Persons who attend meetings in Marin City for the first time are often surprised at the anger exhibited by some residents, particularly if the discussion turns to community development.

Even a cursory look at the brief history of the southern Marin community will show ample reasons for that anger.

For 15 years the residents have been inundated with plans and proposals for transforming Marin City into a complete suburban community. For 15 years these same residents have been disappointed when the grand schemes failed to materialize.

And residents have found, through frustration and bitter experience, that a community without the tax base that development brings is a community without power, dependent on the crumbs that happen to fall from rich, developed areas.

THE LIST OF BROKEN promises is appalling and is reason for the chagrin one sees at meetings. In 1958, for example, Marin County Redevelopment Agency borrowed $1,500,000 from the federal government to pay for construction of streets, sewers, etc.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Restaurateur Galli Celebrating 51st Anniversary In Business

At long last I believe I have pinpointed the senior restaurateur of Marin County.

Previously I thought this might be Joe Ghiringhelli of Deer Park Villa in Fairfax, who chalked up his 50th year in the county in March. But I am sorry, Joe — there is someone who beats you by e l e v e n months. That is Salvatore Galli, whose 51st anniversary is this month. (If there are any other contestants for the title, please state your case.)

Sal Galli did not open his first Marin restaurant at the present Ignacio location — although he originally tried for that very spot. But the property was leased out, so he had to pass it up for five years. Meanwhile in 1920, he set himself up a few miles south at the former Two Mile Inn and bided his time. This was in the Terra Linda area, not much more than a stone's throw across the creek from where Holiday Inn is now.

It was Sal's first restaurant operation, but not his first food venture. Before World War I he had operated Galli Food Co., a produce firm in San Francisco, and still earlier in the century he had run a grocery store for a while on Ross Avenue, San Anselmo. The Galli family had owned the old Toscano Hotel in San Francisco.

Eventually Galli's in Ignacio became widely known for its sumptuous Italian dinners — a reputation it holds this day. Sal has eased up from full responsibility for the operation and son Frank now handles this capably. Following the pattern set by his father, Frank found himself involved in the restaurant b u s i n e s s when he was discharged from the service after World War II.

And Galli's has become firmly entrenched in Marin history. If it is in fact the oldest family-operated restaurant in the county — our hearty congratulations.

Galli's will be open for Easter dinner on Sunday, starting at 3:30 p.m. Regular menu will be served — in its usual substantial fashion.

EASTER MENUS are beckoning diners-out for this weekend and though not much ado has been made about it this year, Sunday does bode well for most Marin restaurants staying open.

Bill and Adolph's West End Villa for its first time in almost five years will serve an Easter brunch from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Eggs Benedict and popular Sunday combinations will be the bill of fare.

Dinners will be served from 2:30. Look for prime rib, steak, leg of lamb, roast duck, chicken and Australian lobster tails and other s e l e c t e d entrees. A youngster's menu of chicken or prime rib will be available.

The impression that West End is behind the Marin County Civic Center food operation still seems to exist in many quarters. There never was a connection. Camille Bamatter and Don Giovanoni used to work for Bill B i s s o n at West End as chefs, then decided to try on their own for the Civic Center concession and got it. Bill was not in the deal.

HOLIDAY INN in Terra Linda will serve Easter dinner, of course. But innkeeper Jim Stuart also plans a champagne brunch in the Alta Loma Room from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The same will hold true for Mother's Day next month.

LE TONNEAU at Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera is serving both brunch and dinner this Easter Sunday. Brunch is from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; dinner is from 4 p.m.

All popular egg dishes — Benedict, Hawaiian omelets and other combinations will be offered for the early meal. Regular menu plus s p r i n g leg of lamb will be featured on the dinner.

Sometime make it a point to be at Le Tonneau on a Thurday, Friday or Saturday night when you can listen to Nancy Valencia on the Baldwin organ. She starts playing at 9 p.m. and after dinner you may just be inclined to tarry and join the group at the organ bar.

AFTER A NUMBER of changes recently at the Cat 'n' Fiddle in Sausalito, Tom Siddle is out and new owner David J. Lawless is in. Tom, I understand, is still in Sausalito.

Hours have been changed and are now from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. Lunches are served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. when a $1.75 merchants special is featured. Dinners are served from 6 to 11 p.m. Menu has been revised and runs more to steaks and chops, though there is a mixed grill still featured. Top price (a la carte) is $3.50.

Decor is the same — and so is the n a m e , but that may be changed before long.

THE HAUFBRAU HOUSE at 4200 Redwood Highway opposite Terra Linda has now changed hands. New owner, a corporation by the name of T C and C Associates, Inc. has taken over from Don McLaughlin and Peggy De Mars. Principals are Emitt J. Taylor, William D. Canary and Charles W. Cowan, all of San Francisco. Taylor and Canary will operate much the same as Don and Peggy did.

However the place is closed until Monday for remodeling. Name will remain the same as probably will the menu. But hours have been changed (now 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. M o n d a y s through Saturdays for lunch and dinner). There will be a wine and beer license.

Don McLaughlin is now working at McKee's in San Rafael.

ANOTHER PLACE NEARBY, with a l m o s t the same name, Der Hof Brau Haus, recently opened at 276 Northgate Shopping Center Unit One. It now has received its on sale wine and beer license. Owners are Bruce and Jo Ann Rosen, who conduct a combined self-service restaurant and delicatessen. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT and tomorrow night at The Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile features The Loading Zone and The Sorry Muthas.

SPEAKING OF ENTERTAINMENT, no less than 30 Marin dineries provide some form of it more or less regularly — usually on weekends. Some have it on other evenings or through the week.

These are: Alvarado Inn, Ancient Mariner, Bernard's Executive Lounge, Black Point Inn, Blue Rock Inn, C a l ' s Steak House, Deck House, Deer Park Villa, The Dock, Fondue Pot (Corte Madera), Gary's, Holiday Inn, Le Tonneau, Lin Fa Gardens, London Arms, Nero's, Ramona's, Rancho Nicasio, Rubini's, Sabella's, San Rafael Joe's, Shipwreck Pete's, Spiros' Red Vest, Taberna, Thirty Nine Main, Tiburon Lodge, Tio Mario's, Villa Rafael, the Windjammer and Z a c k ' s — not to mention the cocktail lounges that also feature music and a few restaurants that provide it occasionally.

New College Grads Eschew The System

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A college diploma has traditionally opened the door to America's "better" jobs and executive washrooms.

But many of today's college graduates want no part of big corporations, big cars and big salaries. They would rather keep the long hair and free life styles of their youth.

They want jobs where they can serve others and keep their identity. And some yearn to escape the "system" by setting up their own small businesses.

Sacramento State College—along with many other schools—is meeting this demand with a new service at the college placement center where future managers have made their start.

Run by an attractive 30-year-old graduate art student, "New Life Vocations" helps this new kind of student.

"We specialize in alternative careers," says Peg Decious, the tall brunette who began the program a year ago.

"It attempts to provide a student with the kind of counseling and resources information that will help him take another look at his life style and perhaps make some changes that will put him on a more comfortable course."

"Most students come to see me out of curiosity," she explains. "They are about to graduate and are suddenly struck with the terror of having to leave college, put on a suit and play the game ... After talking for a while we get around to what kind of life they'd like to lead if they had their wish."

"It's often hard to get these students to admit that the pattern that their parents have so proudly programmed for them isn't the answer. But once we get down to it, it's really exciting to see the look of freedom they get on their faces."

Why was the program set up?

"It was needed because we realized we weren't serving certain groups of people. We weren't serving the hip community. Why would they want to come in here and talk to General Motors?"

Miss Decious talks to about 80 students a month. Some of them are just exploring possibilities for the future, others have chosen the hip life style and want to know how they can keep it and earn a living. "They're committed to living on less money, they don't want to be consumers anymore."

Some have chosen the straight life and want out.

"I had an accountant come in once," relates Miss Decious. "He liked his work, but he just couldn't stand working with accountants anymore."

The center gave him some ideas on "specializing in accounting for hip firms and the last we heard he was in the San Francisco Bay Area doing fine.

What kind of jobs does the center help students find? One apprenticed himself to a chef and has set up a catering business. Miss Decious herself is growing vegetables to sell. Others become teachers in free schools, carpenters, set up small auto repair or pottery shops, or go to work in halfway houses or other social service institutions.

Literature in the area is extensive, and includes a special magazine entitled "Vocations for Social Change."

"It's getting to be a big thing," says Miss Decious. "It's not a free thing or a whim anymore. In order to have the life style we want we have to go at it in a million different ways."

How much can the "new life" people earn? The pay ranges from mere subsistence to $24,000 a year offered for a physician to run a cooperative clinic in Marianna, Ark.

Miss Decious emphasizes that the center is more than a job bureau. While it puts students in contact with jobs, it also tries to teach them how to find their own.

"We try to get them in the happiest spot possible," she explains. "I'm not going to plan their lives for them. I try to help them think."

"What most of these people needed was a little encouragement, some examples that it can be done and the realization that a college degree does not necessarily lead to a management position at a department store."

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Restaurateur Galli Celebrating 51st Anniversary In Business

At long last I believe I have pinpointed the senior restaurateur of Marin County.

Previously I thought this might be Joe Ghiringhelli of Deer Park Villa in Fairfax, who chalked up his 50th year in the county in March. But I am sorry, Joe — there is someone who beats you by eleven months. That is Salvatore Galli, whose 51st anniversary is this month. (If there are any other contestants for the title, please state your case.)

Sal Galli did not open his first Marin restaurant at the present Ignacio location — although he originally tried for that very spot. But the property was leased out, so he had to pass it up for five years. Meanwhile in 1920, he set himself up a few miles south at the former Two Mile Inn and bided his time. This was in the Terra Linda area, not much more than a stone's throw across the creek from where Holiday Inn is now.

It was Sal's first restaurant operation, but not his first food venture. Before World War I he had operated Galli Food Co., a produce firm in San Francisco, and still earlier in the century he had run a grocery store for a while on Ross Avenue, San Anselmo. The Galli family had owned the old Toscano Hotel in San Francisco.

Eventually Galli's in Ignacio became widely known for its sumptuous Italian dinners — a reputation it holds this day. Sal has eased up from full responsibility for the operation and son Frank now handles this capably. Following the pattern set by his father, Frank found himself involved in the restaurant business when he was discharged from the service after World War II.

And Galli's has become firmly entrenched in Marin history. If it is in fact the oldest family-operated restaurant in the county — our hearty congratulations.

Galli's will be open for Easter dinner on Sunday, starting at 3:30 p.m. Regular menu will be served — in its usual substantial fashion.

EASTER MENUS are beckoning diners-out for this weekend and though not much ado has been made about it this year, Sunday does bode well for most Marin restaurants staying open.

Bill and Adolph's West End Villa for its first time in almost five years will serve an Easter brunch from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Eggs Benedict and popular Sunday combinations will be the bill of fare.

Dinners will be served from 2:30. Look for prime rib, steak, leg of lamb, roast duck, chicken and Australian lobster tails and other selected entrees. A youngster's menu of chicken or prime rib will be available.

The impression that West End is behind the Marin County Civic Center food operation still seems to exist in many quarters. There never was a connection. Camille Bamatter and Don Giovanoni used to work for Bill Bisson at West End as chefs, then decided to try on their own for the Civic Center concession and got it. Bill was not in the deal.

HOLIDAY INN in Terra Linda will serve Easter dinner, of course. But innkeeper Jim Stuart also plans a champagne brunch in the Alta Loma Room from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The same will hold true for Mother's Day next month.

LE TONNEAU at Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera is serving both brunch and dinner this Easter Sunday. Brunch is from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; dinner is from 4 p.m.

All popular egg dishes — Benedict, Hawaiian omelets and other combinations will be offered for the early meal. Regular menu plus spring leg of lamb will be featured on the dinner.

Sometime make it a point to be at Le Tonneau on a Thursday, Friday or Saturday night when you can listen to Nancy Valencia on the Baldwin organ. She starts playing at 9 p.m. and after dinner you may just be inclined to tarry and join the group at the organ bar.

AFTER A NUMBER of changes recently at the Cat 'n' Fiddle in Sausalito, Tom Siddle is out and new owner David J. Lawless is in. Tom, I understand, is still in Sausalito.

Hours have been changed and are now from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. Lunches are served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. when a $1.75 merchants special is featured. Dinners are served from 6 to 11 p.m. Menu has been revised and runs more to steaks and chops, though there is a mixed grill still featured. Top price (a la carte) is $3.50.

Decor is the same — and so is the name, but that may be changed before long.

THE HAUFBRAU HOUSE at 4200 Redwood Highway opposite Terra Linda has now changed hands. New owner, a corporation by the name of T C and C Associates, Inc. has taken over from Don McLaughlin and Peggy De Mars. Principals are Emitt J. Taylor, William D. Canary and Charles W. Cowan, all of San Francisco. Taylor and Canary will operate much the same as Don and Peggy did.

However the place is closed until Monday for remodeling. Name will remain the same as probably will the menu. But hours have been changed (now 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays for lunch and dinner). There will be a wine and beer license.

Don McLaughlin is now working at McKee's in San Rafael.

ANOTHER PLACE NEARBY, with almost the same name, Der Hof Brau Haus, recently opened at 276 Northgate Shopping Center Unit One. It now has received its on sale wine and beer license. Owners are Bruce and Jo Ann Rosen, who conduct a combined self-service restaurant and delicatessen. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT and tomorrow night at The Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile features The Loading Zone and The Sorry Muthas.

SPEAKING OF ENTERTAINMENT, no less than 30 Marin dineries provide some form of it more or less regularly — usually on weekends. Some have it on other evenings or through the week.

These are: Alvarado Inn, Ancient Mariner, Bernard's Executive Lounge, Black Point Inn, Blue Rock Inn, Cal's Steak House, Deck House, Deer Park Villa, The Dock, Fondue Pot (Corte Madera), Gary's, Holiday Inn, Le Tonneau, Lin Fa Gardens, London Arms, Nero's, Ramona's, Rancho Nicasio, Rubini's, Sabella's, San Rafael Joe's, Shipwreck Pete's, Spiros' Red Vest, Taberna, Thirty Nine Main, Tiburon Lodge, Tio Mario's, Villa Rafael, the Windjammer and Zack's — not to mention the cocktail lounges that also feature music and a few restaurants that provide it occasionally.

Marin City Council Cancels Meeting

Last night's scheduled meeting of the Marin City Council was cancelled when only three of the council's members showed up.

The council had been scheduled to hold a discussion of police and community relations.

New College Grads Eschew The System

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A college diploma has traditionally opened the door to America's "better" jobs and executive washrooms.

But many of today's college graduates want no part of big corporations, big cars and big salaries. They would rather keep the long hair and free life styles of their youth.

They want jobs where they can serve others and keep their identity. And some yearn to escape the "system" by setting up their own small businesses.

Sacramento State College—along with many other schools—is meeting this demand with a new service at the college placement center where future managers have made their start.

Run by an attractive 30-year-old graduate art student, "New Life Vocations" helps this new kind of student.

"We specialize in alternative careers," says Peg Decious, the tall brunette who began the program a year ago.

"It attempts to provide a student with the kind of counseling and resources information that will help him take another look at his life style and perhaps make some changes that will put him on a more comfortable course."

"Most students come to see me out of curiosity," she explains. "They are about to graduate and are suddenly struck with the terror of having to leave college, put on a suit and play the game ... After talking for a while we get around to what kind of life they'd like to lead if they had their wish."

"It's often hard to get these students to admit that the pattern that their parents have so proudly programmed for them isn't the answer. But once we get down to it, it's really exciting to see the look of freedom they get on their faces."

Why was the program set up?

"It was needed because we realized we weren't serving certain groups of people. We weren't serving the hip community. Why would they want to come in here and talk to General Motors?"

Miss Decious talks to about 80 students a month. Some of them are just exploring possibilities for the future, others have chosen the hip life style and want to know how they can keep it and earn a living. "They're committed to living on less money, they don't want to be consumers anymore."

Some have chosen the straight life and want out.

"I had an accountant come in once," relates Miss Decious. "He liked his work, but he just couldn't stand working with accountants anymore."

The center gave him some ideas on "specializing in accounting for hip firms and the last we heard he was in the San Francisco Bay Area doing fine.

What kind of jobs does the center help students find? One apprenticed himself to a chef and has set up a catering business. Miss Decious herself is growing vegetables to sell. Others become teachers in free schools, carpenters, set up small auto repair or pottery shops, or go to work in halfway houses or other social service institutions.

Literature in the area is extensive, and includes a special magazine entitled "Vocations for Social Change."

"It's getting to be a big thing," says Miss Decious. "It's not a free thing or a whim anymore. In order to have the life style we want we have to go at it in a million different ways."

How much can the "new life" people earn? The pay ranges from mere subsistence to $24,000 a year offered for a physician to run a cooperative clinic in Marianna, Ark.

Miss Decious emphasizes that the center is more than a job bureau. While it puts students in contact with jobs, it also tries to teach them how to find their own.

"We try to get them in the happiest spot possible," she explains. "I'm not going to plan their lives for them. I try to help them think."

"What most of these people needed was a little encouragement, some examples that it can be done and the realization that a college degree does not necessarily lead to a management position at a department store."

Mrs. Posner Exonerated

New evidence exonerates Natalie K. Posner, Marin's public health educator, who was accused last month of possible fraud for working in two counties at the same time.

On March 18, Marin Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported possible fraud because time sheets from Contra Costa County showed Mrs. Posner had worked eight hours in both counties on the same day.

Today, Mitchell said he had learned that the Contra Costa County Health Department had asked Mrs. Posner to report her time for hours other than those she had actually worked in order to qualify for subvention aid for the drug abuse program. Mrs. Posner worked part-time in Contra Costa for the drug abuse program.

"A subsidiary and detailed time record maintained by Mrs. Posner was recently given to me," said Mitchell. "We have reviewed this record and find that it is not in conflict with the hours worked in Marin County.

"I am therefore concluding that there has been no wrong doing by Mrs. Posner. I must, however, criticize the Contra Costa County Health Department for in effect asking an employee to juggle the records even though the total time paid by Contra Costa County coincides with the hours worked on a second set of books."

Firemen Set Campaign On New Station

Rallying behind a $240,000 bond issue for a new fire station, the Mill Valley Association of Volunteer Firemen last night set a special meeting next week to discuss ways of promoting the bonds.

President Guy Rockey III said the volunteers will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the firehouse to determine how they will support the bond issue, which goes to the voters June 29 as part of a $1.8 million capital improvements package.

Possible support by volunteers, he said, could include hiring a professional to promote the bond issue and organizing a mailing campaign.

Insulin Pioneers

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Although insulin was discovered in Canada, 90 per cent of it is used in Danish-researched formulas. The business paper Boersen says Denmark supplies an important part of the world's insulin and is known as a pioneer in insulin research.

Bomb Explodes In Courthouse At Fresno

FRESNO (UPI)—Office workers on the seventh floor of the Fresno County Courthouse were evacuated Thursday after a bomb blew up in the men's restroom.

Several office workers were at their desks in adjoining rooms when the blast occurred but no one was injured.

Undersheriff Jim Long said the explosive, which was apparently located in a toilet bowl, blew a small hole through a wall into the adjoining office where 14 probation officials were working.

No suspect was taken into custody.

Collins Selected For Task Force

Dr. James A. Collins, superintendent of the Mill Valley School District, will participate in a task force formed by state Supt. of Public Instruction Wilson Riles to develop a master plan for early childhood education in California.

The task force, to hold its first meeting April 23 in Sacramento, will assess current plans and curricula for preschool programs and kindergarten and grades 1 through 3.

Nod On Tentative Subdivision Map

The tentative map for the future 58-acre Holiday Park subdivision was approved last night by the Cotati Planning Commission.

The plan by Forhim Corp. includes 226 single-family homes, 17 duplex lots, two lots for garden apartments and a commercial lot.

The commission also gave permission to construct four model homes, park facilities, a sales office and parking lot on the future Larkspur Court off East Cotati Avenue. The commission asked that an additional two lots be dedicated for park use, but the developers balked saying that more than eight acres had already been designated for park usage.

In other matters, the commission heard complaints about the plans of Kenneth Garner to build a duplex on School Street, west of Maple Avenue. Residents complained that it would set a precedent for other builders and endanger open space and the country flavor of the area. The commission also heard fears of parking and traffic problems.

Since Garner was not present, the commission delayed its decision until the April 22 meeting.

Historic Command

DEER PARK, Tex. (UPI)—Arthur G. Taylor, 49, a retired Coast Guard officer, has been named to command the Battleship Texas, which has been berthed as a state historical monument at the San Jacinto battlegrounds for 23 years.

False Arrest Victim Wins $750 Award

BERKELEY (UPI) —A woman falsely arrested during the People's Park Riot two years ago has been awarded $750 in damages.

She was arrested May 24, 1969, along with 481 other persons assembled at the Center Street parking lot.

The city will have to pay $500 in compensatory damages, and the arresting officer was instructed to provide the $250 in punitive damages.

"People's Park" rioting started when police drove street people from a vacant lot that had converted into a volunteer park.

Mrs. Posner Exonerated

New evidence exonerates Natalie K. Posner, Marin's public health educator, who was accused last month of possible fraud for working in two counties at the same time.

On March 18, Marin Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported possible fraud because time sheets from Contra Costa County showed Mrs. Posner had worked eight hours in both counties on the same day.

Today, Mitchell said he had learned that the Contra Costa County Health Department had asked Mrs. Posner to report her time for hours other than those she had actually worked in order to qualify for subvention aid for the drug abuse program. Mrs. Posner worked part-time in Contra Costa for the drug abuse program.

"A subsidiary and detailed time record maintained by Mrs. Posner was recently given to me," said Mitchell. "We have reviewed this record and find that it is not in conflict with the hours worked in Marin County.

"I am therefore concluding that there has been no wrong doing by Mrs. Posner. I must, however, criticize the Contra Costa County Health Department for in effect asking an employee to juggle the records even though the total time paid by Contra Costa County coincides with the hours worked on a second set of books."

Firemen Set Campaign On New Station

Rallying behind a $240,000 bond issue for a new fire station, the Mill Valley Association of Volunteer Firemen last night set a special meeting next week to discuss ways of promoting the bonds.

President Guy Rockey III said the volunteers will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the firehouse to determine how they will support the bond issue, which goes to the voters June 29 as part of a $1.8 million capital improvements package.

Possible support by volunteers, he said, could include hiring a professional to promote the bond issue and organizing a mailing campaign.

Insulin Pioneers

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Although insulin was discovered in Canada, 90 per cent of it is used in Danish-researched formulas. The business paper Boersen says Denmark supplies an important part of the world's insulin and is known as a pioneer in insulin research.

Bomb Explodes In Courthouse At Fresno

FRESNO (UPI)—Office workers on the seventh floor of the Fresno County Courthouse were evacuated Thursday after a bomb blew up in the men's restroom.

Several office workers were at their desks in adjoining rooms when the blast occurred but no one was injured.

Undersheriff Jim Long said the explosive, which was apparently located in a toilet bowl, blew a small hole through a wall into the adjoining office where 14 probation officials were working.

No suspect was taken into custody.

Collins Selected For Task Force

Dr. James A. Collins, superintendent of the Mill Valley School District, will participate in a task force formed by state Supt. of Public Instruction Wilson Riles to develop a master plan for early childhood education in California.

The task force, to hold its first meeting April 23 in Sacramento, will assess current plans and curricula for preschool programs and kindergarten and grades 1 through 3.

Nod On Tentative Subdivision Map

The tentative map for the future 58-acre Holiday Park subdivision was approved last night by the Cotati Planning Commission.

The plan by Forhim Corp. includes 226 single-family homes, 17 duplex lots, two lots for garden apartments and a commercial lot.

The commission also gave permission to construct four model homes, park facilities, a sales office and parking lot on the future Larkspur Court off East Cotati Avenue. The commission asked that an additional two lots be dedicated for park use, but the developers balked saying that more than eight acres had already been designated for park usage.

In other matters, the commission heard complaints about the plans of Kenneth Garner to build a duplex on School Street, west of Maple Avenue. Residents complained that it would set a precedent for other builders and endanger open space and the country flavor of the area. The commission also heard fears of parking and traffic problems.

Since Garner was not present, the commission delayed its decision until the April 22 meeting.

Historic Command

DEER PARK, Tex. (UPI)—Arthur G. Taylor, 49, a retired Coast Guard officer, has been named to command the Battleship Texas, which has been berthed as a state historical monument at the San Jacinto battlegrounds for 23 years.

False Arrest Victim Wins $750 Award

BERKELEY (UPI) —A woman falsely arrested during the People's Park Riot two years ago has been awarded $750 in damages.

She was arrested May 24, 1969, along with 481 other persons assembled at the Center Street parking lot.

The city will have to pay $500 in compensatory damages, and the arresting officer was instructed to provide the $250 in punitive damages.

"People's Park" rioting started when police drove street people from a vacant lot that had converted into a volunteer park.

Law Governing Information On Mental Patients Draws Attack

State law prohibiting disclosure of information about mental patients is hampering law enforcement and should be amended.

That recommendation, along with 14 others, was released yesterday by the health and hospital committee section of the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury report.

According to the committee, headed by Roberta Erlandsen of San Rafael, the confidentiality clause of the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act "seems to have resulted in the lessening of the security of the general public."

The committee reported it has arranged for mental health officials to meet with law officers in order to resolve the conflict.

Other recommendations suggest improved communications with county law enforcement and health agencies, verification by the center of patients' financial status before setting fees, improvement of its referral service, referral of disturbed county prisoners to state facilities unless a secure area can be provided at the center and improved staff identification.

"An open and informal atmosphere is maintained with the center staff, adopting a casual dress policy," the report says. "At times this atmosphere conflicts with a need for greater security involving certain patients.

This particularly applies to patients who are brought to the center for treatment as an emergency measure, the report states. "At such times, staff are difficult to identify and the admissions procedure becomes cumbersome."

The county's public health department, whose director, Dr. Carolyn Albrecht is under fire from County Administrator Alan Bruce for mismanagement, is understaffed in certain divisions, the committee found.

Among those understaffed, the report says, is the controversial venereal disease clinic in San Rafael which should be expanded to include a full-time health educator, "along with adequate clinical personnel."

Since 1961, the VD laboratory staff has had the same professional personnel and physical space and the clinic staff has been increased by 50 per cent. During the same period, the report continues, patient visits have increased 854 per cent.

"In the month of August 1970, more patients were interviewed at the clinic than in the entire year of 1961," the report adds.

The report also says more health officers should be employed for the environmental health division charged with maintaining a healthful environment in Marin.

These officers should be deputized to issue misdemeanor citations in order to better control pollution and the health and safety regulations, the report states.

"A study should be made to determine whether some of the complaint work now handled by the Division of Environmental Health should be properly assumed or partially financed by the cities. . ." it adds.

Other health department recommendations include the inauguration of a training program in VD education for teachers and expansion of VD facilities at the Fourth Street and Grand Avenue office in San Rafael.

The county's medical department was urged to initiate a study to determine the number of fraudulent claims for medical assistance and establish a program to verify the identity of applicants.

In review of the county's community mental health service department, the report says there appears to be a need for an alcohol and drug detoxification center and rehabilitation facilities.

On Marin General Hospital, the report states the hospital should conform to the rules established by the county in determining whether a patient meets the indigency eligibility requirement for county aid.

". . . there continues to be an increase in the number of patients' bills being forwarded from the hospital to the County Medical Department for payment and the guidelines used by the hospital in deciding an individual's eligibility for medical aid are less stringent than those used by the (county) medical department," the report concludes.

Besides Miss Erlandsen, the health and hospital committee included Martin O'Brien Jr. of San Rafael, George J. Roth of Novato, Pauline Secor of Kentfield, Harry Sutcliffe of Mill Valley and Donald C. Barksdale of San Rafael, an ex-officio member.

Muskie Backs Antiwar March For April 24

"I endorse the efforts of those who are coming to Washington April 24," Muskie said. "I endorse and support this meeting on April 24 for it represents a commitment to an effective, impassioned and yet peaceful protest against the war."

The Senator's aides, however, told newsmen Thursday Muskie was only endorsing the demonstration planned by the National Peace Action Group.

A more militant organization, called the People's Coalition for Peace, also plans April 24 demonstrations in Washington.

Petaluman Held For Pot Appearance

Harry Robert Cartwright, 22, of 808 Keokuk Street, Petaluma, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possession of marijuana for sale and possession of dangerous drugs.

He was booked into the city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Detective Sgt. William Reed obtained a warrant to search the home and made the arrest.

Kentfield Woman Is Missing

San Rafael Police were searching today for a 20-year-old Kentfield woman who has not been seen since she left school in San Rafael for lunch Wednesday morning.

Martha Todd Pervere was described as 5'6" tall, and weighing about 120 pounds. She has long brown hair worn in a pony tail and blue eyes.

The woman's mother, Josephine F. Roche, 19 Evergreen Drive, Kentfield said she has not seen her daughter since she left home Wednesday morning for the Hansell Secretarial School, 900 5th Street, San Rafael. School officials said Miss Pervere attended morning classes.

Mrs. Roche said her daughter underwent brain surgery last year and is mentally retarded. She said Miss Todd met two boys in San Rafael several days ago and they called her at her home to ask for dexedrine tablets, which she takes.

Hughes Develops 'Quietest' Copter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hughes Tool Co. has announced development of what it calls the world's quietest helicopter — a modification of the turbine-powered, four-seat Army OH6A light observation helicopter.

The firm said the development had been kept secret for security reasons in Vietnam where the craft has been used for scouting. It said the helicopter is scarcely audible even when directly overhead and its development will help urban noise abatement.

The Friendly Voice Of A Phone Pal

A friendly, interested voice on the telephone is making a difference in the lives of more than 100 senior citizens in Marin County. The Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae of Marin County is providing the voices in a growing Phone Pals Program with an unusual aspect.

Kappa volunteers have been trained to convey needed bright spots into the lives of older persons, who need the sound of the voice, sometimes just a once-a-week call.

The project has the backing of the Marin County Department of Public Social Services and, according to Mary Boden, coordinator of Volunteer Services for the department, telephone reassurance is a growing trend.

"VISITING SERVICES seem to be out of vogue, and the telephone idea has caught on in many states," she says.

A combination of DPSS staff, experienced volunteers and five Kappa corps members set up the pilot project and are continuously training more Kappa volunteers to keep up with the growing requests of older persons registered with the department who have said they would like a phone pal. There is no random calling and no intrusion of anyone's privacy.

Because the Kappa volunteers feel that the sensitivities of persons involved in a telephone reassurance program are a vital ingredient, a corp group for a pilot project was formed last fall and met with members of the DPSS staff searching out the best way to establish a service. From this the initial learning program evolved, and, in addition to Mrs. Boden, two retired volunteers stepped into integral training roles.

One, Mrs. Florence Fast of Mill Valley, is a recently retired DPSS staff member who specialized as a supervisor in old age assistance. From her years of working with the elderly Mrs. Fast is able to spell out helpful ways of being a phone pal. She is herself proof that retired persons can make vital contributions to business.

ANOTHER RETIREMENT-AGE volunteer, Bob Beebe of San Anselmo, coordinates the project within the department and mans the Phone Pal desk in the department four days a week. He set up the records for Phone Pals, handles the paper work and answers Kappa volunteers' questions.

One volunteer, concerned about her phone pal's distress over repair problems in her apartment, checked with Beebe, who in turn checked the state housing inspector and found a bonafide problem which needed handling.

After attending a two and a half hour learning session each volunteer receives a kit containing information so she is able to cope with questions of a wide variety. She leaves the session with a list of not more than five phone pals and the confidence that no question or need will throw her.

Bob Beebe, who puts the kits together, includes numbers to call at DPSS, a rundown on the purpose of Phone Pals, information from the Marin County Senior Coordinating Council, some brief tips on "dos and don'ts" for telephoning, a pamphlet on Medi-Cal benefits, an explanation sheet on Social Services Department terms, cards to keep notations on each phone pal and a sheet explaining the importance of confidentiality in the program because official files are used to help volunteer employees in their work.

KAPPA VOLUNTEERS say they are bursting with warm anecdotes about their phone pals — vignettes that cannot be told because no names will ever be used.

Much mail comes to the Phone Pal desk from persons who have heard about the program and would like it for someone in their families, persons who do not feel they need it themselves but like the idea. Some elderly people have asked to become Phone Pals themselves.

There is a note from a Spanish woman who says that her son's friends have made her feel so welcome since coming to this country that she does not need this service herself, but she feels happy that so many persons who do might have the opportunity. Another is from a woman who worries about leaving her parents, 82 and 84, alone while she works during the day.

"If you called and asked my mother if she would like a phone pal, she would say, 'No, don't bother,' but will they be all right tomorrow and the next day?" her letter asks.

TYPICAL OF reactions among the people phoned during the pilot program was an elderly woman who told her phone pal that she just sits by the phone all day waiting for the call.

Men take to the idea especially, according to Mrs. Fast, because they don't have the props of keeping house to keep them occupied during the day.

One frank woman told her phone pal after several weeks that she had anticipated it would be a "damned nuisance" but found she was enjoying it immensely.

"THE REWARDS are mutual," says Mrs. John W. ## PASSOVER FEAST
Campers Prepare A Seder

By JOAN LISETOR

A seder is a feast to celebrate the Jewish holiday of Passover, which begins at sundown tonight, but the children began preparing for it Tuesday when they heard the story of Passover and learned that the feast commemorates the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt in days of the Pharaoh.

Wednesday the children, ages 6 through 12, began preparing the seder table, which tradition says should look very beautiful, coloring paper plates and making name places cards. They also prepared the foods, including matzo balls, that could be made in advance.

ARRIVING AT the center today, the campers formed a circle and divided up the chores. There were five volunteers to make the matzo kugel, a pudding that would be the main dish and would be served after the traditions of the seder were performed.

The rest of the campers were recruited to make the charoses, a mixture of apples, chopped nuts, cinnamon, raisins, honey and wine, in this case grape juice in a red mountain bottle.

Ten apple peelers suffered only one skinned knuckle, and there were only two minor finger injuries from apple chopping. Some of the honey missed the bowl, but enough was salvaged for the meal, where it would symbolize the mortar of which the Jews made bricks for Pharaoh in their days of slavery in Egypt.

The learning process, preparing the seder food, continued as one child washed the parsley and another entered the kitchen in horror.

"THAT'S THE second time the parsley's been washed," he cried. The parsley would again be washed because it is dipped into salt water during the meal to remind observers of the tears Jewish mothers shed when their sons were taken from them.

With the eggs hard boiled and sliced and the radishes sliced, the food was ready to be served. Some children picked wildflowers while others set the table, which included candles in candlesticks; a cup for Elijah, an invisible guest at the seder, who, according to Jewish legend, will announce the coming of the Messiah; a wine glass; and a bottle of wine.

In front of the place where the oldest boy, playing the role of father, would sit were three matzos covered by a cloth.

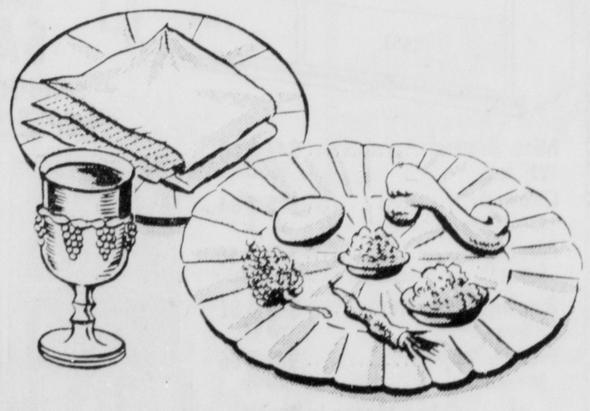
Next — the seder, culminating three days of learning by participating — was about to begin. The children found their seats, recognizing the plates they had decorated.

Most were decorated with Stars of David, flowers and peace signs, but one original young camper crayoned the message, "moza (sic) meal mush is good for you unfortinually (sic)."

FOLLOWING THE lighting of the candles, the wine was blessed, the parsley dipped and eaten by a few.

"Yuck," was the comment by many who braved tasting the curly vegetable.

The "father" explained the extra cup of wine on the table and ordered the door opened for Elijah.



After the opening of the door he said, "We open the door to welcome any guests who may stand without. Would that the hungry and poor everywhere could celebrate this passover with us.

"As an extra cup of wine stands on our table and we say, 'this is the cup of Elijah,' so we now say before the open door, 'welcome Elijah, for with your coming comes the time of peace and goodness on earth.'"

HE THEN offered one of the matzo to Elijah or any who are poor and hungry in the hope that next year at this time all who are troubled and sorrowful may have found happiness.

"Why is this night different from all other nights?" a question which is synonamous with Passover, was asked next. As tradition dictates six questions regarding the traditions of Passover were asked and answered by the "father" who then told the story of Passover.

The meaning of each food is asked by a child and explained by the father at a seder. The children asked, listened and then ate their eggs, radishes and horseradish, and then the kugel was served.

When the last blessing was said the children learned another lesson — dishwashing is a part of it all.

Directions for setting the seder table

In front of the person who conducts the service, place on a large platter three matzos, each of which is covered separately in the folds of a napkin or special cover. Next to it place a large platter containing the Seder symbols:

1. The roasted shank bone of a lamb.
2. A roasted egg.
3. A piece of horseradish, a bit of charoses, and a spring of parsley.

Place on the table for the company, or on individual plates:

1. Bitter herbs (horseradish cut into small pieces).
2. Charoses.
3. Parsley or watercress.
4. Salt water.
5. A cup of wine at each plate.
6. A large goblet of wine in the center of the table for the prophet Elijah.

The Friendly Voice Of A Phone Pal

A friendly, interested voice on the telephone is making a difference in the lives of more than 100 senior citizens in Marin County. The Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae of Marin County is providing the voices in a growing Phone Pals Program with an unusual aspect.

Kappa volunteers have been trained to convey needed bright spots into the lives of older persons, who need the sound of the voice, sometimes just a once-a-week call.

The project has the backing of the Marin County Department of Public Social Services and, according to Mary Boden, coordinator of Volunteer Services for the department, telephone reassurance is a growing trend.

"VISITING SERVICES seem to be out of vogue, and the telephone idea has caught on in many states," she says.

A combination of DPSS staff, experienced volunteers and five Kappa corps members set up the pilot project and are continuously training more Kappa volunteers to keep up with the growing requests of older persons registered with the department who have said they would like a phone pal. There is no random calling and no intrusion of anyone's privacy.

Because the Kappa volunteers feel that the sensitivities of persons involved in a telephone reassurance program are a vital ingredient, a corp group for a pilot project was formed last fall and met with members of the DPSS staff searching out the best way to establish a service. From this the initial learning program evolved, and, in addition to Mrs. Boden, two retired volunteers stepped into integral training roles.

One, Mrs. Florence Fast of Mill Valley, is a recently retired DPSS staff member who specialized as a supervisor in old age assistance. From her years of working with the elderly Mrs. Fast is able to spell out helpful ways of being a phone pal. She is herself proof that retired persons can make vital contributions to business.

ANOTHER RETIREMENT-AGE volunteer, Bob Beebe of San Anselmo, coordinates the project within the department and mans the Phone Pal desk in the department four days a week. He set up the records for Phone Pals, handles the paper work and answers Kappa volunteers' questions.

One volunteer, concerned about her phone pal's distress over repair problems in her apartment, checked with Beebe, who in turn checked the state housing inspector and found a bonafide problem which needed handling.

After attending a two and a half hour learning session each volunteer receives a kit containing information so she is able to cope with questions of a wide variety. She leaves the session with a list of not more than five phone pals and the confidence that no question or need will throw her.

Bob Beebe, who puts the kits together, includes numbers to call at DPSS, a rundown on the purpose of Phone Pals, information from the Marin County Senior Coordinating Council, some brief tips on "dos and don'ts" for telephoning, a pamphlet on Medi-Cal benefits, an explanation sheet on Social Services Department terms, cards to keep notations on each phone pal and a sheet explaining the importance of confidentiality in the program because official files are used to help volunteer employees in their work.

KAPPA VOLUNTEERS say they are bursting with warm anecdotes about their phone pals — vignettes that cannot be told because no names will ever be used.

Much mail comes to the Phone Pal desk from persons who have heard about the program and would like it for someone in their families, persons who do not feel they need it themselves but like the idea. Some elderly people have asked to become Phone Pals themselves.

There is a note from a Spanish woman who says that her son's friends have made her feel so welcome since coming to this country that she does not need this service herself, but she feels happy that so many persons who do might have the opportunity. Another is from a woman who worries about leaving her parents, 82 and 84, alone while she works during the day.

"If you called and asked my mother if she would like a phone pal, she would say, 'No, don't bother,' but will they be all right tomorrow and the next day?" her letter asks.

TYPICAL OF reactions among the people phoned during the pilot program was an elderly woman who told her phone pal that she just sits by the phone all day waiting for the call.

Men take to the idea especially, according to Mrs. Fast, because they don't have the props of keeping house to keep them occupied during the day.

One frank woman told her phone pal after several weeks that she had anticipated it would be a "damned nuisance" but found she was enjoying it immensely.

"THE REWARDS are mutual," says Mrs. John W. Nixon of San Rafael, president of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae of Marin, who has just returned from the Kappa province convention in Pacific Palisades, where she accepted the chapter's award for enhancing the image of the fraternity in the community.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Uses A Paddle To Straighten His Wife Out

DEAR HELEN:

This solution might not work for everyone, but it saved us from divorce.

Within a few months after our marriage, I changed to a lazy, surly, indifferent gal.

My husband was patient for a while, then he had a conference with my Dad — and brought home one of the family paddles. I'd felt it many times when I was growing up.

Harold gave me an ultimatum. Straighten up or — whap! I laughed. Within a week I learned he was a man of his word.

Eventually, with patience and a strong paddle, Harold made a woman out of me, and a happy one. This started 15 years ago. I still have a tendency to avoid responsibilities, so I still average a spanking a week.

Our rule is: It works both ways. I have the right to spank him if he deserves it. We have no children.

Though other couples abhor this (and some agree), we feel paddling has made our marriage happier, warmer, and more interesting. — H. W.

DEAR H:

What switches you on turns me off, but then —

Different strokes for different folks. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not sure if you can reprint parts of what another newspaper writer — Louis Cassels —said over two years ago, but if you can, I think this is worth repeating. It's called "New Year's Resolutions for a Middle-aged Sinner":

During the coming year I will not speak rudely or brusquely to any person — such as a waiter or bus driver — who can't answer me in kind without jeopardizing his livelihood.

I will try at least once a day to offer an unexpected compliment to someone who can't do me any good.

I will bear with my wife's annoying habits as graciously as I expect her to bear with my minor imperfections.

I will not condemn a whole class of people (students, teenagers, judges, government workers . . . television newsmen) for the outrageous acts of specific individuals.

I will stop telling young people their music is a clangorous noise and admit it might be at least on a par with such cultural treasures of my youth as "Three Little Fishes in an Itty-Bitty-Poo'' . . . "Mairzy Doats," etc.

I will resist the sin of gluttony by rigorously enforcing a five-minute interval betweenthe time I clean my plate and the time I decide whether I really want a second helping.

When Negroes say harsh things about white people or make extreme demands or threats . . . I will keep reminding myself that if I were black, I'd probably be pretty angry and obstreperous myself.

I will keep a tight grip on my temper when someone in social conversation expresses what I regard as a stupid opinion about Vietnam, religion, pro football and other subjects I take seriously, remembering that it is just barely possible he may be right and I may be wrong.

I will order my halo now, just in case I succeed in keeping even half of these resolutions. — LOUIS CASSELS, UPI Religion Writer.

ON BEING BLACK

Papa Money Clears The Way

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Francois Duvalier — more fondly (or snidely) referred to as Papa Doc — the self-proclaimed lifetime leader of Haiti, has been given a good deal of publicity recently.

In his twilight years, Papa Doc has finally admitted (to himself presumably) that he will not live forever. Consequently, he has undertaken some necessary and rather humorous motions to assure the succession of his title and position to his son.

The young man, like many offspring of the famous and wealthy, is seemingly not exactly a chip off the old block. And from all outward appearances, his qualifications for the presidency leaves much to be desired. Still, he is Papa Doc's son and blood is thicker than water.

Though held in disdain by some, Papa Doc is merely practicing an old phenomenon which could be called papa-perpetuation. History is full of documents and accounts of the attempts of great dictators and rulers to perpetuate their own images via their offspring. Some attempts were successful, but most were dismal (even laughable) failures.

EUROPEAN royalty, though still on the scene figuratively, is certainly not what it used to be, which further illuminates the problems involved in papa-perpetuation.

On the contemporary scene, we have watched Latin American and emerging African nations which have had internal upheavals repeatedly attempt papa-perpetuation.

Here in the United States where we pride ourselves in having no royalty and still verbally ascribe to the great American dream — every boy can grow up to become the President of the United States — our form of papa-perpetuation could best be titled Papa Money.

Though we don't worship royal bloodlines, we do stand in awe of money. We idolize moneymakers — movie stars, entertainers, politicians, even crooks (so long as they maintain an aura of respectability).

WE PAY a good deal of lip-service to equal opportunity, but being the offspring of Papa Money certainly opens many a door that would otherwise be closed. (As witness the number of not particularly talented sons and daughters of moneyed singers and actors who have found secure places in money-making positions.)

Many a statesman has cut a clear path for his offspring to follow in his footsteps. There have always been a number of father-son teams in Washington, ranging all the way back to the famous Adams family.

We may laugh at Papa Doc's tactics — like changing the legal age for the presidency to assure his son's eligibility for office; but Papa Money also goes through some rather obvious maneuvers to insure success for his offspring — like sending plane tickets and floral bouquets to guests to insure a packed house for the theater opening of his offspring. Success at any cost.

Even further down the money tree, papa-perpetuation is practiced whenever possible. The ghetto kid somehow finds himself in jail quicker than the son of the local businessman —for similar law infringements.

Ironically, this phenomenon of papa-perpetuation is one of the things which middle-class, white American youths say they are violently opposed to. They want to do their own thing, be their own man. However, while verbalizing the same, there appear to be many who are taking full advantage of being the namesake of Papa Money.

Anyway, call it human nature or whatever, if papa's (any papa) got it, chances are he'll make every attempt to see that his offspring get it, too.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Uses A Paddle To Straighten His Wife Out

DEAR HELEN:

This solution might not work for everyone, but it saved us from divorce.

Within a few months after our marriage, I changed to a lazy, surly, indifferent gal.

My husband was patient for a while, then he had a conference with my Dad — and brought home one of the family paddles. I'd felt it many times when I was growing up.

Harold gave me an ultimatum. Straighten up or — whap! I laughed. Within a week I learned he was a man of his word.

Eventually, with patience and a strong paddle, Harold made a woman out of me, and a happy one. This started 15 years ago. I still have a tendency to avoid responsibilities, so I still average a spanking a week.

Our rule is: It works both ways. I have the right to spank him if he deserves it. We have no children.

Though other couples abhor this (and some agree), we feel paddling has made our marriage happier, warmer, and more interesting. — H. W.

DEAR H:

What switches you on turns me off, but then —

Different strokes for different folks. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not sure if you can reprint parts of what another newspaper writer — Louis Cassels —said over two years ago, but if you can, I think this is worth repeating. It's called "New Year's Resolutions for a Middle-aged Sinner":

During the coming year I will not speak rudely or brusquely to any person — such as a waiter or bus driver — who can't answer me in kind without jeopardizing his livelihood.

I will try at least once a day to offer an unexpected compliment to someone who can't do me any good.

I will bear with my wife's annoying habits as graciously as I expect her to bear with my minor imperfections.

I will not condemn a whole class of people (students, teenagers, judges, government workers . . . television newsmen) for the outrageous acts of specific individuals.

I will stop telling young people their music is a clangorous noise and admit it might be at least on a par with such cultural treasures of my youth as "Three Little Fishes in an Itty-Bitty-Poo'' . . . "Mairzy Doats," etc.

I will resist the sin of gluttony by rigorously enforcing a five-minute interval betweenthe time I clean my plate and the time I decide whether I really want a second helping.

When Negroes say harsh things about white people or make extreme demands or threats . . . I will keep reminding myself that if I were black, I'd probably be pretty angry and obstreperous myself.

I will keep a tight grip on my temper when someone in social conversation expresses what I regard as a stupid opinion about Vietnam, religion, pro football and other subjects I take seriously, remembering that it is just barely possible he may be right and I may be wrong.

I will order my halo now, just in case I succeed in keeping even half of these resolutions. — LOUIS CASSELS, UPI Religion Writer.

ON BEING BLACK

Papa Money Clears The Way

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Francois Duvalier — more fondly (or snidely) referred to as Papa Doc — the self-proclaimed lifetime leader of Haiti, has been given a good deal of publicity recently.

In his twilight years, Papa Doc has finally admitted (to himself presumably) that he will not live forever. Consequently, he has undertaken some necessary and rather humorous motions to assure the succession of his title and position to his son.

The young man, like many offspring of the famous and wealthy, is seemingly not exactly a chip off the old block. And from all outward appearances, his qualifications for the presidency leaves much to be desired. Still, he is Papa Doc's son and blood is thicker than water.

Though held in disdain by some, Papa Doc is merely practicing an old phenomenon which could be called papa-perpetuation. History is full of documents and accounts of the attempts of great dictators and rulers to perpetuate their own images via their offspring. Some attempts were successful, but most were dismal (even laughable) failures.

EUROPEAN royalty, though still on the scene figuratively, is certainly not what it used to be, which further illuminates the problems involved in papa-perpetuation.

On the contemporary scene, we have watched Latin American and emerging African nations which have had internal upheavals repeatedly attempt papa-perpetuation.

Here in the United States where we pride ourselves in having no royalty and still verbally ascribe to the great American dream — every boy can grow up to become the President of the United States — our form of papa-perpetuation could best be titled Papa Money.

Though we don't worship royal bloodlines, we do stand in awe of money. We idolize moneymakers — movie stars, entertainers, politicians, even crooks (so long as they maintain an aura of respectability).

WE PAY a good deal of lip-service to equal opportunity, but being the offspring of Papa Money certainly opens many a door that would otherwise be closed. (As witness the number of not particularly talented sons and daughters of moneyed singers and actors who have found secure places in money-making positions.)

Many a statesman has cut a clear path for his offspring to follow in his footsteps. There have always been a number of father-son teams in Washington, ranging all the way back to the famous Adams family.

We may laugh at Papa Doc's tactics — like changing the legal age for the presidency to assure his son's eligibility for office; but Papa Money also goes through some rather obvious maneuvers to insure success for his offspring — like sending plane tickets and floral bouquets to guests to insure a packed house for the theater opening of his offspring. Success at any cost.

Even further down the money tree, papa-perpetuation is practiced whenever possible. The ghetto kid somehow finds himself in jail quicker than the son of the local businessman —for similar law infringements.

Ironically, this phenomenon of papa-perpetuation is one of the things which middle-class, white American youths say they are violently opposed to. They want to do their own thing, be their own man. However, while verbalizing the same, there appear to be many who are taking full advantage of being the namesake of Papa Money.

Anyway, call it human nature or whatever, if papa's (any papa) got it, chances are he'll make every attempt to see that his offspring get it, too.

Milhaud To Retire From Mills Post

OAKLAND (UPI) — Darius Milhaud, 78, noted French composer, is resigning his music faculty post at Mills College which he joined as professor of music in 1940.

Milhaud was commissioned in 1969 to compose a work for the opening of the Marin Civic Center Auditorium, now scheduled for next September.

The announcement of Milhaud's retirement was made today by Dr. Robert J. Wert, president of the college. Milhaud became professor emeritus in 1962, but was invited to remain at Mills as composer-in-residence.

He, with his dramatist wife, Mme. Madeleine Milhaud, spent alternate years on the campus since 1962. She was a member of the Mills French faculty. They divided their time between here and their residence in Paris.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parent's Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Barefoot Executive" — Highly amusing satire which spoofs advertising agencies, TV broadcasting companies and their program rating system. Action is sometimes slapstick and the climax is a hilarious surprise.

"Latitude Zero" — A "Flash Gordon" type science fiction made in Japan about three Americans who discover an underwater kingdom where everyone is working for peace. (Film Info. Nat'l. Council of Churches)

"New Leaf" — A delightful comedy about a penniless middle-aged playboy who is forced to acquire a rich wife quickly. His choice is a botanist who has the social graces of a country hick. He has devious plans to get control of her money and that is when the fun begins.

"Wild Country" — Disney Studios bring this gripping story of a pioneer family moving to Wyoming's Grand Teton country in the late 1880's. Their struggle against the elements and other men's greed is an inspiration.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Flap" — The attempt of an American Indian tribe to regain some of their rights through Red Power Revolution is met with brutal violence. Done in a rowdy contemporary comedy style it will do little to further the Indian cause because it undercuts a truly serious message.

"Little Big Man" — Excellent tragi-comic history of Indian-white relations as recalled by a 121-year-old ex-gunfighter. It spoofs several frontier myths. Amazing performance by Dustin Hoffman.

"Love Story" — Film is pure romantic escapism and an old-fashioned simple love story. Acting is exceptional and some tasteless language mars an otherwise beautiful portrayal.

"Topaz" — Adapted from novel by Leon Uris. Hitchcock brings this tense spy adventure with complicated plot which revolves around the 1962 missile crisis in Cuba.

"Waterloo" — A well cast, vastly expensive Italian-Russian co-production spectacular about the historical battle between Napoleon and the English, Austrian, Prussian and Russian tropps determined to destroy Napoleon once and for all. The mind boggles at the spectacle offered in this production. (Motion Picture Exhibitor.)

"You Can't Win Them All" — A mediocre film about a group of young Greek mercenaries trying to aid an anti government army in Turkey. There is also beautiful girls in skimpy costumes and stolen jewels tossed into some of the worst dialogue ever written to total a pointless plot.

BORDERLINE

"THX 1138" — Science fiction fantasy of a future century in which a computer dominated subterrenean world subjugates men and women with drugs. Sex is forbidden and children are conceived in test tibes. THX and his roommate skip their drug quota and discover sexual love. Their punishment is severe. Photographic techniques are imaginative.

"WUSA" — A contrived melodrama about an unprincipaled alcoholic who works for a rightwing radio station. A Hollywood attempt to blatantly exploit serious problems in America with out making a responsible statement. Much violence, cursing and sex.

ADULTS ONLY

"Diary of a Mad Housewife" — Acidly funny look at the disintegration of a modern marriage in New York. Good comedy with sex and dialogue that is very frank.

"I Love My Wife" — Stylish comedy about an empty life, told in terms of sex. A doctor whose wife has grown fat and boring, satisfies his desires indescriminately and answers to no one. Frank sex scenes and cursing.

"Kama Sutra" — Title refers to the Hindu religious teachings of the god of love, a vulnerable subject for screen exploitation. Under the guise of explanation, the film indulges in supergraphic visuals and ludicrous commentary. Settings alternate between oriental motifs and contemporary western equivalent. (Catholic Film Newsletter).

"Little Murders" — A savage black comedy that is only sporadically funny. It shows how people become brutalized by the modern jungle of our cities. A lacerating attack on our sicknesses is unsparing and frighteningly accurate, one will laugh and shudder at the same time.

"Loving" — Quiet desperation of suburban life is artfully explored in this story of a commercial artist living on the brink of disaster. A lewd escapade at a party brings matters to a shocking conclusion. Extremely frank language and sex scenes.

"Owl and the Pussycat" — Racy adult comedy about a prostitute with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Some shocking obscenities and sex scenes.

"Two Gentlemen Sharing" — Slow but interesting British drama about two men, one white, the other black who share a London flat. They roam aimlessly in search of identities, implications of homosexuality are abundant plus sex scenes between men and women.

The Catawba rhododendron which crown Roan Mountain in North Carolina have been described as the world's largest natural gardens.

Milhaud To Retire From Mills Post

OAKLAND (UPI) — Darius Milhaud, 78, noted French composer, is resigning his music faculty post at Mills College which he joined as professor of music in 1940.

Milhaud was commissioned in 1969 to compose a work for the opening of the Marin Civic Center Auditorium, now scheduled for next September.

The announcement of Milhaud's retirement was made today by Dr. Robert J. Wert, president of the college. Milhaud became professor emeritus in 1962, but was invited to remain at Mills as composer-in-residence.

He, with his dramatist wife, Mme. Madeleine Milhaud, spent alternate years on the campus since 1962. She was a member of the Mills French faculty. They divided their time between here and their residence in Paris.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parent's Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Barefoot Executive" — Highly amusing satire which spoofs advertising agencies, TV broadcasting companies and their program rating system. Action is sometimes slapstick and the climax is a hilarious surprise.

"Latitude Zero" — A "Flash Gordon" type science fiction made in Japan about three Americans who discover an underwater kingdom where everyone is working for peace. (Film Info. Nat'l. Council of Churches)

"New Leaf" — A delightful comedy about a penniless middle-aged playboy who is forced to acquire a rich wife quickly. His choice is a botanist who has the social graces of a country hick. He has devious plans to get control of her money and that is when the fun begins.

"Wild Country" — Disney Studios bring this gripping story of a pioneer family moving to Wyoming's Grand Teton country in the late 1880's. Their struggle against the elements and other men's greed is an inspiration.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Flap" — The attempt of an American Indian tribe to regain some of their rights through Red Power Revolution is met with brutal violence. Done in a rowdy contemporary comedy style it will do little to further the Indian cause because it undercuts a truly serious message.

"Little Big Man" — Excellent tragi-comic history of Indian-white relations as recalled by a 121-year-old ex-gunfighter. It spoofs several frontier myths. Amazing performance by Dustin Hoffman.

"Love Story" — Film is pure romantic escapism and an old-fashioned simple love story. Acting is exceptional and some tasteless language mars an otherwise beautiful portrayal.

"Topaz" — Adapted from novel by Leon Uris. Hitchcock brings this tense spy adventure with complicated plot which revolves around the 1962 missile crisis in Cuba.

"Waterloo" — A well cast, vastly expensive Italian-Russian co-production spectacular about the historical battle between Napoleon and the English, Austrian, Prussian and Russian tropps determined to destroy Napoleon once and for all. The mind boggles at the spectacle offered in this production. (Motion Picture Exhibitor.)

"You Can't Win Them All" — A mediocre film about a group of young Greek mercenaries trying to aid an anti government army in Turkey. There is also beautiful girls in skimpy costumes and stolen jewels tossed into some of the worst dialogue ever written to total a pointless plot.

BORDERLINE

"THX 1138" — Science fiction fantasy of a future century in which a computer dominated subterrenean world subjugates men and women with drugs. Sex is forbidden and children are conceived in test tibes. THX and his roommate skip their drug quota and discover sexual love. Their punishment is severe. Photographic techniques are imaginative.

"WUSA" — A contrived melodrama about an unprincipaled alcoholic who works for a rightwing radio station. A Hollywood attempt to blatantly exploit serious problems in America with out making a responsible statement. Much violence, cursing and sex.

ADULTS ONLY

"Diary of a Mad Housewife" — Acidly funny look at the disintegration of a modern marriage in New York. Good comedy with sex and dialogue that is very frank.

"I Love My Wife" — Stylish comedy about an empty life, told in terms of sex. A doctor whose wife has grown fat and boring, satisfies his desires indescriminately and answers to no one. Frank sex scenes and cursing.

"Kama Sutra" — Title refers to the Hindu religious teachings of the god of love, a vulnerable subject for screen exploitation. Under the guise of explanation, the film indulges in supergraphic visuals and ludicrous commentary. Settings alternate between oriental motifs and contemporary western equivalent. (Catholic Film Newsletter).

"Little Murders" — A savage black comedy that is only sporadically funny. It shows how people become brutalized by the modern jungle of our cities. A lacerating attack on our sicknesses is unsparing and frighteningly accurate, one will laugh and shudder at the same time.

"Loving" — Quiet desperation of suburban life is artfully explored in this story of a commercial artist living on the brink of disaster. A lewd escapade at a party brings matters to a shocking conclusion. Extremely frank language and sex scenes.

"Owl and the Pussycat" — Racy adult comedy about a prostitute with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Some shocking obscenities and sex scenes.

"Two Gentlemen Sharing" — Slow but interesting British drama about two men, one white, the other black who share a London flat. They roam aimlessly in search of identities, implications of homosexuality are abundant plus sex scenes between men and women.

The Catawba rhododendron which crown Roan Mountain in North Carolina have been described as the world's largest natural gardens.

U.S. Appeals Court Rejects Government Wiretap Argument

CINCINNATI (UPI) —A federal appeals court rejected the government's argument Thursday that it can wiretap domestic groups without a court order if it feels they are a threat to the security of the country.

In a major setback for the Nixon administration's claims of broad wiretap authority, the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a lower federal court ruling in Detroit that such a policy violates the Constitution's 4th Amendment prohibition against unreasonable search and seizure.

On a 3-2 vote, the appeals panel ruled that the Justice Department must disclose the contents of the conversations to Lawrence "Pun" Plamondon, 25, a White Panther accused of conspiracy in the bombing of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) office in Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29, 1968.

The court's majority said a major consideration in its ruling "was the fact that disclosure may well prove to be the only effective protection against illegal wiretapping available to defend 4th Amendment rights of the American public."

The Justice Department had no immediate comment, but was considered virtually certain to carry the case to the Supreme Court, if only because two other federal courts have ruled in its favor on the issue.

In appealing U.S. District Judge Damon J. Keith's ruling Jan. 27, the Justice Department asked that if it lost the appeal that it be advised before the wiretapped conversations were turned over to Plamondon.

It said that disclosure of the conversations would prejudice the national interest and asked the appeals court to have the opportunity to determine whether to appeal further, let the conversations be made public, or drop the case. The Appeals Court did not order the government to make immediate disclosure of the conversations.

In arguing the case before the 6th Circuit, the government contended that "when the President ... determines that certain individuals or groups pose a danger to the internal security of the United States as to warrant the use of electronic surveillance to gather intelligence information concerning the activities and plans of such individuals and groups, the 4th Amendment does not require the additional safeguard of a prior warrant."

Justice Department lawyers argued that the President has just as much authority to order domestic wiretaps when he feels the nation's security is endangered as he does when the danger comes from a foreign government.

But the majority of the appeals judges, in an opinion written by Judge George Edwards, said: "We hold in dealing with the threat of domestic subversion, the executive branch of our government ... is subject to the limitations of the 4th Amendment of the Constitution when undertaking searches and seizures for oral communications by wire.

"We hold that the district court judge properly found that the conversations of the defendant Plamondon were illegally intercepted and cannot hold that the disclosure order is in abuse of judicial discretion."

But in dissent, Judge Paul C. Weick agreed with the government's claims that only the President has enough information to know whether a domestic group is a danger to security.

"The legislative and executive branches of the government do not have the facilities to cope with the destruction of public buildings by saboteurs. Only the executive department of the government has the facilities and know-how to deal with these intricate problems.

"When the chief executive deems it necessary to gather intelligence information for this purpose, he ought not to be required first to make detailed explanations of classified information to a magistrate and procure his consent as a precedent to the exercise in constitutional powers," Weick wrote.

In addition to Plamondon, two other men identified as members of the White Panthers were also charged in the bombing. They were John Forrest, 21 and John Sinclair, 28. They were not overheard by the government.

The Nixon administration, in its court briefs and in speeches by leading officials, has contended that the President has the authority to order domestic security wiretaps without any restraints by either the legislative or judicial branches.

Its stepped up wiretapping of radical groups, both of the right and the left, would be seriously undermined if the Supreme Court upheld Thursday's appeals decision.

City To Back BART Board In Taxpayers Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco will pay the legal fees involved in defending the Bay Area Rapid Transit District against a taxpayer's suit to block completion of the Embarcadero subway station.

When BART's directors heard of the city's decision Thursday, they approved a formal contract to spend up to $22.5 million to finish the Embarcadero station.

They earlier had considered a West Portal Municipal Railway subway which the city has indicated it does not want.

However, the taxpayers' suit insists that BART go through with its original plan.

Absentee Ballot Deadline Tuesday

Applications for absentee ballots in the April 20 special Sonoma County election and Cotati School District board election must be received by Tuesday.

They may be obtained in person or by writing the Sonoma County Board of Elections in Santa Rosa. Letters of application should state the reason for requiring an absentee ballot and include the registered address as well as the address to which the ballot should be mailed. A signature and date must be on the application.

Leukemia Hope For Children

CHICAGO (UPI)—Leukemia in children, once fatal in nearly all cases, is no longer an incurable disease, according to doctors at St. Judge Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

"Physicians may no longer dismiss leukemia as a hopeless disease," Dr. Rhomes J. Aur of St. Jude's said in a report Thursday to the American Association for Cancer Research.

"One half of all victims of the disease can now obtain a five-year, leukemia-free remission from all symptoms, if the remission pattern of children currently free of leukemia follows that of our earlier studies," Dr. Aur said.

Until recent years, childhood lymphocytic leukemia, the most common type, was fatal in all but about one per cent of the cases.

Because of the strategic combinations of a half-dozen drugs, more than 100 children are alive today after five years with no more evidence of the disease, according to Aur. He said many children have lived for as long as 15 years without showing any evidence of relapse.

New Cooling Tower Answer To Smog

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI) —A new cooling tower, designed to dissipate heat from electric generating stations, may hold the promise of smog control for the nation's urban areas.

The tower, proposed Wednesday by the General Electric Co.'s Research and Development Center, would permit power stations to propel thermal exhausts thousands of feet upward where the heat would be dispersed into the upper atmosphere.

The massive, slow-rising "plume" of warm, moist air could drill holes through inversion layers that periodically cover many cities, it was explained. When a layer of warm air pins down a layer of cool air, the latter, if trapped over an urban area, becomes increasingly smog-laden.

"Our pioneering studies into the design of cooling towers and the behavior of plumes have suggested solutions to a pair of major environmental problems: How to dispose of thermal exhaust from power stations effectively and acceptably, and how to ventilate the air over metropolitan areas," Dr. Arthur M. Bueche, vice president for research and development, said.

"This research indicates that a low-wide-mouthed cooling tower could greatly outperform its conventional counterpart in propelling plumes of thermal exhaust to extremely high altitudes."

Most conventional cooling towers are about twice the size of a railroad boxcar, with a stack on top that discharges a high-speed air stream.

GE's proposed tower would be a hollow structure, about 60 feet tall and 600 feet in diameter, about the size and shape of New York's Shea Stadium but only a third of its height. It would take about 40 conventional units to provide the cooling effect of the proposed new tower.

Women Set To Join Team Of Sky Marshals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One was a secretary and one was a student. The other two were government technicians.

Monday, armed with guns and four weeks' training, the four young women will take their place as the first female sky marshals in the force which has been riding shotgun on the nation's airlines for several months.

They met the press Thursday, faces hidden from the cameras, names undisclosed to the pad-and-pencil reporters.

Assistant Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides told the graduating class of sky marshals the government believes the program has prevented at least five skyjackings.

U.S. Appeals Court Rejects Government Wiretap Argument

CINCINNATI (UPI) —A federal appeals court rejected the government's argument Thursday that it can wiretap domestic groups without a court order if it feels they are a threat to the security of the country.

In a major setback for the Nixon administration's claims of broad wiretap authority, the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a lower federal court ruling in Detroit that such a policy violates the Constitution's 4th Amendment prohibition against unreasonable search and seizure.

On a 3-2 vote, the appeals panel ruled that the Justice Department must disclose the contents of the conversations to Lawrence "Pun" Plamondon, 25, a White Panther accused of conspiracy in the bombing of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) office in Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29, 1968.

The court's majority said a major consideration in its ruling "was the fact that disclosure may well prove to be the only effective protection against illegal wiretapping available to defend 4th Amendment rights of the American public."

The Justice Department had no immediate comment, but was considered virtually certain to carry the case to the Supreme Court, if only because two other federal courts have ruled in its favor on the issue.

In appealing U.S. District Judge Damon J. Keith's ruling Jan. 27, the Justice Department asked that if it lost the appeal that it be advised before the wiretapped conversations were turned over to Plamondon.

It said that disclosure of the conversations would prejudice the national interest and asked the appeals court to have the opportunity to determine whether to appeal further, let the conversations be made public, or drop the case. The Appeals Court did not order the government to make immediate disclosure of the conversations.

In arguing the case before the 6th Circuit, the government contended that "when the President ... determines that certain individuals or groups pose a danger to the internal security of the United States as to warrant the use of electronic surveillance to gather intelligence information concerning the activities and plans of such individuals and groups, the 4th Amendment does not require the additional safeguard of a prior warrant."

Justice Department lawyers argued that the President has just as much authority to order domestic wiretaps when he feels the nation's security is endangered as he does when the danger comes from a foreign government.

But the majority of the appeals judges, in an opinion written by Judge George Edwards, said: "We hold in dealing with the threat of domestic subversion, the executive branch of our government ... is subject to the limitations of the 4th Amendment of the Constitution when undertaking searches and seizures for oral communications by wire.

"We hold that the district court judge properly found that the conversations of the defendant Plamondon were illegally intercepted and cannot hold that the disclosure order is in abuse of judicial discretion."

But in dissent, Judge Paul C. Weick agreed with the government's claims that only the President has enough information to know whether a domestic group is a danger to security.

"The legislative and executive branches of the government do not have the facilities to cope with the destruction of public buildings by saboteurs. Only the executive department of the government has the facilities and know-how to deal with these intricate problems.

"When the chief executive deems it necessary to gather intelligence information for this purpose, he ought not to be required first to make detailed explanations of classified information to a magistrate and procure his consent as a precedent to the exercise in constitutional powers," Weick wrote.

In addition to Plamondon, two other men identified as members of the White Panthers were also charged in the bombing. They were John Forrest, 21 and John Sinclair, 28. They were not overheard by the government.

The Nixon administration, in its court briefs and in speeches by leading officials, has contended that the President has the authority to order domestic security wiretaps without any restraints by either the legislative or judicial branches.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY APRIL 9,1971 17

PREPARING SITE — A bulldozer operated by Bob Borello of Bresnan and Dalecio Co., San Rafael, churns up the earth near Bolinas as work begins on a Coast Guard communications station. The facility, together with one on the Point Reyes peninsula, will be the Coast Guard's major radio installation in the Pacific.

COAST GUARD PROJECT

'Hiding' A Giant Radio Site

Excavating crews moved onto a rural West Marin site this week as work began on one of two major communication facilities planned in the county by the Coast Guard.

The stations, to be built in a fashion giving them an underground appearance, will be constructed near Bolinas and on the Point Reyes peninsula on sites formerly owned by the Radio Corporation of America.

The stations, one transmitting and one receiving, will become the Coast Guard's major radio facility in the Pacific, replacing several obsolete installations on the West Coast.

Preliminary construction work started Tuesday at the 75.5-acre site north of Bolinas, planned as the transmitting station. Work is to start later on the receiving station, which will be built on 266 acres at the former RCA beach at Point Reyes.

The Coast Guard said a $903,000 contract for construction of the stations has been awarded to Reliance Enterprises of Santa Rosa. Work is expected to take a year.

Jack Walsh, civilian architect in the 12th Coast Guard District headquarters in San Francisco, said the buildings will be constructed in a method unique to the Coast Guard. Once the stations are built, dirt will be bulldozed around them and landscaped, giving the buildings an underground look.

Through this procedure, a Coast Guard news release said, the buildings "will blend with the natural qualities of the area and be inconspicuous from nearby areas."

Clearly visible, however, Walsh acknowledged, will be radio towers, some exceeding 100 feet, that will enable the stations to listen for ship distress messages, communicate with ocean stations and dispatch Coast Guard messages along the Pacific Coast.

The architect said he did not know how many antennae would be placed at both sites, but believed the arrangement would be "simpler" than that at adjoining RCA installations.

Eighty-one men will be assigned to the facility although the Coast Guard still is negotiating for a site "in the vicinity of Point Reyes Station" on which to build housing.

The Coast Guard originally had planned construction of 36 townhouses and four barracks on a site in Inverness, but changed its mind after opposition from area residents and county officials.

Objections grew out of the project density and fears that a sewage treatment operation would harm the ecology of Tomales Bay.

Walsh declined to divulge the housing site under negotiation and did not know when a purchase agreement might be reached.

Grand Jury Aims Reform Ideas At Cutting Welfare Cheating

Welfare programs should be tightened up, both locally and on the state and federal levels, the Marin County Grand Jury's welfare committee recommended in its final report yesterday.

On the state and federal level, the grand jury committee recommended legislation to effect the following:

1. Eliminate loopholes that provide aid to other than the poor in specific categories.

2. Family income should consist of the earnings of all persons living together, whether related or not.

3. Welfare reform should include more emphasis on job training so that recipients can become self-supporting.

4. A computer center should be set up statewide or nationwide with a central file on all welfare recipients so that the unscrupulous do not get double or triple aid.

The committee said the county can also tighten up on its administrative procedures in the following way:

1. All initial applications for aid to families with dependent children should include a personal interview.

2. The department of public social services should ask for background information on every case transferred from another county.

3. Positive identification should be required before aid is processed.

4. Income of fathers and stepfathers should be verified through income tax information. Alledged child support payments to children of previous marriages should also be verified.

"The applicant's word on all these requirements should not be accepted as sufficient," said the grand jury committee. "The responsibility to produce this information should be placed on the applicant, rather than on the social service worker as it is now."

To cut down on fraud, the committee recommended a professionally organized investigation division to serve as watchdog for the welfare department and to train welfare officials on how to detect dishonesty.

For the food stamp program the grand jurors suggested a new law that would make it mandatory to produce identification at markets to eliminate the trading of food stamps for rent or more money.

The Welfare committee, headed by Beryl Jean Symmes of Mill Valley, included George J. Roth of Novato, Albert T. Kelly of San Rafael, Martin O'Brien Jr. of San Rafael and Jane Ward Vernon of San Rafael.

Corte Madera Housing Group Session Tuesday

The 13-member Corte Madera Housing Committee will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at town hall to continue study of low-cost housing needs.

Scheduled for discussion are the first three steps of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's guidelines for developing a housing element for the town's general plan.

Those guidelines include defining the present housing situation, the future goal of housing and the obstacles to be overcome.

The committee will also review a questionnaire to be circulated asking residents their feeling on small rental units in single family residential areas.

La Tercera Park Program To Be Discussed

The future development of La Tercera Park will be the major point of discussion at the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at La Tercera School.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, a member of the recreation, music and parks commission, will discuss development plans. The association has volunteered its labor in construction of the park.

Voter registration for the June 8 Petaluma municipal election will also be stressed at the meeting. A registrar will be present from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Teen Center Site Offer In Petaluma

A potential center for Petaluma teen-agers has been offered to the Petaluma Association for Youth.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hilligoss, 15 Brown Court, have offered the use of a home, garage and barn on 1.5 acres at Lakeville Highway and Petroleum Lane.

The newly formed organization, headed by Sandra Matthews, will appear before the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to ask assistance in getting a teen center started.

The Hilligoss family has reportedly offered the property free of charge for a three-year period.

Three Injured As Car Rolls

Three men received minor injuries yesterday when their car rolled over on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road two miles south of the Marin-Sonoma county line.

Charles A. Meek, 34, of Belmont, the driver of the car, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma for back pain. Two passengers, Jerry Lakson, 26, of San Francisco, and Mike S. Hughes, 27, of Santa Rosa, were treated for cuts and scrapes.

The California Highway Patrol said Meek's car, northbound on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, rolled over at 11:45 a.m. No further details were available.

Design Panel Wants Creek Building Guide

The Fairfax Design Review board recommended last night that the city council draw up a master plan to guide construction along city creeks, board secretary Ernestine Healy reported.

The move came as the city council is weighing adopting of a watercourse ordinance that would require planning commission and design review board approval of construction permits and of removal of creekside trees.

View Of Costs In Schools

School district tax levies should be limited to the amount necessary to retire outstanding bond issues, with school support provided by a countywide or statewide tax, believes the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury Education Committee.

Decrying inefficiency and duplication of costs and efforts" from the multiplicity of school districts (21 in Marin County), the grand jury committee in its report last night also pointed to inequities of tax support among the districts.

"Our district organization unnecessarily hampers achieving the ideal of equal opportunity for all students supported equitably by all," it declared.

In its No. 1 recommendation, the committee asserted:

"The taxing structure for schools should be reexamined with the goal of providing uniform support at least countywide, and preferably statewide, to be apportioned according to school grade level and the average daily attendance in each district. Individual district taxes should be limited to interest and redemption on outstanding school bond issues."

The grand jury committee, headed by Mrs. Pauline Secor of Kentfield, was sharply critical of the accomplishments of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization, citing "a serious impasse in reorganization of school districts" that "is working to the detriment of the education of the students."

"If no tangible results occur in 1971, we recommend that a new committee on school district organization be appointed," it reported.

In other recommendations, the education committee said:

"Marin school districts should consider the adoption of a countywide salary schedule for both certificated and classified personnel . . .

"The state Legislature and the state Board of Education should reexamine all tenure laws. We favor the elimination of the present tenure provisions for probationary teachers and the consideration of long-term contracts for nonprobationary teachers."

While commending the present program of providing bicycle paths, the grand jury committee said cities and county should do more to provide safe walks and bike paths for school pupils. Also it urged expanded public transit service, noting: "Taxpayers are now paying costs of transportation through school taxes without obtaining the benefits of a general public transportation system."

As a final recommendation, it urged that the county schools office circularize all districts regularly with legal opinions from the county counsel.

In the body of its report, the committee tied the need for tenure change to accountability.

"It became clear to us," said the report, "that there is a pronounced trend away from accountability to administrators. The result is a serious decease of accountability of teachers to parents and the public . . . To improve this area of accountability, we believe the present laws relating to tenure . . . should be drastically changed."

Noting that the 1969 grand jury concentrated on problems of Sausalito School District, the 1970 jury said the resulting actions of Sausalito citizens "were traumatic" but it felt "a hands-off policy would be appropriate at this time by the grand jury."

Thoreau Play Auditions Slated

Auditions for the cast and interviews for technical and publicity workers for "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," the next production of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts, will be Monday, Thursday and April 17 at 8 p.m. at 267 Buena Vista Avenue, Mill Valley.

The play is written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, produced by Sali Lieberman and directed by Phil Larsen. Further information may be obtained from Lieberman, 172 Lone Tree Avenue, Mill Valley.

Report Sees Flaw In College Accountability

Steps to correct "a serious flaw in the accountability of the College of Marin to the public" have been recommended by the joint special assignments and education committees of the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury.

The report called for more stress on annual evaluations of all teachers and administrators, a shift of policy responsibility to administrators and away from committees — which should be purely advisory, the panel said — revamping of tenure, and a reshuffling of priorities for the many tasks of the dean of instruction.

Student disciplinary proceedings were snarled by committees more concerned with procedures than with the facts of disciplinary violations, the panel said.

Associated Student fund handling was found to have tightened up since the critical findings of the 1969 grand jury, the report noted.

Voter denial of local bond issues faced the college district with costly delays in building its North Marin campus and a new library for the Kentfield campus, the report noted. "Since construction costs have been constantly on the rise, the less delay . . . the more advantageous it will be to local taxpayers."

The report found that many of the College of Marin troubles could be traced to a series of changes in administration, with five presidents or acting presidents in seven years, and other policy changes marking time before appointment of a new dean of instruction in the spring of 1970.

The jury committee said its studies of College of Marin stressed the accountability of faculty to student, faculty to administration, administration to trustees and trustees to the public.

The report listed two causes for what it called flaws in accountability to the public: Lack of systematic faculty evaluation, and "the excessive committee structure which permeates almost every facet of the operation of the college."

The report said, "of the 19 faculty committees existing . . . none was charged with any responsibility for evaluating their peers.'' The trustees have adopted a formal policy for annual evaluation of probationary teachers, the investigators reported.

The joint committee found "gratifying" the efforts of the faculty to draft a code of ethics. It called for evaluation of both teachers with tenure and administrators, and "in cases where unprofessional conduct is suspected, the administration should not be reluctant to initiate dismissal proceedings."

Tenure was criticized as "a one-sided contract, committing the institution but not the individual . . . it also acts as a shield for incompetence." The report said most College of Marin teachers are "doing a good to excellent job" and should "have nothing to fear from the removal of this automatic lifetime job security which no other profession is guaranteed."

The joint committee found less to criticize than the 1969 grand jury in terms of associated student finances, but did suggest that the association be held accountable not only for damage to college facilities and landscaping, but also for any costs of extra police protection for student events.

Special assignment committee members participating in the joint report for the grand jury were Jane Ward Vernon, chairman; George C. Benoit Jr., Thomas C. Cheetham, Roberta Erlandsen, Harry Sutcliffe and Joseph W. Wright.

Consolidation Of Many Special Districts Urged By Grand Jury

The number of special districts in Marin leads to inefficient service and inefficient use of tax monies, the Marin County Grand Jury reported yesterday.

The outgoing 1970 grand jury criticized the "proliferation" of districts and district elections, and urged consolidation of many.

The jury's municipalities, districts and commissions committee noted there are 63 special districts, not including school districts, in Marin.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors governs 22 of the districts, with the other 41 governed by local boards — usually elective, the report said.

The committee made several specific recommendations:

The state legislature should set limits on amounts of uncommitted reserve funds accumulated by special districts and the districts should be required to file more detailed budgets with the county auditor-controller.

The board of supervisors should adopt the recommendations of the 1967 Brown and Caldwell report, which urged division of Marin into four sewerage service areas, and the Marin Municipal and North Marin Water districts should be designated to coordinate sewer functions in the four areas. The jury commended seven Southern Marin sanitary districts which are studying merger under the jurisdiction of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Citing "grave inefficiencies in operations and uneconomic use of tax monies," the committee urged all fire department officials to examine "with a sense of urgency" the need for consolidation.

The committee commended the MMWD directors for adoption of land use criteria for Mount Tamalpais lands, but questioned the propriety of the district leasing public land "even at a fair price" to the private Meadow Club above Fairfax.

Jean W. Homer of Kentfield served as chairman of the municipalities, districts and commissions committee. Other members were Ruby Daly of Larkspur, Joseph W. Wright of Novato, Pauline Secor of Kentfield and Marilyn Steinau of Belvedere.

The committee urged the board of supervisors to select four annual election dates in the hope districts would voluntarily consolidate elections.

The 1970 Marin County Grand Jury also:

FEES — Urged the county clerk's office to follow up on the possibility of collecting filing fees and other court costs from persons filing court actions through the Marin County Legal Aid Society.

SUPERVISORS — Noted an "absolute dependence" by the board of supervisors on its administrative staff, and warned against delegation of too much authority.

STUDIES — Recommended to County Administrator Alan Bruce that departmental studies be made only by qualified personnel, saying "complaints indicate this is not always the case."

PLANNING — Noted "steady improvement in departmental organization and public relations with the community" in the planning department — the subject of heavy criticism by past grand juries.

PUBLIC DEFENDER — Recommended stricter procedure for determining eligibility for the services of the public defender's office and urged the Legislature to enact laws requiring later collection of fees when a defendant is found able to contribute to his own defense.

AIRPORT — Suggested that the county proceed with plans for ultimate development of Marin County Airport as a ½'reliever airport" which would relieve large airports of small plane activity.

PREPARING SITE — A bulldozer operated by Bob Borello of Bresnan and Dalecio Co., San Rafael, churns up the earth near Bolinas as work begins on a Coast Guard communications station. The facility, together with one on the Point Reyes peninsula, will be the Coast Guard's major radio installation in the Pacific.

'Hiding' A Giant Radio Site

Excavating crews moved onto a rural West Marin site this week as work began on one of two major communication facilities planned in the county by the Coast Guard.

The stations, to be built in a fashion giving them an underground appearance, will be constructed near Bolinas and on the Point Reyes peninsula on sites formerly owned by the Radio Corporation of America.

The stations, one transmitting and one receiving, will become the Coast Guard's major radio facility in the Pacific, replacing several obsolete installations on the West Coast.

Preliminary construction work started Tuesday at the 75.5-acre site north of Bolinas, planned as the transmitting station. Work is to start later on the receiving station, which will be built on 266 acres at the former RCA beach at Point Reyes.

The Coast Guard said a $903,000 contract for construction of the stations has been awarded to Reliance Enterprises of Santa Rosa. Work is expected to take a year.

Jack Walsh, civilian architect in the 12th Coast Guard District headquarters in San Francisco, said the buildings will be constructed in a method unique to the Coast Guard. Once the stations are built, dirt will be bulldozed around them and landscaped, giving the buildings an underground look.

Through this procedure, a Coast Guard news release said, the buildings "will blend with the natural qualities of the area and be inconspicuous from nearby areas."

Clearly visible, however, Walsh acknowledged, will be radio towers, some exceeding 100 feet, that will enable the stations to listen for ship distress messages, communicate with ocean stations and dispatch Coast Guard messages along the Pacific Coast.

The architect said he did not know how many antennae would be placed at both sites, but believed the arrangement would be "simpler" than that at adjoining RCA installations.

Eighty-one men will be assigned to the facility although the Coast Guard still is negotiating for a site "in the vicinity of Point Reyes Station" on which to build housing.

The Coast Guard originally had planned construction of 36 townhouses and four barracks on a site in Inverness, but changed its mind after opposition from area residents and county officials.

Objections grew out of the project density and fears that a sewage treatment operation would harm the ecology of Tomales Bay.

Walsh declined to divulge the housing site under negotiation and did not know when a purchase agreement might be reached.

Grand Jury Aims Reform Ideas At Cutting Welfare Cheating

Welfare programs should be tightened up, both locally and on the state and federal levels, the Marin County Grand Jury's welfare committee recommended in its final report yesterday.

On the state and federal level, the grand jury committee recommended legislation to effect the following:

1. Eliminate loopholes that provide aid to other than the poor in specific categories.

2. Family income should consist of the earnings of all persons living together, whether related or not.

3. Welfare reform should include more emphasis on job training so that recipients can become self-supporting.

4. A computer center should be set up statewide or nationwide with a central file on all welfare recipients so that the unscrupulous do not get double or triple aid.

The committee said the county can also tighten up on its administrative procedures in the following way:

1. All initial applications for aid to families with dependent children should include a personal interview.

2. The department of public social services should ask for background information on every case transferred from another county.

3. Positive identification should be required before aid is processed.

4. Income of fathers and stepfathers should be verified through income tax information. Alledged child support payments to children of previous marriages should also be verified.

"The applicant's word on all these requirements should not be accepted as sufficient," said the grand jury committee. "The responsibility to produce this information should be placed on the applicant, rather than on the social service worker as it is now."

To cut down on fraud, the committee recommended a professionally organized investigation division to serve as watchdog for the welfare department and to train welfare officials on how to detect dishonesty.

For the food stamp program the grand jurors suggested a new law that would make it mandatory to produce identification at markets to eliminate the trading of food stamps for rent or more money.

Corte Madera Housing Group Session Tuesday

The 13-member Corte Madera Housing Committee will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at town hall to continue study of low-cost housing needs.

Scheduled for discussion are the first three steps of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's guidelines for developing a housing element for the town's general plan.

Those guidelines include defining the present housing situation, the future goal of housing and the obstacles to be overcome.

The committee will also review a questionnaire to be circulated asking residents their feeling on small rental units in single family residential areas.

La Tercera Park Program To Be Discussed

The future development of La Tercera Park will be the major point of discussion at the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at La Tercera School.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, a member of the recreation, music and parks commission, will discuss development plans. The association has volunteered its labor in construction of the park.

Voter registration for the June 8 Petaluma municipal election will also be stressed at the meeting. A registrar will be present from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Typhoon Toll

MANILA (UPI)—Twenty typhoons hit the Philippines in 1970, causing damage of about $102 million to public and private facilities, farms and factories.

Teen Center Site Offer In Petaluma

A potential center for Petaluma teen-agers has been offered to the Petaluma Association for Youth.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hilligoss, 15 Brown Court, have offered the use of a home, garage and barn on 1.5 acres at Lakeville Highway and Petroleum Lane.

The newly formed organization, headed by Sandra Matthews, will appear before the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to ask assistance in getting a teen center started.

The Hilligoss family has reportedly offered the property free of charge for a three-year period.

Three Injured As Car Rolls

Three men received minor injuries yesterday when their car rolled over on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road two miles south of the Marin-Sonoma county line.

Charles A. Meek, 34, of Belmont, the driver of the car, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma for back pain. Two passengers, Jerry Lakson, 26, of San Francisco, and Mike S. Hughes, 27, of Santa Rosa, were treated for cuts and scrapes.

The California Highway Patrol said Meek's car, northbound on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, rolled over at 11:45 a.m. No further details were available.

Design Panel Wants Creek Building Guide

The Fairfax Design Review board recommended last night that the city council draw up a master plan to guide construction along city creeks, board secretary Ernestine Healy reported.

The move came as the city council is weighing adopting of a watercourse ordinance that would require planning commission and design review board approval of construction permits and of removal of creekside trees.

View Of Costs In Schools

School district tax levies should be limited to the amount necessary to retire outstanding bond issues, with school support provided by a countywide or statewide tax, believes the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury Education Committee.

Decrying inefficiency and duplication of costs and efforts" from the multiplicity of school districts (21 in Marin County), the grand jury committee in its report last night also pointed to inequities of tax support among the districts.

"Our district organization unnecessarily hampers achieving the ideal of equal opportunity for all students supported equitably by all," it declared.

In its No. 1 recommendation, the committee asserted:

"The taxing structure for schools should be reexamined with the goal of providing uniform support at least countywide, and preferably statewide, to be apportioned according to school grade level and the average daily attendance in each district. Individual district taxes should be limited to interest and redemption on outstanding school bond issues."

The grand jury committee, headed by Mrs. Pauline Secor of Kentfield, was sharply critical of the accomplishments of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization, citing "a serious impasse in reorganization of school districts" that "is working to the detriment of the education of the students."

"If no tangible results occur in 1971, we recommend that a new committee on school district organization be appointed," it reported.

In other recommendations, the education committee said:

"Marin school districts should consider the adoption of a countywide salary schedule for both certificated and classified personnel . . .

"The state Legislature and the state Board of Education should reexamine all tenure laws. We favor the elimination of the present tenure provisions for probationary teachers and the consideration of long-term contracts for nonprobationary teachers."

While commending the present program of providing bicycle paths, the grand jury committee said cities and county should do more to provide safe walks and bike paths for school pupils. Also it urged expanded public transit service, noting: "Taxpayers are now paying costs of transportation through school taxes without obtaining the benefits of a general public transportation system."

As a final recommendation, it urged that the county schools office circularize all districts regularly with legal opinions from the county counsel.

In the body of its report, the committee tied the need for tenure change to accountability.

"It became clear to us," said the report, "that there is a pronounced trend away from accountability to administrators. The result is a serious decease of accountability of teachers to parents and the public . . . To improve this area of accountability, we believe the present laws relating to tenure . . . should be drastically changed."

Noting that the 1969 grand jury concentrated on problems of Sausalito School District, the 1970 jury said the resulting actions of Sausalito citizens "were traumatic" but it felt "a hands-off policy would be appropriate at this time by the grand jury."

Thoreau Play Auditions Slated

Auditions for the cast and interviews for technical and publicity workers for "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," the next production of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts, will be Monday, Thursday and April 17 at 8 p.m. at 267 Buena Vista Avenue, Mill Valley.

The play is written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, produced by Sali Lieberman and directed by Phil Larsen. Further information may be obtained from Lieberman, 172 Lone Tree Avenue, Mill Valley.

Report Sees Flaw In College Accountability

Steps to correct "a serious flaw in the accountability of the College of Marin to the public" have been recommended by the joint special assignments and education committees of the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury.

The report called for more stress on annual evaluations of all teachers and administrators, a shift of policy responsibility to administrators and away from committees — which should be purely advisory, the panel said — revamping of tenure, and a reshuffling of priorities for the many tasks of the dean of instruction.

Student disciplinary proceedings were snarled by committees more concerned with procedures than with the facts of disciplinary violations, the panel said.

Associated Student fund handling was found to have tightened up since the critical findings of the 1969 grand jury, the report noted.

Voter denial of local bond issues faced the college district with costly delays in building its North Marin campus and a new library for the Kentfield campus, the report noted. "Since construction costs have been constantly on the rise, the less delay . . . the more advantageous it will be to local taxpayers."

The report found that many of the College of Marin troubles could be traced to a series of changes in administration, with five presidents or acting presidents in seven years, and other policy changes marking time before appointment of a new dean of instruction in the spring of 1970.

The jury committee said its studies of College of Marin stressed the accountability of faculty to student, faculty to administration, administration to trustees and trustees to the public.

The report listed two causes for what it called flaws in accountability to the public: Lack of systematic faculty evaluation, and "the excessive committee structure which permeates almost every facet of the operation of the college."

The report said, "of the 19 faculty committees existing . . . none was charged with any responsibility for evaluating their peers." The trustees have adopted a formal policy for annual evaluation of probationary teachers, the investigators reported.

The joint committee found "gratifying" the efforts of the faculty to draft a code of ethics. It called for evaluation of both teachers with tenure and administrators, and "in cases where unprofessional conduct is suspected, the administration should not be reluctant to initiate dismissal proceedings."

Tenure was criticized as "a one-sided contract, committing the institution but not the individual . . . it also acts as a shield for incompetence." The report said most College of Marin teachers are "doing a good to excellent job" and should "have nothing to fear from the removal of this automatic lifetime job security which no other profession is guaranteed."

The joint committee found less to criticize than the 1969 grand jury in terms of associated student finances, but did suggest that the association be held accountable not only for damage to college facilities and landscaping, but also for any costs of extra police protection for student events.

Special assignment committee members participating in the joint report for the grand jury were Jane Ward Vernon, chairman; George C. Benoit Jr., Thomas C. Cheetham, Roberta Erlandsen, Harry Sutcliffe and Joseph W. Wright.

Consolidation Of Many Special Districts Urged By Grand Jury

The number of special districts in Marin leads to inefficient service and inefficient use of tax monies, the Marin County Grand Jury reported yesterday.

The outgoing 1970 grand jury criticized the "proliferation" of districts and district elections, and urged consolidation of many.

The jury's municipalities, districts and commissions committee noted there are 63 special districts, not including school districts, in Marin.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors governs 22 of the districts, with the other 41 governed by local boards — usually elective, the report said.

The committee made several specific recommendations:

The state legislature should set limits on amounts of uncommitted reserve funds accumulated by special districts and the districts should be required to file more detailed budgets with the county auditor-controller.

The board of supervisors should adopt the recommendations of the 1967 Brown and Caldwell report, which urged division of Marin into four sewerage service areas, and the Marin Municipal and North Marin Water districts should be designated to coordinate sewer functions in the four areas. The jury commended seven Southern Marin sanitary districts which are studying merger under the jurisdiction of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Citing "grave inefficiencies in operations and uneconomic use of tax monies," the committee urged all fire department officials to examine "with a sense of urgency" the need for consolidation.

The committee commended the MMWD directors for adoption of land use criteria for Mount Tamalpais lands, but questioned the propriety of the district leasing public land "even at a fair price" to the private Meadow Club above Fairfax.

Jean W. Homer of Kentfield served as chairman of the municipalities, districts and commissions committee. Other members were Ruby Daly of Larkspur, Joseph W. Wright of Novato, Pauline Secor of Kentfield and Marilyn Steinau of Belvedere.

The committee urged the board of supervisors to select four annual election dates in the hope districts would voluntarily consolidate elections.

The 1970 Marin County Grand Jury also:

FEES — Urged the county clerk's office to follow up on the possibility of collecting filing fees and other court costs from persons filing court actions through the Marin County Legal Aid Society.

SUPERVISORS — Noted an "absolute dependence" by the board of supervisors on its administrative staff, and warned against delegation of too much authority.

STUDIES — Recommended to County Administrator Alan Bruce that departmental studies be made only by qualified personnel, saying "complaints indicate this is not always the case."

PLANNING — Noted "steady improvement in departmental organization and public relations with the community" in the planning department — the subject of heavy criticism by past grand juries.

PUBLIC DEFENDER — Recommended stricter procedure for determining eligibility for the services of the public defender's office and urged the Legislature to enact laws requiring later collection of fees when a defendant is found able to contribute to his own defense.

AIRPORT — Suggested that the county proceed with plans for ultimate development of Marin County Airport as a ½'reliever airport" which would relieve large airports of small plane activity.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Whooping Cough Is Rare And Little Research Into Causes

Whooping cough (pertussis) is rare because of pertussis vaccine. And — little research is being conducted since the disease no longer is a threat to our health. This is unfortunate because there is a possibility that the causative organism is not what it is generally believed to be. To the medical profession, this may sound heretical. Until recently we knew that the microbe, Bordetella pertussis, caused whooping cough. The bacillus, discovered by Bordet and Gengou back in 1906, usually is found in the upper respiratory passageways and coughed up during the early stages of the disease. Cough plate cultures are used to identify the organism.

DESPITE THIS apparent unequivocal evidence, whooping cough more closely resembles a viral rather than a bacterial respiratory infection. Young children are mainly affected but, luckily, pertussis is followed by long-lasting immunity.

ADENOVIRUSES may have the dubious honor of causing whooping cough. These critters are capable of producing a severe infection of the lower respiratory tract similar to the bronchitis seen in pertussis.

RECENT STUDIES conducted on 13 children in Florida tend to confirm this idea. According to Dr. J.D. Connor, all of the youngsters had what was considered to be whooping cough but none had positive cultures for B. pertussis. In addition, 11 of the 13 (85 per cent) children were shedding adenoviruses. In similar laboratory studies done on 200 controls, viruses were found in only 3 per cent.

THIS IS NOT the first time adenoviruses have entered the pertussis controversy. Until more research is done, both bacteria and viruses must be suspect in the whooping cough syndrome.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

DRYING THE DISHES

F. D. writes: What do you say to a dinner guest who offers to dry the dishes but hasn't washed her hands before picking up a towel?

REPLY

Either refuse the offer or say diplomatically, "You've just had dinner and I know you want to wash up." Guide her to the powder room before she has a chance to say no. Her hands may be cleaNer than you think, so don't be too fussy.

PROTRUDING DISK

P. A. writes: When a wornout disk is taken from the spine, what is used to fill in the empty space?

REPLY

Nothing. The entire disk is not always removed and the remnants separate the vertebras. Some surgeons fuse the vertebrae together with a bone graft.

HONEY AND DIABETES

N. T. writes: I use honey instead of sugar for sweetening purposes. A friend told me recently this habit will cause sugar diabetes. Is this possible?

REPLY

No. Diabetes is the result of the body's inability to produce insulin and metabolize sugars. It is not caused by eating certain foods.

PERITONITIS

H. B. writes: How is generalized peritonitis treated?

REPLY

The antibiotics are most useful, depending upon the causative organism. Surgery usually is needed to repair or eliminate the cause or to promote drainage of pus.

No Mass Fraud In Berkeley's Registration

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. says he found no evidence of mass irregularities in registrations for the Berkeley election.

Brown visited the city clerk's office on election day to investigate various charges of fraud.

Some charges were made by those who had unearthed a couple dozen names of young voters who gave their residence as a youth hostel or a church.

Radical factions then reported the names of four businessmen who gave their place of business as their residence while actually living outside Berkeley.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Whooping Cough Is Rare And Little Research Into Causes

Whooping cough (pertussis) is rare because of pertussis vaccine. And — little research is being conducted since the disease no longer is a threat to our health. This is unfortunate because there is a possibility that the causative organism is not what it is generally believed to be. To the medical profession, this may sound heretical. Until recently we knew that the microbe, Bordetella pertussis, caused whooping cough. The bacillus, discovered by Bordet and Gengou back in 1906, usually is found in the upper respiratory passageways and coughed up during the early stages of the disease. Cough plate cultures are used to identify the organism.

DESPITE THIS apparent unequivocal evidence, whooping cough more closely resembles a viral rather than a bacterial respiratory infection. Young children are mainly affected but, luckily, pertussis is followed by long-lasting immunity.

ADENOVIRUSES may have the dubious honor of causing whooping cough. These critters are capable of producing a severe infection of the lower respiratory tract similar to the bronchitis seen in pertussis.

RECENT STUDIES conducted on 13 children in Florida tend to confirm this idea. According to Dr. J.D. Connor, all of the youngsters had what was considered to be whooping cough but none had positive cultures for B. pertussis. In addition, 11 of the 13 (85 per cent) children were shedding adenoviruses. In similar laboratory studies done on 200 controls, viruses were found in only 3 per cent.

THIS IS NOT the first time adenoviruses have entered the pertussis controversy. Until more research is done, both bacteria and viruses must be suspect in the whooping cough syndrome.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

DRYING THE DISHES

F. D. writes: What do you say to a dinner guest who offers to dry the dishes but hasn't washed her hands before picking up a towel?

REPLY

Either refuse the offer or say diplomatically, "You've just had dinner and I know you want to wash up." Guide her to the powder room before she has a chance to say no. Her hands may be cleaNer than you think, so don't be too fussy.

PROTRUDING DISK

P. A. writes: When a wornout disk is taken from the spine, what is used to fill in the empty space?

REPLY

Nothing. The entire disk is not always removed and the remnants separate the vertebras. Some surgeons fuse the vertebrae together with a bone graft.

HONEY AND DIABETES

N. T. writes: I use honey instead of sugar for sweetening purposes. A friend told me recently this habit will cause sugar diabetes. Is this possible?

REPLY

No. Diabetes is the result of the body's inability to produce insulin and metabolize sugars. It is not caused by eating certain foods.

PERITONITIS

H. B. writes: How is generalized peritonitis treated?

REPLY

The antibiotics are most useful, depending upon the causative organism. Surgery usually is needed to repair or eliminate the cause or to promote drainage of pus.

It is open to children of all ages, both residents and nonresidents. It is sponsored by the Marinwood Funsters and Mont Marin Homeowners Association.

Novato — The San Marin Improvement Association will sponsor the largest of three hunts. Children will look for 1,400 eggs at 1 p.m. Saturday at San Marin Drive and San Ramon Way.

Poplar Terra Neighborhood Improvement Association will have an egg hunt for the children of that area at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Manuel Drive and Davidson Street. The hunt is for pre-school children through sixth grade.

Loma Verde Homeowners Association will sponsor an egg hunt at 10 a.m. Saturday at Loma Verde School for children from the Loma Verde area through the age of 12 years.

San Rafael — Loch Lomond Yacht Club will have its annual Easter Egg hunt from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday in the club parking lot for children of club members and their guests. The Easter Bunny will be there and award prizes to the most successful egg finders. He will direct games afterward.

No Mass Fraud In Berkeley's Registration

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. says he found no evidence of mass irregularities in registrations for the Berkeley election.

Brown visited the city clerk's office on election day to investigate various charges of fraud.

Some charges were made by those who had unearthed a couple dozen names of young voters who gave their residence as a youth hostel or a church.

Radical factions then reported the names of four businessmen who gave their place of business as their residence while actually living outside Berkeley.

He is to plead Monday to misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and a hypodermic syringe and disturbing the peace.

Many State Farmers With High Subsidies

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration today identified 23 farm operators who last year collected federal farm subsidies of $500,000 or more. Nine got at least $1 million.

The largest single subsidy was a $4.4 million payment to J. G. Boswell Co., Corcoran, Calif., a large cotton producer.

The administration's list contained the names of 137,000 farmers who drew $5,000 or more during 1970 under price support and other programs for crops including cotton, sugar, feed grain, meat and wool. The payments totalled $3.7 billion.

Most of the giant support payments went to big cotton and sugar producers.

A 1970 law now limits payments for producers of cotton, wheat and feed grains to $55,000 per crop annually. There is no ceiling on sugar producers, who got six of last year's 23 payments over $500,000.

The million dollar farms listed, in addition to J. G. Boswell, were: Giffen, Inc., Huron, Calif., $4,095,114; South Lake Farms, Fresno, Calif., $1,875,454; Salyer Land Co., Corcoran, Calif., $1,547,174; H. M. Tenneco, Bakersfield, Calif., $1,317,061; Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co., Puunene, Hawaii, $1,232,166; Waialua Sugar Co. Ltd., Waialua, Hawaii, $1,111,060; Vista Del Llano Farms, Firebaugh, Calif., $1,105,762; U.S. Sugar Corp., Clewiston, Fla., $1,073,980.

The 14 farms that received $500,000 to $1 million were: S.A. Camp Farms Co., Shafter, Calif., $903,650; Farmers Investment Co., Sahuarita, Ariz., $865,776; Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., $814,646; Mount Whitney Farms, Five Points, Calif., $804,583; Kirby Hughes, Tucson, Ariz., $797,428; Westlake Farms, Stratford, Calif., $721,129; Boston Ranch Co., Lemoore, Calif., $677,225; State Of Montana, Helena, Mont., $666,757; Telles Ranch Inc., Firebaugh, Calif., $632,779; C & V Growers Inc., Maricopa, Ariz., $543,577; Oahu Sugar Co. Ltd., Waipahu, Hawaii, $528,884; South Puerto Rico Sugar Co., South Bay, Florida, $522,899; Lihue Plantation Co. Ltd., Lihue, Hawaii, $516,684; Jack Harris Inc., Coalinga, Calif., $500,068.

In 1969, eight farmers collected at least $1 million. The listing of the 23 largest payments showed little change from a year previously.

Farmers who received $5,000 and up drew an estimated 45.5 per cent of the total payments last year. The rest of the $3.7 billion was spread among 2.3 million small operators.

San Mateo Says City's Jail Is Public Nuisance

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—San Mateo County filed suit Thursday declaring the City of San Francisco's jail at San Bruno is a public nuisance and should be improved.

San Bruno is in San Mateo County.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson's brief listed 24 deficiencies in the jail built in 1934 and attached a state report asserting there were "deficient conditions."

Among the complaints was an indication that the jail is dangerous to nearby residents because of escapes.

Reporter Convictions Reversed By Court

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)—The State Supreme Court yesterday reversed contempt of court citations against two Seattle Times reporters convicted in connection with the Thomas Braun-Leonard E. Maine murder trial in Snohomish County.

The reporters, Dee Norton and Sam R. Sperry, were convicted by Judge Thomas McCrea, who said they violated a court order against reporting trial proceedings that occurred outside the hearing of the jury.

In reversing the conviction, Supreme Court Justice Walter T. McGovern said: "To sustain this judgment of contempt would be to say that the mere possibility of prejudicial matter reaching a juror outside the courtroom is more important than is a constitutionally guaranteed freedom of expression.

"This we cannot say," McGovern said in his opinion.

The high court decision was unanimous as Chief Justice Orris Hamilton, and Justices Frank Hale, Hugh J. Rosellini, Marshall Neil, Charles Stafford and Charles T. Wright signed McGovern's opinion. Justices Robert C. Finley and Robert T. Hunter wrote separate opinions agreeing with the contempt reversal.

Braun and Maine, both of Ritzville, were convicted of killing Mrs. Deanna Buse, 22, Monroe, on Aug. 19, 1967.

Braun was sentenced to hang and Maine was sentenced to life in prison.

The two were extradited from California where they were serving sentences for the slaying of Timothy Luce, 17, Ukiah, Calif., and the subsequent rape and shooting of Susan Bartolomei, 19, also of Ukiah. Miss Bartolomei survived the attack but still is paralyzed.

Braun faces the gas chamber in California while Maine was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The two also are charged with the slaying of a Portland, Ore., salesman. All three slayings took place on the same weekend.

He is to plead Monday to misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and a hypodermic syringe and disturbing the peace.

Many State Farmers With High Subsidies

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration today identified 23 farm operators who last year collected federal farm subsidies of $500,000 or more. Nine got at least $1 million.

The largest single subsidy was a $4.4 million payment to J. G. Boswell Co., Corcoran, Calif., a large cotton producer.

The administration's list contained the names of 137,000 farmers who drew $5,000 or more during 1970 under price support and other programs for crops including cotton, sugar, feed grain, meat and wool. The payments totalled $3.7 billion.

Most of the giant support payments went to big cotton and sugar producers.

A 1970 law now limits payments for producers of cotton, wheat and feed grains to $55,000 per crop annually. There is no ceiling on sugar producers, who got six of last year's 23 payments over $500,000.

The million dollar farms listed, in addition to J. G. Boswell, were: Giffen, Inc., Huron, Calif., $4,095,114; South Lake Farms, Fresno, Calif., $1,875,454; Salyer Land Co., Corcoran, Calif., $1,547,174; H. M. Tenneco, Bakersfield, Calif., $1,317,061; Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co., Puunene, Hawaii, $1,232,166; Waialua Sugar Co. Ltd., Waialua, Hawaii, $1,111,060; Vista Del Llano Farms, Firebaugh, Calif., $1,105,762; U.S. Sugar Corp., Clewiston, Fla., $1,073,980.

The 14 farms that received $500,000 to $1 million were: S.A. Camp Farms Co., Shafter, Calif., $903,650; Farmers Investment Co., Sahuarita, Ariz., $865,776; Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., $814,646; Mount Whitney Farms, Five Points, Calif., $804,583; Kirby Hughes, Tucson, Ariz., $797,428; Westlake Farms, Stratford, Calif., $721,129; Boston Ranch Co., Lemoore, Calif., $677,225; State Of Montana, Helena, Mont., $666,757; Telles Ranch Inc., Firebaugh, Calif., $632,779; C & V Growers Inc., Maricopa, Ariz., $543,577; Oahu Sugar Co. Ltd., Waipahu, Hawaii, $528,884; South Puerto Rico Sugar Co., South Bay, Florida, $522,899; Lihue Plantation Co. Ltd., Lihue, Hawaii, $516,684; Jack Harris Inc., Coalinga, Calif., $500,068.

In 1969, eight farmers collected at least $1 million. The listing of the 23 largest payments showed little change from a year previously.

Farmers who received $5,000 and up drew an estimated 45.5 per cent of the total payments last year. The rest of the $3.7 billion was spread among 2.3 million small operators.

San Mateo Says City's Jail Is Public Nuisance

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—San Mateo County filed suit Thursday declaring the City of San Francisco's jail at San Bruno is a public nuisance and should be improved.

San Bruno is in San Mateo County.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson's brief listed 24 deficiencies in the jail built in 1934 and attached a state report asserting there were "deficient conditions."

Among the complaints was an indication that the jail is dangerous to nearby residents because of escapes.

Reporter Convictions Reversed By Court

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)—The State Supreme Court yesterday reversed contempt of court citations against two Seattle Times reporters convicted in connection with the Thomas Braun-Leonard E. Maine murder trial in Snohomish County.

The reporters, Dee Norton and Sam R. Sperry, were convicted by Judge Thomas McCrea, who said they violated a court order against reporting trial proceedings that occurred outside the hearing of the jury.

In reversing the conviction, Supreme Court Justice Walter T. McGovern said: "To sustain this judgment of contempt would be to say that the mere possibility of prejudicial matter reaching a juror outside the courtroom is more important than is a constitutionally guaranteed freedom of expression.

"This we cannot say," McGovern said in his opinion.

The high court decision was unanimous as Chief Justice Orris Hamilton, and Justices Frank Hale, Hugh J. Rosellini, Marshall Neil, Charles Stafford and Charles T. Wright signed McGovern's opinion. Justices Robert C. Finley and Robert T. Hunter wrote separate opinions agreeing with the contempt reversal.

Braun and Maine, both of Ritzville, were convicted of killing Mrs. Deanna Buse, 22, Monroe, on Aug. 19, 1967.

Braun was sentenced to hang and Maine was sentenced to life in prison.

The two were extradited from California where they were serving sentences for the slaying of Timothy Luce, 17, Ukiah, Calif., and the subsequent rape and shooting of Susan Bartolomei, 19, also of Ukiah. Miss Bartolomei survived the attack but still is paralyzed.

Braun faces the gas chamber in California while Maine was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The two also are charged with the slaying of a Portland, Ore., salesman. All three slayings took place on the same weekend.

ALMANAC

By United Press International

Today is Friday, April 9, the 99th day of 1971. This is Good Friday.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

American artist Charles Burchfield was born April 9, 1893.

On this day in history:

In 1865 Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Gen. Ulysses Grant at Appomattox Courthouse in Virginia.

In 1940 Germany invaded Norway and Denmark in World War II.

In 1963 the U.S. nuclear submarine "Thresher" went down 220 miles east of Boston. All 129 men aboard were lost.

A thought for today: American writer Thomas Paine said, "Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must, like men, undergo the fatigue of supporting it."

THE DROPOUTS

"There are more ways of killing a cat than reading bridge articles to it and boring it to death," writes a friendly (I think) New York bridge fan. "Instead of spending all your time on what declarer can accomplish by holding up a trick, why not say something about what the defenders should do?" Fair enough. Here's one to try on your cat.

Opening lead — ♠ Q

REFUSES TRICK

West leads the queen of spades, and South refuses the trick, having read my earlier articles this week on holding up with a double stopper in the enemy's suit. West continues with the deuce of spades, and dummy's king wins.

Declarer leads a low club from the dummy, and East plays low with the sickening feeling that he is about to be euchred out of his king. South puts up the queen of clubs, and West wins with the ace.

Now the hand is over, and your cat, if you're reading this article to it, should stalk out of the room in disgust. West can set up the spades, but he can obviously never regain the lead. South will lose only a spade and two clubs.

DOUBLE ERROR

East should begin a good defense by stepping up with the king of clubs when declarer leads that suit from the dummy. When the king of clubs holds the trick (much to East's relief), East should lead his remaining spade. This knocks out declarer's last spade stopper while West still has the ace of clubs.

When East muffs his opportunity by playing a low club (instead of the king), West should refuse to win the trick with the ace. Fortunately for the defense, South needs a second club trick. East must win the second round of clubs and still have time to lead his spade.

THINK LATER

If your cat is realistic about bridge players, however, he will agree that few defenders would defeat today's contract.

SUYDERHOUD DOES A SPIN ON SKIS OF HIS OWN MAKING

Mike Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, who will be defending his Masters and World Championship water ski titles this summer, got in some practice this week at Lake Oswego in Oregon. Shown here doing a full spin, Suyderhoud is trying out the Caprice TTS competition slalom ski which he has designed for Western Wood Co. A chemistry major at Sonoma State College, the 21-year-old Suyderhoud has won the national overall championship the past four years, since 1967, and the bi-annual world's overall title in 1967 and 1969. He also holds the world jump record of 165 feet. He will be defending his Masters crown July 8-9-10 at Callaway Gardens, Ga., and his world title Sept. 11 through 18 at Banolas, Spain, near Barcelona. After trying out his new skis, Mike returned to San Anselmo yesterday and will be doing his practicing at Bahia development in Novato. Working out with Mike will be the Dutch national champion, 19-year-old Arie De Gans of Rotterdam, Holland.

Your Chance To Help The Game Wardens

As I am deeply concerned with the health, wealth and happiness of my friends, I visited Al Giddings at his home in Woodacre yesterday afternoon.

Giddings does our popular Fish and Game column, but it is his position as a warden for the Department of Fish and Game that prompted my visit. I wanted to know how the proposed hike in fish and game license fees would affect him.

"Hah," he hah'd, "I received my paycheck for this month the other day and it was for $692.62, which is unbelievable even to me. It's just not enough. Everytime it comes it puts me in the doldrums. The license fee increase might be the crux for the game wardens and other DFG personnel to get a pay raise, but I don't know."

Warming up to the subject, Big Al continued: "Most everyone says that the game wardens are most essential. Most everyone says that without them our fish and wildlife, the ecology and the environment would be in far greater danger than it is now. Yet, throughout the entire state there are only about 220 wardens covering every inch of land, sea and other waters. Two wardens are assigned to Marin County, and approximately eight others to serve Napa, Sonoma and part of Solano counties."

What does a warden do for his $692.62? I asked Giddings, who had an answer ready to fire. "My home is the Fish and Game headquarters for my district," he said. "I keep a state car, a state boat and motor and all the gear that goes with these in my yard. Look around you," he motioned with a sweep of his big paws, "My house is used to meet the public, a state phone is in the kitchen, and parts of three rooms are required to store books, papers, reports, pamphlets and other office gear. Uniforms, guns, bullets and other things necessary for the job are all here. The state does not pay us one dime for the use of the house as an office. And phone calls! Why, they come morning, noon and night. Days off or days on, how does the public know which is which?"

Giddings' beat is a busy one, he said: "This past month I believe I gave five conservation talks to different clubs or schools — one at 7 a.m., one during the day and three at night. On four of my days off, I had important calls to handle, so I took other time off to compensate whenever possible because we do not get paid a nickel for overtime.

"During March I made 16 arrests, most of them from the patrol boat. Running the patrol boat requires two men, so I had my son with me on two arrests, two friends on four others, a reserve warden on a big day of eight arrests and a deputy sheriff on six others. I covered about a thousand miles of land and about 200 miles of water. Some people think that the outdoors, the fishing and so forth makes up for our financial losses. But fishing and hunting knowledge and techniques are the most essential part of the job. I get asked hundreds of questions.

"And last week, when I was fishing among about 10 other boats in San Pablo Bay, I cited two fishermen for using two rods each and the people in another boat for throwing their garbage overboard. Did I get a fish? Who cared?"

While I was with Giddings the phone jangled several times on official matters. "Yesterday was my day off," he said, "but I had Mr. Louis Osterero from the Sierra Club here for two hours discussing the dog-deer problem. I had four phone calls from fishermen asking about places to go; one letter from a former Fish and Game employee asking about an abalone trip which I answered; a letter from the DFG explaining the

A's Trade Alou To Yankees

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees Friday acquired 35-year-old power-hitting outfielder Felipe Alou from the Oakland A's in exchange for relief pitcher Ron Klimkowski and minor league hurler Rob Gardner.

Alou, who broke into the majors with the San Francisco Giants in 1958, has a .290 lifetime batting average. The righthanded hitter has batted over .300 three times in his career and has also been an all-star three times. He twice led the National League in hits.

With Oakland, Alou hit .271 last season.

Klimkowski was 6-7 with a 2.64 earned run average as the Yankees' middle relief man in 1970. Gardner was 16-5 with the Syracuse Chiefs of the International League last year before winning three games in the International League playoffs.

6 MARINITES IN FINALS AT ROUND HILL

Six players from Marin County won semi-final matches yesterday and advanced to today's finals in the Round Hill Junior Tennis tournament at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo.

In all-Marin finals, Steve DeMartini of Greenbrae meets Marcus Robinson of Mill Valley in the boys 16 class, and Sue Beatty of Tiburon goes against Lisa Beritzhoff of Mill Valley in girls 14. Other Marinites playing today are Henry Jacobsen of Belvedere, who plays Bill Fischer of San Francisco for the boys' 14 title, and Stacey Hook of Tiburon, who meets Bonnie Carey of San Francisco for the girl's 18 crown.

Miss Beatty also will try for the girls' 16 championship.

Matte Joins John Unitas In Hospital

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore Colts running back Tom Matte underwent an appendicitis operation Thursday and joined Johnny Unitas at Union Hospital where the veteran Colt quarterback was recovering from heel surgery.

Matte entered the hospital Wednesday night with what physicians believed was a case of bleeding ulcers which had plagued him for eight years. Examination showed his appendix was about to burst, doctors said.

Matte, whose appendix was removed Thursday, joined Unitas, who underwent surgery Wednesday for a severed Achilles tendon in his right heel. Both players were reported in good condition.

Matte was playing paddle tennis with Unitas Wednesday when the quarterback suffered the heel injury.

Coody Hopes He Learned Lesson

Masters Golf Leader Thinks Back To 1969

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The way Texan Charlie Coody figures it, the nightmare he lived through two years ago when he let a chance at the Masters golf championship slip through his fingers may be just the thing that wins it for him this year.

The 33-year-old Coody, who never has won a major championship in eight years as a tournament golfer, stormed out of the pack with a six-under-par 66 in Thursday's opening round of the Masters to grab a three-stroke lead over five golfers tied at 69.

And the thought in everyone's mind, including Charlie Coody's, was—remember 1969.

That was the year when the wild final round of the Masters suddenly found Coody the leader as he walked toward the 16th tee, three holes to play. But something happened there under the towering southern pines and the Abilene, Tex., pro bogeyed every one of those last three holes to finish two strokes behind winner George Archer.

"I hope I learn something from experience," said the tall, dark-haired Coody quietly. "I thought about what happened a lot, and I know what I did wrong. I played in too much of a hurry; I wasn't thinking through my shots; and I missed the green on all three holes.

"What I learned from that helped me to win another tournament later that year, the Cleveland Open," he added. "Maybe someday it will help me to win a major championship—maybe this one this year."

Coody, tall, slope-shouldered, and laconic, seized the first-round lead with a three-birdie burst from the 13th through the 15th holes just when it seemed that 69 probably would be good enough for first place. In the five-way tie at 69 were Bob Murphy, Don January, Ray Floyd, Bob Lunn, and dark-horse Hale Irwin.

Tied at 70, four strokes behind Coody, were tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus and Dale Douglass. At one-under-par 71 were Bert Yancey, Tom Weiskopf, and 47-year-old Art Wall, and a dozen were tied at par 72, including defending champion Billy Casper and the man he beat in last year's playoff, Gene Littler, plus South African Gary Player.

Arnold Palmer, after "the worst round I've played this year," was in another logjam at 73, along with Archer and U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin of England.

The key to Coody's first-round play, which included six

GOMEZ TALKS ABOUT WILLIE

Mays Has Padres' Skipper Shaking Head In Disbelief

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Preston Gomez had his first win of the year but the manager of the San Diego Padres wanted to talk about venerable Willie Mays.

"He is too much," Gomez said in a salute to San Francisco's 39-year-old outfielder. "He's swinging that bat as good as he did 10 years ago. He's a fine example for all our young guys."

The Padres overcame Mays' continued early season heroics Thursday night as they got three runs in the ninth inning to nip the Giants 7-6.

Mays, who has a birthday next month, drove in five runs with his third homer in three games and a single but he wasn't in a mood to celebrate.

"We didn't win the game and that's all that counts," he said.

Mays' blast came with the bases loaded in the seventh inning—his eighth career grand slammer—to cut the distance between himself and Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714 to 83 homers.

For the three-game series, Mays went six-for-14 and had seven RBIs.

Gomez, who missed the first two contests because he had to go to Mexico City on personal business, watched his big slugger, Nate Colbert, redeem himself with one out in the ninth.

Colbert hit a towering fly to deep center field that drove in Larry Stahl with the winning run. He struck out his previous three trips to the plate.

Stahl, who has won a starting outfield berth, also clubbed a two-run homer off Giant rookie starter Steve Stone in the first inning. The Padres scored three times off Stone to take a 3-1 lead after Mays singled in Bobby Bonds in the top of the inning.

After the Padres added a run in the fourth, the Giants went

"During March I made 16 arrests, most of them from the patrol boat. Running the patrol boat requires two men, so I had my son with me on two arrests, two friends on four others, a reserve warden on a big day of eight arrests and a deputy sheriff on six others. I covered about a thousand miles of land and about 200 miles of water. Some people think that the outdoors, the fishing and so forth makes up for our financial losses. But fishing and hunting knowledge and techniques are the most essential part of the job. I get asked hundreds of questions.

"And last week, when I was fishing among about 10 other boats in San Pablo Bay, I cited two fishermen for using two rods each and the people in another boat for throwing their garbage overboard. Did I get a fish? Who cared?"

While I was with Giddings the phone jangled several times on official matters. "Yesterday was my day off," he said, "but I had Mr. Louis Osterero from the Sierra Club here for two hours discussing the dog-deer problem. I had four phone calls from fishermen asking about places to go; one letter from a former Fish and Game employee asking about an abalone trip which I answered; a letter from the DFG explaining the

A's Trade Alou To Yankees

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees Friday acquired 35-year-old power-hitting outfielder Felipe Alou from the Oakland A's in exchange for relief pitcher Ron Klimkowski and minor league hurler Rob Gardner.

Alou, who broke into the majors with the San Francisco Giants in 1958, has a .290 lifetime batting average. The righthanded hitter has batted over .300 three times in his career and has also been an all-star three times. He twice led the National League in hits.

With Oakland, Alou hit .271 last season.

Klimkowski was 6-7 with a 2.64 earned run average as the Yankees' middle relief man in 1970. Gardner was 16-5 with the Syracuse Chiefs of the International League last year before winning three games in the International League playoffs.

Coody Hopes He Learned Lesson

Masters Golf Leader Thinks Back To 1969

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The way Texan Charlie Coody figures it, the nightmare he lived through two years ago when he let a chance at the Masters golf championship slip through his fingers may be just the thing that wins it for him this year.

The 33-year-old Coody, who never has won a major championship in eight years as a tournament golfer, stormed out of the pack with a six-under-par 66 in Thursday's opening round of the Masters to grab a three-stroke lead over five golfers tied at 69.

And the thought in everyone's mind, including Charlie Coody's, was—remember 1969.

That was the year when the wild final round of the Masters suddenly found Coody the leader as he walked toward the 16th tee, three holes to play. But something happened there under the towering southern pines and the Abilene, Tex., pro bogeyed every one of those last three holes to finish two strokes behind winner George Archer.

"I hope I learn something from experience," said the tall, dark-haired Coody quietly. "I thought about what happened a lot, and I know what I did wrong. I played in too much of a hurry; I wasn't thinking through my shots; and I missed the green on all three holes.

"What I learned from that helped me to win another tournament later that year, the Cleveland Open," he added. "Maybe someday it will help me to win a major championship—maybe this one this year."

Coody, tall, slope-shouldered, and laconic, seized the first-round lead with a three-birdie burst from the 13th through the 15th holes just when it seemed that 69 probably would be good enough for first place. In the five-way tie at 69 were Bob Murphy, Don January, Ray Floyd, Bob Lunn, and dark-horse Hale Irwin.

Tied at 70, four strokes behind Coody, were tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus and Dale Douglass. At one-under-par 71 were Bert Yancey, Tom Weiskopf, and 47-year-old Art Wall, and a dozen were tied at par 72, including defending champion Billy Casper and the man he beat in last year's playoff, Gene Littler, plus South African Gary Player.

Arnold Palmer, after "the worst round I've played this year," was in another logjam at 73, along with Archer and U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin of England.

The key to Coody's first-round play, which included six

GOMEZ TALKS ABOUT WILLIE

Mays Has Padres' Skipper Shaking Head In Disbelief

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Preston Gomez had his first win of the year but the manager of the San Diego Padres wanted to talk about venerable Willie Mays.

"He is too much," Gomez said in a salute to San Francisco's 39-year-old outfielder. "He's swinging that bat as good as he did 10 years ago. "He's a fine example for all our young guys."

The Padres overcame Mays' continued early season heroics Thursday night as they got three runs in the ninth inning to nip the Giants 7-6.

Mays, who has a birthday next month, drove in five runs with his third homer in three games and a single but he wasn't in a mood to celebrate.

"We didn't win the game and that's all that counts," he said.

Mays' blast came with the bases loaded in the seventh inning—his eighth career grand slammer—to cut the distance between himself and Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714 to 83 homers.

For the three-game series, Mays went six-for-14 and had seven RBIs.

Gomez, who missed the first two contests because he had to go to Mexico City on personal business, watched his big slugger, Nate Colbert, redeem himself with one out in the ninth.

Colbert hit a towering fly to deep center field that drove in Larry Stahl with the winning run. He struck out his previous three trips to the plate.

Stahl, who has won a starting outfield berth, also clubbed a two-run homer off Giant rookie starter Steve Stone in the first inning. The Padres scored three times off Stone to take a 3-1 lead after Mays singled in Bobby Bonds in the top of the inning.

After the Padres added a run in the fourth, the Giants went

6 MARINITES IN FINALS AT ROUND HILL

Six players from Marin County won semi-final matches yesterday and advanced to today's finals in the Round Hill Junior Tennis tournament at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo.

In all-Marin finals, Steve DeMartini of Greenbrae meets Marcus Robinson of Mill Valley in the boys 16 class, and Sue Beatty of Tiburon goes against Lisa Beritzhoff of Mill Valley in girls 14. Other Marinites playing today are Henry Jacobsen of Belvedere, who plays Bill Fischer of San Francisco for the boys' 14 title, and Stacey Hook of Tiburon, who meets Bonnie Carey of San Francisco for the girl's 18 crown.

Miss Beatty also will try for the girls' 16 championship.

Matte Joins John Unitas In Hospital

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore Colts running back Tom Matte underwent an appendicitis operation Thursday and joined Johnny Unitas at Union Hospital where the veteran Colt quarterback was recovering from heel surgery.

Matte entered the hospital Wednesday night with what physicians believed was a case of bleeding ulcers which had plagued him for eight years. Examination showed his appendix was about to burst, doctors said.

Matte, whose appendix was removed Thursday, joined Unitas, who underwent surgery Wednesday for a severed Achilles tendon in his right heel. Both players were reported in good condition.

Matte was playing paddle tennis with Unitas Wednesday when the quarterback suffered the heel injury.

Off Track Betting Success

NEW YORK (UPI)—Howard Samuels and officials of his Offtrack Betting Corp. (OTB), describing themselves as "stunned by the response and patience of New Yorkers," met into the early morning hours today to study possible improvements in their precocious betting system.

OTB head Samuels described yesterday's opening turnout at the city's two betting offices and over the phone lines as "spectacular." He had predicted a first day total take of $10,000. City horseplayers bet $66,098 on the nine-card race at Roosevelt Raceway.

Also spectacular were the 100-person lines stretching halfway across Grand Central Station from the 10 windows operating there. A total of $31,146 was bet at Grand Central, but bettors had to wait as long as three hours at peak periods.

To help alleviate the situation, a spokesman for Samuels said some changes would be made when the windows opened at 8 a.m. this morning.

Windows will be differentiated by such labels as "daily double," "six tickets only" and "exacta." Also, some windows would be set aside for those returning to cash in winning tickets.

Samuels emphasized this morning that such experiments would continue until bugs were worked out of the system.

"We are working on a pilot basis. We are learning," Samuels said. "No one has done it before in this country."

Samuels planned to be on hand this morning to congratulate the first winner who came in to collect at Grand Central and also to thank his harried staff, some of whom were still at work early today.

"Fantastic...it's good...the city's got a winner," were some of the remarks overheard as the waiters patiently studied form sheets that many were perusing for the first time.

Mayor John V. Lindsay joined the new game in town and, with the permission of his wife, put down $2 on Moneywise in the seventh. Moneywise finished out of the money fourth.

HOCKEY OR FIGHT NIGHT? — An unidentified Toronto Maple Leaf player flew through the air to join a five player brawl last night during the final minutes of a National Hockey League playoff game in New York. Among the participants were Toronto's Norm Ullman (9), and Paul Henderson (19), and New York's Brad Park (2), Tim Horton (3), and Walt Tkaczuk (18). Toronto won, 4-1. (UPI Telephoto)

Meminger Scores 35 In Victory

HONOLULU (UPI) —Marquette's Dean Meminger drilled 35 points to give the Midwest a narrow 97-95 verdict over the South in the third annual Aloha Classic Thursday night.

In the opening game of the double header, Oregon's Stan Love scored 28 points to spark the West to a 111-89 victory over the East.

Meminger, who led Marquette to 39 straight wins over a two-year period and was claimed in the first round of the NBA draft by the New York Knicks, hit on 15 of 23 shots from the floor and took five of seven from the line.

Mrs. Schultz used her three-wood to ace the 131-yard 14th hole yesterday. Witnessing the shot were Mrs. Luke Helms, Mrs. Ed Vest and Mrs. William Del Monte.

Chicago Takes 2-0 Lead: Other NHL Teams Even

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

the season in their own division, the Chicago Black Hawks stand alone today among the Stanley Cup contenders with a two-game lead in their playoff series.

But, most hockey fans will have to agree, all the fun seems to be happening over in Boston and New York.

While Chicago was ripping the Philadelphia Flyers 6-2 in routine fashion Thursday night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final series, the Bruins incredibly blew a four-goal lead to drop a 7-5 decision to the Montreal Canadiens. And in New York, Ranger wing Vic Hadfield took out his frustrations by flinging Toronto goalie Bernie Parent's face mask into the crowd during a 4-1 Maple Leaf victory.

In the other playoff, the St. Louis Blues defeated the Minnesota North Stars 4-2. This left all of the series, with the exception of Chicago-Philadelphia, deadlocked at a game apiece with action on all four fronts resuming Saturday.

After Yvan Cournoyer scored for Montreal in the opening minutes of the game, Boston countered with five consecutive goals to take a 5-1 advantage. But Henri Richard started the Canadiens back at 15:33 of the second period, and they got five more goals in the final session to complete the incredible comeback.

Jean Beliveau scored the first two goals in the third period and, after Cournoyer tied the score with his second goal of the night, Beliveau set up John Ferguson for the winner at 15:23. Frank Mahovlich picked up the final goal with 1:20 left to play.

"I didn't say anything special before the third period," Montreal Coach Al MacNeil said. "I didn't have to say anything. They knew the situation. We've got a good hockey club but we've still got a long way to go."

Boston Coach Tom Johnson, obviously distressed with the sluggish play of the Bruins, said the team "just let down in the final period. We thought we had the game won."

The loss broke Boston's all-time playoff record of 11 consecutive victories and Johnson refused to fault goalie Ed Johnston for the loss, citing instead the overall weak defensive play of everyone else. Gerry Cheevers had been in the Boston net during all 11 games of the streak.

Johnston, who has lost all three of his playoff games in the last three years, said, "You can't win playoff hockey giving them five breakaways. We had them and we let them go."

Paul Henderson scored two goals for Toronto, his third and fourth of the series, and Garry Monahan and Dave Keon added one each. Two separate free-for-alls erupted in the final five minutes, and it was during the first brawl that Hadfield threw Parent's mask in the stands.

Despite a 15-minute search, the mask couldn't be found and Parent, without a spare, sat out the rest of the game in favor of Jacques Plante. Ironically, Plante was the first goalie to wear a face mask in game competition and he is the president of the company that manufactured the mask Parent lost.

Referee Lloyd Gilmour whistled 33 penalties, including game misconducts to Jim Harrison and Darryl Sittler of the Leafs and Hadfield and Brad Park of the Rangers, with the penalties totalling 160 minutes. Last yer the Bruins and Rangers set a Stanley Cup record of 38 penalties and 174 minutes in a game.

"He (Parent) jumped me from behind," Hadfield said in explanation of his action. "Then I saw the mask sitting there, so I just threw it."

Parent disagreed, somewhat, saying Hadfield had taken it off his face. The mask cost $150, and Parent said he had an old one in Toronto he can use if Plante doesn't deliver a new model by the weekend.

Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita each scored two goals for the Black Hawks, who never have lost to the Flyers in Chicago. Hull now has 99 playoff points, placing him seventh in the all-time standings, and Mikita climbed into 11th place with 91.

Jim Roberts scored two goals, the second into an empty net, to lift St. Louis over the North Stars. Bill McCreary and Wayne Connelly scored the other Blues' goals while Murray Oliver notched both Minnesota goals.

Alex Hannum Is Denver's Head Man

DENVER (UPI)—Alex Hannum, the wandering minstrel of the pro basketball circuit, said farewell to San Diego Thursday and joined the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association as head coach, general manager and president.

"We agreed not to reveal the terms, but it's the most lucrative contract I've ever signed," Hannum said. "It's a very, very happy day for me. It's the culmination of many years of searching for the right position. I hope to make Denver my home from now on."

Hannum, who signed a five-year contract with Denver, had coached the San Diego Rockets since 1969. San Diego finished third in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division last season with a 40-42 won-loss mark.

The 48-year-old Hannum has had five jobs in the ABA and NBA since 1956. During that period, he won three championships—with the St. Louis Hawks in 1957-58, the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA in 1966-67 and with the Oakland Oaks of the ABA in 1968-69. He also coached the San Francisco Warriors.

"Our first priority is player personnel," Hannum said. "We'll have to study the draft list, then go out and try to sign the players."

Hannum's selection came as somewhat of a surprise. The most prominently mentioned name for new general manager of the Rockets, who finished in last place in the ABA's five-team Western Division, was Notre Dame Basketball Coach Johnny Dee.

NATIONAL AAU MEET

'Upset Kid' Of Swimming

PULLMAN, WASH. (UPI) — Unheralded Foank Heckl of the University of Southern California is turning out to be the upset kid of the national AAU short course swimming championships.

He registered his second upset in as many nights Thursday when he set a meet mark of 1:40.55 in winning the 200-yard men's freestyle.

Susie Atwood of the Lakewood Aquatic Club of California also sparkled in Thursday's competition.

She captured the women's 400-yard individual medley in 4:34.80 and was the leadoff swimmer in the club's victory in the women's 400-yard medley relay.

The team of Miss Atwood, Kim Brecht, Bonnie Adair and Linda Kiddie set an American mark in turning the distance in 3:58.61 to break the record of 4:00.7 set by the Santa Clara Swim Club in 1969.

Gunnar Larsson, Phillips 66, Long Beach, Calif.took the men's 400-yard individual medley with a clocking of 4:01.50 and the Indiana team of Mike Stamm, Peder Dahlberg, Gary Hall and Mark Spitz won the men's 400-yard medley relay in 3:14.56. Southern California was second and Phillips 66 finished third.

The four days of competition, which also doubles as trials for the Pan Am games runs through Saturday.

Bucs' Luke Walker Too Much For Phils

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Pitching against the Philadelphia Phillies, Luke Walker of the Pirates is only slightly less than sensational. But he is perfect.

"He's the kind of pitcher a lot of guys go up against and figure, well he doesn't look too fast, then all of a sudden the ball's in on you and you're behind it," observes Philadelphia Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Walker has won only 20 major league games but he is 6-for-6 with the Phillies, beating them the last six times he faced them including a five-hit, 2-0 shutout Thursday night.

"No, I don't feel like I have a hex on them or anything like that," Walker observed while lounging after the game in a rocking chair.

"It just seemed like, especially last year, that whenever I started pitching it was against them."

Although Walker normally will struggle with his control and rearely finishes what he starts, when it comes to the Phillies he is a master of efficiency. He threw only 97 pitches and needed just an hour and 47 minutes for Thursday night's shutout.

In the other three National League games, Houston beat Chicago 7-3, Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 2-0 and Montreal topped New York 6-2 and San Diego beat San Francisco, 7-6.

In the only two American League games, Cleveland nipped Boston 3-2 and Kansas City edged California 3-2.

Jack Hiatt, obtained from Chicago in a winter deal, hit two run-scoring doubles as Houston beat the Cubs. Jack Billingham pitched a four-hitter to gain the victory. Ken Holtzman took the loss.

John Bateman drove in three runs with two hits and Steve Renko scattered 10 hits as Montreal beat New York. Gary Gentry gave up six runs and took the loss but three of them in the seventh were unearned because of an error by Bob Aspromonte.

Rookie Gomer Hodge singled in two runs with two out in the ninth inning to lift Cleveland past Boston. Hodge entered the game as a pinch-hitter in the eighth and doubled and scored the first Cleveland run on John Lowenstein's single. He then tagged Ken Tatum—the reliever the Red Sox got from California in the Tony Conigliaro deal—for the hit that won the game in the ninth.

Cookie Rojas' bases-loaded double in the third drove in two unearned runs as Kansas City capitalized on four California errors for the victory over the Angels. Andy Messersmith, who homered in the fifth, took the loss even though he left after eight innings without giving up an earned run.

Off Track Betting Success

NEW YORK (UPI)—Howard Samuels and officials of his Offtrack Betting Corp. (OTB), describing themselves as "stunned by the response and patience of New Yorkers," met into the early morning hours today to study possible improvements in their precocious betting system.

OTB head Samuels described yesterday's opening turnout at the city's two betting offices and over the phone lines as "spectacular." He had predicted a first day total take of $10,000. City horseplayers bet $66,098 on the nine-card race at Roosevelt Raceway.

Also spectacular were the 100-person lines stretching halfway across Grand Central Station from the 10 windows operating there. A total of $31,146 was bet at Grand Central, but bettors had to wait as long as three hours at peak periods.

To help alleviate the situation, a spokesman for Samuels said some changes would be made when the windows opened at 8 a.m. this morning.

Windows will be differentiated by such labels as "daily double," "six tickets only" and "exacta." Also, some windows would be set aside for those returning to cash in winning tickets.

Samuels emphasized this morning that such experiments would continue until bugs were worked out of the system.

"We are working on a pilot basis. We are learning," Samuels said. "No one has done it before in this country."

Samuels planned to be on hand this morning to congratulate the first winner who came in to collect at Grand Central and also to thank his harried staff, some of whom were still at work early today.

"Fantastic...it's good...the city's got a winner," were some of the remarks overheard as the waiters patiently studied form sheets that many were perusing for the first time.

Mayor John V. Lindsay joined the new game in town and, with the permission of his wife, put down $2 on Moneywise in the seventh. Moneywise finished out of the money fourth.

HOCKEY OR FIGHT NIGHT? — An unidentified Toronto Maple Leaf player flew through the air to join a five player brawl last night during the final minutes of a National Hockey League playoff game in New York. Among the participants were Toronto's Norm Ullman (9), and Paul Henderson (19), and New York's Brad Park (2), Tim Horton (3), and Walt Tkaczuk (18). Toronto won, 4-1. (UPI Telephoto)

Meminger Scores 35 In Victory

HONOLULU (UPI) —Marquette's Dean Meminger drilled 35 points to give the Midwest a narrow 97-95 verdict over the South in the third annual Aloha Classic Thursday night.

In the opening game of the double header, Oregon's Stan Love scored 28 points to spark the West to a 111-89 victory over the East.

Meminger, who led Marquette to 39 straight wins over a two-year period and was claimed in the first round of the NBA draft by the New York Knicks, hit on 15 of 23 shots from the floor and took five of seven from the line.

Mrs. Schultz Jr. Fires Hole-In-One

Mrs. Neil Schultz Jr. of Greenbrae shot her second hole-in-one of 14 years of golfing and the feat came appropriately enough on the 14th hole at Meadow Club course in Fairfax.

Mrs. Schultz used her three-wood to ace the 131-yard 14th hole yesterday. Witnessing the shot were Mrs. Luke Helms, Mrs. Ed Vest and Mrs. William Del Monte.

BOWLING TIPS

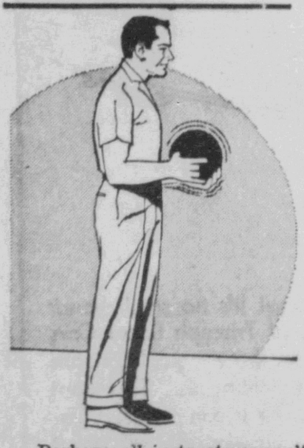
By DON CARTER



Perhaps all instructors won't agree with me, but I believe it's important to keep moving while I'm getting set. Sometimes jiggling the ball will be enough. The purpose is to keep from getting too tight while preparing to start the approach, so stay loose.

Chicago Takes 2-0 Lead: Other NHL Teams Even

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

the season in their own division, the Chicago Black Hawks stand alone today among the Stanley Cup contenders with a two-game lead in their playoff series.

But, most hockey fans will have to agree, all the fun seems to be happening over in Boston and New York.

While Chicago was ripping the Philadelphia Flyers 6-2 in routine fashion Thursday night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final series, the Bruins incredibly blew a four-goal lead to drop a 7-5 decision to the Montreal Canadiens. And in New York, Ranger wing Vic Hadfield took out his frustrations by flinging Toronto goalie Bernie Parent's face mask into the crowd during a 4-1 Maple Leaf victory.

In the other playoff, the St. Louis Blues defeated the Minnesota North Stars 4-2. This left all of the series, with the exception of Chicago-Philadelphia, deadlocked at a game apiece with action on all four fronts resuming Saturday.

After Yvan Cournoyer scored for Montreal in the opening minutes of the game, Boston countered with five consecutive goals to take a 5-1 advantage. But Henri Richard started the Canadiens back at 15:33 of the second period, and they got five more goals in the final session to complete the incredible comeback.

Jean Beliveau scored the first two goals in the third period and, after Cournoyer tied the score with his second goal of the night, Beliveau set up John Ferguson for the winner at 15:23. Frank Mahovlich picked up the final goal with 1:20 left to play.

"I didn't say anything special before the third period," Montreal Coach Al MacNeil said. "I didn't have to say anything. They knew the situation. We've got a good hockey club but we've still got a long way to go."

Boston Coach Tom Johnson, obviously distressed with the sluggish play of the Bruins, said the team "just let down in the final period. We thought we had the game won."

The loss broke Boston's all-time playoff record of 11 consecutive victories and Johnson refused to fault goalie Ed Johnston for the loss, citing instead the overall weak defensive play of everyone else. Gerry Cheevers had been in the Boston net during all 11 games of the streak.

Johnston, who has lost all three of his playoff games in the last three years, said, "You can't win playoff hockey giving them five breakaways. We had them and we let them go."

Paul Henderson scored two goals for Toronto, his third and fourth of the series, and Garry Monahan and Dave Keon added one each. Two separate free-for-alls erupted in the final five minutes, and it was during the first brawl that Hadfield threw Parent's mask in the stands.

Despite a 15-minute search, the mask couldn't be found and Parent, without a spare, sat out the rest of the game in favor of Jacques Plante. Ironically, Plante was the first goalie to wear a face mask in game competition and he is the president of the company that manufactured the mask Parent lost.

Referee Lloyd Gilmour whistled 33 penalties, including game misconducts to Jim Harrison and Darryl Sittler of the Leafs and Hadfield and Brad Park of the Rangers, with the penalties totalling 160 minutes. Last yer the Bruins and Rangers set a Stanley Cup record of 38 penalties and 174 minutes in a game.

"He (Parent) jumped me from behind," Hadfield said in explanation of his action. "Then I saw the mask sitting there, so I just threw it."

Parent disagreed, somewhat, saying Hadfield had taken it off his face. The mask cost $150, and Parent said he had an old one in Toronto he can use if Plante doesn't deliver a new model by the weekend.

Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita each scored two goals for the Black Hawks, who never have lost to the Flyers in Chicago. Hull now has 99 playoff points, placing him seventh in the all-time standings, and Mikita climbed into 11th place with 91.

Jim Roberts scored two goals, the second into an empty net, to lift St. Louis over the North Stars. Bill McCreary and Wayne Connelly scored the other Blues' goals while Murray Oliver notched both Minnesota goals.

Alex Hannum Is Denver's Head Man

DENVER (UPI)—Alex Hannum, the wandering minstrel of the pro basketball circuit, said farewell to San Diego Thursday and joined the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association as head coach, general manager and president.

"We agreed not to reveal the terms, but it's the most lucrative contract I've ever signed," Hannum said. "It's a very, very happy day for me. It's the culmination of many years of searching for the right position. I hope to make Denver my home from now on."

Hannum, who signed a five-year contract with Denver, had coached the San Diego Rockets since 1969. San Diego finished third in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division last season with a 40-42 won-loss mark.

The 48-year-old Hannum has had five jobs in the ABA and NBA since 1956. During that period, he won three championships—with the St. Louis Hawks in 1957-58, the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA in 1966-67 and with the Oakland Oaks of the ABA in 1968-69. He also coached the San Francisco Warriors.

"Our first priority is player personnel," Hannum said. "We'll have to study the draft list, then go out and try to sign the players."

Hannum's selection came as somewhat of a surprise. The most prominently mentioned name for new general manager of the Rockets, who finished in last place in the ABA's five-team Western Division, was Notre Dame Basketball Coach Johnny Dee.

NATIONAL AAU MEET

'Upset Kid' Of Swimming

PULLMAN, WASH. (UPI) — Unheralded Foank Heckl of the University of Southern California is turning out to be the upset kid of the national AAU short course swimming championships.

He registered his second upset in as many nights Thursday when he set a meet mark of 1:40.55 in winning the 200-yard men's freestyle.

Susie Atwood of the Lakewood Aquatic Club of California also sparkled in Thursday's competition.

She captured the women's 400-yard individual medley in 4:34.80 and was the leadoff swimmer in the club's victory in the women's 400-yard medley relay.

The team of Miss Atwood, Kim Brecht, Bonnie Adair and Linda Kiddie set an American mark in turning the distance in 3:58.61 to break the record of 4:00.7 set by the Santa Clara Swim Club in 1969.

Gunnar Larsson, Phillips 66, Long Beach, Calif.took the men's 400-yard individual medley with a clocking of 4:01.50 and the Indiana team of Mike Stamm, Peder Dahlberg, Gary Hall and Mark Spitz won the men's 400-yard medley relay in 3:14.56. Southern California was second and Phillips 66 finished third.

The four days of competition, which also doubles as trials for the Pan Am games runs through Saturday.

Bucs' Luke Walker Too Much For Phils

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Pitching against the Philadelphia Phillies, Luke Walker of the Pirates is only slightly less than sensational. But he is perfect.

"He's the kind of pitcher a lot of guys go up against and figure, well he doesn't look too fast, then all of a sudden the ball's in on you and you're behind it," observes Philadelphia Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Walker has won only 20 major league games but he is 6-for-6 with the Phillies, beating them the last six times he faced them including a five-hit, 2-0 shutout Thursday night.

"No, I don't feel like I have a hex on them or anything like that," Walker observed while lounging after the game in a rocking chair.

"It just seemed like, especially last year, that whenever I started pitching it was against them."

Although Walker normally will struggle with his control and rearely finishes what he starts, when it comes to the Phillies he is a master of efficiency. He threw only 97 pitches and needed just an hour and 47 minutes for Thursday night's shutout.

In the other three National League games, Houston beat Chicago 7-3, Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 2-0 and Montreal topped New York 6-2 and San Diego beat San Francisco, 7-6.

In the only two American League games, Cleveland nipped Boston 3-2 and Kansas City edged California 3-2.

Jack Hiatt, obtained from Chicago in a winter deal, hit two run-scoring doubles as Houston beat the Cubs. Jack Billingham pitched a four-hitter to gain the victory. Ken Holtzman took the loss.

John Bateman drove in three runs with two hits and Steve Renko scattered 10 hits as Montreal beat New York. Gary Gentry gave up six runs and took the loss but three of them in the seventh were unearned because of an error by Bob Aspromonte.

Rookie Gomer Hodge singled in two runs with two out in the ninth inning to lift Cleveland past Boston. Hodge entered the game as a pinch-hitter in the eighth and doubled and scored the first Cleveland run on John Lowenstein's single. He then tagged Ken Tatum—the reliever the Red Sox got from California in the Tony Conigliaro deal—for the hit that won the game in the ninth.

Cookie Rojas' bases-loaded double in the third drove in two unearned runs as Kansas City capitalized on four California errors for the victory over the Angels. Andy Messersmith, who homered in the fifth, took the loss even though he left after eight innings without giving up an earned run.

FISH AND GAME

Fishing Sometimes Full Of Surprises

By AL GIDDINGS

Enos Foster, my Woodacre neighbor, telephoned and said, "Al, you're going to get killed for last week's perch column! Nobody caught any perch!"

I questioned him about "what happened" and he said that he took his two sons Scott and Mike out to Tomales Bay off Millerton Point, to the hot perch spot I wrote about. There were about five or six boats out plus the shore fishermen, but he saw no one catch a fish. What did he do? He and his kids caught about 30, plus one striper!

He says they had hits every cast, but the kids were a little slow on the set, or they would have "loaded the boat." (Some guys got it and some guys ain't!) Enos said that the day before he, "Ropie" Clarke of Corte Madera and Kay Schneider of Woodacre took limits of perch there too. And Ropie had eithera sturgeon or a big shark or ray on, but lost it after an hour ro so, and Kay Schneider caught a steelhead! Some people don't believe the column, but it's all the solid truth!

HERE'S ANOTHER one. Hazel Eddings of Buck's Landing, Santa Venetia called me Sunday to tell me about all the stripers brought in. I was out there Saturday and only checked two bass. She's gotta be kidding, but I thought I'd check around a little further! I stopped at Al's Mobile Station in Santa Venetia. That place has all the latest dope!

Lo and behold, a guy comes along who says he just limited out on bass with two friends. Then he starts naming other friends, who I know and can check on, who also limited. Then he swears me to secrecy about the area and method! What can I say now? Only this: He didn't use bait! He wasn't anchored! He used something like a Pfleuger chum spoon, and fished 200 yards off shore at high tide. Twenty years ago, we all fished his hot spot! If you don't know yet, I can't help you any further. But Hazel was telling the truth! All my scouts are most reliable!

FRANK SPENCE, the Rod and Gun Pier keeper called saying that fishing was good off the pier, with stripers up to 15 pounds being caught and then Frank said, "I swear on my good mother's grave that a sturgeon 15 feet long has been jumping around the pier all week!'' (Good grief, I'd be afraid to fish down there.) That reminds me, Hazel said they brought in some nice sturgeon too, from the deep water by the S.P. Buoy!

SALMON FISHING still continues along at a torrid pace as long as the winds keep down. Last Monday, it was blowing all through the Corte Madera area. I took the coast route to Bolinas to check the ocean. Very flat and no winds! The winds only seem to blow at the edge of the fog into the sunny areas. Check with the Sausalito party boat tackle shops when you are in doubt.

I gave it a go one day this week, caught three fish and ended up following a boat around that was taking overlimits. They had the fish all cleaned and iced and ended up delivering them to my car! I gave the skipper and his passenger friend Fish and Game citations. They had nine salmon.

WARDEN JOE PEELEN reported almost 300 Sports diving units taking abalones over last weekend all up and down the coast. The pressure on these choice edible mollusks seems to be getting out of hand!

Bon Tempe Reservoir will be planted this week with approximately 1,500-2,000 catchables. Lagunitas and Bon Tempe will receive trout the following week. Possibly 200 of these fish will be tagged — no rewards — but to help evaluate the fishery, The Department of Fish and Game would appreciate you sending any tags to the Department of Fish and Game, Ferry Bldg., San Francisco, Ca 94111.

new fee schedule for the lakes. I started at 8 a.m. and it was 5 p.m. before I could relax. But not for long because there were more calls last night."

Building up to a dramatic climax, Giddings said: "Listen, Jim, conservation never stops. It has been 13 years since the last fishing and hunting license increase. I hope people concerned with conservation will write their legislators to act favorably on the license increase bills. It will mean 25 new wardens and we might even get a pay raise."

Giddings further noted that the California State Employees Association estimates its 9,600 employees' pay lags from 16 to 25 per cent behind prevailing pay.

"I know you've heard of other benefits scheduled if these raises go through," he said, "but I wanted to tell you about the men who work in this business of conservation and how important they are to the state."

Amen, and write your legislators, folks.

birdies and 12 pars, was that he birdied every single one of the four par-five holes.

"I consider myself a good driver," explained Coody. "I hit real good drives on each of those holes and my second shots were reasonably good, so that I was able to use my putter for my third shot on every one of them."

Coody picked up his other two birdies on par-fours—the 10th when he knocked his iron shot two feet from the pin, and the 14th when he holed out a 40-foot chip shot from a trap.

The tall Texan hasn't won a tournament since that '69 Cleveland Open and he admits 1971 hasn't been too good for him so far. His best finish this year was a fourth place in the National Airlines Open two weeks ago, but something happened there that's helping him here, he says.

Softballers Romp To 11-4 Victory

San Rafael's Nolan Wilson scored four runs last night to lead Suburban Auto to an easy 11-4 win over Night Life in the opening round of the San Francisco A Softball League.

Suburban Auto, now 8-0 for the season, got off to a quick start when Rich Manteuffel ripped a three-run homer in the first inning.

ahead 6-4 with five tallies in the seventh.

Gary Ross, the last of three San Diego pitchers, got the win while 41-year-old Don McMahon was tagged with the loss.

Third in the Giant starting rotation behind Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry, Stone went three innings, giving up four runs on six hits and two walks.

The Padre starter, Steve Arlin, lasted 6 1-3 innings and gave up four hits.

San Francisco is at St. Louis Saturday for the opener of a three-game series. Frank Reberger, 7-8 a year ago, goes for the Giants, who play the Cardinals in a doubleheader Sunday.

Positive Thinker Is Beacom

By JACK HANLEY

SAN DIEGO — Some years ago Hoagy Carmichael wrote a happy song in which he recommended a cheerful outlook on life by accentuating the positive and eliminating the negative.

Mike Beacom wasn't born when Carmichael wrote his song. But Mike fully subscribes to the Carmichael philosophy. In fact, Mike, new statistician of the Giants, would eliminate all the negative in baseball if he could.

For six weeks in spring training, Beacom eliminated all the negative from Giant performances. His daily stat sheets showed no errors although fielding of the Giants was far from flawless. Indeed, the Giants made 44 errors in 30 games.

"I'll put a column in for errors when the regular season starts," said Beacom when Gaylord Perry told him the spring stats were incomplete.

Pitchers, like Perry, are very sensitive and most protective about their earned run averages. Runs resulting from errors are not charged to a pitcher's ERA.

"Stats," said Perry, "should tell the whole story, not just part of it."

Beacom agreed. And being a savvy fellow, Beacom pointed out to Perry that when he computed earned run averages he always took into account the spring errors that didn't show on his stat sheets.

Beacom's spring diplomacy of not embarrassing Giant fielders — infielders and outfielders alike — no longer is permissible now that the regular season is under way.

"I have my red pencil," said Beacom, "but I hope I don't have to use it all season."

That, of course, is wishful thinking even though admirable for an ardent Giant rooter which Beacom is.

Beacom seldom got a chance to root at games for the Giants in his old job with the organization. He spent all of his time in the front office, specifically Peter Hoffmann's ticket office. Beacom was a whiz with figures and Hoffmann had no hesitancy in recommending him for the statistician's job.

"In the three years he was with me," said Hoffmann, "Mike never made a mistake in his accounts. They always balanced perfectly."

Beacom has yet to make a mistake in balancing box scores even though he does them in a somewhat unorthodox style. He uses big ledger sheets, the same kind he used in Hoffmann's office.

His style of charting a ball game baffles baseball writers but then the way baseball writers keep box scores also is baffling to Beacom.

"I don't see how you fellows can write stories from those chicken scratches in your books," he said. "I need more room to log ball and strike counts and the area to which a ball is hit."

SOQUEL — Paul Riccardi doubled home one run and then scored on a single by Scott Cozza in the top of the seventh inning yesterday to give the Marin Catholic High School Wildcats a 2-1 victory over Harbor High of Santa Cruz in the opening round of the Soquel Invitational baseball tournament in this Santa Cruz County community.

Jim Lowe, working five innings of relief after starter Tom Olson retired in the second with a back injury, was credited with the win as the Wildcats of Kentfield gained the winner's bracket for the second round. They play Albany High tonight at 6 p.m.

Marin was trailing, 1-0 when shortstop Steve Sherry singled with one out to open the game-winning rally. Riccardi, the Wildcats' catcher, immediately drove his double deep to right centerfield and Sherry sprinted home to tie the score.

Riccardi moved to third on an infield ground ball by Pete Arbios to set the stage for Cozza's second basehit of the game. Sherry likewise had two safeties.

Rentzel Says He'll Return To Football

DALLAS (UPI) — Flanker Lance Rentzel of the Dallas Cowboys pleaded guilty to indecent exposure and received a five-year probated sentence Thursday. Rentzel said he did not intend to let the incident end his athletic career.

Rentzel, 27, who pleaded guilty to exposing himself to a 10-year-old girl last November, agreed to psychiatric and medical treatment. "I plan to work with my doctor until this problem is solved," he said. "I'm sorry I had to have my wife (singer Joey Heatherton) and family suffer because of this."

Rentzel voluntarily removed himself from the Cowboys' active roster when he was indicted last year, but indications were after the trial Thursday he will rejoin the team. "I told them I'd be back and I will. I can't end my athletic career this way."

FISH AND GAME

Fishing Sometimes Full Of Surprises

By AL GIDDINGS

Enos Foster, my Woodacre neighbor, telephoned and said, "Al, you're going to get killed for last week's perch column! Nobody caught any perch!"

I questioned him about "what happened" and he said that he took his two sons Scott and Mike out to Tomales Bay off Millerton Point, to the hot perch spot I wrote about. There were about five or six boats out plus the shore fishermen, but he saw no one catch a fish. What did he do? He and his kids caught about 30, plus one striper!

He says they had hits every cast, but the kids were a little slow on the set, or they would have "loaded the boat." (Some guys got it and some guys ain't!) Enos said that the day before he, "Ropie" Clarke of Corte Madera and Kay Schneider of Woodacre took limits of perch there too. And Ropie had eithera sturgeon or a big shark or ray on, but lost it after an hour ro so, and Kay Schneider caught a steelhead! Some people don't believe the column, but it's all the solid truth!

HERE'S ANOTHER one. Hazel Eddings of Buck's Landing, Santa Venetia called me Sunday to tell me about all the stripers brought in. I was out there Saturday and only checked two bass. She's gotta be kidding, but I thought I'd check around a little further! I stopped at Al's Mobile Station in Santa Venetia. That place has all the latest dope!

Lo and behold, a guy comes along who says he just limited out on bass with two friends. Then he starts naming other friends, who I know and can check on, who also limited. Then he swears me to secrecy about the area and method! What can I say now? Only this: He didn't use bait! He wasn't anchored! He used something like a Pfleuger chum spoon, and fished 200 yards off shore at high tide. Twenty years ago, we all fished his hot spot! If you don't know yet, I can't help you any further. But Hazel was telling the truth! All my scouts are most reliable!

FRANK SPENCE, the Rod and Gun Pier keeper called saying that fishing was good off the pier, with stripers up to 15 pounds being caught and then Frank said, "I swear on my good mother's grave that a sturgeon 15 feet long has been jumping around the pier all week!" (Good grief, I'd be afraid to fish down there.) That reminds me, Hazel said they brought in some nice sturgeon too, from the deep water by the S.P. Buoy!

SALMON FISHING still continues along at a torrid pace as long as the winds keep down. Last Monday, it was blowing all through the Corte Madera area. I took the coast route to Bolinas to check the ocean. Very flat and no winds! The winds only seem to blow at the edge of the fog into the sunny areas. Check with the Sausalito party boat tackle shops when you are in doubt.

I gave it a go one day this week, caught three fish and ended up following a boat around that was taking overlimits. They had the fish all cleaned and iced and ended up delivering them to my car! I gave the skipper and his passenger friend Fish and Game citations. They had nine salmon.

WARDEN JOE PEELEN reported almost 300 Sports diving units taking abalones over last weekend all up and down the coast. The pressure on these choice edible mollusks seems to be getting out of hand!

Bon Tempe Reservoir will be planted this week with approximately 1,500-2,000 catchables. Lagunitas and Bon Tempe will receive trout the following week. Possibly 200 of these fish will be tagged — no rewards — but to help evaluate the fishery, The Department of Fish and Game would appreciate you sending any tags to the Department of Fish and Game, Ferry Bldg., San Francisco, Ca 94111.

new fee schedule for the lakes. I started at 8 a.m. and it was 5 p.m. before I could relax. But not for long because there were more calls last night."

Building up to a dramatic climax, Giddings said: "Listen, Jim, conservation never stops. It has been 13 years since the last fishing and hunting license increase. I hope people concerned with conservation will write their legislators to act favorably on the license increase bills. It will mean 25 new wardens and we might even get a pay raise."

Giddings further noted that the California State Employees Association estimates its 9,600 employees' pay lags from 16 to 25 per cent behind prevailing pay.

"I know you've heard of other benefits scheduled if these raises go through," he said, "but I wanted to tell you about the men who work in this business of conservation and how important they are to the state."

Amen, and write your legislators, folks.

birdies and 12 pars, was that he birdied every single one of the four par-five holes.

"I consider myself a good driver," explained Coody. "I hit real good drives on each of those holes and my second shots were reasonably good, so that I was able to use my putter for my third shot on every one of them."

Coody picked up his other two birdies on par-fours—the 10th when he knocked his iron shot two feet from the pin, and the 14th when he holed out a 40-foot chip shot from a trap.

The tall Texan hasn't won a tournament since that '69 Cleveland Open and he admits 1971 hasn't been too good for him so far. His best finish this year was a fourth place in the National Airlines Open two weeks ago, but something happened there that's helping him here, he says.

ahead 6-4 with five tallies in the seventh.

Gary Ross, the last of three San Diego pitchers, got the win while 41-year-old Don McMahon was tagged with the loss.

Third in the Giant starting rotation behind Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry, Stone went three innings, giving up four runs on six hits and two walks.

The Padre starter, Steve Arlin, lasted 6 1-3 innings and gave up four hits.

San Francisco is at St. Louis Saturday for the opener of a three-game series. Frank Reberger, 7-8 a year ago, goes for the Giants, who play the Cardinals in a doubleheader Sunday.

The two men are members of the San Francisco Rugby Club team and will also play in the tournament tomorrow and Sunday. Twenty-eight teams from Canada and the western United States will be competing.

Rentzel Says He'll Return To Football

DALLAS (UPI) — Flanker Lance Rentzel of the Dallas Cowboys pleaded guilty to indecent exposure and received a five-year probated sentence Thursday. Rentzel said he did not intend to let the incident end his athletic career.

Rentzel, 27, who pleaded guilty to exposing himself to a 10-year-old girl last November, agreed to psychiatric and medical treatment. "I plan to work with my doctor until this problem is solved," he said. "I'm sorry I had to have my wife (singer Joey Heatherton) and family suffer because of this."

Rentzel voluntarily removed himself from the Cowboys' active roster when he was indicted last year, but indications were after the trial Thursday he will rejoin the team. "I told them I'd be back and I will. I can't end my athletic career this way."

New Tax Form W-4 For Refunds If Withholding Was Too High

If there is too much tax being withheld from your wages because you are entitled to a lot of itemized deductions like taxes on your home, interest on your home, heavy medical expenses, etc., you can file a new form W-4, Schedule A, based on your 1970 tax return and your withholding for 1971 will be reduced by the amounts that you claim.

If you think this applies to you, be sure to get Schedule A, W-4, and read the instructions carefully and complete it exactly according to the instructions and chances are your take-home pay will be increased.

If you incurred no income tax liability for 1970 and don't believe you will incur any tax liability for 1971, then you should get form W-4E, Withholding Exemption Certificate, read the instructions carefully, and if they apply to you complete this form exactly as per the instructions and give it to your employer.

You will not have to file an income tax return for 1971 unless your income will be at least: Single individual, $1,700; single individual 65 or over, $2,300; married couple filing jointly, $2,300; married couple, one spouse 65 or over, $2,900; married couple, both 65 or over, $3,500; married person filing separately, $600.

Your employer then has no option. He must discontinue withholding from your wages.

This will save you and the government the trouble and inconvenience of having tax withheld from your wages and paid into the government and then your having to file an income tax return in 1972 to get the withholding tax back.

This also saves your employer the trouble of withholding your tax from your wages and paying it into the government and reporting it.

In fact, this is probably the best thing that has happened in the tax law in many a year. It simply eliminates an unfair section that caused a great deal of trouble to the taxpayer, the employer and the government.

Do you have a big federal tax bill to pay this year in addition to what your employer has already withheld from your 1970 paychecks?

Withholding, at the regular rate, only covers the tax on your salary or wages and is inadequate if you have a large salary or earnings from sources not subject to withholding.

The law provides that you can agree with your employer to have him take more than the regular rate of withholding out of your paychecks so that you will have your taxes fully paid at the end of the year.

Your employer must be willing and you and your employer must make an agreement, in writing, in such form as your employer may require, to have your employer take a stated extra amount of withholding from your wages. The W-4 slip you sign for your employer has a special place provided for this. Your employer handles this the same way as other withholding and you report this extra withholding on your tax return the same as any other withholding. This will let you pay your 1971 income tax in 1971 as you receive your income.

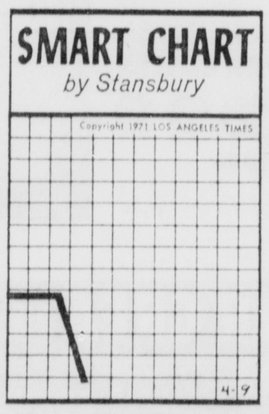
If this applies to you, then make such an agreement with your employer now so that you can spread the payment over as long a period as possible.

If you are receiving a pension, you can now have the tax withheld by filing form W-4P with the payor of the pension, stating the amount you want withheld and other information required. These forms are available at local IRS offices.

The payor of your pension will start making these deductions for withholding within three months after your request. They may start sooner if they can.

Also, you can have them deduct more than the tax on your pension so that you won't have to file an estimate at all. In other words, you can have enough deducted from your pension so that it will cover the tax on your interest, dividends and other income.

The only thing is, the withholding must be at least $5 per month and it can't be so large that it reduces the net amount of any payment you receive to less than $10. Here's a good way to save yourself the trouble of filing an estimated tax return.



"Our chocolate Easter bunny laid an egg."

Chilean Move On Nationalization Of U.S. Mines

SANTIAGO (UPI)—The lower house of Chile's parliament approved and returned to the Senate Wednesday amendments to the constitution that would permit the government to nationalize American and other foreign-owned copper mines.

Both the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies have approved the principle of nationalization, and there is no doubt the amendments will be approved. Marxist President Salvador Allende has made nationalization the largest single item in his economic reform program. He first proposed constitutional reform to Congress on Dec. 22.

Among the foreign operations that will be affected are the copper mines owned by the American firms Anaconda, Kennecott and Cerro Corp.

Market Chain In Belt-Tightening

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 200 shares of Allied Supermarkets bought at 15 in May 1969. The company seems to have a knack for losing money on rising sales. Do you see any possibility for a comeback? I hate to hold a born loser. — G. S.

A. Allied has expanded its outlets rapidly, with growing emphasis in recent years on high volume supermarkets operating in conjunction with Kresge's K-marts. In fiscal 1966, when 263 outlets were operated Allied brought 1 per cent of sales down to earnings. By fiscal 1969, the last profitable year, 389 units were in operation. The margin of profit, however, nosedived to 2/10th of 1 per cent.

Attendant with the proliferation of the low margin K-mart supermarkets has been excessive start-up and promotional costs which have contributed to recent deficits. In addition, income was heavily taxed by the setting-up of a food processing and distribution center, which is now in full production.

Last August, Allied sold inventory and leases on 40 west coast K-mart supermarkets for $10 million. In October, 25 conventional outlets were sold and eight closed, which will entail substantial nonrecurring charges against fiscal 1971 results. However, the consolidation of operations in the South and Midwest and the elimination of unprofitable locations, should benefit margins significantly by 1972.

Q. I am retired and would appreciate your naming good bonds paying 8 per cent — R. W.

A. Because of the drop in interest rates, reflecting the increase in the money supply, top quality long-term utility bonds currently return 6.8 per cent to 7.4 per cent. You have a wide selection of A-rated issues, however, returning 7.2 per cent to 8.7 per cent to maturity. Bonds in this category, upper medium grade, are considered secure as to principal and interest. Arkansas Power & Light offers three high interest bearing issues, 7⅜s of 1998, 9¼s of 1999 and 9⅝s of 2000. You might also be interested in recently-offered Columbia Gas 8⅜s of 1996.

Agricultural Output Up $16 Million

The gross value of the entire Marin County agricultural industry last year rose to $16,842,000 — an 8.6 per cent increase over the 1969 value reported at $15,502,000. The increase was slightly below the usual 9 per cent annual gain reported in preceding years.

County agricultural commissioner R. Allan Ballard said the combined livestock industry continues to represent about 90 per cent of the total gross value, with nearly 70 per cent derived from milk products. The latter showed a valuation of $11,778,300 in 1970, compared with $11,120,000 in 1969.

Cattle gained in dollar volume — $3,045,600 from $2,344,000, partly as a result of an increase per hundredweight from $24.80 to $28.20 and partly from an increase of 3,000 in the number of head. The value of lambs was down to $216,000 from 1969's $237,000. Hogs and pigs increased in value to $51,480 from $49,500. Chickens dropped to $78,000 from $148,000 in 1969. The number of chickens was down to 52,400 from over 100,000 in 1969.

Wool production was down 3,600 head from 1969's 98,600 and valuation dropped to $33,250 from $47,300. Egg production at $237,700 was much higher.

In field crops, the harvested value of pasture lands remained the same at $435,000. Hay and grain moved up to $270,000 from $221,000. Other field crops such as barley, oats and wheat dropped to $24,300 from $47,600 in 1969. Fruit and nut crops were down from $27,000 in 1969 to $15,000 in 1970.

Total nursery crops increased to $594,080 from $531,000. Major gains were in cut plants and ornamental trees.

Pollution Needs Moon-Type Push: Chrysler Chief

MIAMI — (BW) — John J. Riccardo, president of Chrysler Corp., termed air pollution control a top national priority and called for the same kind of cooperative scientific approach based on fact, logic and determination that put a man on the moon.

"It's not my place to set national goals, but it seems to me that control of air pollution is at least as important to our well-being as putting a man on the moon," Riccardo said recently in an address to the National Installment Credit Conference.

Riccardo said the nation went about putting a man on the moon scientifically, and "We can get the same kind of result in our battle against air pollution."

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Ross Medical In Higher Earnings

Marin County's Ross Medical Corp. has reported gross revenues of $11,272,391 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1970 — an increase of approximately 22 per cent from restated gross revenues of $9,192,418 during 1969.

Net income for 1970 was $454,024, approximately 16 per cent higher than 1969 income, but as the company had 222,000 more shares outstanding at the end of last year than it did in 1969, earnings per share declined to 46 cents from 50 cents.

This was attributed primarily to a decrease in average hospital occupancy and losses were also incurred in the operations of Norcal Laboratories, which have now been discontinued.

Merger discussions are now going on in which Ross Medical would be acquired by Hospital Corp. of America, headquartered in Nashville, Tenn.

INDUSTRIAL INDEMNITY CO., San Francisco and Crum and Forster Insurance Companies are discussing a proposal to combine the latter's Pacific department into the management and operations of Industrial Indemnity, which became a member of the Crum and Forster group in 1968. The next several months will be devoted to a joint study of the most effective method of expanding the underwriting markets and capacity of the combined organizations.

LESLIE SALT CO., San Francisco net income for 1970 declined to $3,000, or one cent per share, despite increased sales. Net income in 1969 was $965,000 or $2.92 per share. Net sales and operating revenues were $23 million in 1970, compared with $21.4 million in 1969. The sales increase was said to have been offset by an 8.7-per cent increase in operating costs and expenses.

FIBREBOARD CORP., San Francisco first quarter earnings were $402,000 or 12 cents per share, as compared to $527,000 or 17 cents per share for the 1969 period. Sales were $40.8 million, down from $41 million in 1970.

ARDEN-MAYFAIR, INC. reported consolidated sales of $630 million for the 52 weeks ended Jan. 2, compared with $558 million for the 53-week 1969 year. Operating income of $783,000 before extraordinary charges resulting from real estate disposals resulted in a net loss of $2.8 million after the extraordinary charges.

TECHNICAL EQUITIES CORP., INC., San Jose has acquired Polymetrics, Inc., a San Carlos manufacturer of water purification equipment in an exchange of common stock. Other Technical Equities operations include specialty restaurants, women's wear retail shops and recorded tape stores in Northern California. Its stock is traded over the counter.

POTLATCH FORESTS, INC., San Francisco president and chief operating officer Benton R. Cancell has announced plans to retire at the end of this month and has nominated Richard B. Madden as his successor. Madden is currently assistant treasurer of Mobil Corp. and chairman of Mobil Estates, Ltd. of New York City.

WORLD AIRWAYS, INC., principal stockholder of First Western Bank and Trust Co. and Wells Fargo and Co., parent of Wells Fargo Bank, has announced an agreement in principle for the acquisition of First Western by Wells Fargo Bank for $95 million. Wells Fargo Bank has 275 offices, principally in Northern California. First Western has 95 offices principally in Southern California.

SIERRA PACIFIC INDUSTRIES, San Francisco will invest over one million dollars in a new wood millwork plant to be built at Chico. It is expected to be in operation before the end of this year and will adjoin Coach-Mate, Inc., a Sierra Pacific subsidiary there which manufactures vinyl overlay moldings. Sierra Pacific also has a millwork operation at Susanville.

World Airways Lashes 'Bias' On Charter Trips

NEW YORK — (BW) — An immediate end to restrictions imposed on U.S. supplemental airlines by European governments and new policies which end discrimination against charter travel have been urged by World Airways Inc.

If existing restrictions were not lifted, the airline said, European governments would invite action by the U.S. to impose counter restrictions on European airlines.

In a sweeping indictment of the International Air Transport Association (IATA), the rate making cartel for the scheduled airlines, World said that "European airlines were forcing curtailment of the principles of free trade upon which the airline industry's past achievements had rested. Worse, their actions prompt retaliatory actions which are repugnant to a competitive economy in a free society.

"A concerted effort on the part of government owned foreign airlines to erect barriers to the U.S. supplemental airlines charter services was the most serious threat to the development of a mass travel market.

"The existing restrictions would deny American travelers the availability of low cost charter transportation and leave the public without recourse of the arbitrarily high IATA fares," the airline charged.

Raising the question of IATA's anti-trust immunity under U.S. law, the airline asked if it was not time for a "searching inquiry of IATA's stranglehold on the prerogative of decision making by the government and the industry.

Said World Airways President Edward Daly:

"Let's face it. They have almost succeeded. The only stumbling block to a total monopoly of IATA is the supplemental airlines that offer the only effective form of price competition to IATA, and the only way the traveling public can get away from paying whatever fare IATA dictates on a given route.

"It is my judgement, which is shared by many in the industry, that IATA has outlived its usefulness. Its decisions are a costly and a senseless burden on the airlines which IATA presumably serves.

Property Sales: 50-Year Record

The month of March has been reported by the Marin County Board of Realtors as the greatest month in total sales dollars in the 50-year history of the board.

Multiple listing transactions reported last month totalled $13,086,555. Especially significant was the fact that this figure was only 5 per cent below the total of listing prices. Reported sales for March, 1970 were $7,902,075.

In residential sales, the most active group was in three-bedroom dwellings selling for between $30,000 and $40,000. Three-bedroom houses from $40,000 to $50,000 made up the second highest group and the same size in the $25,000-$30,000 class made up the third.

Completed sales for the month were also high, totalling $7,638,113 compared to $4,027,450 in March, 1970. Total completed sales for the first quarter this year were $15,992,863, compared to $11,801,569 in the first three months of 1970. Completed sales as distinguished from reported sales are those which have cleared escrow.

Increased sales continue the pattern set in January and February this year as a result of the easing in mortgage rates.

Men's Wear Coup Or Just A Joke?

BEVERLY HILLS — (BW) — Men's hotpants are drawing a lukewarm response from Western Men, according to California Business, the Western financial weekly.

Department and men's stores say they're stocking up on the new short shorts, but few expect more than passing interest. Most shops feel the item is at best a passing fad which can only be enjoyed by a small portion of the male population—the young with good legs.

Sales of the counterpart to the ladies' mini-britches are expected to climb with the temperature, says Ron Segal, a buyer of men's casual pants at Daytons of Beverly Hills, a men's store. He figures hotpants are just a one-season fad that will cool with the weather next fall.

"I sold three pair to a fellow yesterday," declares Segal, "but he is a Bermuda shorts freak anyway. He's young and has fairly good legs so they will look great on him."

For gentlemen who are young but don't have great legs, Segal suggests a heavily ribbed pantyhose of contrasting or complimenting hue. "We've had good reorders on these," he smiles.

Meanwhile, Parisian fashion designers are recommending that well-attired men will probably shave their legs if they don't wear the new pantyhose, a suggestion winning a less than enthusiastic reaction.

At Silverwood's Men Store in Los Angeles where a shipment of hotpants is due within the next two weeks, salesman James Ramsey declares he's not encouraging his customers to shave their legs. "Hotpants for men — maybe," he shrugs, "but shaved legs for men — hell, no."

Some stores refuse to discuss either subject. When an exclusive Palo Alto Men's store was called and asked if it carries hotpants, the store spokesman indignantly snorted, "I beg your pardon?" and hung up.

At Weinstock's department store in Sacramento, Wyne Karmzin, assistant buyer for men's sportswear, is anxiously awaiting a shipment of the mini-trousers this month. "They're going to go big," he predicts.

At Harris and Frank Men's Store in Los Angeles, the outlook isn't as bright. "We're doing the same thing with hotpants as we did flairs," points out Fred Meyerhaus, a buyer for casual pants.

"We're going to wait and see what happens. If it turns out they are a strong seller we will order immediately. It's better to bide your time and sell what you order than jump right in and get stuck with shelves of unmovable stock."

Campbells of Santa Monica, Calif., and Grodins of Los Angeles, both men's stores, are stocking up on corduroy, denim and double knit shorts for men. Both stores insist the item will sell as well as the women's hotpants, and at least as long.

At Rough Riders Inc., Napa, Calif., manufacturer of men's sportswear, samples of the new hotpants have just gone out to salesmen, according to Al Cohen, Southern California sales representative.

The shorts sell for $4 each, come in corduroy or cotton twill and a number of colors, from "whisky" to "granite," says Cohen.

Levi Strauss, San Francisco, isn't jumping into the fad either. "We've been manufacutring what we call a 'short cut' (better known as "cut-offs") for some time. A jean cut, they're made of 50 per cent cotton and 50 per cent polyester and come in four colors, retailing for $7.50," says a spokesman for the company.

"We're not putting much emphasis on the item," he adds, "but we are concentrating on a bib overall which we expect to do very well this year."

Market Chain In Belt-Tightening

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 200 shares of Allied Supermarkets bought at 15 in May 1969. The company seems to have a knack for losing money on rising sales. Do you see any possibility for a comeback? I hate to hold a born loser. — G. S.

A. Allied has expanded its outlets rapidly, with growing emphasis in recent years on high volume supermarkets operating in conjunction with Kresge's K-marts. In fiscal 1966, when 263 outlets were operated Allied brought 1 per cent of sales down to earnings. By fiscal 1969, the last profitable year, 389 units were in operation. The margin of profit, however, nosedived to 2/10th of 1 per cent.

Attendant with the proliferation of the low margin K-mart supermarkets has been excessive start-up and promotional costs which have contributed to recent deficits. In addition, income was heavily taxed by the setting-up of a food processing and distribution center, which is now in full production.

Last August, Allied sold inventory and leases on 40 west coast K-mart supermarkets for $10 million. In October, 25 conventional outlets were sold and eight closed, which will entail substantial nonrecurring charges against fiscal 1971 results. However, the consolidation of operations in the South and Midwest and the elimination of unprofitable locations, should benefit margins significantly by 1972.

Q. I am retired and would appreciate your naming good bonds paying 8 per cent — R. W.

A. Because of the drop in interest rates, reflecting the increase in the money supply, top quality long-term utility bonds currently return 6.8 per cent to 7.4 per cent. You have a wide selection of A-rated issues, however, returning 7.2 per cent to 8.7 per cent to maturity. Bonds in this category, upper medium grade, are considered secure as to principal and interest. Arkansas Power & Light offers three high interest bearing issues, 7⅜s of 1998, 9¼s of 1999 and 9⅝s of 2000. You might also be interested in recently-offered Columbia Gas 8⅜s of 1996.

Agricultural Output Up $16 Million

The gross value of the entire Marin County agricultural industry last year rose to $16,842,000 — an 8.6 per cent increase over the 1969 value reported at $15,502,000. The increase was slightly below the usual 9 per cent annual gain reported in preceding years.

County agricultural commissioner R. Allan Ballard said the combined livestock industry continues to represent about 90 per cent of the total gross value, with nearly 70 per cent derived from milk products. The latter showed a valuation of $11,778,300 in 1970, compared with $11,120,000 in 1969.

Cattle gained in dollar volume — $3,045,600 from $2,344,000, partly as a result of an increase per hundredweight from $24.80 to $28.20 and partly from an increase of 3,000 in the number of head. The value of lambs was down to $216,000 from 1969's $237,000. Hogs and pigs increased in value to $51,480 from $49,500. Chickens dropped to $78,000 from $148,000 in 1969. The number of chickens was down to 52,400 from over 100,000 in 1969.

Wool production was down 3,600 head from 1969's 98,600 and valuation dropped to $33,250 from $47,300. Egg production at $237,700 was much higher.

In field crops, the harvested value of pasture lands remained the same at $435,000. Hay and grain moved up to $270,000 from $221,000. Other field crops such as barley, oats and wheat dropped to $24,300 from $47,600 in 1969. Fruit and nut crops were down from $27,000 in 1969 to $15,000 in 1970.

Total nursery crops increased to $594,080 from $531,000. Major gains were in cut plants and ornamental trees.

Pollution Needs Moon-Type Push: Chrysler Chief

MIAMI — (BW) — John J. Riccardo, president of Chrysler Corp., termed air pollution control a top national priority and called for the same kind of cooperative scientific approach based on fact, logic and determination that put a man on the moon.

"It's not my place to set national goals, but it seems to me that control of air pollution is at least as important to our well-being as putting a man on the moon," Riccardo said recently in an address to the National Installment Credit Conference.

Riccardo said the nation went about putting a man on the moon scientifically, and "We can get the same kind of result in our battle against air pollution."

Ross Medical In Higher Earnings

Marin County's Ross Medical Corp. has reported gross revenues of $11,272,391 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1970 — an increase of approximately 22 per cent from restated gross revenues of $9,192,418 during 1969.

Net income for 1970 was $454,024, approximately 16 per cent higher than 1969 income, but as the company had 222,000 more shares outstanding at the end of last year than it did in 1969, earnings per share declined to 46 cents from 50 cents.

This was attributed primarily to a decrease in average hospital occupancy and losses were also incurred in the operations of Norcal Laboratories, which have now been discontinued.

Merger discussions are now going on in which Ross Medical would be acquired by Hospital Corp. of America, headquartered in Nashville, Tenn.

INDUSTRIAL INDEMNITY CO., San Francisco and Crum and Forster Insurance Companies are discussing a proposal to combine the latter's Pacific department into the management and operations of Industrial Indemnity, which became a member of the Crum and Forster group in 1968. The next several months will be devoted to a joint study of the most effective method of expanding the underwriting markets and capacity of the combined organizations.

LESLIE SALT CO., San Francisco net income for 1970 declined to $3,000, or one cent per share, despite increased sales. Net income in 1969 was $965,000 or $2.92 per share. Net sales and operating revenues were $23 million in 1970, compared with $21.4 million in 1969. The sales increase was said to have been offset by an 8.7-per cent increase in operating costs and expenses.

FIBREBOARD CORP., San Francisco first quarter earnings were $402,000 or 12 cents per share, as compared to $527,000 or 17 cents per share for the 1969 period. Sales were $40.8 million, down from $41 million in 1970.

ARDEN-MAYFAIR, INC. reported consolidated sales of $630 million for the 52 weeks ended Jan. 2, compared with $558 million for the 53-week 1969 year. Operating income of $783,000 before extraordinary charges resulting from real estate disposals resulted in a net loss of $2.8 million after the extraordinary charges.

TECHNICAL EQUITIES CORP., INC., San Jose has acquired Polymetrics, Inc., a San Carlos manufacturer of water purification equipment in an exchange of common stock. Other Technical Equities operations include specialty restaurants, women's wear retail shops and recorded tape stores in Northern California. Its stock is traded over the counter.

POTLATCH FORESTS, INC., San Francisco president and chief operating officer Benton R. Cancell has announced plans to retire at the end of this month and has nominated Richard B. Madden as his successor. Madden is currently assistant treasurer of Mobil Corp. and chairman of Mobil Estates, Ltd. of New York City.

WORLD AIRWAYS, INC., principal stockholder of First Western Bank and Trust Co. and Wells Fargo and Co., parent of Wells Fargo Bank, has announced an agreement in principle for the acquisition of First Western by Wells Fargo Bank for $95 million. Wells Fargo Bank has 275 offices, principally in Northern California. First Western has 95 offices principally in Southern California.

SIERRA PACIFIC INDUSTRIES, San Francisco will invest over one million dollars in a new wood millwork plant to be built at Chico. It is expected to be in operation before the end of this year and will adjoin Coach-Mate, Inc., a Sierra Pacific subsidiary there which manufactures vinyl overlay moldings. Sierra Pacific also has a millwork operation at Susanville.

World Airways Lashes 'Bias' On Charter Trips

NEW YORK — (BW) — An immediate end to restrictions imposed on U.S. supplemental airlines by European governments and new policies which end discrimination against charter travel have been urged by World Airways Inc.

If existing restrictions were not lifted, the airline said, European governments would invite action by the U.S. to impose counter restrictions on European airlines.

In a sweeping indictment of the International Air Transport Association (IATA), the rate making cartel for the scheduled airlines, World said that "European airlines were forcing curtailment of the principles of free trade upon which the airline industry's past achievements had rested. Worse, their actions prompt retaliatory actions which are repugnant to a competitive economy in a free society.

"A concerted effort on the part of government owned foreign airlines to erect barriers to the U.S. supplemental airlines charter services was the most serious threat to the development of a mass travel market.

"The existing restrictions would deny American travelers the availability of low cost charter transportation and leave the public without recourse of the arbitrarily high IATA fares,'' the airline charged.

Raising the question of IATA's anti-trust immunity under U.S. law, the airline asked if it was not time for a "searching inquiry of IATA's stranglehold on the prerogative of decision making by the government and the industry.

Said World Airways President Edward Daly:

"Let's face it. They have almost succeeded. The only stumbling block to a total monopoly of IATA is the supplemental airlines that offer the only effective form of price competition to IATA, and the only way the traveling public can get away from paying whatever fare IATA dictates on a given route.

"It is my judgement, which is shared by many in the industry, that IATA has outlived its usefulness. Its decisions are a costly and a senseless burden on the airlines which IATA presumably serves.

Property Sales: 50-Year Record

The month of March has been reported by the Marin County Board of Realtors as the greatest month in total sales dollars in the 50-year history of the board.

Multiple listing transactions reported last month totalled $13,086,555. Especially significant was the fact that this figure was only 5 per cent below the total of listing prices. Reported sales for March, 1970 were $7,902,075.

In residential sales, the most active group was in three-bedroom dwellings selling for between $30,000 and $40,000. Three-bedroom houses from $40,000 to $50,000 made up the second highest group and the same size in the $25,000-$30,000 class made up the third.

Completed sales for the month were also high, totalling $7,638,113 compared to $4,027,450 in March, 1970. Total completed sales for the first quarter this year were $15,992,863, compared to $11,801,569 in the first three months of 1970. Completed sales as distinguished from reported sales are those which have cleared escrow.

Increased sales continue the pattern set in January and February this year as a result of the easing in mortgage rates.

Men's Wear Coup Or Just A Joke?

BEVERLY HILLS — (BW) — Men's hotpants are drawing a lukewarm response from Western Men, according to California Business, the Western financial weekly.

Department and men's stores say they're stocking up on the new short shorts, but few expect more than passing interest. Most shops feel the item is at best a passing fad which can only be enjoyed by a small portion of the male population—the young with good legs.

Sales of the counterpart to the ladies' mini-britches are expected to climb with the temperature, says Ron Segal, a buyer of men's casual pants at Daytons of Beverly Hills, a men's store. He figures hotpants are just a one-season fad that will cool with the weather next fall.

"I sold three pair to a fellow yesterday," declares Segal, "but he is a Bermuda shorts freak anyway. He's young and has fairly good legs so they will look great on him."

For gentlemen who are young but don't have great legs, Segal suggests a heavily ribbed pantyhose of contrasting or complimenting hue. "We've had good reorders on these," he smiles.

Meanwhile, Parisian fashion designers are recommending that well-attired men will probably shave their legs if they don't wear the new pantyhose, a suggestion winning a less than enthusiastic reaction.

At Silverwood's Men Store in Los Angeles where a shipment of hotpants is due within the next two weeks, salesman James Ramsey declares he's not encouraging his customers to shave their legs. "Hotpants for men — maybe," he shrugs, "but shaved legs for men — hell, no."

Some stores refuse to discuss either subject. When an exclusive Palo Alto Men's store was called and asked if it carries hotpants, the store spokesman indignantly snorted, "I beg your pardon?" and hung up.

At Weinstock's department store in Sacramento, Wyne Karmzin, assistant buyer for men's sportswear, is anxiously awaiting a shipment of the mini-trousers this month. "They're going to go big," he predicts.

At Harris and Frank Men's Store in Los Angeles, the outlook isn't as bright. "We're doing the same thing with hotpants as we did flairs," points out Fred Meyerhaus, a buyer for casual pants.

"We're going to wait and see what happens. If it turns out they are a strong seller we will order immediately. It's better to bide your time and sell what you order than jump right in and get stuck with shelves of unmovable stock."

Campbells of Santa Monica, Calif., and Grodins of Los Angeles, both men's stores, are stocking up on corduroy, denim and double knit shorts for men. Both stores insist the item will sell as well as the women's hotpants, and at least as long.

At Rough Riders Inc., Napa, Calif., manufacturer of men's sportswear, samples of the new hotpants have just gone out to salesmen, according to Al Cohen, Southern California sales representative.

The shorts sell for $4 each, come in corduroy or cotton twill and a number of colors, from "whisky" to "granite," says Cohen.

Levi Strauss, San Francisco, isn't jumping into the fad either. "We've been manufacutring what we call a 'short cut' (better known as "cut-offs") for some time. A jean cut, they're made of 50 per cent cotton and 50 per cent polyester and come in four colors, retailing for $7.50," says a spokesman for the company.

"We're not putting much emphasis on the item," he adds, "but we are concentrating on a bib overall which we expect to do very well this year."

DOWN THE HATCH, CHUCKLES

Chuckles, a 4-day-old fawn, is fed by Matthew Kilgore, 5, of San Anselmo. Chuckles was brought to the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum by a fish and game warden from the Mount Tamalpais area who reported the youngster was discovered alone by a camper. Chuckles gets her bottle about every two hours and will be kept at the museum until she is old enough to fend for her own food.

Vocal Discord To Marin's Long-Range Water Bidding

Aqueduct's Financing Brings Many Questions

By M. STREET BROOKS

Directors of Marin Municipal Water District found themselves on the receiving end of a barrage of comment last night, much of it opposed to the district's multimillion-dollar water project.

The occasion was a public hearing called by the directors for discussion of a proposed change in the method of financing the district's $21 million share of the $47.7 million Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct.

About 50 county residents showed up at the district board room. It was a partisan group and strongly vocal against the aqueduct.

Some — representing ecology, conservation and recreation groups — put forth suggestions as complex as high combustion systems for the burning of sewage and for the treatment of effluent to make it potable.

Some charged the project's effect will be to stimulate population growth and benefit real estate interests. They said the project would lead to "degradation of our communities." Others questioned the need for water now, or for the amount projected by the district staff for 1993.

Between the criticism and comment of the project, its purpose and need were outlined by the directors and district Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger.

Directors described legislation they seek in order to acquire financing for the project without going to the voters for approval of bond issues.

(Voters last November narrowly passed an $11.5 million bond issue, with approximately $4 million earmarked for the aqueduct project. Voters were told before the election that additional stages of the project would be financed by a series of bond issues submitted for their approval.)

Legislation sought would permit the district to borrow $18 million from the Sonoma Water Agency, a partner in the project and repay it out of district revenue.

Seeger outlined water studies made since November 1962 and a chart was distributed showing requirements rising from 36,700 acre feet of water this year to 87,000 acre feet in 1993. The district claimed that water needs will increase more than the increase in population because anticipated rises in incomes will encourage more water use.

A 4 per cent annual increase in population for this period was forecasted.

Jerry Kresy, Tamalpais Valley resident and a director of the Marin Ecology Center, said the project would be used to bring another 200,000 people into Marin County.

"We know you can do this," Kresy told the board, "but we don't want you to. Don't plan on this growth in order to create it."

Director Ray W. Foreaker, Jr. countered that he would not "vote to restrict utilities to control population."

Tar Taul of Greenbrae, chairman of the Marin Chapter of the Sierra Club, also said the project would be used to stimulate population and added that "the prospect of water for West Marin is a realtor's delight."

"How can you be for water and against conservation?" he asked. "We don't want another Wonderland a la San Diego."

While the water district's share of the project costs has been listed as $21 million in past accounts, Foreaker said last night that this was the initial capital cost. Interest would probably double this amount by the time the aqueduct is finally paid for, he said.

"At the present time," Taul told the directors, "you are coming on as merchants of water. "You obviously don't want

Angela's Judge Will Not Bow Out

By C. P. McCARTHY

Judge Alan A. Lindsay refused yesterday to disqualify himself in the Angela Y. Davis case and unequivocally denied allegations by her attorneys that he is a white racist.

Lindsay, an Alameda County Superior Court judge, in an answer filed in Marin Superior Court, rejected complaint by Miss Davis that he could not give her a fair trial.

"I am now and always have been inalterably opposed to racial prejudice and segregation of any kind whatsoever," Lindsay said in his 22-page reply.

He termed most of Miss Davis's allegations "irrelevant, argumentative and conclusionary" and said they "should be ignored and/or stricken from the record."

Lindsay is the second out-of-county judge appointed to handle the case of Miss Davis and her codefendant, San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee, who are charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice.

All five Marin Superior Court judges have disqualified themselves.

The first out-of-county judge, John P. McMurray of Inyo County voluntarily withdraw after he was accused by Magee of being prejudiced.

The judge was slated to hear arguments on various motions, including ones that the case against her be dismissed and that she be released on bail, but he suspended proceedings after being challenged.

Whether or not Lindsay should be disqualified from the case will now be decided by another judge to be selected by agreement of Lindsay and Miss Davis's attorneys, or appointed by the state Judicial Council if they fail to agree.

In the reply filed yesterday, Lindsay said the judge who will decide the matter is not required to hold a hearing but may make his decision based solely on the challenge and his reply.

Lindsay said he elt Miss Davis's challenge was "insufficient in view of the lack of particular facts showing any bias or prejudice on my part and could properly be stricken and ignored by me.

"However, in view of the public interest in this case, and the nature of the challenge, I shall nonetheless answer the statement," he said, "in order that defendants receive the benefit of any procedural issue and my qualifications may be independently evaluated by a reviewing judge."

In their motion challenging Lindsay, Miss Davis's attorneys cited his career as an assistant district attorney, a former president of the Oakland school board, lobbyist for the California Peace Officers Association, his work with the justice department's criminal division and the fact that he was originally appointed to the bench by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"The racism inherent in the American judicial political system is clearly manifested in Judge Lindsay's career, a classic of our time," they said.

Lindsay granted the facts of his career yesterday, but said "I unequivocally deny and repudiate any implications and assertions" of prejudice.

"As a judge of the Superior Court of the State of California . . . I have taken a solemn oath to uphold the laws of this state, and the constitution of both the State of California and of the United States.

"That responsibility, I believe I can perform without bias or prejudice toward any party herein," he said.

'Urgent Need For Unified Police'

Marin County and city officials were called upon yesterday to conduct prompt investigation into the possibility of establishing a countywide police department.

The law enforcement committee of the Marin County Grand Jury, in its term-ending report, said there was "too much crime and excessive mobility of criminals" for the present police setup to handle.

"It has become evident to the committee," the report said, "that a single, centralized countywide police system should be considered as a replacement for the present mixture of county sheriff-various city police departments."

Such a system, the committee said, would provide "broader basis for identification of criminals than is now possible for small municipal police departments; " could pave the way for creation of a countywide crime laboratory and might justify establishment of a police academy.

In the interim, a countywide burglary detail should be created, the group recommended.

(The county board of supervisors has endorsed the concept of hiring a criminal justice coordinator, among whose duties would be the study of police consolidation in Marin. County officials have assured wary police chiefs, meanwhile, that consolidation is years away.)

The committee, whose chairman was George J. Benoit, a research chemist from San Anselmo, adopted a stance taken by the 1969 law enforcement panel in hitting at court leniency toward repeat drug offenders.

"All of the courts should give the maximum sentence to any person convicted for a second (or more) time of selling narcotics," the 1970 committee said. "We believe that this practice will be in the direction of a strong deterrent effect against the mushrooming sale of drugs, as well as providing richly due punishment for those so convicted."

The group called for high bail for persons accused of narcotics offenses.

Last year's committee also was highly critical of operations at Marin County Juvenile Hall, but the 1970 group said it had not found time to investigate the facility in depth.

It did, however, praise Erick F. Yarchin, selected as the new juvenile hall superintendent after last year's critical report, and recommended support of his programs.

Besides Benoit, members of the law enforcement committee were Donald Barksdale, Thomas C. Cheethan, Marilyn Steinau and Don A. Younger, foreman of the grand jury.

In another matter, the full grand jury recommended that the Legislature modify state law to enable jurors to serve all or part of a second term to maintain continuity in investigations. Jurors now are banned from serving consecutive terms.

Soviets Reelect Ruling Troika; Brezhnev Proteges In Politburo

MOSCOW (UPI) —Amid hurrahs of "glory," Soviet communism today re-elected the Kremlin troika and expanded the ruling Politburo with four proteges of party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The 24th Soviet Communist Party Congress ended with a five-year mandate for the troika of Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny to seek general disarmament, mend fences with Washington and Peking and improve the consumers' lot.

The troika and the other eight incumbents on the ruling Politburo were re-elected to a Politburo expanded to 15 members. All four newcomers have a common patron—Brezhnev.

Cheers of "glory, glory" and wild applause greeted the announcement by an obviously pleased Brezhnev that the supreme leadership woven in 1964 remained intact.

Applause for Kosygin almost matched that for Brezhnev, the troika's "leader among equals" who stands to benefit more than any other Politburo member from that body's new, young blood.

The four new politburo members are:

—Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky, premier of the Ukraine.

Brezhnev announced the new Politburo and his re-election as general secretary.

All five incumbent alternate members of the politburo were re-elected. They sit in on Politburo discussions but have no vote.

The 5,000 congress delegates gave Brezhnev, 64, a thundering ovation when he told the final session of the 10-day gathering he had been re-elected general secretary by the politburo.

The Politburo, the day-to-day ruling body of the Soviet Union, was elected by the new central committee chosen by congress delegates Thursday.

Also re-elected were all nine other incumbent party secretaries.

Viet Death Toll Passes Korean War

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Pentagon said today casualties in Vietnam now exceed the death toll of the Korean War.

Announcement of 88 deaths during the week ending Saturday—including 33 killed in the attack on Firebase Mary Anne —pushed the Vietnam toll to 54,284. The count started Jan. 1, 1961.

Korea claimed 54,246 American lives between Jan. 20, 1950, and July 27, 1953, according to Pentagon records.

The two totals include both those killed in battle and those who died for other reasons, such as illness or accident. Comparison of battle deaths is not possible because different bookkeeping methods were used in the two wars.

In Korea, 33,629 battlefield deaths were recorded. But these included only men killed in combat, and not those who later died of wounds.

In Vietnam 44,876 have died from "hostile causes" including both battlefield deaths and those who were wounded and died later.

U.S. Copters Drop Slingloads Of Napalm Around Fire Base 6

SAIGON (UPI)—Giant American Army helicopters are dropping slingloads of napalm on North Vietnamese troops besieging Fire Base 6 in the Central Highlands, front reports said today. B52s bombed within half a mile of the base.

Lt. Col. Frank O. Miller, 43, of Maitland, Fla., told UPI correspondent Robert Sullivan that CH47 Chinook helicopters were dropping sling loads of 55 gallon drums of napalm on the jungled hillsides between Fire Base 6 and companion Fire Base 5, four miles to the southeast.

Military sources said that when the drums are dropped from high altitude they burst open, spraying napalm over the jungle canopy. The napalm then is ignited with fire rockets from helicopter gunships to expose and burn out Communist troop concentrations.

Fire Base 6, about 270 miles northeast of Saigon, is near the point where the borders of Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam converge. South Vietnamese spokesmen said they were determined to hold it for the honor of the South Vietnamese army. Americans said the Communists were trying to capture it to prove the invasion of Laos was a failure.

Maj. Ge, Ngo Dzy, commander of South Vietnam's II Corps containing the Fire Base 6 area, estimated that 4,500 to 6,000 Red troops were in the original assault force and that they have been reinforced. His officers have reported killing 2,200 Communists there at a loss of 85 dead and 190 wounded. American officers at the scene said the Communist casualties were exaggerated and that the South Vietnamese had lost several hundred dead.

No major ground fighting was reported there today.

The South Vietnamese Command today officially announced the end of the Laotian invasion, 15 days after the last regular troops withdrew, but military sources said small unannounced strikes into Laos probably would continue.

The official summation said 13,841 Communists were killed and that the ARVN lost 1,445 killed, 41,106 wounded and 204 missing in the Laotian campaign. The Saigon troops said they destroyed 1,678 North Vietnamese weapons, 120 tanks, 297 trucks, more than 4 million gallons of fuel, 176,000 tons of ammunition and 2,283 tons of rice and other food.

The U.S. Command revised its helicopter losses in support of the Laos incursion, code named Lam Son 719, to a total of 107 but said a further revision could be expected. The crashes killed 53 Americans, wounded 89 and left 27 missing.

In Cambodia, troops trying to reopen Route 4 between the capital of Phnom Penh and the seaport of Kompong Som ran into heavy Communist resistance today and fell back to their original starting point about 55 miles southwest of Phnom Penh at nightfall. It was in this area that Kate Webb, UPI bureau manager in Phnom Penh, disappeared Wednesday during a Communist attack.

In Laos, Laotian government troops evacuated the Ban-Na airstrip on the southeast edge of the Plain of Jars Thursday night following a heavy mortar and rocket barrage. Ban-Na was a key defense position of the top-secret Long Cheng base of the American-backed Meo tribal guerrillas 90 miles northeast of Vientiane.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Oil Spill

LONDON (UPI)—Oil slicks drifting in the English Channel and the Irish Sea threatened British coasts today. One of them came from a collision of a British oil tanker and a Danish vessel.

While two naval vessels assisted by a spotter helicopter sprayed detergent on oil leaked from the collision in the channel, the Coast Guard reported another mile-long oil slick in the Irish Sea between the Scottish and Northern Ireland coasts.

Winds were blowing it toward northwest Scotland. A wind shift would threaten Northern Ireland beaches in county Antrim and country Down with pollution, a coast guard spokesman said.

Calley's Memoirs

Publisher Thomas H. Guinzburg of Viking Press announced Thursday Lt. Calley and his literary collaborator, John Sack, had received an advance of $100,000 for the book, portions of which have already been published in Esquire magazine.

The book is scheduled for publication Sept. 15 and Guinzburg said the demand from bookstores was "fantastic." He said the first edition run would be "enormous—something like 50,000 to 100,000."

Secessionist Claim

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Bengali secessionist forces have claimed almost complete control of the western part of East Pakistan, reports in the Indian press said today. Heavy fighting continued in some western cities and across the Brahmaputra River in the eastern sector.

The government Radio Pakistan said Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan, martial law administrator of East Pakistan, was sworn in today as governor of the province. The rebels claim their forces killed Tikka Khan in a skirmish in Dacca, the capital city, on March 26, the day after civil war broke out.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency said the liberation army of Bangla Desh (Bengal Land) claimed Thursday it had established command over most of the area between Saidpur in the north and Chalna port in the south, a distance of about 225 miles.

Bomb Discovered

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—The biggest bomb found in strife-ridden Northern Ireland this year was discovered and dismantled at a cement factory today.

It spurred major hunts for weapons and explosives by British troops trying to head off Easter weekend violence.

F14 Overrun

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Grumman Aerospace Corp. has told the Navy its order for 710 new F14 jet fighters probably will cost about $1 million more per plane than originally estimated.

In a letter dated March 31 and released by the Navy Thursday, Grumman President William M. Zarkowsky asked to renegotiate the original $8.2 billion agreement because "the contract is commercially impracticable under the existing terms and conditions."

Each F14 carried an original pricetag of about $11.5 million under the original contract. Zarkowsky blamed higher labor and material costs and the overall slump in the aerospace industry for inflating the original estimate.

Boggs' Backers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Italian-American Civil Rights League, involved in its own dispute with the FBI, volunteered Thursday to provide House Majority Leader Hale Boggs with evidence to support his charges against the FBI.

"If it is evidence of the Gestapo-type tactics used by the FBI that you are seeking, we can certainly help you," Nat Marcone, president of the league, said in a telegram to Boggs.

"Many of our members have been subjected to the SS-type tactics by members of the organized crime task force and would be more than willing to testify to this effect," Marcone said.

Boggs charged Monday the FBI has tapped his telephone and those of other congressmen and called for the resignation of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Meir Pessimistic

By U.P. International

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said today recent statements by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat "nearly destroys every hope" for peace in the Middle East.

Mrs. Meir, in an interview published in the Tel Aviv newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth, said that despite Sadat's pronouncements "I am ready to meet him at any place, any time."

She said "we want a peace that will constitute the beginning of the road to human coexistence in the Middle East. President Sadat, however, does not cease talking of resumption of the fighting, and he dictates such terms to us that will enable him to get rid of us in the future."

"We thought Sadat would settle down and begin to tackle the problems of the Egyptian nation," she said, but "it seems to me that one can now doubt if this assessment was correct. Everything Sadat has said .... nearly destroys every hope."

Obscenity Case Conviction Is Overturned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The "Love Book" obscenity conviction of a book seller has been overturned because of a faulty instruction to the jury during the original trial four years ago.

Federal Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli Thursday vacated the conviction of Allen Cohen, 25, who was found guilty May 26, 1967 of selling obscene matter.

When found guilty, Cohen was fined $50.

Zirpoli said he will stay his order 20 days to allow the district attorney's office time to file an appeal.

DISCUSSES FIRE — Chancellor Dean McHenry of the University of California at Santa Cruz discusses yesterday's fire which did at least $500,000 damage to the campus administration building. While possible arson was being probed, McHenry said he was dismayed and felt awful but that the "show must go on." (UPI Telephoto)

A 'Hands And Knees' Fire Investigation

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—Fire marshals started a "hands and knees" investigation today to determine if arsonists started a fire in the chancellor's office of the University of California at Santa Cruz.

The blaze gutted Chancellor Dean McHenry's office early Thursday and destroyed irreplaceable student and faculty records in the campus' second floor "nerve center." Damage was estimated at $250,000 to $500,000.

Santa Cruz firemen, who spent two hours bringing the predawn fire under control, said it could have been deliberately set.

"We'll just have to go through this stuff on our hands and knees to find out if it's arson," said Chief Ted McEwan. Investigators from the state fire marshal's office in Sacramento were called in to help.

McHenry said the blaze might slow fall admission announcements by six weeks, but added: "The show must go on."

The chancellor said his office was the "logical place" for a "demented" person to start a fire, "but it's a quite open question whether this was arson or that it occurred because of an electrical or gas line failure."

He noted the five-year-old experimental campus set in a redwood forest overlooking the Pacific Ocean was going through its "most peaceful year."

The campus, located 60 miles south of San Francisco, consists of five separate colleges "clustered" among the redwoods.

Enrollment is 3,700 students.

Pope In Bitter Attack On The Rebel Priests

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI has used one of the ugliest words in Christendom to describe priests who abandon their vocations to marry or for other reasons: Judas.

The Pope's accusation Thursday was one of his bitterest outbursts since a famous 1969 speech in which he accused rebellious priests of "crucifying" the Roman Catholic Church.

"How can one fail to offer a prayer on Holy Thursday evening for these runaway brothers and the communities they have abandoned and scandalized?" he said during a 2 1-2 hour service at the Rome Basilica of St. John in Lateran.

He said reading the story of Judas Iscariot, the betrayer of Jesus, reminded him of such men, and added:

"How can one fail on this occasion to weep for the deliberate defection of some priests and the moral mediocrity by which they pretend it is natural and logical to break a long premeditated promise solemnly taken before Christ und the Church."

The Pope made a new defense of the Church's celibacy law and said he was praying for priests who abide by it.

Earlier Thursday, 54 of the nearly 5,000 priests resident in Rome went to St. John in Lateran to publicly renew their vows in a ceremony begun last year by the Vatican.

The International Synod of Bishops next October will discuss problems of the priesthood, including a proposal to allow mature married men to be ordained in areas where clergy are particularly scarce.

The Maundy Thursday service commenorating the Last Supper and the betrayal and arrest of Jesus opened the passion ceremonies which will end with the Resurrection service in St. Peter's Basilica Sunday morning and the Pope's blessing to the world.

A moving feature of Thursday's service was the Pope's washing and kissing the feet of 12 men from a Rome old people's home—a gesture of humility recalling the same action performed by Jesus for his disciples on the first Holy Thursday.

The United States uses more than 1.443 trillion kilowatt hours of electricity annually.

CBS Balks At Subpoena On 'Selling'

NEW YORK (UPI)—CBS has refused to turn over to a congressional subcommittee certain material used by the network while making its television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

CBS President Frank Stanton said the subpoena issued by the investigations subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee "raises an unprecedented issue in the history of the relationship between the federal government and the press in this nation."

The network president said, "No newspaper, magazine or other part of the press could be required constitutionally to comply with such a subpoena with respect to material gathered by reporters in the course of a journalistic investigation but not published.

"Unlike other instances in which a committee of the Congress has subpoenaed broadcasters' materials, this subpoena appears to involve no question of alleged violation of criminal law on the part of the broadcaster and no question of any governmental interest in whether the broadcaster had evidence pertinent to the criminal prosecution of third persons. Rather, the sole purpose of this subpoena, so far as we can ascertain it, is to obtain materials which will aid the committee in subjecting to legislative surveillance the news judgements of CBS in preparing "The Selling of the Pentagon."

"The fact that television and radio stations are licensed by the government does not deprive the broadcast press of First Amendment protection, and the courts have so held," said Stanton. "That protection does not depend upon whether the government believes we are right or wrong in our news judgements."

The subpoena asked for "all film, workprints, outtakes, sound tape recordings, written scripts and-or transcripts prepared, obtained, or utilized in whole or part".

GM Board Opposes S. African Pullout

DETROIT (UPI)—The board of directors of General Motors Corp. has urged stockholders to vote against a number of proposed corporate changes, including one that would force the company to stop making cars in South Africa.

GM and Ford Motor Co., in proxy statements mailed Thursday, also indicated the take home pay of their top executives was less in 1970 than in 1969.

The GM board, in its statement, unanimously urged "no" votes on the changes submitted by the Project on Corporate Responsibility, similar to ones rejected by stockholders at last year's shareholder's meeting. This year's meeting will be held May 21 at Detroit's Cobo Hall.

The board also recommended rejection of a proposal that would force the company to "not conduct manufacturing operations in the Republic of South Africa."

Submitted by the Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, which holds 12,574 shares of GM stock, the resolution would require the company to "wind up its present manufacturing operations there as expeditiously as possible."

The church said GM should cease operations in South Africa because that country's apartheid policy "creates an extreme risk of eventual turmoil and instability in South Africa, which makes investment there excessively risky."

In rejecting the proposals submitted by the Project on Corporate Responsibility, the board said they "are without precedent in corporate law or practice" and may, in at least one case, be illegal.

The project asked stockholders to accept three resolutions this year. One calls for three new members of the board to sit as representatives of GM employes, GM leaders and consumers.

Another would require GM to publish in its annual report "detailed descriptions of specific new techniques in automotive air pollution control and motor vehicle safety," a breakdown showing the portions of "blacks, Orientals, American Indians, Spanish-surnamed Americans and women" employed by GM and in what kind of jobs, and details of why models were recalled.

The third project recommendation would allow nominations to the Board of Directors by petitions signed by 100 shareholders.

Bonuses were eliminated entirely for GM executives, lowering the compensation paid Chairman James M. Roche from $715,000 in 1969 to $225,000 last year.

Ford said its executives' salaries were increased but bonuses were lower than the year ago.

Mountain Of Trash

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Each year residents of Oregon produce enough trash, garbage and junk equivalent to 10,673,991 cubic yards —or about the size of Mt. Hood, the state's highest peak.

Mills Leaves Door Open For A Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who has taken on a new role as a Democratic Party fund raiser, is leaving the door open — slightly —to a presidential draft.

The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who insists he is not a presidential candidate, admits he would have to accept the role if any genuine draft developed.

Although there has been recurring talk about a draft movement among some congressmen, and in Arkansas, no major organized effort has developed.

During the last two days Mills has been trying to raise funds among wealthy Texans for the Democratic National Committee to help wipe out the $9.3 million debt the party ran up during the 1968 presidential campaign.

Thursday night Mills, 61, made his most positive statement on the situation so far. In an interview with station WTEV-TV, New Bedford, Mass., he said he "doubted in all seriousness" that a meaningful draft would materialize; but if the nomination were offered him, he added, "I would have to accept it."

Brewer Will Fight Juvenile Hall Cuts

Probation Officer John W. Brewer declared yesterday he will fight to save Marin Juvenile Hall's pre-placement center, which is marked for extinction in July.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella acknowledged that the administrator's office will recommend no funds for the pre-placement center in the 1971-72 budget. The 11 employees now working at the center would be reassigned to other jobs in the probation department.

The pre-placement unit, operating for the past three years, provides group counseling and therapy to youngsters before they are returned to their homes or placed in foster homes. Families of the youngsters and their foster parents are also given counseling at the center.

"We feel this is one of the most effective programs we have for youngsters who are trying to return to their own homes or to foster homes," said Brewer.

Campanella said he believes the emphasis should be on a program of preventing the placement of children in institutions or foster homes rather than on preparing them for placement. He said the pre-placement program could be phased out and the building used as a halfway house or treatment facility for alcoholics or drug users.

Brewer said that another major disagreement with the county administrator is over the classification of group counselors at Juvenile Hall.

Brewer said he wants to keep about 25 experienced counselors (classified as Group Counselor II), to be supplemented by four trainees, classified as Group Counselor I.

The county administrator wants to reverse that ratio so that 25 will be trainees and four would be experienced.

"This is simply reverting to a custodial situation with a poorly prepared staff," complained Brewer. "To talk about doing this and at the same time eliminate the pre-placement program is doubly negative."

Brewer said he will appear before the board of supervisors during the budget sessions to fight for the pre-placement center and for experienced group counselors.

Demonstrators Get Suspended 60-Day Terms

FRESNO (UPI)—Three persons convicted of blocking traffic during a demonstration at Fresno State College last May 22 have been given 60-day suspended sentences.

One year probation was also ordered for Gregory Walsh, 19; Robin Bertsch, 23, both of Fresno, and Patricia Manro, 27, of Auberry.

Sentencing in Municipal Court for two others convicted of the same offense, Jeffrey Johnson 21, and Mary Nelson 24, both of Fresno, was continued until Monday.

In other related court action Wednesday, Douglas Gustafson, 32, Joel Eis, 24, Calvin Norris, 22, and David Ward, 24, all of Fresno, changed their pleas to no contest to charges of unlawful assembly in connection with the same incident.

Sentencing for the four was set for April 27.

Candidate Says Sign Ripped Up

Nobody seems to like a campaign poster.

On public property they get torn down and discarded legally and on private lawns and fences they're ripped up illegally in the middle of the night by culprits wearing gloves and left shredded in little piles to mock candidates.

Thomas R. O'Toole, of 66 Junipero Serra, San Rafael planning commissioner and candidate for the city council, reported that about 75 of his posters have been taken from stakes pounded into the ground and nailed to fences. He said they were all on private property.

Most of the signs were destroyed along San Pedro Road from the Thrifty Drug Store to Peacock Gap, O'Toole said. He sprayed pieces of the torn signs with chemicals to preserve fingerprints, but police, according to O'Toole, said whoever ripped them was wearing gloves. Signs have been put up eight times in some places and at 78 cents each, that can get to be pretty expensive, he complained.

O'Toole stopped one man he saw taking down signs on AStreet and found that another candidate's signs were the target. O'Toole said he asked the man not to take any more signs down.

Report On Working Students At Sonoma

Nearly half the students at Sonoma State College are working their way through college, according to a recent survey.

Three out of five male students and one of three female students hold down jobs while attending classes, according to Dr. Stanley Goertzen, chairman of the psychology department.

Nearly 1,400 of the college's full-time students are working an average of 16 hours per week. Married students tend to work more hours the survey showed.

Most students are employed off campus with only 12 per cent working on campus as student assistants or in work-study programs.

The survey showed that 75 per cent of the students work in the evenings and on Saturdays. The unemployment rate was listed at 20 per cent. "This suggests that there are about 300 students at the college who have been unable to find work," Goertzen said.

He also found that 75 per cent of the men and 33 per cent of the women held jobs last summer. Most of the students hold year-round jobs and simply increase their work load during summer months.

"This student body is, by and large, a self-supporting student body," Goertzen said. "Almost all of the married students, three-quarters of the single men and a third of the single women are dependent upon their own efforts for most of the costs of their education."

Amputee Center Threatened By Budget Cuts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The University of California's bio-mechanical laboratories, where many Vietnam amputees are fitted for artificial limbs, may be forced out of business by a lack of funds.

The program, which is financed almost entirely by the Veterans Administration, was at one time receiving an annual budget of $500,000 and employed 76 persons at three centers.

Today, according to Dr. Verne T. Inman, a surgeon at the UC Medical Center, the gross budget is down to $160,000 and the staff has dropped to 10.

Inman says the cutback comes at a time when there are 52,000 amputee Vietnam veterans in service hospitals across the country.

He blames the fund shortage on the "new directions" of medical and social research. "They're interested in drug addiction and retarded children ... everything but assisting the disabled veteran."

Budget Of $49,000 To Be Studied

A $49,000 budget for the Bel Aire Flood Control Zone for 1971-72 will be considered by the zone's advisory board at 8 p.m. Monday in the portable building at Bel Aire School, Karen Way, Tiburon.

The budget, recommended by county flood control engineer Charles E. Murphy, would be financed partly by $25,300 expected to be carried over from the current fiscal year and partly by a special flood control property tax.

The advisory board must study the budget and make a recommendation to the county board of supervisors, which will set the final budget.

Various tax rates are possible, Murphy said, with higher rates allowing the zone to accumulate funds to carry out a $560,000 flood control master plan.

A tax rate equal to this year's 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation would yield $4,300 in reserves, while a $1 tax rate, the maximum allowable, would result in a $32,300 reserve.

Financing of the $560,000 plan could be accomplished either by a pay-as-you-go method, using reserves accumulated through taxes, or by a bond issue. Murphy has recommended that the board levy the maximum $1 tax rate this year.

Phosphates In Detergents Hit

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—A bill outlawing phosphates in detergents passed the Nevada Assembly Thursday.

The measure, sent to the Senate, would make it immediately illegal to sell detergents with more than 8.7 per cent phosphates and ban the chemical brightening agents in 1972.

American Airlines New Coach Lounge.

You won't believe you're on an airplane.

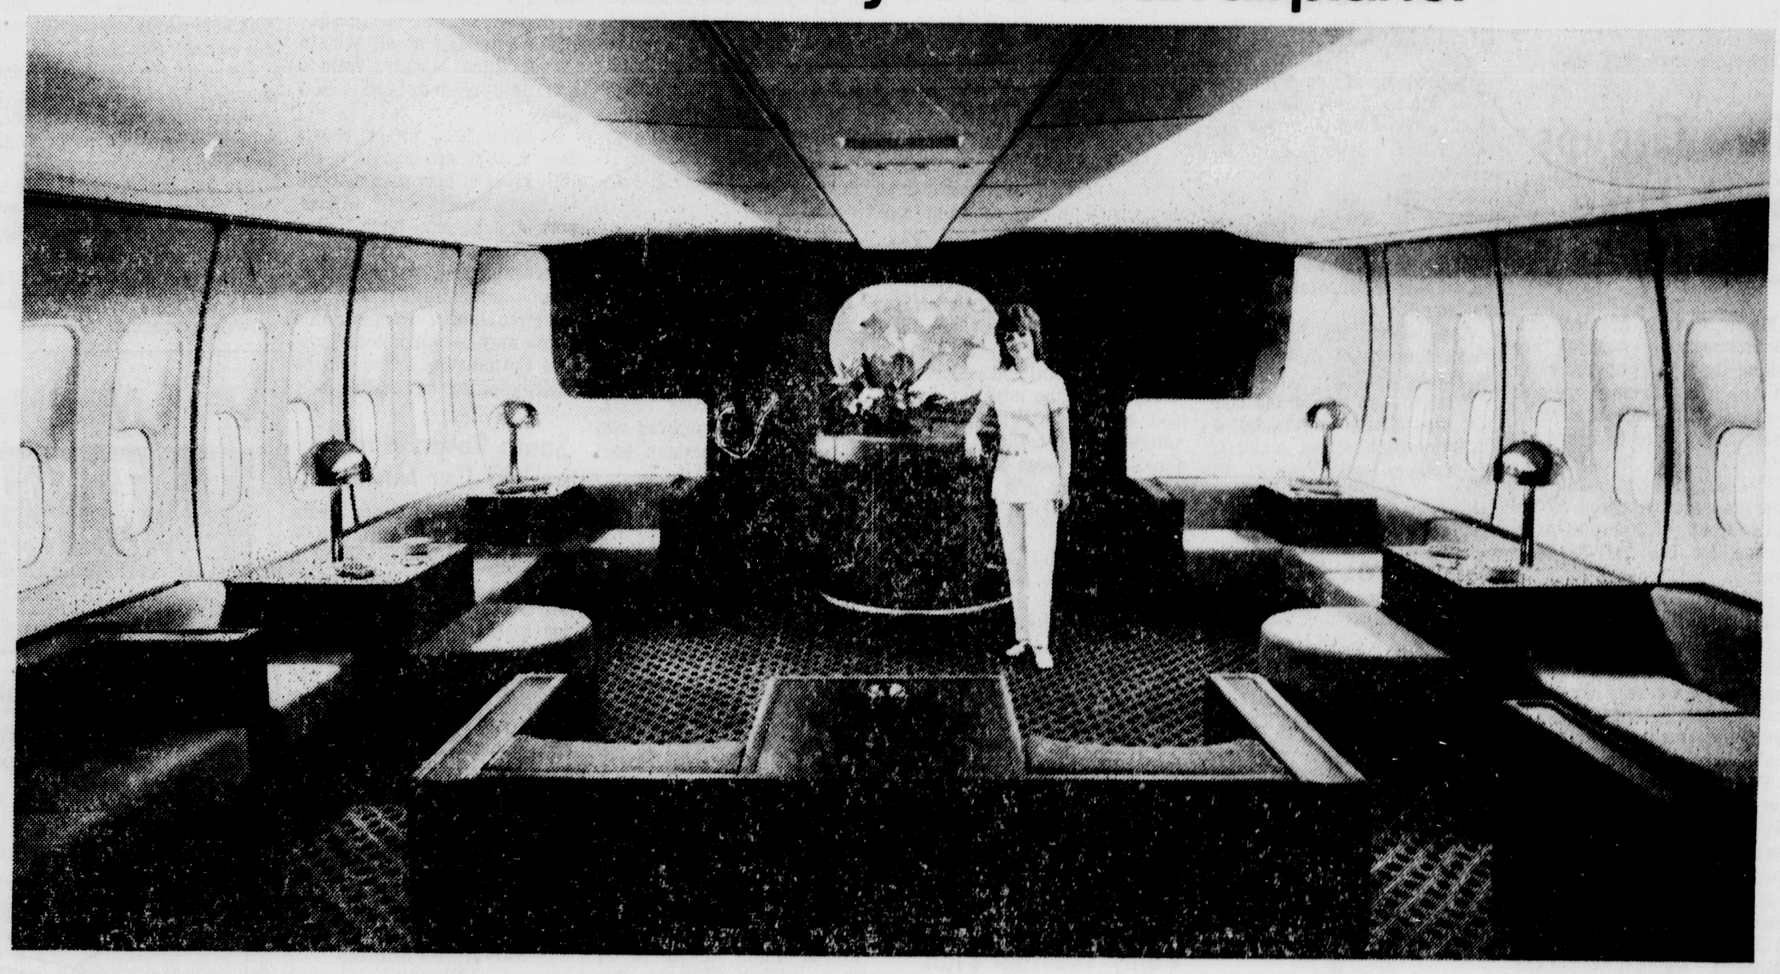

See it with your own eyes.

It's bigger than most living rooms, has soft cushiony seats all around, in the middle is a stand-up bar...and not only is it on an airplane, but it's in coach.

American Airlines' Coach Lounge.

Take a walk to it, through it, around it. Stretch your legs. Relax.

It's a place where you can mingle, make new friends, have a snack, have some fun. Whatever.

You can even give yourself a going-away party while you're going away. By far, it's the most wonderful thing ever to happen to a coach passenger.

But this new standard of comfort doesn't stop with our lounge. You'll notice it everywhere, from nose to tail.

On our new 747 LuxuryLiner.

In coach, for instance, we've taken out rows of seats and rearranged the layout so each passenger gets extra legroom.

In first class, you can reserve a table for four. Dine with friends as you would in a restaurant. Play cards. Hold a business meeting.

Upstairs is our totally redesigned first class lounge. A plush intimate spot where you'll enjoy champagne and liqueurs after dinner.

If this sounds like a plane of the future, it isn't. Most of our 747s already have all these comforts. By April 25, every one will be a LuxuryLiner. And the extras won't cost you a cent extra.

For reservations to New York and Chicago, call us or your Travel Agent.

Coming Soon. American Airlines New 747 LuxuryLiner.

U.S. Tennis Team Plays In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI)—An American table tennis team arrived here today on its way to Communist China for a series of "friendly matches" with China's world championship team.

The 15 members of the team said they were delighted by the surprise invitation to visit China and they would do all they could to promote friendship with the Chinese.

Officials and players insisted that the invitation, the first ever extended to an American sports group, and the team's visit were not politically motivated.

However, the sports aspect of the visit is strictly secondary to the possible political implications.

Graham Steenhoven, Detroit, Mich., president of the U.S. Table Tennis Association, spoke at a news conference shortly after the team's arrival from Japan, where it participated in the 31st World Table Tennis Tournament.

"We rejected the thought," Steenhoven said when asked if he thought the invitation was politically oriented.

"The reason we are going there has nothing to do with politics. It will be a meeting of table tennis teams."

Steenhoven also said, "We may invite the Chinese players to visit the United States."

Pressed for a more definite statement about such an invitation he replied, "We will think about this."

George Harrison, Wilmington-Del., chairman of the technical committee of the International Table Tennis Federation, said he and all members of the team were "delighted" by the chance to visit China.

"We look forward to a good time there," he said. "We will try to be as friendly as we can."

Erroll Resek, New York, N.Y., one of the players said the invitation "was like going to the moon. I never thought it would happen."

Resek, a native of the Dominican Republic who recently became an American citizen, said, "I would like to ask the Chinese to give me training in China. They are the best in the whole world."

Judy Bocheski, Eugene, Ore., a 15-year-old player, said she had called her parents to get permission to make the trip.

"They said okay," she said, "and I'm so delighted and excited."

The players were met by representatives of the China Travel Service (CTS), a semiofficial agency which handles all travel to China.

Steenhoven said he was told by the Chinese that the team will be leaving for China on Saturday.

CTS officials said the team will leave by midmorning train from the Kowloon terminal of the Kowloon-Canton Railway. A 10-member Colombian team, which arrived from Tokyo on the same plane, was to travel along with the Americans.

After the news conference, the American and Colombian delegations boarded a CTS bus for a Kowloon hotel operated by CTS. There the members had tea while CTS officials checked their passports and took down names and other information for travel and immigration papers.

Two Groups Seek Hike On July 1

Marin County firemen and communications workers are asking for a 12.5 per cent raise on July 1, and firemen are also seeking a drop in working house from 96 to 65 hours per week.

The demands are included in new contracts proposed by the Marin County Employees Association for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Francis J. O'Connell, general manager of the employees association, submitted three different contracts, one each for the emergency workers (firemen), and communications workers), midmanagement employees, and general employees.

For the midmanagement and general employees, the association asks for at least a $50 per month cost-of-living increase on July 1. This would be in addition to salary adjustments requested by the association. O'Connell said the "salary adjustment," which is not yet specified, would be to bring Marin County salaries on a par with comparable positions in the rest of the Bay Area.

Other new demands in the 1971-72 proposal are time and a-half for overtime and double time for holidays; 25 working days of vacation after 20 years of service (the maximum allowed now is 20 working days after 10 years of service), added holidays on the second Monday in October (Columbus Day), the birthday of each employee, and all primary and general election days.

Library To Remount Front Sign

The Mill Valley Public Library, plagued by pilfering of large bronze letters from its sign on the front of the building, will remount the letters so as to discourage theft.

Librarian Alberta L. Hankenson said the library board has decided to affix the letters flush with the library wall rather than on risers. This will make them more difficult to steal, she said.

Two missing letters, costing more than $20 each, have arrived and are going to be attached, along with other letters removed by the library staff when the thefts began. Installation will be delayed until the library board finds a contractor to do work at a reasonable price, Miss Hankenson said, adding that installation of single letters can run as high as $20.

The board decided to charge a small fee for groups other than official city organizations which use the library's meeting rooms.

Fees of $3 for groups serving coffee and $5 for groups serving food will be charged, she said, to help pay for cleaning of the rooms after meetings.

Queen Contest Entries Open

Applicants must be single, between 16 and 21, and residents of Marin or students at Tomales High School, according to Scottie Mendoza, contest chairman.

First to sign up for the contest was Elaine Satterquist, a Tomales High School senior of Point Reyes Station.

Soil District Approves Budget

The Marin County Soil Conservation District approved yesterday its fiscal 1971-72 budget totaling $2,020 — a $275 increase over this year's.

According to Matt H. Klemmer, recording secretary for the district, the increase is due largely to increases in membership fees for state and national organizations.

The budget will now be forwarded to the county supervisors for consideration during budget session in June.

Bel Marin Hires Swimming Pool Help

Bel Marin Keys Community Services District directors last night hired Mariette Tuinzing as swimming pool attendant for the summer, at $2 per hour, and ordered $600 worth of playground equipment for Montego Park.

The rest of the April board meeting was devoted mainly to discussion of progress on additions to the community center, according to Betty Zoeller, secretary.

WATER

to go to the people for money and are trying to avoid it."

He was among those who believed the pledge made last year in a brochure guaranteeing bond elections to finance each stage of the project was being broken.

Directors said assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael is receptive to their proposed legislation for circumventing the ballot.

The directors said an Independent-Journal interview with the assemblyman used "rigged" questions and that Bagley was not prepared for them. In the story, published March 31, Bagley said his strong inclination was "not to carry their water," referring to the director's legislative proposals.

Paul Jacob of Mill Valley said effluent could be purified and used to provide enough water for the county without building an aqueduct from the Russian River.

Foreaker read from a report that said that politics and people's preferences would probably keep effluent from coming through water pipes regardless of the advances of technology.

Jacob also suggested that a constant water rate of all levels of consumption would cut down on usage by industry. The rates are scheduled so they are lower with each additional unit of consumption at the higher use levels.

One residents recommended an educational campaign to prevent water waste by consumers and Winifred Frederick of Irate Taxpayers of Marin suggested the simple method of bending the rod to the flush valve in toilets so they only fill half way. Foreaker said he uses this method.

Pat Newton of Kentfield proposed legislation to eliminate the flush toilet and said that instead of using her garbage disposal for some food products, she now uses them to fertilize her garden.

"It is obvious that you have not considered these alternatives seriously or you would not be surprised by them," Taul told directors.

Foreaker said he would look into the practicality of some of the proposed alternatives but there were some present who accused board president R. G. Anderson of not listening when he rapped his gavel for everyone to go home at midnight. Anderson declined comment.

Car-Train Victims Are Recovering

Two Novato teen-agers, injured Monday when their car was struck by a freight train in Novato, have been removed from the critical list and were reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Paul A. Oatis III, 17, of 13 Sunnyhill Road, the driver, was taken out of the intensive care unit at the hospital today in satisfactory condition. He suffered severe head injuries and a crushed leg that had to be amputed two-thirds of the way up the thigh.

Debbie Pond, 17, of 1219 Ridgeview Heights, his passenger, also is reported in satisfactory condition although she remains in the intensive care unit. She suffered a brain concussion, fractured jaw and internal kidney injuries.

Both youths had been on the hospital's critical list since the accident.

Novato police who are investigating the accident have not talked to either Oatis or Miss Pond about the details because of their serious condition.

Rainy Weather Plan For Easter Hunt

Car Hits Ambulance: Two Hurt

Two persons were injured last night when an auto collided with an ambulance on an emergency mission in Greenbrae, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol quoted Elizabeth S. Finsland, 49, of 170 Corte Ramon, Greenbrae, driver of the auto, as saying she didn't see the United Ambulance's flashing red lights or hear its siren just before the vehicles collided on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Eliseo Drive.

Mrs. Finsland, who suffered multiple rib fractures in the 6:50 p.m. mishap, was reported in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital. Edmond Avis, 23, of 1314 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, an attendant in the ambulance, was treated at the hospital for multiple scrapes.

A United spokesman said the ambulance was enroute to Children's Hospital in San Francisco with a young patient from Marin General. The child, uninjured in the crash, went to Children's in another ambulance.

The first ambulance, eastbound on Sir Francis Drake at the time of the accident, was driven by William H. O'Brien, 23, of 266 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael. The highway patrol said Mrs. Finsland's car was turning onto Drake when the crash occurred.

Soledad Outburst Hearing Set

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Preliminary hearing on charges against a Mill Valley man, arising from an outburst at a pretrial hearing for the Soledad Brothers, will be held April 15 in San Francisco Municipal Court.

A San Quentin Prison official said today a few prisoners at a time are being released for work detail from the 1,000 men still under a tight security lockup in effect since Saturday.

Officials are trying to isolate in the south and east blocks a group that has caused considerable racial violence, including 13 stabbings in the last month, said J. R. O'Brien, classification and parole representative.

O'Brien said small groups of prisoners are being released to work in the hospital, laundry or food service after they are interviewed concerning the recent disturbances at the prison.

The latest incident, two beatings at the Saturday afternoon movie, caused the entire prison to be locked up during the weekend.

Hitch: Doctorate Output Needs Cut

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — University of California President Charles J. Hitch said Thursday night institutions of higher learning must adopt alternatives to reduce the number of doctorates.

In a talk before the San Francisco and Peninsula Planning Executives Institute, he quoted projections from the U.S. Office of Education showing 60,000 Ph.D.'s will be awarded in 1980 compared with 25,000 in 1970 and 10,000 in 1960.

At the same time, he said, a recent study showed that universities in the United States are producing 30 per cent more Ph.D.'s than the country can use, and the long-range trend will apparently be worse.

"I should emphasize that we are not about to see droves of new Ph.D.'s out walking the street," Hitch said.

"They will, of course, get jobs. But they will be taking jobs below those for which their training has prepared them. And, perhaps more importantly, they will be bumping lesser degree holders from jobs they potentially would have had."

One alternative, said the educator, would be to cut enrollments in doctoral programs such as Harvard, Yale and other schools have done. Another alternative would be to adopt the Carnegie Commission's recommendation of a specialized doctor of arts degree for teachers at the state college or community college level.

Hitch added that either of the two alternatives would be met by "powerful resistance" from universities which refuse to acknowledge change.

"I'm not saying this resistance would be all wrong," added Hitch. "Indeed, from several points of view, it would appear to be an attempt to protect the very best aspects of American higher education."

Alioto To Draft Memo Aimed At Teacher Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto says he will begin writing a memorandum of settlement today in the teachers' strike which is now in its third week.

The mayor appeared very optimistic when he left the negotiating room Thursday and told newsmen "I'm very happy to report that the parties have made substantial progress on the major issues."

The main issues in the walkout are preparation periods, para-professionals and smaller class sizes.

Surrounded by teacher representatives and members of the school district, Alioto said "Total agreement has not been reached. However, the probability of a successful termination of these negotiations has now been considerably enhanced."

He said that he will "supervise the writing of a memorandum of settlement while the parties hammer out the remaining issues" today.

The mayor declined to give detailed information on the issues discussed, but noted that the question of salary had been resolved.

"It was not a part of the original negotiations, but it was brought in and they tentatively resolved it so it won't crop up later," he said.

Earlier, 14 angry citizens confronted the mayor and demanded the strike be concluded by Sunday.

Dynamite Found In Watkins Valley

West Marin's resident deputy sheriff, out hunting for lost cattle, stumbled on 140 sticks of old dynamite in an abandoned quicksilver mine in Watkins Valley yesterday.

Sheriff's Capt. Harvey Teague said the dynamite, which had crystallized, was burned by officers. He said the sticks apparently had been left behind by miners when the shaft was abandoned.

'Skeptical' View Of Berkeley's Police

BERKELEY (UPI)—Mayor-elect Warren Widener hasn't been happy with Berkeley police since he was ordered out of department headquarters while trying to help a man file a brutality complaint last summer.

He suggested Thursday that Police Chief Bruce Baker, as well as City Manager William Hanley, should begin looking for new jobs because they had resisted suggestions for reform of police grievance procedures.

"The police problem is so pressing we must deal with it immediately," the mayor-elect said. He said he was working to set up a special election this fall on his plan to create a citywide police commission.

He said the commission, possibly comprised of representatives of various districts of the city, would have power to hire and fire the police chief and to discipline individual officers when necessary.

Widener recalled that he was ordered out of the department offices last summer by a policeman who was unaware he was a councilman.

"Since then I have become quite skeptical of the police operation," he added.

Widener said he also was unhappy about Hanley's performance —but doubted that a city council split between radical-liberal and moderate-conservative factions would fire the manager or police chief. However, he said he might have enough votes to cut their pay.

"I would hope they would begin looking for jobs in other cities that have the types of government structures they are committed to," he said.

Pitch For Bike Path Delivered

Future expansion of Tamalpais Drive — being contemplated by the Town of Corte Madera — should include a bicycle path, the Marina Village Homeowners Association agreed last night.

According to Ronald Rice, president of the group, he will forward a letter to the town this week with the homeowners' request.

The widening of the town's main street has been discussed by the town council for more than a year.

Rice, who said street widening will be discussed Monday by the town's planning commission, said the association's position is that it is easier to provide for a path now than in the future when the project is complete.

If town planning proceeds on schedule, the project could be bid by late May or June.

Last night's meeting, attended by Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels, also focused on the status of the proposed Central Marin ferry terminal, the possibility of creating a park area near the overflow pond at the end of Echo Avenue and the planting of trees along San Clemente Drive.

City Fire Losses Drop In 1970

Fire losses in San Rafael totaled $244,525 during 1970, about $69,000 less than 1969, according to the annual report issued this week by Fire Chief Van Trivett.

The reduction was attributed to a decrease in the number of large fires during 1970. In the previous year, a July blaze at the Brodie and Schwerin San Rafael Tire and Brake Co caused $150,000 damage.

The most damaging blaze of 1970 occurred Oct. 28 when the $40,000 Fairhills home of building contractor Spero P. Spiliotis was destroyed along with $25,000 in contents.

Fire damage to commercial structures and apartments totaled $125,685 last year, as compared to $218,280 in 1969, and damage to dwellings totaled $118,840, as compared to $95,320 in 1969.

During the year, the chief said the department responded to 1,266 calls, 53 more than in 1969, with 535 fire calls and 731 nonfire calls.

Of the fire calls, 151 were structure fires, 187 brush and grass fires, and 131 vehicle fires.

Of the nonfire calls, 166 were false alarms, 125 emergency calls, 77 lockouts and 75 needless calls.

Memo Recalls Lost Governor's Plight

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—An entry in the British Columbia 1971 Centennial Committee's list of "Centennial Memos" issued to the press reads, in full:

Sonoma Officialdom Debates ABAG, But Resolves Nothing

By BONNIE BARD

The value of membership in the Association of Bay Area Governments was debated but not resolved last night by the Sonoma County Mayors and Councilmen's Association.

In a special meeting in Petaluma, the association heard Supervisor Robert Theiller urge withdrawal from ABAG and the formation of a new coalition with North Bay and North Coast counties. Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella, ABAG president, said a psychology of fear was behind the withdrawal move and that an alternative association had not been fully explored.

Both men said they would abide by the decision of the voters on April 20 in the special county election on ABAG withdrawal.

William R. Lucius of Healdsburg, association chairman, reported that the Petaluma and Santa Rosa city councils had voted to remain in ABAG while Rohnert Park and Cloverdale city councils had voted to support the withdrawal of Sonoma County. He said the other cities of Cotati, Sonoma, Sebastopol and Healdsburg would be polled after their next council meeting and the final tally on the ABAG question would be announced prior to the April 20 vote.

Theiller said he feared that ABAG would evolve into a regional form of government under the one-man, one-vote rule that would leave Sonoma County nearly powerless in the face of large counties such as San Francisco, Alameda and Santa Clara.

He said he believed that Sonoma should withdraw while membership is still voluntary and work out an arrangement with northern counties that would be more beneficial.

Most of the mayors and councilmen speaking questioned Theiller on the makeup of the new association and said they felt a withdrawal vote may be premature because full details on the new coalition and its costs could not be known at this time.

Petaluma Mayor Helen Putnam said it was very important for her city to remain part of ABAG because it has close connections with the Bay Area and shares many problems with it.

"Petaluma is really oriented to Marin County," she said, pointing out that 70 per cent of east side residents commute daily to the south. Mrs. Putnam also noted that Petaluma is part of the Marin Mosquito Abatement District, in the same Assembly district with Marin, part of the Southern Sonoma-North Marin subregional sewerage study, part of the Sonoma-Marin aqueduct plans and connected to the bay through the tidal waters of the Petaluma River.

"I feel we just can't help but look at Petaluma and see we do have a relationship with the Bay Area that we can't ignore," she said. "We shouldn't drop out of a known quantity until we know what we're getting into."

Santa Rosa Mayor Gerald Poznanovich said he felt that planning would be slowed down for Sonoma County if it were in an alliance with less populated counties to the north.

Cloverdale Mayor Russell Kinsey cited the current bill authored by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, as proof that a regional form of government with taxing powers is on the way and poses a threat to local control.

Vella said that ABAG has already opposed the Knox bill stand and said he believed it would not pass.

Jones Hits Home Variances

Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones complained last night that his colleagues could be creating an "extremely artificial society" in the community because of their recent actions on home-expansion variances.

Jones, the lone dissenter in recent council meetings on several variance applications, objected that residents obtaining permission to enlarge their homes had failed to prove hardship, as required by town ordinance.

The trend endangered the quiet, isolated character of Ross, he said, and the town threatened to become a "Terra Linda-type community — all children and dogs."

"We can't keep taking small houses and making them larger," Jones said. The solution for growing families in need of more space, he said, is to look for larger homes.

He called upon the council either to modify the ordinance or to adopt a firmer posture toward variances "before the town changes to a point where we can't redeem it."

The council, however, did not act on his appeal, and at least two of Jones's colleagues opposed his stance.

Jones raised his objections moments after dissenting on a vote to grant a variance to Donald E. Wolter of Lagunitas Road for repair work that will increase the size of his home.

"There are five different opinions of hardship up there," Wolter told Jones, glancing at each council member.

Councilman John H. Chase, noting that each application posed a "very gray area," said variances should be judged by weighing neighborhood impact and individual need.

Councilman Jewell Osterloh believed that many applications were the result of housewife ambition and pride. "It's instinct for women to modify; to put their stamp on a home," Mrs. Osterloh said.

"I really think that as a woman, often times it's very important to her psychologically," the councilwoman added.

The Ross Town Council also:

BUDGET — Referred to the finance committee for study a tentative police department budget for 1971-72 of $13,500 and a preliminary fire department spending program of about $50,000. The fire department budget, which currently is $47,271, included current salary levels as a guide, but the police department budget did not. The police budget is up about $4,000 from the current fiscal year and purchase of a new squad car and updated radio equipment are included.

EXPLOSIVES — Adopted an ordinance requiring both the police and fire chiefs to give permission for the use of explosives in town.

FISH — Heard Robert Bridges of San Anselmo complain that access to Natalie Coffin Greene Park was forbidden during good fishing hours, but Jones explained the closure was to prevent disturbance to residents along Lagunitas Road leading to the park.

DISASTER — Adopted an ordinance updating the town code to include disaster control for earthquakes.

GARBAGE — Formally adopted new garbage rates that will go into effect May 1 and heard Jones and Mayor Frederick S. Allen complain of indiscriminate use of town debris boxes. Jones said he saw one resident drive up to the box near the Post Office in a truck and begin "pitching hay into" the container.

BICYCLE — Invited Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director, to its next meeting May 13 to discuss hopes for a bike path through Ross. Mayor Allen said he felt there was no safe route for bicycles through town.

Werber Is Indicted On Drugs

Restaurateur Frank N. Werber was indicted yesterday by the Marin County Grand Jury on charges of possessing a wide variety of drugs at his DeSilva Island home.

In one of the outgoing jury's last official acts, Werber was accused of having undisclosed quantities of heroin, LSD, marijuana, cocaine, peyote, codeine and mescaline when county drug abuse agents entered his home March 26.

The agents, carrying a search warrant, also arrested a 17-year-old girl. She was booked into Juvenile Hall, pending investigation of narcotics possession.

At the time of the raid, Werber was free in $5,000 bail pending an appeal of a six-month jail sentence and $2,000 fine imposed last year after he was convicted of marijuana possession and cultivation.

Werber, 41, former manager of the Kingston Trio, appeared in Marin Municipal Court March 29, but no complaint was filed by the district attorney's office as a result of the new arrest.

He is to be arraigned on the indictment Monday in superior court. Bail was set at $9,375.

Vietnam Timetable Brings Big Denial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three senators who met with President Nixon before his Wednesday night speech came away with the impression Nixon plans to withdraw all American troops from Vietnam by the end of 1972.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott quoted Nixon as saying: "I have a date in mind. I have a plan and a timetable for ending the war." He said any withdrawal would have to involve a release of American prisoners of war, however.

Scott said Nixon's plan calls for complete withdrawal of all troops, military advisers and air support before his present term expires.

Assistant Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd said Nixon "did not state a definite date, but I have the very definite impression from what he said that the President has a date in mind. I think there's justification for thinking we'll be out by Dec. 31, 1972."

Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert P. Griffin said Nixon "in a practical sense" set a date for ending the war: "election day, 1972."

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied, however, the President had set a definite date for withdrawal in his briefing with congressional leaders.

"It would be incorrect to say the President has at this time a specific date on which he feels his plan would be completed," Ziegler said.

Nixon specifically said in his speech he would not set a withdrawal deadline. He said only that he would remove an additional 100,000 troops by Dec. 1, lowering the American troop commitment to 184,000.

Scott said, however, the President knew he would discuss the briefing with newsmen, and that Nixon was unmistakably clear about his intentions.

"I am satisfied he has a fixed date for ending the war, except for the caveat of the prisoners of war," Scott said. He said the date might "float" a few days or weeks either way, but there was no doubt of the firmness of the withdrawal deadline.

Scott said Nixon meant a complete and total withdrawal —with no residual forces, no troops, no air support either from within or outside South Vietnam.

A spokesman for peace groups planning mass antiwar rallies in Washington and San Francisco April 24 said the demonstrations would go on as planned.

Several senators expressed disappointment that Nixon did not make a public declaration of a withdrawal deadline, including Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Fall Injures Woman, Hospitalized For Cut

A 26-year-old Corte Madera woman was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital where she was admitted yesterday with a cut on her forehead.

The hospital said Barbara Blair of 239 Corte Madera Avenue, apparently fell at her home at about 7:15 p.m. and struck her head.

Employees Association Defended

Marin County Employees Association is doing an effective job of protecting the rights of its 750 members, the association's general manager declared yesterday.

Francis J. O'Connell spoke at a noon meeting called by the rival American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, which is trying to woo the Marin County employees away from the association.

About 40 county employees heard the debate between O'Connell and Victor Thuesen, representative of AFSCME, which organized the Mill Valley city employees three weeks ago.

Thuesen declared his union, with a nationwide membership of 600,000 has the staff and expertise to bargain effectively for individual needs of various county departments.

"We believe in the right to strike," said Thuesen. "But we are not strike-happy."

In answer to questions from the floor, Thuesen said a strike by the Mill Valley imployees would not bind the county employees, even if both were members of the union.

Thusen announced he is confident he will get the necessary 240 signatures among the 750 members of the Marin County Employees Association to force an election, giving association members a choice of staying with the association or joining the AFL-CIO union.

O'Connell declared that if the employees are not satisfied with the work of MCEA, they should change their board of directors and kick him out as general manager.

Arguments Are Next In Poindexter-Angela Link

NEW YORK (UPI)—The jury in the case of David R. Poindexter will have the long Easter holiday weekend to meditate on the pros and cons of the case of the wealthy Chicagoan charged with harboring fugitive Angela Davis.

U.S. District Judge John M. Cannella dismissed the panel until Monday after the prosecution and defense rested their cases.

Cannella handed the prosecution a serious setback Thursday by strking from the record the testimony of eight government witnesses, most of them members of the news media.

Cannella said the witnesses in question had added "nothing that would be of interest to you in your deliberations."

Poindexter faced charges of "knowingly" harboring Miss Davis, an avowed Communist, after she fled California last August and a federal warrant was issued for her arrest.

The black militant was wanted for trial on kidnap-murder and conspiracy charges in connection with a San Rafael, Calif. courthouse shootout during which four persons died.

A number of witnesses testified that Poindexter had access to newspapers and television sets at the time the search for Miss Davis was publicized. But Cannella said there was no evidence Poindexter used them.

The judge also said assistant U.S. Attorney John H. Hoyle III, failed to prove Poindexter was anywhere near where FBI-flyers indicating Miss Davis was on the "most wanted" list.

Poindexter, 37, who was arrested in New York last October with Miss Davis, faces five years in prison and a $5,000 fine if convicted.

A 17-year-old Hamilton Air Force Base youth suffered a cut left knee today when the car in which he was riding hit a wooden fence on Atherton Avenue east of Novato and rolled over.

The California Highway Patrol said Patrick R. Carve was a passenger in an eastbound car driven by Patrick W. Johnson, 15, of 1304 Cambridge Street, Novato, which overturned in front of 761 Atherton Avenue about three-fourths of a mile east of Highway 101.

Laws Too Complicated Become Self-Defeating

Laws and regulations that are too difficult to understand are self-defeating.

As a law's intricacies become more and more beyond the grasp of the average citizen, his respect for that law grows less and less. Its enforcement becomes more and more difficult.

Even the most law-abiding is aware that he sometimes trespasses on some of the obscure provisions and court interpretations of the myriad statutes of government. And he may be dimly aware that he likely violates many more regulations that have the force of law through having been adopted by some bureaucratic agency to enforce the intricate laws it administers.

RIGHT NOW, just about everyone over the age of 21 (and some who are younger) is painfully aware of a couple of laws that verge on the limits of understanding: the state and federal income tax laws.

The Internal Revenue Service estimates that about half of the nation's taxpayers this year took their returns to an outsider, generally an income tax preparation service, for help. The rules on what can and cannot be deducted, what must be counted as income and what does not count, were just too much for them.

Having called in an outsider to prepare the return, however, the average citizen still cannot be sure he got the refund to which he was entitled, or paid the tax for which he was legally obligated.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL did an interesting experiment. It sent a reporter with an Atlanta taxpayer to five different income tax preparation offices. He presented each of them the same data. One figured he was due a federal refund of $652.04. Another said he owed the federal government $141. The rest were in between.

Georgia has the withholding system for state income taxes. The refunds the consultants said this taxpayer should have from the state ranged from $181.04 down to $55.

The IRS itself then figured the man's federal tax and found he had a $400.94 refund coming. The Georgia Revenue Department set his state tax refund at $117.80.

The Wall Street Journal story contained this:

"S. Bonsal White Jr., a partner at Alex Brown and Sons, a Baltimore brokerage firm, says a major reason for the (tax preparation service) industry's growth is the growing complexity of tax laws and tax decisions."

THE COMPLEXITY, of course, creates loopholes. That is why, according to Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., 56 persons in the United States legally paid no tax at all on incomes of more than $1 million each in 1969. And a revision of the law last year failed to close all the loopholes, according to Reuss.

Since the California form is modeled after the federal, it contains the same complexities.

Many of the law's intricacies were included in an attempt at equity. But laws and regulations that are too difficult to understand are self-defeating.

Theoretically, a tax on incomes is the most equitable form of taxation. But that is not true with the existing statutes. They are too complicated.

While legislators are debating about "tax reform," it might pay them to look into tax simplification.

Fat, Young Ladybugs

When ladybugs complete the metamorphisis from larvae to adult insect, the newborn ladies are usually quite fat and not very hungry. Thus, they do not go about their work of eating aphids and other small bugs and assorted insect eggs with the zeal and enthusiasm of older, leaner ladybugs.

The ladybugs in our gardens now are reaching the end of their life cycle and all their energies are directed toward eating, so that they will be prolific reproducers.

This is when ladybugs do their best work.

Government Creates Monopoly In More Fields Than One

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Any student pursuing the American way of life cannot be expected to come up with any other conclusion than that the American people are nuts, as he follows inconsistent paths in the laws they make and expect the populace to live by.

For instance, the federal government has laws preventing monopolies, while city governments pass laws granting monopolies.

Anyhow, such must be the conclusion of Sen Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, who recently introduced legislation to prevent cities of more than half a million population from granting monopoly franchises to a single taxicab company.

IN CALIFORNIA'S largest city, says Senator Song, cab service is a "disaster".

"There a single company is the only one permitted to do business. It has just not been able to do the job and as a result, those without cars, including thousands of sick and elderly people, are practically helpless as far as transportation is concerned," he said.

"The inadequacies are the result of having a monopoly. The way to get good service in our free enterprise system is through competition."

The same reasoning might well apply to any of a dozen other businesses which have depended on government protection to maintain monopoly in their fields and cut out competition, to the detriment of the peoples' interests.

THE CALIFORNIA Public Utilities Commission is probably the closest government-financed organization engaging in supervision of monopolies, with its stringent requirements on the transportation business, the moving business, furnishing gas, power and water.

The commission builds its authorities through "public convenience and necessity." But just why five men and a staff of so-called experts should be allowed to determine what is public convenience and necessity would be a mystery to any student of government who did not happen to be aware of the fact that the power companies, the railroads and others of the real sizable concerns governed by the utilities commission are banded together (unofficially, of course) to prevent competition.

AGAIN, THE STUDENT would find we live in a world of anachronisms. For instance, government contributes to the liquor monopoly by allowing the liquor industry to post its own prices, and provides for enforcement of penalties against those who do not observe them.

The liquor industry is probably the worst example of monopolistic price fixing to the detriment of the public, all done of course, for "protection" to the retailer.

Sometime the buyer may come to the conclusion it's time to stop protecting the seller and give the public a break by allowing competition.

But that's a long way off.

Teachers' Roles On Boards Doubted

It is noted that residents of Marin County involved in the teaching profession are running for election to local school boards. It is beyond my comprehension that a teacher who is usually a member of an association or union, can function as an unbaised member of a school board, which sets wages and policies for teachers. I certainly could not see General Motors putting a member of the Auto Workers Union on their management negotiating team.

My Lai Slaughter And Atomic Bomb

I am wondering if those who are now so vehemently condemning Lieutenant Calley as a murderer, and ostentatiously tearing their hair and beating their breasts in anguish over what he allegedly did, have so soon forgotten how many thousands — not just 20 or 30 persons, but tens of thousands — of innocent Japanese women and children we murdered with our atomic bombs, or the 250,000 defenseless Dresden men, women and children who were murdered in a single night by British and American bombs.

So far as I know, no one was ever punished — or even suggested to be tried — for these ghastly slaughters; nor do I recall any media or other campaign directed to that end. Why, then, all this palaver about Lieutenant Calley and the others involved in the My Lai affair? Sherman said, "War is hell;" and Lord Kitchener snorted: "All war is an atrocity!" and it seems to me that by now only an idiot can fail to recognize this. Talk about "civilized" warfare is just so much tommyrot.

I am writing this letter no more to morally excuse what purportedly happened at My Lai than I am to justify what happened in Japan and in Dresden. I am writing simply to urge that we try to be at least a little bit consistent, and not "strain at a gnat to swallow a camel."

Vision Testing Calls For Experts

The ambitious project of the Marin Speech and Hearing Center (March 29, I.J.) to screen pre-school children for speech, hearing and vision problems is to be commended. However, it seems strange to me that specialists will be used to screen for speech and hearing problems, and only trained volunteers (non-professionals) will be used to screen for vision problems.

I wonder what trained volunteers can determine, and how many vision problems will go undetected. How many unsuspecting parents possibly will be given self assurance that their child has no vision or sight problem, when in fact a sight or vision problem may exist?

Many eye specialist and educators are well aware that the human with sight relies on that sight and vision to make 80 per cent of his decisions. Every moment of our waking hours utilize the visual system. For example, try to close your eyes and eat your next meal, read or write a letter, walk around your house.

Yet the Marin Speech and Hearing Center and the Marin County superintendent of schools will give vision and sight testing its least emphasis when they screen for speech, hearing and vision problems.

What vision problems will the "volunteers" be able to uncover or not uncover? Will they determine the multitude of vision and sight problems that do exist? What of the more publicized eye problem, amblyopia (lazy eye)? . . .

Volunteers are to be commended, but can they really solve a major problem of such important magnitude as vision and sight? A professional is needed just as much to screen for vision problems as for hearing and speech problems . . .

Two-Year-Old Report On Traffic

Two years ago when I ran for San Rafael City Council, I talked about the need for more one-way streets, synchronized traffic signals, free parking in the downtown area and creating a shopping mall by closing several blocks of Fourth Street.

I didn't know at that time that the city council had authorized Jackson Faustman, a consulting traffic engineer from Sacramento, to survey the central business district in San Rafael and report on a traffic improvement plan. This survey was authorized in January of 1969. The report was completed and returned to the city council in June of the same year. At this time I would like you to read the introduction of that report.

"Traffic flow in the San Rafael central business district is not satisfactory. Not only is through-traffic between U.S. Highway 101 and the west severly impeded, but local shoppers are discouraged from patronizing the establishments in the central area, traffic moves erratically, congestion and delays are common, turning movements into cross-streets and into parking facilities are difficult and made only under hazardous conditions . . .

"It is apparent from the foregoing that traffic improvements in San Rafael, desirable today, will be essential tomorrow if total traffic stagnation is to be avoided; stagnation which is followed almost invariably by decay and deterioration."

The Faustman report plans for Fifth Avenue to be one-way west, Fourth one-way east. A and C would be one way north, and B and D one-way south . . .

The Faustman report stresses the urgency of doing something now. In two months two years will have passed since this report has been done. If we wait much longer we will have to have another survey before anything is done to solve the problems that exist in San Rafael. We can't afford to continue waiting until tomorrow to solve yesterday's problems.

10 YEARS AGO

April 9, 1961

About 125 persons were on hand to witness presentation to Marin County of the National Municipal League's "All-American City" award.

The British liner Dara sank off Bahrein in the Persian Gulf with loss of 212 lives.

20 YEARS AGO

April 9, 1951

Mayor Carmel Booth of San Anselmo urged a countywide curfew ordinance be enacted to help combat juvenile delinquency.

Francis Violich of the San Francisco Planning Department predicted Marin County would add 40,000 residents within 10 years to bring its 1961 population to about 125,000.

Protest Over Calley Verdict Reflects Attitude Against War

WASHINGTON — Who would have thought that the jury verdict against Lt. William Calley for the My Lai civilian killings would have united the nation — dove and hawk, pro-Vietnam and anti-Vietnam, pro-Nixon and anti-Nixon in one massive, angry protest? On the surface it must appear that there is some terrifying gap between the conscience of the military jury, which was unanimous against Calley, and the conscience of the American people, who are nearly unanimous in behalf of Calley.

I do not see it that way. I feel the conscience of the jury and the conscience of the nation have much in common.

The military jury, made up not of armchair-generals but of young combat veterans, was appraising the events of My Lai and Calley's part in them, and found he violated the rules of war which he had been taught.

It was an honest and honorable verdict.

The public jury is expressing an equally honest and honorable determination that Lieutenant Calley not be made a lone scapegoat for actions for which he is not alone responsible.

SOME FEEL THAT the decision against Calley will be used to cover up the guilt of others higher in command. Others believe the Calley killings should be totally extenuated by the inevitable brutality of war. A minority contends that My Lai reflects the deliberate policy of Presidents Johnson, Nixon and other high American officials.

The public revulsion against the jury verdict is so instant, so pervasive and so deep it cannot and should not be ignored. It stems from very humanitarian instincts and, in most instances, a determination that everything be brought out before Calley is finally judged.

The fact that 79 per cent of the people dislike the Calley verdict, as reported by Gallup, does not mean that these people like what Calley did. I think this off-the-cuff comment by a 65-year-old retired government employee reflects a very general reaction:

"I don't think that Calley should have done it. But they should go far up in the command to find out where the responsibility lies. That was my first feeling. Then, as you read about it, you sort of feel sorry for the fellow."

WHATEVER THE extenuating circumstances, there can be no condoning of Calley's act. I believe that the public has rallied to Calley's side because the American people are revolted by the brutality of war which television has been putting into the homes of most Americans nearly every night.

I'm not saying that television and its war coverage should be censored in any way. But many Americans, with the TV cameras focused on the battlefield, seem ready to conclude that anything is better than resistance to aggression.

THE PEOPLE of North Vietnam are not horrified apparently by the brutality of war because their government media do not report it. The people of North Vietnam are shown pictures of the 22 civilians slain by Calley at My Lai but they are not allowed to see pictures of the 3,000 South Vietnamese civilians shot in the back in Hue by the North Vietnamese army.

We should realize that no war is without brutality. But there are worse things than the brutal consequences of war. They are the brutal consequences of an independent nation having its independence destroyed by an aggressor.

This does not mean that the United States can shield every harassed country, but it will be a bad day if the American people always shrink from protecting the peace because war is too brutal. War is brutal but leaving the field to an aggressor can be more brutal. We musn't let television disarm us.

It is time to end the American role in Vietnam but let us not do it for the wrong reasons.

Skip The Legal Issues, Count The Calley Mail

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Some people watching from Washington were only kidding a little when they suggested that his visit to Fort Benning to chat with Lt. William Calley was also to inspect the young officer as possible vice presidential candidate material.

The thing that tempted Wallace across the border into Georgia, of course, was the uprising of sentiment against the Calley conviction and life sentence. Anybody who draws that much supporting mail obviously is an attractive person for any politician to have his picture taken with, no matter that he was just found guilty of assassinating at least 22 helpless civilians.

IT'S ALSO THE SORT of thing you would expect from Lester Maddox.

He became governor of Georgia by riding public sentiment, whether or not that had anything to do with morality or decent government.

That part is a little subtle for Wallace and Maddox. Their aptitude is not so much for interpreting mail and sentiment as for merely adding it up. And it adds up to a great outcry against the Establishment, which to hawks of the right means mealy-mouthed political advocates of a "no-win" policy, and to doves of the left means the presidents and generals who allowed us to enter Vietnam in the first place.

Add together all those hawk post cards and dove telegrams and you have a lot of anti-Establishment voters, and that is why Wallace and Maddox climbed upon the stump at that American Legion rally in Columbus and told the folks to keep up their protests. If the pressure is maintained, they said, Mr. Nixon will surely "do the right thing."

BUT IS THAT WHAT we should expect from the President of the United States?

That is what Maddox and Wallace expected; and less than 24 hours after they made their prediction, he proved they understood him well. He announced that he would step in with a final personal review of the military courts' findings, thus making it clear he, like the two Deep South politicians, divined "the right thing" by counting his mail.

Consider what the President's decision means. He is the commander in chief of all the reviewing officers, the power who appoints the judges of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals and the secretary of the Army. At every level of appeal and review he is going to be looking over their shoulders, his prejudice in favor of the defendant already strongly implied. Consider what effect that will have on the appeal and review process.

LESS THAN A WEEK ago, after the court's initial decision and verdict were reached, I was able to write that it had been a cold and objective proceeding — and that only so long as such proceedings are possible can we continue to live under a government of laws, rather than of men. Now that laboriously sustained atmosphere of judicial propriety is shattered.

The most astounding thing about the President's threatened intervention, after the mere fact of it, is the blatancy with which it was stated. John D. Ehrlichman, his domestic policy chief, did the talking. It was one qualified lawyer speaking for another.

Yet Ehrlichman said, flat on the record, that the President was stepping in because the case had "captured the interest of the American people to the degree that it has." As he put it, Mr. Nixon wants to be certain that the Calley verdict will get "another ingredient of review" which weighs more than merely "stark legal issues."

THIS FROM TWO lawyers, mind you, two of the principals in the great law and order crusade of the autumn of 1970. And racing around the country immediately after the announcement, Herbert Klein did his best to weasel their words by denying that Mr. Nixon would make his final decision by consulting public opinion polls. No polls are necessary when the mail shows that the case "has captured the interest of the American people to the degree that it has."

No, it's not what you should expect from the President of the United States. From two tinhorn southern politicians at a Legion rally, perhaps. Or maybe from a Roman emperor. The emperors made life-and-death decisions by gauging the roar of the crowd — thumbs up or thumbs down. But at least they didn't call that a fair trial. They called it a circus.

Parade Of Broken Promises Brings Anger To Marin City

Persons who attend meetings in Marin City for the first time are often surprised at the anger exhibited by some residents, particularly if the discussion turns to community development.

Even a cursory look at the brief history of the southern Marin community will show ample reasons for that anger.

For 15 years the residents have been inundated with plans and proposals for transforming Marin City into a complete suburban community. For 15 years these same residents have been disappointed when the grand schemes failed to materialize.

And residents have found, through frustration and bitter experience, that a community without the tax base that development brings is a community without power, dependent on the crumbs that happen to fall from rich, developed areas.

THE LIST OF BROKEN promises is appalling and is reason for the chagrin one sees at meetings. In 1958, for example, Marin County Redevelopment Agency borrowed $1,500,000 from the federal government to pay for construction of streets, sewers, etc.

To get the loan, the redevelopment agency had to promise $778,000 in local funds or contributions. The promises of assistance were relative easy to obtain. Getting the local contributors to make good on their promises is another matter.

As part of the local share, Sausalito School District promised to build an elementary school in Marin City. Ten years later no school is even contemplated for the area and the school district is giving serious thought to closing the community's only school, Manzanita.

As part of the same agreement, Tamalpais High School District vowed to build a high school in Marin City. To date, nothing has come of the agreement.

ABOUT THE SAME time the County of Marin pledged to build a police and fire station to replace the shack and trailer which served 6 (inadequately even then). Recently, county supervisors approved plans for the long-awaited complex, ironically at a time when the fire station may no longer be necessary.

Marin City is included in a study on consolidating all fire protection in southern Marin into one department. The study will show, among other things, the most efficient locations for substations; Marin City may not be among them.

FOR SEVEN YEARS California Development Co. had sole rights to development in Marin City. It made glowing promises of what it would accomplish. Despite the fact the company failed to perform, the Marin County Redevelopment Agency granted it six extensions. After all that time Cal Development left Marin City last year.

Now the Marin Urban Development Association is seeking exclusive development rights to lands in Marin City, and Wallace K. Shepherd, new head of the redevelopment agency, is dealing with several private developers who have expressed interest in purchasing some or all of the choicer lands.

Conflict has developed because the urban development association resents the fact other developers are being brought in.

The question of who will develop Marin City remains unanswered, but one thing is certain: Any developer coming into the community had best not make promises that can't be kept.

Marin City residents are tired — understandably so — of promises. They want results and are determined to get them.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Letters Show Public Concern Over Happenings At Brasilia

There's a slow burn going on in the minds of the folks who are paying the bill for the performance on the third floor, north, of the administration building out at Brasilia. Make no mistake about it. Better look behind you, you eight performers.

Witness: In my mail (among other messages of concern about the action) this: One reader of the column sent me a clipping from the I-J of March 26, quoting the county administrator as saying that "he had received a half a dozen letters addressed to the county supervisors, accusing them of passing an ordinance (about communes.)."

The reader had heard about Alan Bruce editing all mail addressed to the board from department heads, often sending letters back to be rewritten to his liking, before he would present them. The reader asked why he was permitted to open letters from the public which were addressed to the supervisors — why such letters didn't go directly to the board members or to the secretaries? Good question! It shouldn't be too much of an effort for them to open and read their mail first.

THE FOLLOWING came to me in the same mail. it was from a gentleman who lives in southern Marin — a professional man, highly respected in San Francisco where he has his firm:

"I have lived in Marin a good many years. . . Consequently, I read your 'County Comment' with especial interest. I now write you concerning your column of 26 March, in which you detail some of the shenanigans of the county administrator. I don't know this man, but have watched his operations for some time; and have been appalled — and alarmed — by his continual grasping for more and more power, and the fact that there seems to be no real disposition or effort to restrain him.I remember Lord Acton's dictum that 'all power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely.' I also remember that Patrick Henry bitterly opposed Virginia's ratification of the Constitution because, said he (I quote from memory): 'It puts a check upon the Congress and the President, but none whatsoever upon the Supreme Court.' And he thundered, 'Who or what, I ask you, is to restrain the Supreme Court!' "

"Perhaps the county administrator is, like the Supreme Court, beyond restraint; if so, he is a dangerous man.

"HOW WAS HIS office created? Was it solely by act of the supervisors, or did the people vote on it? If it was by act of the supervisors, one would assume that the power to restrain the occupant resides in them. but if that be the case, why do they permit him to play the role of tyrant?"

He asked me to comment in the column. This I will do. It fits into the planned review that I promised. Sixty per cent of those voting on a charter proposal, which would have made the administrator supreme, voted NO.

Easter Bonnets, Not Rain Hats, For The Parade

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Easter weekend may be damp in Northern California but there is a good chance of sunny break for the Easter Parade, the Weather Service reported today.

A front off the Pacific Coast is moving down on California and it was raining Thursday morning from Cape Mendocino north.

The storm was expected to continue moving south to the middle of the state and eastward over the northern half by Friday morning. It will probably be wet through Saturday, but clearing Sunday, according to the forecast.

Fair weather will persist in Southern California, the Weather Service said.

VOICE OF YOUTH

Marin Landlords Found Distrustful Of Young People

By SPENCER SIAS

It occurred to me that this is the fourth house that I have lived in in less than a year. I haven't been back in this county for a year yet.

The main reason that this thought moved in on me is that the extent of my stay in this present dwelling is looking a bit short. Am I being treated unjustly by landlords, neighbors, or, just plain Karma? The way I look at it, no. At least that's the way the prevailing laws blow and everybody knows that you don't fight the laws, you sail with them.

This isn't to say that I haven't encountered some pretty bleak facts concerning being young and trying to rent a house from a Marin landowner.

THERE IS A VARIETY of landlords in Marin, but if I had to generalize about them, things would be generally bad.

Most of them regard me with immediate distrust at my inquiries regarding their houses and fidget while trying to "politely" get rid of me. It seems that while they want me to have respect for them and their property and whatever else they value, they infer perhaps by my lackadaisical way of dressing and my youth a lack of responsibility and trust. It was at the end of a six-month looking stage when I reached such a sense of unsettled security as to make a decision which showed me another kind of landlord.

Two of us agreed to pay $145 a month for a one room kitchen-bathroom bottom of a house through which winter rain flowed freely from the hill behind. The rent, we could pay, but the river was too much. We built a wall diverting the stream to the outside of the house. It was free of charge to the landlord and a remarkable improvement to his property. When he noted it, he told us not to expect anything for it because he had not told us we could do it.

But then, he didn't really care about the property or the condition of living it offered the people within. It was sliding down the hill and he was trying to sell it before it got to the bottom. As far as I know he is still trying to sell it, and it is still sliding down the hill.

When it came time to move out for a much more economical price and my own room, I felt that I had left his place in better shape than when I came. He agreed, but when it came time for him to pay back the cleaning deposit he nicked off $2 for the ad it took to fill the place. He made us pay the price of his filling his place again.

PUTTING THINGS aside for a moment, there are a few landlords running for the board of trustees of this college (Marin Junior College District - editor) and I would like to know how some of these candidates feel about adequate student housing in this county.

One observation that I have made regarding the general county feeling towards young people's housing, is the town anti-commune laws. The high rents force students to pool their small amounts of money for one house.

This has a way of keeping newcomers out of the county. It also seems to indicate an aversion on the part of certain segments of this population to students or the younger citizens of a different nature than their own.

When people say that money is powerful they are right. Money is the chief value around here. It takes priority over the ideal of learning. That must mean that we learn to make money.

IT SEEMS THAT there is a dark cloud of distortion obscuring the bright promise of the American educational system. What ever happened to learning as an end in itself?

By HARRY CRAFT

Restaurateur Galli Celebrating 51st Anniversary In Business

At long last I believe I have pinpointed the senior restaurateur of Marin County.

Previously I thought this might be Joe Ghiringhelli of Deer Park Villa in Fairfax, who chalked up his 50th year in the county in March. But I am sorry, Joe — there is someone who beats you by eleven months. That is Salvatore Galli, whose 51st anniversary is this month. (If there are any other contestants for the title, please state your case.)

Sal Galli did not open his first Marin restaurant at the present Ignacio location — although he originally tried for that very spot. But the property was leased out, so he had to pass it up for five years. Meanwhile in 1920, he set himself up a few miles south at the former Two Mile Inn and bided his time. This was in the Terra Linda area, not much more than a stone's throw across the creek from where Holiday Inn is now.

It was Sal's first restaurant operation, but not his first food venture. Before World War I he had operated Galli Food Co., a produce firm in San Francisco, and still earlier in the century he had run a grocery store for a while on Ross Avenue, San Anselmo. The Galli family had owned the old Toscano Hotel in San Francisco.

Eventually Galli's in Ignacio became widely known for its sumptuous Italian dinners — a reputation it holds this day. Sal has eased up from full responsibility for the operation and son Frank now handles this capably. Following the pattern set by his father, Frank found himself involved in the restaurant business when he was discharged from the service after World War II.

And Galli's has become firmly entrenched in Marin history. If it is in fact the oldest family-operated restaurant in the county — our hearty congratulations.

Galli's will be open for Easter dinner on Sunday, starting at 3:30 p.m. Regular menu will be served — in its usual substantial fashion.

EASTER MENUS are beckoning diners-out for this weekend and though not much ado has been made about it this year, Sunday does bode well for most Marin restaurants staying open.

Bill and Adolph's West End Villa for its first time in almost five years will serve an Easter brunch from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Eggs Benedict and popular Sunday combinations will be the bill of fare.

Dinners will be served from 2:30. Look for prime rib, steak, leg of lamb, roast duck, chicken and Australian lobster tails and other selected entrees. A youngster's menu of chicken or prime rib will be available.

The impression that West End is behind the Marin County Civic Center food operation still seems to exist in many quarters. There never was a connection. Camille Bamatter and Don Giovanoni used to work for Bill Bisson at West End as chefs, then decided to try on their own for the Civic Center concession and got it. Bill was not in the deal.

HOLIDAY INN in Terra Linda will serve Easter dinner, of course. But innkeeper Jim Stuart also plans a champagne brunch in the Alta Loma Room from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The same will hold true for Mother's Day next month.

LE TONNEAU at Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera is serving both brunch and dinner this Easter Sunday. Brunch is from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; dinner is from 4 p.m.

All popular egg dishes — Benedict, Hawaiian omelets and other combinations will be offered for the early meal. Regular menu plus spring leg of lamb will be featured on the dinner.

Sometime make it a point to be at Le Tonneau on a Thursday, Friday or Saturday night when you can listen to Nancy Valencia on the Baldwin organ. She starts playing at 9 p.m. and after dinner you may just be inclined to tarry and join the group at the organ bar.

AFTER A NUMBER of changes recently at the Cat 'n' Fiddle in Sausalito, Tom Siddle is out and new owner David J. Lawless is in. Tom, I understand, is still in Sausalito.

Hours have been changed and are now from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. Lunches are served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. when a $1.75 merchants special is featured. Dinners are served from 6 to 11 p.m. Menu has been revised and runs more to steaks and chops, though there is a mixed grill still featured. Top price (a la carte) is $3.50.

Decor is the same — and so is the name, but that may be changed before long.

THE HAUFBRAU HOUSE at 4200 Redwood Highway opposite Terra Linda has now changed hands. New owner, a corporation by the name of T C and C Associates, Inc. has taken over from Don McLaughlin and Peggy De Mars. Principals are Emitt J. Taylor, William D. Canary and Charles W. Cowan, all of San Francisco. Taylor and Canary will operate much the same as Don and Peggy did.

However the place is closed until Monday for remodeling. Name will remain the same as probably will the menu. But hours have been changed (now 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays for lunch and dinner). There will be a wine and beer license.

Don McLaughlin is now working at McKee's in San Rafael.

ANOTHER PLACE NEARBY, with almost the same name, Der Hof Brau Haus, recently opened at 276 Northgate Shopping Center Unit One. It now has received its on sale wine and beer license. Owners are Bruce and Jo Ann Rosen, who conduct a combined self-service restaurant and delicatessen. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT and tomorrow night at The Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile features The Loading Zone and The Sorry Muthas.

SPEAKING OF ENTERTAINMENT, no less than 30 Marin dineries provide some form of it more or less regularly — usually on weekends. Some have it on other evenings or through the week.

These are: Alvarado Inn, Ancient Mariner, Bernard's Executive Lounge, Black Point Inn, Blue Rock Inn, Cal's Steak House, Deck House, Deer Park Villa, The Dock, Fondue Pot (Corte Madera), Gary's, Holiday Inn, Le Tonneau, Lin Fa Gardens, London Arms, Nero's, Ramona's, Rancho Nicasio, Rubini's, Sabella's, San Rafael Joe's, Shipwreck Pete's, Spiros' Red Vest, Taberna, Thirty Nine Main, Tiburon Lodge, Tio Mario's, Villa Rafael, the Windjammer and Zack's — not to mention the cocktail lounges that also feature music and a few restaurants that provide it occasionally.

Marin City Council Cancels Meeting

Last night's scheduled meeting of the Marin City Council was cancelled when only three of the council's members showed up.

The council had been scheduled to hold a discussion of police and community relations.

New College Grads Eschew The System

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A college diploma has traditionally opened the door to America's "better" jobs and executive washrooms.

But many of today's college graduates want no part of big corporations, big cars and big salaries. They would rather keep the long hair and free life styles of their youth.

They want jobs where they can serve others and keep their identity. And some yearn to escape the "system" by setting up their own small businesses.

Sacramento State College—along with many other schools —is meeting this demand with a new service at the college placement center where future managers have made their start.

Run by an attractive 30-year-old graduate art student, "New Life Vocations" helps this new kind of student.

"We specialize in alternative careers," says Peg Decious, the tall brunette who began the program a year ago.

"It attempts to provide a student with the kind of counseling and resources information that will help him take another look at his life style and perhaps make some changes that will put him on a more comfortable course."

"Most students come to see me out of curiosity," she explains. "They are about to graduate and are suddenly struck with the terror of having to leave college, put on a suit and play the game ... After talking for a while we get around to what kind of life they'd like to lead if they had their wish."

"It's often hard to get these students to admit that the pattern that their parents have so proudly programmed for them isn't the answer. But once we get down to it, it's really exciting to see the look of freedom they get on their faces."

Why was the program set up?

"It was needed because we realized we weren't serving certain groups of people. We weren't serving the hip community. Why would they want to come in here and talk to General Motors?"

Miss Decious talks to about 80 students a month. Some of them are just exploring possibilities for the future, others have chosen the hip life style and want to know how they can keep it and earn a living. "They're committed to living on less money, they don't want to be consumers anymore."

Some have chosen the straight life and want out.

"I had an accountant come in once," relates Miss Decious. "He liked his work, but he just couldn't stand working with accountants anymore."

The center gave him some ideas on "specializing in accounting for hip firms and the last we heard he was in the San Francisco Bay Area doing fine.

What kind of jobs does the center help students find? One apprenticed himself to a chef and has set up a catering business. Miss Decious herself is growing vegetables to sell. Others become teachers in free schools, carpenters, set up small auto repair or pottery shops, or go to work in halfway houses or other social service institutions.

Literature in the area is extensive, and includes a special magazine entitled "Vocations for Social Change."

"It's getting to be a big thing," says Miss Decious. "It's not a free thing or a whim anymore. In order to have the life style we want we have to go at it in a million different ways."

How much can the "new life" people earn? The pay ranges from mere subsistence to $24,000 a year offered for a physician to run a cooperative clinic in Marianna, Ark.

Miss Decious emphasizes that the center is more than a job bureau. While it puts students in contact with jobs, it also tries to teach them how to find their own.

"We try to get them in the happiest spot possible," she explains. "I'm not going to plan their lives for them. I try to help them think."

"What most of these people needed was a little encouragement, some examples that it can be done and the realization that a college degree does not necessarily lead to a management position at a department store."

Pot Possession Charge Dismissed

A charge of possessing marijuana against Ricky B. Deem, 23, of Santa Venetia, was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court when the district attorney's office reported the suspected pot was seized in an illegal search.

Deem was arrested March 16 when he was stopped by sheriff's deputies in connection with a car theft investigation. In Deem's pocket, deputies said, they found suspected marijuana.

Mrs. Posner Exonerated

New evidence exonerates Natalie K. Posner, Marin's public health educator, who was accused last month of possible fraud for working in two counties at the same time.

On March 18, Marin Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported possible fraud because time sheets from Contra Costa County showed Mrs. Posner had worked eight hours in both counties on the same day.

Today, Mitchell said he had learned that the Contra Costa County Health Department had asked Mrs. Posner to report her time for hours other than those she had actually worked in order to qualify for subvention aid for the drug abuse program. Mrs. Posner worked part-time in Contra Costa for the drug abuse program.

"A subsidiary and detailed time record maintained by Mrs. Posner was recently given to me," said Mitchell. "We have reviewed this record and find that it is not in conflict with the hours worked in Marin County.

"I am therefore concluding that there has been no wrong doing by Mrs. Posner. I must, however, criticize the Contra Costa County Health Department for in effect asking an employee to juggle the records even though the total time paid by Contra Costa County coincides with the hours worked on a second set of books."

Firemen Set Campaign On New Station

Rallying behind a $240,000 bond issue for a new fire station, the Mill Valley Association of Volunteer Firemen last night set a special meeting next week to discuss ways of promoting the bonds.

President Guy Rockey III said the volunteers will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the firehouse to determine how they will support the bond issue, which goes to the voters June 29 as part of a $1.8 million capital improvements package.

Possible support by volunteers, he said, could include hiring a professional to promote the bond issue and organizing a mailing campaign.

Insulin Pioneers

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Although insulin was discovered in Canada, 90 per cent of it is used in Danish-researched formulas. The business paper Boersen says Denmark supplies an important part of the world's insulin and is known as a pioneer in insulin research.

Bomb Explodes In Courthouse At Fresno

FRESNO (UPI)—Office workers on the seventh floor of the Fresno County Courthouse were evacuated Thursday after a bomb blew up in the men's restroom.

Several office workers were at their desks in adjoining rooms when the blast occurred but no one was injured.

Undersheriff Jim Long said the explosive, which was apparently located in a toilet bowl, blew a small hole through a wall into the adjoining office where 14 probation officials were working.

No suspect was taken into custody.

Collins Selected For Task Force

Dr. James A. Collins, superintendent of the Mill Valley School District, will participate in a task force formed by state Supt. of Public Instruction Wilson Riles to develop a master plan for early childhood education in California.

The task force, to hold its first meeting April 23 in Sacramento, will assess current plans and curricula for preschool programs and kindergarten and grades 1 through 3.

Nod On Tentative Subdivision Map

The tentative map for the future 58-acre Holiday Park subdivision was approved last night by the Cotati Planning Commission.

The plan by Forhim Corp. includes 226 single-family homes, 17 duplex lots, two lots for garden apartments and a commercial lot.

The commission also gave permission to construct four model homes, park facilities, a sales office and parking lot on the future Larkspur Court off East Cotati Avenue. The commission asked that an additional two lots be dedicated for park use, but the developers balked saying that more than eight acres had already been designated for park usage.

In other matters, the commission heard complaints about the plans of Kenneth Garner to build a duplex on School Street, west of Maple Avenue. Residents complained that it would set a precedent for other builders and endanger open space and the country flavor of the area. The commission also heard fears of parking and traffic problems.

Since Garner was not present, the commission delayed its decision until the April 22 meeting.

Historic Command

DEER PARK, Tex. (UPI)—Arthur G. Taylor, 49, a retired Coast Guard officer, has been named to command the Battleship Texas, which has been berthed as a state historical monument at the San Jacinto battlegrounds for 23 years.

False Arrest Victim Wins $750 Award

BERKELEY (UPI) —A woman falsely arrested during the People's Park Riot two years ago has been awarded $750 in damages.

She was arrested May 24, 1969, along with 481 other persons assembled at the Center Street parking lot.

The city will have to pay $500 in compensatory damages, and the arresting officer was instructed to provide the $250 in punitive damages.

"People's Park" rioting started when police drove street people from a vacant lot that had converted into a volunteer park.

Law Governing Information On Mental Patients Draws Attack

State law prohibiting disclosure of information about mental patients is hampering law enforcement and should be amended.

That recommendation, along with 14 others, was released yesterday by the health and hospital committee section of the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury report.

According to the committee, headed by Roberta Erlandsen of San Rafael, the confidentiality clause of the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act "seems to have resulted in the lessening of the security of the general public."

The committee reported it has arranged for mental health officials to meet with law officers in order to resolve the conflict.

Other recommendations suggest improved communications with county law enforcement and health agencies, verification by the center of patients' financial status before setting fees, improvement of its referral service, referral of disturbed county prisoners to state facilities unless a secure area can be provided at the center and improved staff identification.

"An open and informal atmosphere is maintained with the center staff, adopting a casual dress policy," the report says. "At times this atmosphere conflicts with a need for greater security involving certain patients.

This particularly applies to patients who are brought to the center for treatment as an emergency measure, the report states. "At such times, staff are difficult to identify and the admissions procedure becomes cumbersome."

The county's public health department, whose director, Dr. Carolyn Albrecht is under fire from County Administrator Alan Bruce for mismanagement, is understaffed in certain divisions, the committee found.

Among those understaffed, the report says, is the controversial venereal disease clinic in San Rafael which should be expanded to include a full-time health educator, "along with adequate clinical personnel."

Since 1961, the VD laboratory staff has had the same professional personnel and physical space and the clinic staff has been increased by 50 per cent. During the same period, the report continues, patient visits have increased 854 per cent.

"In the month of August 1970, more patients were interviewed at the clinic than in the entire year of 1961," the report adds.

The report also says more health officers should be employed for the environmental health division charged with maintaining a healthful environment in Marin.

These officers should be deputized to issue misdemeanor citations in order to better control pollution and the health and safety regulations, the report states.

"A study should be made to determine whether some of the complaint work now handled by the Division of Environmental Health should be propertly assumed or partially financed by the cities. . ." it adds.

Other health department recommendations include the inauguration of a training program in VD education for teachers and expansion of VD facilities at the Fourth Street and Grand Avenue office in San Rafael.

The county's medical department was urged to initiate a study to determine the number of fraudulent claims for medical assistance and establish a program to verify the identity of applicants.

In review of the county's community mental health service department, the report says there appears to be a need for an alcohol and drug detoxification center and rehabilitation facilities.

On Marin General Hospital, the report states the hospital should conform to the rules established by the county in determining whether a patient meets the indigency eligibility requirement for county aid.

". . . there continues to be an increase in the number of patients' bills being forwarded from the hospital to the County Medical Department for payment and the guidelines used by the hospital in deciding an individual's eligibility for medical aid are less stringent than those used by the (county) medical department," the report concludes.

Besides Miss Erlandsen, the health and hospital committee included Martin O'Brien Jr. of San Rafael, George J. Roth of Novato, Pauline Secor of Kentfield, Harry Sutcliffe of Mill Valley and Donald C. Barksdale of San Rafael, an ex-officio member.

Muskie Backs Antiwar March For April 24

"I endorse the efforts of those who are coming to Washington April 24," Muskie said. "I endorse and support this meeting on April 24 for it represents a commitment to an effective, impassioned and yet peaceful protest against the war."

The Senator's aides, however, told newsmen Thursday Muskie was only endorsing the demonstration planned by the National Peace Action Group.

A more militant organization, called the People's Coalition for Peace, also plans April 24 demonstrations in Washington.

Petaluman Held For Pot Appearance

Harry Robert Cartwright, 22, of 808 Keokuk Street, Petaluma, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possession of marijuana for sale and possession of dangerous drugs.

He was booked into the city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Detective Sgt. William Reed obtained a warrant to search the home and made the arrest.

Kentfield Woman Is Missing

San Rafael Police were searching today for a 20-year-old Kentfield woman who has not been seen since she left school in San Rafael for lunch Wednesday morning.

Martha Todd Pervere was described as 5'6" tall, and weighing about 120 pounds. She has long brown hair worn in a pony tail and blue eyes.

The woman's mother, Josephine F. Roche, 19 Evergreen Drive, Kentfield said she has not seen her daughter since she left home Wednesday morning for the Hansell Secretarial School, 900 5th Street, San Rafael. School officials said Miss Pervere attended morning classes.

Mrs. Roche said her daughter underwent brain surgery last year and is mentally retarded. She said Miss Todd met two boys in San Rafael several days ago and they called her at her home to ask for dexedrine tablets, which she takes.

Hughes Develops 'Quietest' Copter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hughes Tool Co. has announced development of what it calls the world's quietest helicopter — a modification of the turbine-powered, four-seat Army OH6A light observation helicopter.

The firm said the development had been kept secret for security reasons in Vietnam where the craft has been used for scouting. It said the helicopter is scarcely audible even when directly overhead and its development will help urban noise abatement.

The Friendly Voice Of A Phone Pal

A friendly, interested voice on the telephone is making a difference in the lives of more than 100 senior citizens in Marin County. The Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae of Marin County is providing the voices in a growing Phone Pals Program with an unusual aspect.

Kappa volunteers have been trained to convey needed bright spots into the lives of older persons, who need the sound of the voice, sometimes just a once-a-week call.

The project has the backing of the Marin County Department of Public Social Services and, according to Mary Boden, coordinator of Volunteer Services for the department, telephone reassurance is a growing trend.

"VISITING SERVICES seem to be out of vogue, and the telephone idea has caught on in many states," she says.

A combination of DPSS staff, experienced volunteers and five Kappa corps members set up the pilot project and are continuously training more Kappa volunteers to keep up with the growing requests of older persons registered with the department who have said they would like a phone pal. There is no random calling and no intrusion of anyone's privacy.

Because the Kappa volunteers feel that the sensitivities of persons involved in a telephone reassurance program are a vital ingredient, a corp group for a pilot project was formed last fall and met with members of the DPSS staff searching out the best way to establish a service. From this the initial learning program evolved, and, in addition to Mrs. Boden, two retired volunteers stepped into integral training roles.

One, Mrs. Florence Fast of Mill Valley, is a recently retired DPSS staff member who specialized as a supervisor in old age assistance. From her years of working with the elderly Mrs. Fast is able to spell out helpful ways of being a phone pal. She is herself proof that retired persons can make vital contributions to business.

ANOTHER RETIREMENT-AGE volunteer, Bob Beebe of San Anselmo, coordinates the project within the department and mans the Phone Pal desk in the department four days a week. He set up the records for Phone Pals, handles the paper work and answers Kappa volunteers' questions.

One volunteer, concerned about her phone pal's distress over repair problems in her apartment, checked with Beebe, who in turn checked the state housing inspector and found a bonafide problem which needed handling.

After attending a two and a half hour learning session each volunteer receives a kit containing information so she is able to cope with questions of a wide variety. She leaves the session with a list of not more than five phone pals and the confidence that no question or need will throw her.

Bob Beebe, who puts the kits together, includes numbers to call at DPSS, a rundown on the purpose of Phone Pals, information from the Marin County Senior Coordinating Council, some brief tips on "dos and don'ts" for telephoning, a pamphlet on Medi-Cal benefits, an explanation sheet on Social Services Department terms, cards to keep notations on each phone pal and a sheet explaining the importance of confidentiality in the program because official files are used to help volunteer employees in their work.

KAPPA VOLUNTEERS say they are bursting with warm anecdotes about their phone pals — vignettes that cannot be told because no names will ever be used.

Much mail comes to the Phone Pal desk from persons who have heard about the program and would like it for someone in their families, persons who do not feel they need it themselves but like the idea. Some elderly people have asked to become Phone Pals themselves.

There is a note from a Spanish woman who says that her son's friends have made her feel so welcome since coming to this country that she does not need this service herself, but she feels happy that so many persons who do might have the opportunity. Another is from a woman who worries about leaving her parents, 82 and 84, alone while she works during the day.

"If you called and asked my mother if she would like a phone pal, she would say, 'No, don't bother,' but will they be all right tomorrow and the next day?" her letter asks.

TYPICAL OF reactions among the people phoned during the pilot program was an elderly woman who told her phone pal that she just sits by the phone all day waiting for the call.

Men take to the idea especially, according to Mrs. Fast, because they don't have the props of keeping house to keep them occupied during the day.

One frank woman told her phone pal after several weeks that she had anticipated it would be a "damned nuisance" but found she was enjoying it immensely.

"THE REWARDS are mutual," says Mrs. John W. Nixon of San Rafael, president of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae of Marin, who has just returned from the Kappa province convention in Pacific Palisades, where she accepted the chapter's award for enhancing the image of the fraternity in the community.

"The friendly voice we bring into a lonely, older person's life has generated a warm response and has had a reciprocal boost for volunteers who are giving a bit of their time each week to the meaningful business of being a Phone Pal.

"We are trying to do it in the best way possible for these people. We have inner motivation as a Kappa group since our national philanthropy is rehabilitation. The award we received is for the Phone Pal idea, and it was given because it helps many lonely people and costs almost nothing — only a little time and effort.

Council Installs President

A four-year council member, Mrs. George A. Zengler, has been installed as the new president of the San Rafael Council of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Eleanor Zengler says that plans for the year include a school volunteers appreciation day in May and a reception for the new school board members.

The council, she says, serves the purpose of unifying and strengthening the individual PTA units in San Rafael and assists them in promoting the welfare of children. The council is made up of representatives of local PTA units in San Rafael and Dixie School Districts.

Mrs. Zengler and her husband, a lawyer, live in San Rafael and are parents of Kurt, 10, and Laurel, 7. Eleanor Zengler has been vice president and publicity chairman of San Rafael Council and she is a past president of San Pedro School PTA.

Mrs. Zengler is a native of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, and was educated in Solon, Ohio, and at Kent State University. She was a teacher for seven years with U.S. Dependents Schools in Germany and with Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City.

A volunteer teacher with the more able learner program at San Pedro School, Mrs. Zengler enjoys bridge, bowling and cooking and is a member of Lawyers' Wives of Marin, Peacock Gap Garden Club, Marin Association for Gifted Children and the citizen's advisory committee to the San Rafael Board of Education. She also teaches Sunday school at the First Presbyterian Church.

Other officers of the council are Mrs. Paul McMullen, first vice president; Dr. John F. Plank, second vice president; Mrs. Gimi Sessi, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Harris, treasurer; Mrs. Francis X. Kelly, historian; and Mrs. Paul Vandeb Bos, parliamentarian.

PASSOVER FEAST

Campers Prepare A Seder

By JOAN LISETOR

A seder is a feast to celebrate the Jewish holiday of Passover, which begins at sundown tonight, but the children began preparing for it Tuesday when they heard the story of Passover and learned that the feast commemorates the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt in days of the Pharaoh.

Wednesday the children, ages 6 through 12, began preparing the seder table, which tradition says should look very beautiful, coloring paper plates and making name places cards. They also prepared the foods, including matzo balls, that could be made in advance.

ARRIVING AT the center today, the campers formed a circle and divided up the chores.

There were five volunteers to make the matzo kugel, a pudding that would be the main dish and would be served after the traditions of the seder were performed.

The rest of the campers were recruited to make the charoses, a mixture of apples, chopped nuts, cinnamon, raisins, honey and wine, in this case grape juice in a red mountain bottle.

Ten apple peelers suffered only one skinned knuckle, and there were only two minor finger injuries from apple chopping. Some of the honey missed the bowl, but enough was salvaged for the meal, where it would symbolize the mortar of which the Jews made bricks for Pharaoh in their days of slavery in Egypt.

The learning process, preparing the seder food, continued as one child washed the parsley and another entered the kitchen in horror.

"THAT'S THE second time the parsley's been washed," he cried. The parsley would again be washed because it is dipped into salt water during the meal to remind observers of the tears Jewish mothers shed when their sons were taken from them.

With the eggs hard boiled and sliced and the radishes sliced, the food was ready to be served. Some children picked wildflowers while others set the table, which included candles in candlesticks; a cup for Elijah, an invisible guest at the seder, who, according to Jewish legend, will announce the coming of the Messiah; a wine glass; and a bottle of wine.

In front of the place where the oldest boy, playing the role of father, would sit were three matzos covered by a cloth.

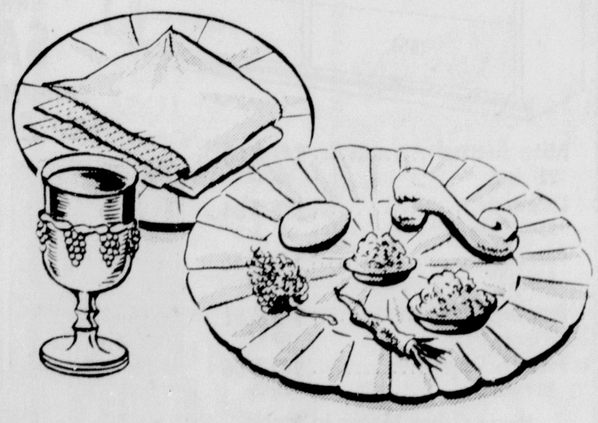
Next — the seder, culminating three days of learning by participating — was about to begin. The children found their seats, recognizing the plates they had decorated.

Most were decorated with Stars of David, flowers and peace signs, but one original young camper crayoned the message, "moza (sic) meal mush is good for you unfortinually (sic)."

FOLLOWING THE lighting of the candles, the wine was blessed, the parsley dipped and eaten by a few.

"Yuck," was the comment by many who braved tasting the curly vegetable.

The "father" explained the extra cup of wine on the table and ordered the door opened for Elijah.



After the opening of the door he said, "We open the door to welcome any guests who may stand without. Would that the hungry and poor everywhere could celebrate this passover with us.

"As an extra cup of wine stands on our table and we say, 'this is the cup of Elijah,' so we now say before the open door, 'welcome Elijah, for with your coming comes the time of peace and goodness on earth.'"

HE THEN offered one of the matzo to Elijah or any who are poor and hungry in the hope that next year at this time all who are troubled and sorrowful may have found happiness.

"Why is this night different from all other nights?" a question which is synonamous with Passover, was asked next. As tradition dictates six questions regarding the traditions of Passover were asked and answered by the "father" who then told the story of Passover.

The meaning of each food is asked by a child and explained by the father at a seder. The children asked, listened and then ate their eggs, radishes and horseradish, and then the kugel was served.

When the last blessing was said the children learned another lesson — dishwashing is a part of it all.

Directions for setting the seder table

In front of the person who conducts the service, place on a large platter three matzos, each of which is covered separately in the folds of a napkin or special cover. Next to it place a large platter containing the Seder symbols:

1. The roasted shank bone of a lamb.
2. A roasted egg.
3. A piece of horseradish, a bit of charoses, and a spring of parsley.

Place on the table for the company, or on individual plates:

1. Bitter herbs (horseradish cut into small pieces).
2. Charoses.
3. Parsley or watercress.
4. Salt water.
5. A cup of wine at each plate.
6. A large goblet of wine in the center of the table for the prophet Elijah.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Uses A Paddle To Straighten His Wife Out

DEAR HELEN:

This solution might not work for everyone, but it saved us from divorce.

Within a few months after our marriage, I changed to a lazy, surly, indifferent gal.

My husband was patient for a while, then he had a conference with my Dad — and brought home one of the family paddles. I'd felt it many times when I was growing up.

Harold gave me an ultimatum. Straighten up or — whap! I laughed. Within a week I learned he was a man of his word.

Eventually, with patience and a strong paddle, Harold made a woman out of me, and a happy one. This started 15 years ago. I still have a tendency to avoid responsibilities, so I still average a spanking a week.

Our rule is: It works both ways. I have the right to spank him if he deserves it. We have no children.

Though other couples abhor this (and some agree), we feel paddling has made our marriage happier, warmer, and more interesting. — H. W.

DEAR H:

What switches you on turns me off, but then —

Different strokes for different folks. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not sure if you can reprint parts of what another newspaper writer — Louis Cassels —said over two years ago, but if you can, I think this is worth repeating. It's called "New Year's Resolutions for a Middle-aged Sinner":

During the coming year I will not speak rudely or brusquely to any person — such as a waiter or bus driver — who can't answer me in kind without jeopardizing his livelihood.

I will try at least once a day to offer an unexpected compliment to someone who can't do me any good.

I will bear with my wife's annoying habits as graciously as I expect her to bear with my minor imperfections.

I will not condemn a whole class of people (students, teenagers, judges, government workers . . . television newsmen) for the outrageous acts of specific individuals.

I will stop telling young people their music is a clangorous noise and admit it might be at least on a par with such cultural treasures of my youth as "Three Little Fishes in an Itty-Bitty-Poo'' . . . "Mairzy Doats," etc.

I will resist the sin of gluttony by rigorously enforcing a five-minute interval betweenthe time I clean my plate and the time I decide whether I really want a second helping.

When Negroes say harsh things about white people or make extreme demands or threats . . . I will keep reminding myself that if I were black, I'd probably be pretty angry and obstreperous myself.

I will keep a tight grip on my temper when someone in social conversation expresses what I regard as a stupid opinion about Vietnam, religion, pro football and other subjects I take seriously, remembering that it is just barely possible he may be right and I may be wrong.

I will order my halo now, just in case I succeed in keeping even half of these resolutions. — LOUIS CASSELS, UPI Religion Writer.

ON BEING BLACK

Papa Money Clears The Way

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Francois Duvalier — more fondly (or snidely) referred to as Papa Doc — the self-proclaimed lifetime leader of Haiti, has been given a good deal of publicity recently.

In his twilight years, Papa Doc has finally admitted (to himself presumably) that he will not live forever. Consequently, he has undertaken some necessary and rather humorous motions to assure the succession of his title and position to his son.

The young man, like many offspring of the famous and wealthy, is seemingly not exactly a chip off the old block. And from all outward appearances, his qualifications for the presidency leaves much to be desired. Still, he is Papa Doc's son and blood is thicker than water.

Though held in disdain by some, Papa Doc is merely practicing an old phenomenon which could be called papa-perpetuation. History is full of documents and accounts of the attempts of great dictators and rulers to perpetuate their own images via their offspring. Some attempts were successful, but most were dismal (even laughable) failures.

EUROPEAN royalty, though still on the scene figuratively, is certainly not what it used to be, which further illuminates the problems involved in papa-perpetuation.

On the contemporary scene, we have watched Latin American and emerging African nations which have had internal upheavals repeatedly attempt papa-perpetuation.

Here in the United States where we pride ourselves in having no royalty and still verbally ascribe to the great American dream — every boy can grow up to become the President of the United States — our form of papa-perpetuation could best be titled Papa Money.

Though we don't worship royal bloodlines, we do stand in awe of money. We idolize moneymakers — movie stars, entertainers, politicians, even crooks (so long as they maintain an aura of respectability).

WE PAY a good deal of lip-service to equal opportunity, but being the offspring of Papa Money certainly opens many a door that would otherwise be closed. (As witness the number of not particularly talented sons and daughters of moneyed singers and actors who have found secure places in money-making positions.)

Many a statesman has cut a clear path for his offspring to follow in his footsteps. There have always been a number of father-son teams in Washington, ranging all the way back to the famous Adams family.

We may laugh at Papa Doc's tactics — like changing the legal age for the presidency to assure his son's eligibility for office; but Papa Money also goes through some rather obvious maneuvers to insure success for his offspring — like sending plane tickets and floral bouquets to guests to insure a packed house for the theater opening of his offspring. Success at any cost.

Even further down the money tree, papa-perpetuation is practiced whenever possible. The ghetto kid somehow finds himself in jail quicker than the son of the local businessman —for similar law infringements.

Ironically, this phenomenon of papa-perpetuation is one of the things which middle-class, white American youths say they are violently opposed to. They want to do their own thing, be their own man. However, while verbalizing the same, there appear to be many who are taking full advantage of being the namesake of Papa Money.

Anyway, call it human nature or whatever, if papa's (any papa) got it, chances are he'll make every attempt to see that his offspring get it, too.

Milhaud To Retire From Mills Post

OAKLAND (UPI) — Darius Milhaud, 78, noted French composer, is resigning his music faculty post at Mills College which he joined as professor of music in 1940.

Milhaud was commissioned in 1969 to compose a work for the opening of the Marin Civic Center Auditorium, now scheduled for next September.

The announcement of Milhaud's retirement was made today by Dr. Robert J. Wert, president of the college. Milhaud became professor emeritus in 1962, but was invited to remain at Mills as composer-in-residence.

He, with his dramatist wife, Mme. Madeleine Milhaud, spent alternate years on the campus since 1962. She was a member of the Mills French faculty. They divided their time between here and their residence in Paris.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parent's Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Barefoot Executive" — Highly amusing satire which spoofs advertising agencies, TV broadcasting companies and their program rating system. Action is sometimes slapstick and the climax is a hilarious surprise.

"Latitude Zero" — A "Flash Gordon" type science fiction made in Japan about three Americans who discover an underwater kingdom where everyone is working for peace. (Film Info. Nat'l. Council of Churches)

"New Leaf" — A delightful comedy about a penniless middle-aged playboy who is forced to acquire a rich wife quickly. His choice is a botanist who has the social graces of a country hick. He has devious plans to get control of her money and that is when the fun begins.

"Wild Country" — Disney Studios bring this gripping story of a pioneer family moving to Wyoming's Grand Teton country in the late 1880's. Their struggle against the elements and other men's greed is an inspiration.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Flap" — The attempt of an American Indian tribe to regain some of their rights through Red Power Revolution is met with brutal violence. Done in a rowdy contemporary comedy style it will do little to further the Indian cause because it undercuts a truly serious message.

"Little Big Man" — Excellent tragi-comic history of Indian-white relations as recalled by a 121-year-old ex-gunfighter. It spoofs several frontier myths. Amazing performance by Dustin Hoffman.

"Love Story" — Film is pure romantic escapism and an old-fashioned simple love story. Acting is exceptional and some tasteless language mars an otherwise beautiful portrayal.

"Topaz" — Adapted from novel by Leon Uris. Hitchcock brings this tense spy adventure with complicated plot which revolves around the 1962 missile crisis in Cuba.

"Waterloo" — A well cast, vastly expensive Italian-Russian co-production spectacular about the historical battle between Napoleon and the English, Austrian, Prussian and Russian tropps determined to destroy Napoleon once and for all. The mind boggles at the spectacle offered in this production. (Motion Picture Exhibitor.)

"You Can't Win Them All" — A mediocre film about a group of young Greek mercenaries trying to aid an anti government army in Turkey. There is also beautiful girls in skimpy costumes and stolen jewels tossed into some of the worst dialogue ever written to total a pointless plot.

BORDERLINE

"THX 1138" — Science fiction fantasy of a future century in which a computer dominated subterrenean world subjugates men and women with drugs. Sex is forbidden and children are conceived in test tibes. THX and his roommate skip their drug quota and discover sexual love. Their punishment is severe. Photographic techniques are imaginative.

"WUSA" — A contrived melodrama about an unprincipaled alcoholic who works for a rightwing radio station. A Hollywood attempt to blatantly exploit serious problems in America with out making a responsible statement. Much violence, cursing and sex.

ADULTS ONLY

"Diary of a Mad Housewife" — Acidly funny look at the disintegration of a modern marriage in New York. Good comedy with sex and dialogue that is very frank.

"I Love My Wife" — Stylish comedy about an empty life, told in terms of sex. A doctor whose wife has grown fat and boring, satisfies his desires indescriminately and answers to no one. Frank sex scenes and cursing.

"Kama Sutra" — Title refers to the Hindu religious teachings of the god of love, a vulnerable subject for screen exploitation. Under the guise of explanation, the film indulges in supergraphic visuals and ludicrous commentary. Settings alternate between oriental motifs and contemporary western equivalent. (Catholic Film Newsletter).

"Little Murders" — A savage black comedy that is only sporadically funny. It shows how people become brutalized by the modern jungle of our cities. A lacerating attack on our sicknesses is unsparing and frighteningly accurate, one will laugh and shudder at the same time.

"Loving" — Quiet desperation of suburban life is artfully explored in this story of a commercial artist living on the brink of disaster. A lewd escapade at a party brings matters to a shocking conclusion. Extremely frank language and sex scenes.

"Owl and the Pussycat" — Racy adult comedy about a prostitute with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Some shocking obscenities and sex scenes.

"Two Gentlemen Sharing" — Slow but interesting British drama about two men, one white, the other black who share a London flat. They roam aimlessly in search of identities, implications of homosexuality are abundant plus sex scenes between men and women.

The Catawba rhododendron which crown Roan Mountain in North Carolina have been described as the world's largest natural gardens.

U.S. Appeals Court Rejects Government Wiretap Argument

CINCINNATI (UPI) —A federal appeals court rejected the government's argument Thursday that it can wiretap domestic groups without a court order if it feels they are a threat to the security of the country.

In a major setback for the Nixon administration's claims of broad wiretap authority, the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a lower federal court ruling in Detroit that such a policy violates the Constitution's 4th Amendment prohibition against unreasonable search and seizure.

On a 3-2 vote, the appeals panel ruled that the Justice Department must disclose the contents of the conversations to Lawrence "Pun" Plamondon, 25, a White Panther accused of conspiracy in the bombing of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) office in Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29, 1968.

The court's majority said a major consideration in its ruling "was the fact that disclosure may well prove to be the only effective protection against illegal wiretapping available to defend 4th Amendment rights of the American public."

The Justice Department had no immediate comment, but was considered virtually certain to carry the case to the Supreme Court, if only because two other federal courts have ruled in its favor on the issue.

In appealing U.S. District Judge Damon J. Keith's ruling Jan. 27, the Justice Department asked that if it lost the appeal that it be advised before the wiretapped conversations were turned over to Plamondon.

It said that disclosure of the conversations would prejudice the national interest and asked the appeals court to have the opportunity to determine whether to appeal further, let the conversations be made public, or drop the case. The Appeals Court did not order the government to make immediate disclosure of the conversations.

In arguing the case before the 6th Circuit, the government contended that "when the President ... determines that certain individuals or groups pose a danger to the internal security of the United States as to warrant the use of electronic surveillance to gather intelligence information concerning the activities and plans of such individuals and groups, the 4th Amendment does not require the additional safeguard of a prior warrant."

Justice Department lawyers argued that the President has just as much authority to order domestic wiretaps when he feels the nation's security is endangered as he does when the danger comes from a foreign government.

But the majority of the appeals judges, in an opinion written by Judge George Edwards, said: "We hold in dealing with the threat of domestic subversion, the executive branch of our government ... is subject to the limitations of the 4th Amendment of the Constitution when undertaking searches and seizures for oral communications by wire.

"We hold that the district court judge properly found that the conversations of the defendant Plamondon were illegally intercepted and cannot hold that the disclosure order is in abuse of judicial discretion."

But in dissent, Judge Paul C. Weick agreed with the government's claims that only the President has enough information to know whether a domestic group is a danger to security.

"The legislative and executive branches of the government do not have the facilities to cope with the destruction of public buildings by saboteurs. Only the executive department of the government has the facilities and know-how to deal with these intricate problems.

"When the chief executive deems it necessary to gather intelligence information for this purpose, he ought not to be required first to make detailed explanations of classified information to a magistrate and procure his consent as a precedent to the exercise in constitutional powers," Weick wrote.

In addition to Plamondon, two other men identified as members of the White Panthers were also charged in the bombing. They were John Forrest, 21 and John Sinclair, 28. They were not overheard by the government.

The Nixon administration, in its court briefs and in speeches by leading officials, has contended that the President has the authority to order domestic security wiretaps without any restraints by either the legislative or judicial branches.

Its stepped up wiretapping of radical groups, both of the right and the left, would be seriously undermined if the Supreme Court upheld Thursday's appeals decision.

City To Back BART Board In Taxpayers Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco will pay the legal fees involved in defending the Bay Area Rapid Transit District against a taxpayer's suit to block completion of the Embarcadero subway station.

When BART's directors heard of the city's decision Thursday, they approved a formal contract to spend up to $22.5 million to finish the Embarcadero station.

They earlier had considered a West Portal Municipal Railway subway which the city has indicated it does not want.

However, the taxpayers' suit insists that BART go through with its original plan.

Absentee Ballot Deadline Tuesday

Applications for absentee ballots in the April 20 special Sonoma County election and Cotati School District board election must be received by Tuesday.

They may be obtained in person or by writing the Sonoma County Board of Elections in Santa Rosa. Letters of application should state the reason for requiring an absentee ballot and include the registered address as well as the address to which the ballot should be mailed. A signature and date must be on the application.

Leukemia Hope For Children

CHICAGO (UPI)—Leukemia in children, once fatal in nearly all cases, is no longer an incurable disease, according to doctors at St. Judge Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

"Physicians may no longer dismiss leukemia as a hopeless disease," Dr. Rhomes J. Aur of St. Jude's said in a report Thursday to the American Association for Cancer Research.

"One half of all victims of the disease can now obtain a five-year, leukemia-free remission from all symptoms, if the remission pattern of children currently free of leukemia follows that of our earlier studies," Dr. Aur said.

Until recent years, childhood lymphocytic leukemia, the most common type, was fatal in all but about one per cent of the cases.

Because of the strategic combinations of a half-dozen drugs, more than 100 children are alive today after five years with no more evidence of the disease, according to Aur. He said many children have lived for as long as 15 years without showing any evidence of relapse.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, population 8.5 million, is the largest city in the Southern Hemisphere.

New Cooling Tower Answer To Smog

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI) —A new cooling tower, designed to dissipate heat from electric generating stations, may hold the promise of smog control for the nation's urban areas.

The tower, proposed Wednesday by the General Electric Co.'s Research and Development Center, would permit power stations to propel thermal exhausts thousands of feet upward where the heat would be dispersed into the upper atmosphere.

The massive, slow-rising "plume" of warm, moist air could drill holes through inversion layers that periodically cover many cities, it was explained. When a layer of warm air pins down a layer of cool air, the latter, if trapped over an urban area, becomes increasingly smog-laden.

"Our pioneering studies into the design of cooling towers and the behavior of plumes have suggested solutions to a pair of major environmental problems: How to dispose of thermal exhaust from power stations effectively and acceptably, and how to ventilate the air over metropolitan areas," Dr. Arthur M. Bueche, vice president for research and development, said.

"This research indicates that a low-wide-mouthed cooling tower could greatly outperform its conventional counterpart in propelling plumes of thermal exhaust to extremely high altitudes."

Most conventional cooling towers are about twice the size of a railroad boxcar, with a stack on top that discharges a high-speed air stream.

GE's proposed tower would be a hollow structure, about 60 feet tall and 600 feet in diameter, about the size and shape of New York's Shea Stadium but only a third of its height. It would take about 40 conventional units to provide the cooling effect of the proposed new tower.

Women Set To Join Team Of Sky Marshals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One was a secretary and one was a student. The other two were government technicians.

Monday, armed with guns and four weeks' training, the four young women will take their place as the first female sky marshals in the force which has been riding shotgun on the nation's airlines for several months.

They met the press Thursday, faces hidden from the cameras, names undisclosed to the pad-and-pencil reporters.

Assistant Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides told the graduating class of sky marshals the government believes the program has prevented at least five skyjackings.

COAST GUARD PROJECT

'Hiding' A Giant Radio Site

Excavating crews moved onto a rural West Marin site this week as work began on one of two major communication facilities planned in the county by the Coast Guard.

The stations, to be built in a fashion giving them an underground appearance, will be constructed near Bolinas and on the Point Reyes peninsula on sites formerly owned by the Radio Corporation of America.

The stations, one transmitting and one receiving, will become the Coast Guard's major radio facility in the Pacific, replacing several obsolete installations on the West Coast.

Preliminary construction work started Tuesday at the 75.5-acre site north of Bolinas, planned as the transmitting station. Work is to start later on the receiving station, which will be built on 266 acres at the former RCA beach at Point Reyes.

The Coast Guard said a $903,000 contract for construction of the stations has been awarded to Reliance Enterprises of Santa Rosa. Work is expected to take a year.

Jack Walsh, civilian architect in the 12th Coast Guard District headquarters in San Francisco, said the buildings will be constructed in a method unique to the Coast Guard. Once the stations are built, dirt will be bulldozed around them and landscaped, giving the buildings an underground look.

Through this procedure, a Coast Guard news release said, the buildings "will blend with the natural qualities of the area and be inconspicuous from nearby areas."

Clearly visible, however, Walsh acknowledged, will be radio towers, some exceeding 100 feet, that will enable the stations to listen for ship distress messages, communicate with ocean stations and dispatch Coast Guard messages along the Pacific Coast.

The architect said he did not know how many antennae would be placed at both sites, but believed the arrangement would be "simpler" than that at adjoining RCA installations.

Eighty-one men will be assigned to the facility although the Coast Guard still is negotiating for a site "in the vicinity of Point Reyes Station" on which to build housing.

The Coast Guard originally had planned construction of 36 townhouses and four barracks on a site in Inverness, but changed its mind after opposition from area residents and county officials.

Objections grew out of the project density and fears that a sewage treatment operation would harm the ecology of Tomales Bay.

Walsh declined to divulge the housing site under negotiation and did not know when a purchase agreement might be reached.

Grand Jury Aims Reform Ideas At Cutting Welfare Cheating

Welfare programs should be tightened up, both locally and on the state and federal levels, the Marin County Grand Jury's welfare committee recommended in its final report yesterday.

On the state and federal level, the grand jury committee recommended legislation to effect the following:

1. Eliminate loopholes that provide aid to other than the poor in specific categories.

2. Family income should consist of the earnings of all persons living together, whether related or not.

3. Welfare reform should include more emphasis on job training so that recipients can become self-supporting.

4. A computer center should be set up statewide or nationwide with a central file on all welfare recipients so that the unscrupulous do not get double or triple aid.

The committee said the county can also tighten up on its administrative procedures in the following way:

1. All initial applications for aid to families with dependent children should include a personal interview.

2. The department of public social services should ask for background information on every case transferred from another county.

3. Positive identification should be required before aid is processed.

4. Income of fathers and stepfathers should be verified through income tax information. Alledged child support payments to children of previous marriages should also be verified.

"The applicant's word on all these requirements should not be accepted as sufficient," said the grand jury committee. "The responsibility to produce this information should be placed on the applicant, rather than on the social service worker as it is now."

To cut down on fraud, the committee recommended a professionally organized investigation division to serve as watchdog for the welfare department and to train welfare officials on how to detect dishonesty.

For the food stamp program the grand jurors suggested a new law that would make it mandatory to produce identification at markets to eliminate the trading of food stamps for rent or more money.

The Welfare committee, headed by Beryl Jean Symmes of Mill Valley, included George J. Roth of Novato, Albert T. Kelly of San Rafael, Martin O'Brien Jr. of San Rafael and Jane Ward Vernon of San Rafael.

Corte Madera Housing Group Session Tuesday

The 13-member Corte Madera Housing Committee will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at town hall to continue study of low-cost housing needs.

Scheduled for discussion are the first three steps of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's guidelines for developing a housing element for the town's general plan.

Those guidelines include defining the present housing situation, the future goal of housing and the obstacles to be overcome.

The committee will also review a questionnaire to be circulated asking residents their feeling on small rental units in single family residential areas.

La Tercera Park Program To Be Discussed

The future development of La Tercera Park will be the major point of discussion at the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at La Tercera School.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, a member of the recreation, music and parks commission, will discuss development plans. The association has volunteered its labor in construction of the park.

Voter registration for the June 8 Petaluma municipal election will also be stressed at the meeting. A registrar will be present from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Typhoon Toll

MANILA (UPI)—Twenty typhoons hit the Philippines in 1970, causing damage of about $102 million to public and private facilities, farms and factories.

Teen Center Site Offer In Petaluma

A potential center for Petaluma teen-agers has been offered to the Petaluma Association for Youth.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hilligoss, 15 Brown Court, have offered the use of a home, garage and barn on 1.5 acres at Lakeville Highway and Petroleum Lane.

The newly formed organization, headed by Sandra Matthews, will appear before the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to ask assistance in getting a teen center started.

The Hilligoss family has reportedly offered the property free of charge for a three-year period.

Three Injured As Car Rolls

Three men received minor injuries yesterday when their car rolled over on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road two miles south of the Marin-Sonoma county line.

Charles A. Meek, 34, of Belmont, the driver of the car, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma for back pain. Two passengers, Jerry Lakson, 26, of San Francisco, and Mike S. Hughes, 27, of Santa Rosa, were treated for cuts and scrapes.

The California Highway Patrol said Meek's car, northbound on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, rolled over at 11:45 a.m. No further details were available.

Design Panel Wants Creek Building Guide

The Fairfax Design Review board recommended last night that the city council draw up a master plan to guide construction along city creeks, board secretary Ernestine Healy reported.

The move came as the city council is weighing adopting of a watercourse ordinance that would require planning commission and design review board approval of construction permits and of removal of creekside trees.

View Of Costs In Schools

School district tax levies should be limited to the amount necessary to retire outstanding bond issues, with school support provided by a countywide or statewide tax, believes the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury Education Committee.

Decrying inefficiency and duplication of costs and efforts" from the multiplicity of school districts (21 in Marin County), the grand jury committee in its report last night also pointed to inequities of tax support among the districts.

"Our district organization unnecessarily hampers achieving the ideal of equal opportunity for all students supported equitably by all," it declared.

In its No. 1 recommendation, the committee asserted:

"The taxing structure for schools should be reexamined with the goal of providing uniform support at least countywide, and preferably statewide, to be apportioned according to school grade level and the average daily attendance in each district. Individual district taxes should be limited to interest and redemption on outstanding school bond issues."

The grand jury committee, headed by Mrs. Pauline Secor of Kentfield, was sharply critical of the accomplishments of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization, citing "a serious impasse in reorganization of school districts" that "is working to the detriment of the education of the students."

"If no tangible results occur in 1971, we recommend that a new committee on school district organization be appointed," it reported.

In other recommendations, the education committee said:

"Marin school districts should consider the adoption of a countywide salary schedule for both certificated and classified personnel . . .

"The state Legislature and the state Board of Education should reexamine all tenure laws. We favor the elimination of the present tenure provisions for probationary teachers and the consideration of long-term contracts for nonprobationary teachers."

While commending the present program of providing bicycle paths, the grand jury committee said cities and county should do more to provide safe walks and bike paths for school pupils. Also it urged expanded public transit service, noting: "Taxpayers are now paying costs of transportation through school taxes without obtaining the benefits of a general public transportation system."

As a final recommendation, it urged that the county schools office circularize all districts regularly with legal opinions from the county counsel.

In the body of its report, the committee tied the need for tenure change to accountability.

"It became clear to us," said the report, "that there is a pronounced trend away from accountability to administrators. The result is a serious decease of accountability of teachers to parents and the public . . . To improve this area of accountability, we believe the present laws relating to tenure . . . should be drastically changed."

Noting that the 1969 grand jury concentrated on problems of Sausalito School District, the 1970 jury said the resulting actions of Sausalito citizens "were traumatic" but it felt "a hands-off policy would be appropriate at this time by the grand jury."

Thoreau Play Auditions Slated

Auditions for the cast and interviews for technical and publicity workers for "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," the next production of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts, will be Monday, Thursday and April 17 at 8 p.m. at 267 Buena Vista Avenue, Mill Valley.

The play is written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, produced by Sali Lieberman and directed by Phil Larsen. Further information may be obtained from Lieberman, 172 Lone Tree Avenue, Mill Valley.

Report Sees Flaw In College Accountability

Steps to correct "a serious flaw in the accountability of the College of Marin to the public" have been recommended by the joint special assignments and education committees of the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury.

The report called for more stress on annual evaluations of all teachers and administrators, a shift of policy responsibility to administrators and away from committees — which should be purely advisory, the panel said — revamping of tenure, and a reshuffling of priorities for the many tasks of the dean of instruction.

Student disciplinary proceedings were snarled by committees more concerned with procedures than with the facts of disciplinary violations, the panel said.

Associated Student fund handling was found to have tightened up since the critical findings of the 1969 grand jury, the report noted.

Voter denial of local bond issues faced the college district with costly delays in building its North Marin campus and a new library for the Kentfield campus, the report noted. "Since construction costs have been constantly on the rise, the less delay . . . the more advantageous it will be to local taxpayers."

The report found that many of the College of Marin troubles could be traced to a series of changes in administration, with five presidents or acting presidents in seven years, and other policy changes marking time before appointment of a new dean of instruction in the spring of 1970.

The jury committee said its studies of College of Marin stressed the accountability of faculty to student, faculty to administration, administration to trustees and trustees to the public.

The report listed two causes for what it called flaws in accountability to the public: Lack of systematic faculty evaluation, and "the excessive committee structure which permeates almost every facet of the operation of the college."

The report said, "of the 19 faculty committees existing . . . none was charged with any responsibility for evaluating their peers." The trustees have adopted a formal policy for annual evaluation of probationary teachers, the investigators reported.

The joint committee found "gratifying" the efforts of the faculty to draft a code of ethics. It called for evaluation of both teachers with tenure and administrators, and "in cases where unprofessional conduct is suspected, the administration should not be reluctant to initiate dismissal proceedings."

Tenure was criticized as "a one-sided contract, committing the institution but not the individual . . . it also acts as a shield for incompetence." The report said most College of Marin teachers are "doing a good to excellent job" and should "have nothing to fear from the removal of this automatic lifetime job security which no other profession is guaranteed."

The joint committee found less to criticize than the 1969 grand jury in terms of associated student finances, but did suggest that the association be held accountable not only for damage to college facilities and landscaping, but also for any costs of extra police protection for student events.

Special assignment committee members participating in the joint report for the grand jury were Jane Ward Vernon, chairman; George C. Benoit Jr., Thomas C. Cheetham, Roberta Erlandsen, Harry Sutcliffe and Joseph W. Wright.

Consolidation Of Many Special Districts Urged By Grand Jury

The number of special districts in Marin leads to inefficient service and inefficient use of tax monies, the Marin County Grand Jury reported yesterday.

The outgoing 1970 grand jury criticized the "proliferation" of districts and district elections, and urged consolidation of many.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors governs 22 of the districts, with the other 41 governed by local boards — usually elective, the report said.

The committee made several specific recommendations:

The state legislature should set limits on amounts of uncommitted reserve funds accumulated by special districts and the districts should be required to file more detailed budgets with the county auditor-controller.

The board of supervisors should adopt the recommendations of the 1967 Brown and Caldwell report, which urged division of Marin into four sewerage service areas, and the Marin Municipal and North Marin Water districts should be designated to coordinate sewer functions in the four areas. The jury commended seven Southern Marin sanitary districts which are studying merger under the jurisdiction of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Citing "grave inefficiencies in operations and uneconomic use of tax monies," the committee urged all fire department officials to examine "with a sense of urgency" the need for consolidation.

The committee commended the MMWD directors for adoption of land use criteria for Mount Tamalpais lands, but questioned the propriety of the district leasing public land "even at a fair price" to the private Meadow Club above Fairfax.

Jean W. Homer of Kentfield served as chairman of the municipalities, districts and commissions committee. Other members were Ruby Daly of Larkspur, Joseph W. Wright of Novato, Pauline Secor of Kentfield and Marilyn Steinau of Belvedere.

The committee urged the board of supervisors to select four annual election dates in the hope districts would voluntarily consolidate elections.

The 1970 Marin County Grand Jury also:

FEES — Urged the county clerk's office to follow up on the possibility of collecting filing fees and other court costs from persons filing court actions through the Marin County Legal Aid Society.

SUPERVISORS — Noted an "absolute dependence" by the board of supervisors on its administrative staff, and warned against delegation of too much authority.

STUDIES — Recommended to County Administrator Alan Bruce that departmental studies be made only by qualified personnel, saying "complaints indicate this is not always the case."

PLANNING — Noted "steady improvement in departmental organization and public relations with the community" in the planning department — the subject of heavy criticism by past grand juries.

PUBLIC DEFENDER — Recommended stricter procedure for determining eligibility for the services of the public defender's office and urged the Legislature to enact laws requiring later collection of fees when a defendant is found able to contribute to his own defense.

AIRPORT — Suggested that the county proceed with plans for ultimate development of Marin County Airport as a ½'reliever airport" which would relieve large airports of small plane activity.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Whooping Cough Is Rare And Little Research Into Causes

Whooping cough (pertussis) is rare because of pertussis vaccine. And — little research is being conducted since the disease no longer is a threat to our health. This is unfortunate because there is a possibility that the causative organism is not what it is generally believed to be. To the medical profession, this may sound heretical. Until recently we knew that the microbe, Bordetella pertussis, caused whooping cough. The bacillus, discovered by Bordet and Gengou back in 1906, usually is found in the upper respiratory passageways and coughed up during the early stages of the disease. Cough plate cultures are used to identify the organism.

DESPITE THIS apparent unequivocal evidence, whooping cough more closely resembles a viral rather than a bacterial respiratory infection. Young children are mainly affected but, luckily, pertussis is followed by long-lasting immunity.

ADENOVIRUSES may have the dubious honor of causing whooping cough. These critters are capable of producing a severe infection of the lower respiratory tract similar to the bronchitis seen in pertussis.

RECENT STUDIES conducted on 13 children in Florida tend to confirm this idea. According to Dr. J.D. Connor, all of the youngsters had what was considered to be whooping cough but none had positive cultures for B. pertussis. In addition, 11 of the 13 (85 per cent) children were shedding adenoviruses. In similar laboratory studies done on 200 controls, viruses were found in only 3 per cent.

THIS IS NOT the first time adenoviruses have entered the pertussis controversy. Until more research is done, both bacteria and viruses must be suspect in the whooping cough syndrome.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

DRYING THE DISHES

F. D. writes: What do you say to a dinner guest who offers to dry the dishes but hasn't washed her hands before picking up a towel?

REPLY

Either refuse the offer or say diplomatically, "You've just had dinner and I know you want to wash up." Guide her to the powder room before she has a chance to say no. Her hands may be cleaNer than you think, so don't be too fussy.

PROTRUDING DISK

P. A. writes: When a wornout disk is taken from the spine, what is used to fill in the empty space?

REPLY

Nothing. The entire disk is not always removed and the remnants separate the vertebras. Some surgeons fuse the vertebrae together with a bone graft.

HONEY AND DIABETES

N. T. writes: I use honey instead of sugar for sweetening purposes. A friend told me recently this habit will cause sugar diabetes. Is this possible?

REPLY

No. Diabetes is the result of the body's inability to produce insulin and metabolize sugars. It is not caused by eating certain foods.

PERITONITIS

H. B. writes: How is generalized peritonitis treated?

REPLY

The antibiotics are most useful, depending upon the causative organism. Surgery usually is needed to repair or eliminate the cause or to promote drainage of pus.

Today's Health Hint — The bicycle should have a light on the front and a reflector on the back.

San Rafael — Loch Lomond Yacht Club will have its annual Easter Egg hunt from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday in the club parking lot for children of club members and their guests. The Easter Bunny will be there and award prizes to the most successful egg finders. He will direct games afterward.

No Mass Fraud In Berkeley's Registration

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. says he found no evidence of mass irregularities in registrations for the Berkeley election.

Brown visited the city clerk's office on election day to investigate various charges of fraud.

Some charges were made by those who had unearthed a couple dozen names of young voters who gave their residence as a youth hostel or a church.

Radical factions then reported the names of four businessmen who gave their place of business as their residence while actually living outside Berkeley.

Reporter Convictions Reversed By Court

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)— The State Supreme Court yesterday reversed contempt of court citations against two Seattle Times reporters convicted in connection with the Thomas Braun-Leonard E. Maine murder trial in Snohomish County.

The reporters, Dee Norton and Sam R. Sperry, were convicted by Judge Thomas McCrea, who said they violated a court order against reporting trial proceedings that occurred outside the hearing of the jury.

In reversing the conviction, Supreme Court Justice Walter T. McGovern said: "To sustain this judgment of contempt would be to say that the mere possibility of prejudicial matter reaching a juror outside the courtroom is more important than is a constitutionally guaranteed freedom of expression.

"This we cannot say," McGovern said in his opinion.

The high court decision was unanimous as Chief Justice Orris Hamilton, and Justices Frank Hale, Hugh J. Rosellini, Marshall Neil, Charles Stafford and Charles T. Wright signed McGovern's opinion. Justices Robert C. Finley and Robert T. Hunter wrote separate opinions agreeing with the contempt reversal.

Braun and Maine, both of Ritzville, were convicted of killing Mrs. Deanna Buse, 22, Monroe, on Aug. 19, 1967.

Braun was sentenced to hang and Maine was sentenced to life in prison.

The two were extradited from California where they were serving sentences for the slaying of Timothy Luce, 17, Ukiah, Calif., and the subsequent rape and shooting of Susan Bartolomei, 19, also of Ukiah. Miss Bartolomei survived the attack but still is paralyzed.

Braun faces the gas chamber in California while Maine was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The two also are charged with the slaying of a Portland, Ore., salesman. All three slayings took place on the same weekend.

Many State Farmers With High Subsidies

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration today identified 23 farm operators who last year collected federal farm subsidies of $500,000 or more. Nine got at least $1 million.

The largest single subsidy was a $4.4 million payment to J. G. Boswell Co., Corcoran, Calif., a large cotton producer.

The administration's list contained the names of 137,000 farmers who drew $5,000 or more during 1970 under price support and other programs for crops including cotton, sugar, feed grain, meat and wool. The payments totalled $3.7 billion.

Most of the giant support payments went to big cotton and sugar producers.

A 1970 law now limits payments for producers of cotton, wheat and feed grains to $55,000 per crop annually. There is no ceiling on sugar producers, who got six of last year's 23 payments over $500,000.

The million dollar farms listed, in addition to J. G. Boswell, were: Giffen, Inc., Huron, Calif., $4,095,114; South Lake Farms, Fresno, Calif., $1,875,454; Salyer Land Co., Corcoran, Calif., $1,547,174; H. M. Tenneco, Bakersfield, Calif., $1,317,061; Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co., Puunene, Hawaii, $1,232,166; Waialua Sugar Co. Ltd., Waialua, Hawaii, $1,111,060; Vista Del Llano Farms, Firebaugh, Calif., $1,105,762; U.S. Sugar Corp., Clewiston, Fla., $1,073,980.

The 14 farms that received $500,000 to $1 million were: S.A. Camp Farms Co., Shafter, Calif., $903,650; Farmers Investment Co., Sahuarita, Ariz., $865,776; Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., $814,646; Mount Whitney Farms, Five Points, Calif., $804,583; Kirby Hughes, Tucson, Ariz., $797,428; Westlake Farms, Stratford, Calif., $721,129; Boston Ranch Co., Lemoore, Calif., $677,225; State Of Montana, Helena, Mont., $666,757; Telles Ranch Inc., Firebaugh, Calif., $632,779; C & V Growers Inc., Maricopa, Ariz., $543,577; Oahu Sugar Co. Ltd., Waipahu, Hawaii, $528,884; South Puerto Rico Sugar Co., South Bay, Florida, $522,899; Lihue Plantation Co. Ltd., Lihue, Hawaii, $516,684; Jack Harris Inc., Coalinga, Calif., $500,068.

In 1969, eight farmers collected at least $1 million. The listing of the 23 largest payments showed little change from a year previously.

Farmers who received $5,000 and up drew an estimated 45.5 per cent of the total payments last year. The rest of the $3.7 billion was spread among 2.3 million small operators.

San Mateo Says City's Jail Is Public Nuisance

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—San Mateo County filed suit Thursday declaring the City of San Francisco's jail at San Bruno is a public nuisance and should be improved.

San Bruno is in San Mateo County.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson's brief listed 24 deficiencies in the jail built in 1934 and attached a state report asserting there were "deficient conditions."

Among the complaints was an indication that the jail is dangerous to nearby residents because of escapes.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Some Words About Correct Defense—Correct Play of Clubs

"There are more ways of killing a cat than reading bridge articles to it and boring it to death," writes a friendly (I think) New York bridge fan. "Instead of spending all your time on what declarer can accomplish by holding up a trick, why not say something about what the defenders should do?" Fair enough. Here's one to try on your cat.

| 1 NT | Pass | 3 NT | All Pass |

Opening lead — ♠ Q

REFUSES TRICK

West leads the queen of spades, and South refuses the trick, having read my earlier articles this week on holding up with a double stopper in the enemy's suit. West continues with the deuce of spades, and dummy's king wins.

Declarer leads a low club from the dummy, and East plays low with the sickening feeling that he is about to be euchred out of his king. South puts up the queen of clubs, and West wins with the ace.

Now the hand is over, and your cat, if you're reading this article to it, should stalk out of the room in disgust. West can set up the spades, but he can obviously never regain the lead. South will lose only a spade and two clubs.

DOUBLE ERROR

East should begin a good defense by stepping up with the king of clubs when declarer leads that suit from the dummy. When the king of clubs holds the trick (much to East's relief), East should lead his remaining spade. This knocks out declarer's last spade stopper while West still has the ace of clubs.

When East muffs his opportunity by playing a low club (instead of the king), West should refuse to win the trick with the ace. Fortunately for the defense, South needs a second club trick. East must win the second round of clubs and still have time to lead his spade.

THINK LATER

If your cat is realistic about bridge players, however, he will agree that few defenders would defeat today's contract.

Most players take a trick first and think about it later.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A K 4
♥ - K 7 6 4
♦ - K 10 9
♣ - J 6 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid something.

Some experts would bid one heart despite the weakness of the suit. Most would open with one club, expecting partner to take the opening bid, but not the suit, seriously. Some would even bid one diamond and a few would bid one no-trump (if they use a system that bids "weak" no-trumps). Any sensible bid is all right — as long as you don't pass.

SUYDERHOUD DOES A SPIN ON SKIS OF HIS OWN MAKING

Mike Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, who will be defending his Masters and World Championship water ski titles this summer, got in some practice this week at Lake Oswego in Oregon. Shown here doing a full spin, Suyderhoud is trying out the Caprice TTS competition slalom ski which he has designed for Western Wood Co. A chemistry major at Sonoma State College, the 21-year-old Suyderhoud has won the national overall championship the past four years, since 1967, and the bi-annual world's overall title in 1967 and 1969. He also holds the world jump record of 165 feet. He will be defending his Masters crown July 8-9-10 at Callaway Gardens, Ga., and his world title Sept. 11 through 18 at Banolas, Spain, near Barcelona. After trying out his new skis, Mike returned to San Anselmo yesterday and will be doing his practicing at Bahia development in Novato. Working out with Mike will be the Dutch national champion, 19-year-old Arie De Gans of Rotterdam, Holland.

JIM GILMARTIN

Your Chance To Help The Game Wardens

As I am deeply concerned with the health, wealth and happiness of my friends, I visited Al Giddings at his home in Woodacre yesterday afternoon.

Giddings does our popular Fish and Game column, but it is his position as a warden for the Department of Fish and Game that prompted my visit. I wanted to know how the proposed hike in fish and game license fees would affect him.

"Hah," he hah'd, "I received my paycheck for this month the other day and it was for $692.62, which is unbelievable even to me. It's just not enough. Everytime it comes it puts me in the doldrums. The license fee increase might be the crux for the game wardens and other DFG personnel to get a pay raise, but I don't know."

Warming up to the subject, Big Al continued: "Most everyone says that the game wardens are most essential. Most everyone says that without them our fish and wildlife, the ecology and the environment would be in far greater danger than it is now. Yet, throughout the entire state there are only about 220 wardens covering every inch of land, sea and other waters. Two wardens are assigned to Marin County, and approximately eight others to serve Napa, Sonoma and part of Solano counties."

What does a warden do for his $692.62? I asked Giddings, who had an answer ready to fire. "My home is the Fish and Game headquarters for my district," he said. "I keep a state car, a state boat and motor and all the gear that goes with these in my yard. Look around you," he motioned with a sweep of his big paws, "My house is used to meet the public, a state phone is in the kitchen, and parts of three rooms are required to store books, papers, reports, pamphlets and other office gear. Uniforms, guns, bullets and other things necessary for the job are all here. The state does not pay us one dime for the use of the house as an office. And phone calls! Why, they come morning, noon and night. Days off or days on, how does the public know which is which?"

Giddings' beat is a busy one, he said: "This past month I believe I gave five conservation talks to different clubs or schools — one at 7 a.m., one during the day and three at night. On four of my days off, I had important calls to handle, so I took other time off to compensate whenever possible because we do not get paid a nickel for overtime.

"During March I made 16 arrests, most of them from the patrol boat. Running the patrol boat requires two men, so I had my son with me on two arrests, two friends on four others, a reserve warden on a big day of eight arrests and a deputy sheriff on six others. I covered about a thousand miles of land and about 200 miles of water. Some people think that the outdoors, the fishing and so forth makes up for our financial losses. But fishing and hunting knowledge and techniques are the most essential part of the job. I get asked hundreds of questions.

"And last week, when I was fishing among about 10 other boats in San Pablo Bay, I cited two fishermen for using two rods each and the people in another boat for throwing their garbage overboard. Did I get a fish? Who cared?"

While I was with Giddings the phone jangled several times on official matters. "Yesterday was my day off," he said, "but I had Mr. Louis Osterero from the Sierra Club here for two hours discussing the dog-deer problem. I had four phone calls from fishermen asking about places to go; one letter from a former Fish and Game employee asking about an abalone trip which I answered; a letter from the DFG explaining the

A's Trade Alou To Yankees

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees Friday acquired 35-year-old power-hitting outfielder Felipe Alou from the Oakland A's in exchange for relief pitcher Ron Klimkowski and minor league hurler Rob Gardner.

Alou, who broke into the majors with the San Francisco Giants in 1958, has a .290 lifetime batting average. The righthanded hitter has batted over .300 three times in his career and has also been an all-star three times. He twice led the National League in hits.

With Oakland, Alou hit .271 last season.

Klimkowski was 6-7 with a 2.64 earned run average as the Yankees' middle relief man in 1970. Gardner was 16-5 with the Syracuse Chiefs of the International League last year before winning three games in the International League playoffs.

6 MARINITES IN FINALS AT ROUND HILL

Six players from Marin County won semi-final matches yesterday and advanced to today's finals in the Round Hill Junior Tennis tournament at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo.

In all-Marin finals, Steve DeMartini of Greenbrae meets Marcus Robinson of Mill Valley in the boys 16 class, and Sue Beatty of Tiburon goes against Lisa Beritzhoff of Mill Valley in girls 14. Other Marinites playing today are Henry Jacobsen of Belvedere, who plays Bill Fischer of San Francisco for the boys' 14 title, and Stacey Hook of Tiburon, who meets Bonnie Carey of San Francisco for the girl's 18 crown.

Miss Beatty also will try for the girls' 16 championship.

Matte Joins John Unitas In Hospital

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore Colts running back Tom Matte underwent an appendicitis operation Thursday and joined Johnny Unitas at Union Hospital where the veteran Colt quarterback was recovering from heel surgery.

Matte entered the hospital Wednesday night with what physicians believed was a case of bleeding ulcers which had plagued him for eight years. Examination showed his appendix was about to burst, doctors said.

Matte, whose appendix was removed Thursday, joined Unitas, who underwent surgery Wednesday for a severed Achilles tendon in his right heel. Both players were reported in good condition.

Matte was playing paddle tennis with Unitas Wednesday when the quarterback suffered the heel injury.

Coody Hopes He Learned Lesson

Masters Golf Leader Thinks Back To 1969

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The way Texan Charlie Coody figures it, the nightmare he lived through two years ago when he let a chance at the Masters golf championship slip through his fingers may be just the thing that wins it for him this year.

The 33-year-old Coody, who never has won a major championship in eight years as a tournament golfer, stormed out of the pack with a six-under-par 66 in Thursday's opening round of the Masters to grab a three-stroke lead over five golfers tied at 69.

And the thought in everyone's mind, including Charlie Coody's, was—remember 1969.

That was the year when the wild final round of the Masters suddenly found Coody the leader as he walked toward the 16th tee, three holes to play. But something happened there under the towering southern pines and the Abilene, Tex., pro bogeyed every one of those last three holes to finish two strokes behind winner George Archer.

"I hope I learn something from experience," said the tall, dark-haired Coody quietly. "I thought about what happened a lot, and I know what I did wrong. I played in too much of a hurry; I wasn't thinking through my shots; and I missed the green on all three holes.

"What I learned from that helped me to win another tournament later that year, the Cleveland Open," he added. "Maybe someday it will help me to win a major championship—maybe this one this year."

Coody, tall, slope-shouldered, and laconic, seized the first-round lead with a three-birdie burst from the 13th through the 15th holes just when it seemed that 69 probably would be good enough for first place. In the five-way tie at 69 were Bob Murphy, Don January, Ray Floyd, Bob Lunn, and dark-horse Hale Irwin.

Tied at 70, four strokes behind Coody, were tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus and Dale Douglass. At one-under-par 71 were Bert Yancey, Tom Weiskopf, and 47-year-old Art Wall, and a dozen were tied at par 72, including defending champion Billy Casper and the man he beat in last year's playoff, Gene Littler, plus South African Gary Player.

Arnold Palmer, after "the worst round I've played this year," was in another logjam at 73, along with Archer and U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin of England.

The key to Coody's first-round play, which included six

GOMEZ TALKS ABOUT WILLIE

Mays Has Padres' Skipper Shaking Head In Disbelief

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Preston Gomez had his first win of the year but the manager of the San Diego Padres wanted to talk about venerable Willie Mays.

"He is too much," Gomez said in a salute to San Francisco's 39-year-old outfielder. "He's swinging that bat as good as he did 10 years ago. He's a fine example for all our young guys."

The Padres overcame Mays' continued early season heroics Thursday night as they got three runs in the ninth inning to nip the Giants 7-6.

Mays, who has a birthday next month, drove in five runs with his third homer in three games and a single but he wasn't in a mood to celebrate.

"We didn't win the game and that's all that counts," he said.

Mays' blast came with the bases loaded in the seventh inning—his eighth career grand slammer—to cut the distance between himself and Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714 to 83 homers.

For the three-game series, Mays went six-for-14 and had seven RBIs.

Gomez, who missed the first two contests because he had to go to Mexico City on personal business, watched his big slugger, Nate Colbert, redeem himself with one out in the ninth.

Colbert hit a towering fly to deep center field that drove in Larry Stahl with the winning run. He struck out his previous three trips to the plate.

Stahl, who has won a starting outfield berth, also clubbed a two-run homer off Giant rookie starter Steve Stone in the first inning. The Padres scored three times off Stone to take a 3-1 lead after Mays singled in Bobby Bonds in the top of the inning.

After the Padres added a run in the fourth, the Giants went

Off Track Betting Success

NEW YORK (UPI)—Howard Samuels and officials of his Offtrack Betting Corp. (OTB), describing themselves as "stunned by the response and patience of New Yorkers," met into the early morning hours today to study possible improvements in their precocious betting system.

OTB head Samuels described yesterday's opening turnout at the city's two betting offices and over the phone lines as "spectacular." He had predicted a first day total take of $10,000. City horseplayers bet $66,098 on the nine-card race at Roosevelt Raceway.

Also spectacular were the 100-person lines stretching halfway across Grand Central Station from the 10 windows operating there. A total of $31,146 was bet at Grand Central, but bettors had to wait as long as three hours at peak periods.

To help alleviate the situation, a spokesman for Samuels said some changes would be made when the windows opened at 8 a.m. this morning.

Windows will be differentiated by such labels as "daily double," "six tickets only" and "exacta." Also, some windows would be set aside for those returning to cash in winning tickets.

Samuels emphasized this morning that such experiments would continue until bugs were worked out of the system.

"We are working on a pilot basis. We are learning," Samuels said. "No one has done it before in this country."

Samuels planned to be on hand this morning to congratulate the first winner who came in to collect at Grand Central and also to thank his harried staff, some of whom were still at work early today.

"Fantastic...it's good...the city's got a winner," were some of the remarks overheard as the waiters patiently studied form sheets that many were perusing for the first time.

Mayor John V. Lindsay joined the new game in town and, with the permission of his wife, put down $2 on Moneywise in the seventh. Moneywise finished out of the money fourth.

Chicago Takes 2-0 Lead: Other NHL Teams Even

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

the season in their own division, the Chicago Black Hawks stand alone today among the Stanley Cup contenders with a two-game lead in their playoff series.

But, most hockey fans will have to agree, all the fun seems to be happening over in Boston and New York.

While Chicago was ripping the Philadelphia Flyers 6-2 in routine fashion Thursday night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final series, the Bruins incredibly blew a four-goal lead to drop a 7-5 decision to the Montreal Canadiens. And in New York, Ranger wing Vic Hadfield took out his frustrations by flinging Toronto goalie Bernie Parent's face mask into the crowd during a 4-1 Maple Leaf victory.

In the other playoff, the St. Louis Blues defeated the Minnesota North Stars 4-2. This left all of the series, with the exception of Chicago-Philadelphia, deadlocked at a game apiece with action on all four fronts resuming Saturday.

After Yvan Cournoyer scored for Montreal in the opening minutes of the game, Boston countered with five consecutive goals to take a 5-1 advantage. But Henri Richard started the Canadiens back at 15:33 of the second period, and they got five more goals in the final session to complete the incredible comeback.

Jean Beliveau scored the first two goals in the third period and, after Cournoyer tied the score with his second goal of the night, Beliveau set up John Ferguson for the winner at 15:23. Frank Mahovlich picked up the final goal with 1:20 left to play.

"I didn't say anything special before the third period," Montreal Coach Al MacNeil said. "I didn't have to say anything. They knew the situation. We've got a good hockey club but we've still got a long way to go."

Boston Coach Tom Johnson, obviously distressed with the sluggish play of the Bruins, said the team "just let down in the final period. We thought we had the game won."

The loss broke Boston's all-time playoff record of 11 consecutive victories and Johnson refused to fault goalie Ed Johnston for the loss, citing instead the overall weak defensive play of everyone else. Gerry Cheevers had been in the Boston net during all 11 games of the streak.

Johnston, who has lost all three of his playoff games in the last three years, said, "You can't win playoff hockey giving them five breakaways. We had them and we let them go."

Paul Henderson scored two goals for Toronto, his third and fourth of the series, and Garry Monahan and Dave Keon added one each. Two separate free-for-alls erupted in the final five minutes, and it was during the first brawl that Hadfield threw Parent's mask in the stands.

Despite a 15-minute search, the mask couldn't be found and Parent, without a spare, sat out the rest of the game in favor of Jacques Plante. Ironically, Plante was the first goalie to wear a face mask in game competition and he is the president of the company that manufactured the mask Parent lost.

Referee Lloyd Gilmour whistled 33 penalties, including game misconducts to Jim Harrison and Darryl Sittler of the Leafs and Hadfield and Brad Park of the Rangers, with the penalties totalling 160 minutes. Last yer the Bruins and Rangers set a Stanley Cup record of 38 penalties and 174 minutes in a game.

"He (Parent) jumped me from behind," Hadfield said in explanation of his action. "Then I saw the mask sitting there, so I just threw it."

Parent disagreed, somewhat, saying Hadfield had taken it off his face. The mask cost $150, and Parent said he had an old one in Toronto he can use if Plante doesn't deliver a new model by the weekend.

Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita each scored two goals for the Black Hawks, who never have lost to the Flyers in Chicago. Hull now has 99 playoff points, placing him seventh in the all-time standings, and Mikita climbed into 11th place with 91.

Jim Roberts scored two goals, the second into an empty net, to lift St. Louis over the North Stars. Bill McCreary and Wayne Connelly scored the other Blues' goals while Murray Oliver notched both Minnesota goals.

Alex Hannum Is Denver's Head Man

DENVER (UPI)—Alex Hannum, the wandering minstrel ot the pro basketball circuit, said farewell to San Diego Thursday and joined the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association as head coach, general manager and president.

"We agreed not to reveal the terms, but it's the most lucrative contract I've ever signed," Hannum said. "It's a very, very happy day for me. It's the culmination of many years of searching for the right position. I hope to make Denver my home from now on."

Hannum, who signed a five-year contract with Denver, had coached the San Diego Rockets since 1969. San Diego finished third in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division last season with a 40-42 won-loss mark.

The 48-year-old Hannum has had five jobs in the ABA and NBA since 1956. During that period, he won three championships—with the St. Louis Hawks in 1957-58, the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA in 1966-67 and with the Oakland Oaks of the ABA in 1968-69. He also coached the San Francisco Warriors.

"Our first priority is player personnel," Hannum said. "We'll have to study the draft list, then go out and try to sign the players."

Hannum's selection came as somewhat of a surprise. The most prominently mentioned name for new general manager of the Rockets, who finished in last place in the ABA's five-team Western Division, was Notre Dame Basketball Coach Johnny Dee.

Meminger Scores 35 In Victory

HONOLULU (UPI) —Marquette's Dean Meminger drilled 35 points to give the Midwest a narrow 97-95 verdict over the South in the third annual Aloha Classic Thursday night.

In the opening game of the double header, Oregon's Stan Love scored 28 points to spark the West to a 111-89 victory over the East.

Meminger, who led Marquette to 39 straight wins over a two-year period and was claimed in the first round of the NBA draft by the New York Knicks, hit on 15 of 23 shots from the floor and took five of seven from the line.

Mrs. Schultz used her three-wood to ace the 131-yard 14th hole yesterday. Witnessing the shot were Mrs. Luke Helms, Mrs. Ed Vest and Mrs. William Del Monte.

NATIONAL AAU MEET

'Upset Kid' Of Swimming

PULLMAN, WASH. (UPI) — Unheralded Foank Heckl of the University of Southern California is turning out to be the upset kid of the national AAU short course swimming championships.

He registered his second upset in as many nights Thursday when he set a meet mark of 1:40.55 in winning the 200-yard men's freestyle.

Susie Atwood of the Lakewood Aquatic Club of California also sparkled in Thursday's competition.

She captured the women's 400-yard individual medley in 4:34.80 and was the leadoff swimmer in the club's victory in the women's 400-yard medley relay.

The team of Miss Atwood, Kim Brecht, Bonnie Adair and Linda Kiddie set an American mark in turning the distance in 3:58.61 to break the record of 4:00.7 set by the Santa Clara Swim Club in 1969.

Gunnar Larsson, Phillips 66, Long Beach, Calif.took the men's 400-yard individual medley with a clocking of 4:01.50 and the Indiana team of Mike Stamm, Peder Dahlberg, Gary Hall and Mark Spitz won the men's 400-yard medley relay in 3:14.56. Southern California was second and Phillips 66 finished third.

The four days of competition, which also doubles as trials for the Pan Am games runs through Saturday.

MAJOR LEAGUES

Bucs' Luke Walker Too Much For Phils

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Pitching against the Philadelphia Phillies, Luke Walker of the Pirates is only slightly less than sensational. But he is perfect.

"He's the kind of pitcher a lot of guys go up against and figure, well he doesn't look too fast, then all of a sudden the ball's in on you and you're behind it," observes Philadelphia Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Walker has won only 20 major league games but he is 6-for-6 with the Phillies, beating them the last six times he faced them including a five-hit, 2-0 shutout Thursday night.

"No, I don't feel like I have a hex on them or anything like that," Walker observed while lounging after the game in a rocking chair.

"It just seemed like, especially last year, that whenever I started pitching it was against them."

Although Walker normally will struggle with his control and rearely finishes what he starts, when it comes to the Phillies he is a master of efficiency. He threw only 97 pitches and needed just an hour and 47 minutes for Thursday night's shutout.

In the other three National League games, Houston beat Chicago 7-3, Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 2-0 and Montreal topped New York 6-2 and San Diego beat San Francisco, 7-6.

In the only two American League games, Cleveland nipped Boston 3-2 and Kansas City edged California 3-2.

Jack Hiatt, obtained from Chicago in a winter deal, hit two run-scoring doubles as Houston beat the Cubs. Jack Billingham pitched a four-hitter to gain the victory. Ken Holtzman took the loss.

John Bateman drove in three runs with two hits and Steve Renko scattered 10 hits as Montreal beat New York. Gary Gentry gave up six runs and took the loss but three of them in the seventh were unearned because of an error by Bob Aspromonte.

Rookie Gomer Hodge singled in two runs with two out in the ninth inning to lift Cleveland past Boston. Hodge entered the game as a pinch-hitter in the eighth and doubled and scored the first Cleveland run on John Lowenstein's single. He then tagged Ken Tatum—the reliever the Red Sox got from California in the Tony Conigliaro deal—for the hit that won the game in the ninth.

Cookie Rojas' bases-loaded double in the third drove in two unearned runs as Kansas City capitalized on four California errors for the victory over the Angels. Andy Messersmith, who homered in the fifth, took the loss even though he left after eight innings without giving up an earned run.

FISH AND GAME

Fishing Sometimes Full Of Surprises

By AL GIDDINGS

Enos Foster, my Woodacre neighbor, telephoned and said, "Al, you're going to get killed for last week's perch column! Nobody caught any perch!"

I questioned him about "what happened" and he said that he took his two sons Scott and Mike out to Tomales Bay off Millerton Point, to the hot perch spot I wrote about. There were about five or six boats out plus the shore fishermen, but he saw no one catch a fish. What did he do? He and his kids caught about 30, plus one striper!

He says they had hits every cast, but the kids were a little slow on the set, or they would have "loaded the boat." (Some guys got it and some guys ain't!) Enos said that the day before he, "Ropie" Clarke of Corte Madera and Kay Schneider of Woodacre took limits of perch there too. And Ropie had eithera sturgeon or a big shark or ray on, but lost it after an hour ro so, and Kay Schneider caught a steelhead! Some people don't believe the column, but it's all the solid truth!

HERE'S ANOTHER one. Hazel Eddings of Buck's Landing, Santa Venetia called me Sunday to tell me about all the stripers brought in. I was out there Saturday and only checked two bass. She's gotta be kidding, but I thought I'd check around a little further! I stopped at Al's Mobile Station in Santa Venetia. That place has all the latest dope!

Lo and behold, a guy comes along who says he just limited out on bass with two friends. Then he starts naming other friends, who I know and can check on, who also limited. Then he swears me to secrecy about the area and method! What can I say now? Only this: He didn't use bait! He wasn't anchored! He used something like a Pfleuger chum spoon, and fished 200 yards off shore at high tide. Twenty years ago, we all fished his hot spot! If you don't know yet, I can't help you any further. But Hazel was telling the truth! All my scouts are most reliable!

FRANK SPENCE, the Rod and Gun Pier keeper called saying that fishing was good off the pier, with stripers up to 15 pounds being caught and then Frank said, "I swear on my good mother's grave that a sturgeon 15 feet long has been jumping around the pier all week!'' (Good grief, I'd be afraid to fish down there.) That reminds me, Hazel said they brought in some nice sturgeon too, from the deep water by the S.P. Buoy!

SALMON FISHING still continues along at a torrid pace as long as the winds keep down. Last Monday, it was blowing all through the Corte Madera area. I took the coast route to Bolinas to check the ocean. Very flat and no winds! The winds only seem to blow at the edge of the fog into the sunny areas. Check with the Sausalito party boat tackle shops when you are in doubt.

I gave it a go one day this week, caught three fish and ended up following a boat around that was taking overlimits. They had the fish all cleaned and iced and ended up delivering them to my car! I gave the skipper and his passenger friend Fish and Game citations. They had nine salmon.

WARDEN JOE PEELEN reported almost 300 Sports diving units taking abalones over last weekend all up and down the coast. The pressure on these choice edible mollusks seems to be getting out of hand!

Bon Tempe Reservoir will be planted this week with approximately 1,500-2,000 catchables. Lagunitas and Bon Tempe will receive trout the following week. Possibly 200 of these fish will be tagged — no rewards — but to help evaluate the fishery, The Department of Fish and Game would appreciate you sending any tags to the Department of Fish and Game, Ferry Bldg., San Francisco, Ca 94111.

new fee schedule for the lakes. I started at 8 a.m. and it was 5 p.m. before I could relax. But not for long because there were more calls last night."

Building up to a dramatic climax, Giddings said: "Listen, Jim, conservation never stops. It has been 13 years since the last fishing and hunting license increase. I hope people concerned with conservation will write their legislators to act favorably on the license increase bills. It will mean 25 new wardens and we might even get a pay raise."

Giddings further noted that the California State Employees Association estimates its 9,600 employees' pay lags from 16 to 25 per cent behind prevailing pay.

"I know you've heard of other benefits scheduled if these raises go through," he said, "but I wanted to tell you about the men who work in this business of conservation and how important they are to the state."

Amen, and write your legislators, folks.

birdies and 12 pars, was that he birdied every single one of the four par-five holes.

"I consider myself a good driver," explained Coody. "I hit real good drives on each of those holes and my second shots were reasonably good, so that I was able to use my putter for my third shot on every one of them."

Coody picked up his other two birdies on par-fours—the 10th when he knocked his iron shot two feet from the pin, and the 14th when he holed out a 40-foot chip shot from a trap.

The tall Texan hasn't won a tournament since that '69 Cleveland Open and he admits 1971 hasn't been too good for him so far. His best finish this year was a fourth place in the National Airlines Open two weeks ago, but something happened there that's helping him here, he says.

GIANTS

ahead 6-4 with five tallies in the seventh.

Gary Ross, the last of three San Diego pitchers, got the win while 41-year-old Don McMahon was tagged with the loss.

Third in the Giant starting rotation behind Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry, Stone went three innings, giving up four runs on six hits and two walks.

The Padre starter, Steve Arlin, lasted 6 1-3 innings and gave up four hits.

San Francisco is at St. Louis Saturday for the opener of a three-game series. Frank Reberger, 7-8 a year ago, goes for the Giants, who play the Cardinals in a doubleheader Sunday.

Softballers Romp To 11-4 Victory

San Rafael's Nolan Wilson scored four runs last night to lead Suburban Auto to an easy 11-4 win over Night Life in the opening round of the San Francisco A Softball League.

Suburban Auto, now 8-0 for the season, got off to a quick start when Rich Manteuffel ripped a three-run homer in the first inning.

Positive Thinker Is Beacom

By JACK HANLEY

SAN DIEGO — Some years ago Hoagy Carmichael wrote a happy song in which he recommended a cheerful outlook on life by accentuating the positive and eliminating the negative.

Mike Beacom wasn't born when Carmichael wrote his song. But Mike fully subscribes to the Carmichael philosophy. In fact, Mike, new statistician of the Giants, would eliminate all the negative in baseball if he could.

For six weeks in spring training, Beacom eliminated all the negative from Giant performances. His daily stat sheets showed no errors although fielding of the Giants was far from flawless. Indeed, the Giants made 44 errors in 30 games.

"I'll put a column in for errors when the regular season starts," said Beacom when Gaylord Perry told him the spring stats were incomplete.

Pitchers, like Perry, are very sensitive and most protective about their earned run averages. Runs resulting from errors are not charged to a pitcher's ERA.

"Stats," said Perry, "should tell the whole story, not just part of it."

Beacom agreed. And being a savvy fellow, Beacom pointed out to Perry that when he computed earned run averages he always took into account the spring errors that didn't show on his stat sheets.

Beacom's spring diplomacy of not embarrassing Giant fielders — infielders and outfielders alike — no longer is permissible now that the regular season is under way.

"I have my red pencil," said Beacom, "but I hope I don't have to use it all season."

That, of course, is wishful thinking even though admirable for an ardent Giant rooter which Beacom is.

Beacom seldom got a chance to root at games for the Giants in his old job with the organization. He spent all of his time in the front office, specifically Peter Hoffmann's ticket office. Beacom was a whiz with figures and Hoffmann had no hesitancy in recommending him for the statistician's job.

"In the three years he was with me," said Hoffmann, "Mike never made a mistake in his accounts. They always balanced perfectly."

Beacom has yet to make a mistake in balancing box scores even though he does them in a somewhat unorthodox style. He uses big ledger sheets, the same kind he used in Hoffmann's office.

His style of charting a ball game baffles baseball writers but then the way baseball writers keep box scores also is baffling to Beacom.

"I don't see how you fellows can write stories from those chicken scratches in your books," he said. "I need more room to log ball and strike counts and the area to which a ball is hit."

Marin Catholic Nine Wins Tourney Game

I-J Special Report

SOQUEL — Paul Riccardi doubled home one run and then scored on a single by Scott Cozza in the top of the seventh inning yesterday to give the Marin Catholic High School Wildcats a 2-1 victory over Harbor High of Santa Cruz in the opening round of the Soquel Invitational baseball tournament in this Santa Cruz County community.

Jim Lowe, working five innings of relief after starter Tom Olson retired in the second with a back injury, was credited with the win as the Wildcats of Kentfield gained the winner's bracket for the second round. They play Albany High tonight at 6 p.m.

Marin was trailing, 1-0 when shortstop Steve Sherry singled with one out to open the game-winning rally. Riccardi, the Wildcats' catcher, immediately drove his double deep to right centerfield and Sherry sprinted home to tie the score.

Riccardi moved to third on an infield ground ball by Pete Arbios to set the stage for Cozza's second basehit of the game. Sherry likewise had two safeties.

DODGE'S NEW "LOVE MACHINE"

Built on a Dodge 108 Sportsman Van chassis, this vehicle was conceived by Hollywood auto stylist George Barris. A revolving sofa in orange and persimmon velvet dominates the interior. It sports color TV, stereo with organ speakers and an antique French telephone to match the sofa. The vehicle will appear at automobile shows in the United States and Canada.

New Tax Form W-4 For Refunds If Withholding Was Too High

If there is too much tax being withheld from your wages because you are entitled to a lot of itemized deductions like taxes on your home, interest on your home, heavy medical expenses, etc., you can file a new form W-4, Schedule A, based on your 1970 tax return and your withholding for 1971 will be reduced by the amounts that you claim.

If you think this applies to you, be sure to get Schedule A, W-4, and read the instructions carefully and complete it exactly according to the instructions and chances are your take-home pay will be increased.

If you incurred no income tax liability for 1970 and don't believe you will incur any tax liability for 1971, then you should get form W-4E, Withholding Exemption Certificate, read the instructions carefully, and if they apply to you complete this form exactly as per the instructions and give it to your employer.

You will not have to file an income tax return for 1971 unless your income will be at least: Single individual, $1,700; single individual 65 or over, $2,300; married couple filing jointly, $2,300; married couple, one spouse 65 or over, $2,900; married couple, both 65 or over, $3,500; married person filing separately, $600.

Your employer then has no option. He must discontinue withholding from your wages.

This will save you and the government the trouble and inconvenience of having tax withheld from your wages and paid into the government and then your having to file an income tax return in 1972 to get the withholding tax back.

This also saves your employer the trouble of withholding your tax from your wages and paying it into the government and reporting it.

In fact, this is probably the best thing that has happened in the tax law in many a year. It simply eliminates an unfair section that caused a great deal of trouble to the taxpayer, the employer and the government.

Do you have a big federal tax bill to pay this year in addition to what your employer has already withheld from your 1970 paychecks?

Withholding, at the regular rate, only covers the tax on your salary or wages and is inadequate if you have a large salary or earnings from sources not subject to withholding.

The law provides that you can agree with your employer to have him take more than the regular rate of withholding out of your paychecks so that you will have your taxes fully paid at the end of the year.

Your employer must be willing and you and your employer must make an agreement, in writing, in such form as your employer may require, to have your employer take a stated extra amount of withholding from your wages. The W-4 slip you sign for your employer has a special place provided for this. Your employer handles this the same way as other withholding and you report this extra withholding on your tax return the same as any other withholding. This will let you pay your 1971 income tax in 1971 as you receive your income.

If this applies to you, then make such an agreement with your employer now so that you can spread the payment over as long a period as possible.

If you are receiving a pension, you can now have the tax withheld by filing form W-4P with the payor of the pension, stating the amount you want withheld and other information required. These forms are available at local IRS offices.

The payor of your pension will start making these deductions for withholding within three months after your request. They may start sooner if they can.

Also, you can have them deduct more than the tax on your pension so that you won't have to file an estimate at all. In other words, you can have enough deducted from your pension so that it will cover the tax on your interest, dividends and other income.

The only thing is, the withholding must be at least $5 per month and it can't be so large that it reduces the net amount of any payment you receive to less than $10. Here's a good way to save yourself the trouble of filing an estimated tax return.

Chilean Move On Nationalization Of U.S. Mines

SANTIAGO (UPI)—The lower house of Chile's parliament approved and returned to the Senate Wednesday amendments to the constitution that would permit the government to nationalize American and other foreign-owned copper mines.

Both the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies have approved the principle of nationalization, and there is no doubt the amendments will be approved. Marxist President Salvador Allende has made nationalization the largest single item in his economic reform program. He first proposed constitutional reform to Congress on Dec. 22.

Among the foreign operations that will be affected are the copper mines owned by the American firms Anaconda, Kennecott and Cerro Corp.

Market Chain In Belt-Tightening

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 200 shares of Allied Supermarkets bought at 15 in May 1969. The company seems to have a knack for losing money on rising sales. Do you see any possibility for a comeback? I hate to hold a born loser. — G. S.

A. Allied has expanded its outlets rapidly, with growing emphasis in recent years on high volume supermarkets operating in conjunction with Kresge's K-marts. In fiscal 1966, when 263 outlets were operated Allied brought 1 per cent of sales down to earnings. By fiscal 1969, the last profitable year, 389 units were in operation. The margin of profit, however, nosedived to 2/10th of 1 per cent.

Attendant with the proliferation of the low margin K-mart supermarkets has been excessive start-up and promotional costs which have contributed to recent deficits. In addition, income was heavily taxed by the setting-up of a food processing and distribution center, which is now in full production.

Last August, Allied sold inventory and leases on 40 west coast K-mart supermarkets for $10 million. In October, 25 conventional outlets were sold and eight closed, which will entail substantial nonrecurring charges against fiscal 1971 results. However, the consolidation of operations in the South and Midwest and the elimination of unprofitable locations, should benefit margins significantly by 1972.

Q. I am retired and would appreciate your naming good bonds paying 8 per cent — R. W.

A. Because of the drop in interest rates, reflecting the increase in the money supply, top quality long-term utility bonds currently return 6.8 per cent to 7.4 per cent. You have a wide selection of A-rated issues, however, returning 7.2 per cent to 8.7 per cent to maturity. Bonds in this category, upper medium grade, are considered secure as to principal and interest. Arkansas Power & Light offers three high interest bearing issues, 7⅜s of 1998, 9¼s of 1999 and 9⅝s of 2000. You might also be interested in recently-offered Columbia Gas 8⅜s of 1996.

Agricultural Output Up $16 Million

The gross value of the entire Marin County agricultural industry last year rose to $16,842,000 — an 8.6 per cent increase over the 1969 value reported at $15,502,000. The increase was slightly below the usual 9 per cent annual gain reported in preceding years.

County agricultural commissioner R. Allan Ballard said the combined livestock industry continues to represent about 90 per cent of the total gross value, with nearly 70 per cent derived from milk products. The latter showed a valuation of $11,778,300 in 1970, compared with $11,120,000 in 1969.

Cattle gained in dollar volume — $3,045,600 from $2,344,000, partly as a result of an increase per hundredweight from $24.80 to $28.20 and partly from an increase of 3,000 in the number of head. The value of lambs was down to $216,000 from 1969's $237,000. Hogs and pigs increased in value to $51,480 from $49,500. Chickens dropped to $78,000 from $148,000 in 1969. The number of chickens was down to 52,400 from over 100,000 in 1969.

Wool production was down 3,600 head from 1969's 98,600 and valuation dropped to $33,250 from $47,300. Egg production at $237,700 was much higher.

In field crops, the harvested value of pasture lands remained the same at $435,000. Hay and grain moved up to $270,000 from $221,000. Other field crops such as barley, oats and wheat dropped to $24,300 from $47,600 in 1969. Fruit and nut crops were down from $27,000 in 1969 to $15,000 in 1970.

Total nursery crops increased to $594,080 from $531,000. Major gains were in cut plants and ornamental trees.

Pollution Needs Moon-Type Push: Chrysler Chief

MIAMI — (BW) — John J. Riccardo, president of Chrysler Corp., termed air pollution control a top national priority and called for the same kind of cooperative scientific approach based on fact, logic and determination that put a man on the moon.

"It's not my place to set national goals, but it seems to me that control of air pollution is at least as important to our well-being as putting a man on the moon," Riccardo said recently in an address to the National Installment Credit Conference.

Riccardo said the nation went about putting a man on the moon scientifically, and "We can get the same kind of result in our battle against air pollution."

Ross Medical In Higher Earnings

Marin County's Ross Medical Corp. has reported gross revenues of $11,272,391 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1970 — an increase of approximately 22 per cent from restated gross revenues of $9,192,418 during 1969.

Net income for 1970 was $454,024, approximately 16 per cent higher than 1969 income, but as the company had 222,000 more shares outstanding at the end of last year than it did in 1969, earnings per share declined to 46 cents from 50 cents.

This was attributed primarily to a decrease in average hospital occupancy and losses were also incurred in the operations of Norcal Laboratories, which have now been discontinued.

Merger discussions are now going on in which Ross Medical would be acquired by Hospital Corp. of America, headquartered in Nashville, Tenn.

INDUSTRIAL INDEMNITY CO., San Francisco and Crum and Forster Insurance Companies are discussing a proposal to combine the latter's Pacific department into the management and operations of Industrial Indemnity, which became a member of the Crum and Forster group in 1968. The next several months will be devoted to a joint study of the most effective method of expanding the underwriting markets and capacity of the combined organizations.

LESLIE SALT CO., San Francisco net income for 1970 declined to $3,000, or one cent per share, despite increased sales. Net income in 1969 was $965,000 or $2.92 per share. Net sales and operating revenues were $23 million in 1970, compared with $21.4 million in 1969. The sales increase was said to have been offset by an 8.7-per cent increase in operating costs and expenses.

FIBREBOARD CORP., San Francisco first quarter earnings were $402,000 or 12 cents per share, as compared to $527,000 or 17 cents per share for the 1969 period. Sales were $40.8 million, down from $41 million in 1970.

ARDEN-MAYFAIR, INC. reported consolidated sales of $630 million for the 52 weeks ended Jan. 2, compared with $558 million for the 53-week 1969 year. Operating income of $783,000 before extraordinary charges resulting from real estate disposals resulted in a net loss of $2.8 million after the extraordinary charges.

TECHNICAL EQUITIES CORP., INC., San Jose has acquired Polymetrics, Inc., a San Carlos manufacturer of water purification equipment in an exchange of common stock. Other Technical Equities operations include specialty restaurants, women's wear retail shops and recorded tape stores in Northern California. Its stock is traded over the counter.

POTLATCH FORESTS, INC., San Francisco president and chief operating officer Benton R. Cancell has announced plans to retire at the end of this month and has nominated Richard B. Madden as his successor. Madden is currently assistant treasurer of Mobil Corp. and chairman of Mobil Estates, Ltd. of New York City.

WORLD AIRWAYS, INC., principal stockholder of First Western Bank and Trust Co. and Wells Fargo and Co., parent of Wells Fargo Bank, has announced an agreement in principle for the acquisition of First Western by Wells Fargo Bank for $95 million. Wells Fargo Bank has 275 offices, principally in Northern California. First Western has 95 offices principally in Southern California.

SIERRA PACIFIC INDUSTRIES, San Francisco will invest over one million dollars in a new wood millwork plant to be built at Chico. It is expected to be in operation before the end of this year and will adjoin Coach-Mate, Inc., a Sierra Pacific subsidiary there which manufactures vinyl overlay moldings. Sierra Pacific also has a millwork operation at Susanville.

World Airways Lashes 'Bias' On Charter Trips

NEW YORK — (BW) — An immediate end to restrictions imposed on U.S. supplemental airlines by European governments and new policies which end discrimination against charter travel have been urged by World Airways Inc.

If existing restrictions were not lifted, the airline said, European governments would invite action by the U.S. to impose counter restrictions on European airlines.

In a sweeping indictment of the International Air Transport Association (IATA), the rate making cartel for the scheduled airlines, World said that "European airlines were forcing curtailment of the principles of free trade upon which the airline industry's past achievements had rested. Worse, their actions prompt retaliatory actions which are repugnant to a competitive economy in a free society.

"A concerted effort on the part of government owned foreign airlines to erect barriers to the U.S. supplemental airlines charter services was the most serious threat to the development of a mass travel market.

"The existing restrictions would deny American travelers the availability of low cost charter transportation and leave the public without recourse of the arbitrarily high IATA fares," the airline charged.

Raising the question of IATA's anti-trust immunity under U.S. law, the airline asked if it was not time for a "searching inquiry of IATA's stranglehold on the prerogative of decision making by the government and the industry.

Said World Airways President Edward Daly:

"Let's face it. They have almost succeeded. The only stumbling block to a total monopoly of IATA is the supplemental airlines that offer the only effective form of price competition to IATA, and the only way the traveling public can get away from paying whatever fare IATA dictates on a given route.

"It is my judgement, which is shared by many in the industry, that IATA has outlived its usefulness. Its decisions are a costly and a senseless burden on the airlines which IATA presumably serves.

Property Sales: 50-Year Record

The month of March has been reported by the Marin County Board of Realtors as the greatest month in total sales dollars in the 50-year history of the board.

Multiple listing transactions reported last month totalled $13,086,555. Especially significant was the fact that this figure was only 5 per cent below the total of listing prices. Reported sales for March, 1970 were $7,902,075.

In residential sales, the most active group was in three-bedroom dwellings selling for between $30,000 and $40,000. Three-bedroom houses from $40,000 to $50,000 made up the second highest group and the same size in the $25,000-$30,000 class made up the third.

Completed sales for the month were also high, totalling $7,638,113 compared to $4,027,450 in March, 1970. Total completed sales for the first quarter this year were $15,992,863, compared to $11,801,569 in the first three months of 1970. Completed sales as distinguished from reported sales are those which have cleared escrow.

Increased sales continue the pattern set in January and February this year as a result of the easing in mortgage rates.

Men's Wear Coup Or Just A Joke?

BEVERLY HILLS — (BW) — Men's hotpants are drawing a lukewarm response from Western Men, according to California Business, the Western financial weekly.

Department and men's stores say they're stocking up on the new short shorts, but few expect more than passing interest. Most shops feel the item is at best a passing fad which can only be enjoyed by a small portion of the male population—the young with good legs.

Sales of the counterpart to the ladies' mini-britches are expected to climb with the temperature, says Ron Segal, a buyer of men's casual pants at Daytons of Beverly Hills, a men's store. He figures hotpants are just a one-season fad that will cool with the weather next fall.

"I sold three pair to a fellow yesterday," declares Segal, "but he is a Bermuda shorts freak anyway. He's young and has fairly good legs so they will look great on him."

For gentlemen who are young but don't have great legs, Segal suggests a heavily ribbed pantyhose of contrasting or complimenting hue. "We've had good reorders on these," he smiles.

Meanwhile, Parisian fashion designers are recommending that well-attired men will probably shave their legs if they don't wear the new pantyhose, a suggestion winning a less than enthusiastic reaction.

At Silverwood's Men Store in Los Angeles where a shipment of hotpants is due within the next two weeks, salesman James Ramsey declares he's not encouraging his customers to shave their legs. "Hotpants for men — maybe," he shrugs, "but shaved legs for men — hell, no."

Some stores refuse to discuss either subject. When an exclusive Palo Alto Men's store was called and asked if it carries hotpants, the store spokesman indignantly snorted, "I beg your pardon?" and hung up.

At Weinstock's department store in Sacramento, Wyne Karmzin, assistant buyer for men's sportswear, is anxiously awaiting a shipment of the mini-trousers this month. "They're going to go big," he predicts.

At Harris and Frank Men's Store in Los Angeles, the outlook isn't as bright. "We're doing the same thing with hotpants as we did flairs," points out Fred Meyerhaus, a buyer for casual pants.

"We're going to wait and see what happens. If it turns out they are a strong seller we will order immediately. It's better to bide your time and sell what you order than jump right in and get stuck with shelves of unmovable stock."

Campbells of Santa Monica, Calif., and Grodins of Los Angeles, both men's stores, are stocking up on corduroy, denim and double knit shorts for men. Both stores insist the item will sell as well as the women's hotpants, and at least as long.

At Rough Riders Inc., Napa, Calif., manufacturer of men's sportswear, samples of the new hotpants have just gone out to salesmen, according to Al Cohen, Southern California sales representative.

The shorts sell for $4 each, come in corduroy or cotton twill and a number of colors, from "whisky" to "granite," says Cohen.

Levi Strauss, San Francisco, isn't jumping into the fad either. "We've been manufacutring what we call a 'short cut' (better known as "cut-offs") for some time. A jean cut, they're made of 50 per cent cotton and 50 per cent polyester and come in four colors, retailing for $7.50," says a spokesman for the company.

"We're not putting much emphasis on the item," he adds, "but we are concentrating on a bib overall which we expect to do very well this year."
